Twenty-Six Students Running For Office"
Albert Lager
Chairman
Kathy Kellerman
Managing Editor

The News
Published every other Friday by students of Michigan State College under the direction of Albert Lager, adviser, and Kathy Kellerman, managing editor.

Page 2

Wednesday, April 13, 1966

EDITORIALS
Stoddard, Meehan
Best Picks For Senior Offices

PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT OF SENiors

It is important that students pay careful attention to the upcoming election of their student government leaders. The following candidates are recommended for the offices of President and Vice President of the student government inasmuch as they have fulfilled the necessary requirements for these offices.

For President, the candidates are Jim Stoddard and Lew Benson. Both have been very active in student affairs and have demonstrated their leadership abilities. They have a proven track record of success in student government and are well respected by their peers. They are dedicated to representing the interests of all students and will work tirelessly to ensure that student needs are met.

For Vice President, the candidates are Mike Meehan and Lou Haskell. They have also demonstrated their leadership abilities and have a strong commitment to student government. They will work closely with the President to ensure that the interests of all students are represented.

We urge all students to vote and to carefully consider the qualifications of these candidates before casting their ballots.

State News Discounts Experience For ASMSU

By FLORIDIAN’S AGENDA

 Fran Meyer, ASMSU President, has announced a significant discount for ASMSU members on the state news experience. This discount is available for members who wish to gain valuable experience in the field of journalism.

The state news experience is a hands-on opportunity for students to gain real-world experience in the field of journalism. Participants will work alongside experienced journalists and learn the latest techniques in news gathering and reporting.

The discount is available to all ASMSU members who can provide proof of their membership. The discount is limited to the first 50 members who register and will be applied to the registration fee.

American Casualties Heavy

 Lê Xuân Vinh

We are deeply saddened by the news of the heavy casualties reported in Vietnam. The loss of so many brave men and women is a great tragedy for our country and the world.

We offer our deepest sympathy to the families and friends of the fallen soldiers. We call on all nations to work towards a peaceful resolution to this conflict.

Consistency Is Lacking

By Ron Karle

We are concerned with the lack of consistency in the representation of student positions by our student government leaders. We have observed that the student government has not always been consistent in its representation of student positions.

This lack of consistency is particularly troubling given the significant role that student government leaders play in representing the interests of students. We urge all student government leaders to be consistent in their representation of student positions.

Off Campus Leaders Name

By Frank Smith

We are pleased to announce the appointment of our new Off Campus Leaders. These leaders will be responsible for representing the interests of off-campus students and ensuring that their needs are met.

We are confident that these leaders will work tirelessly to represent the interests of off-campus students and ensure that their voices are heard.

No Dignity In White Bag

By Ron Karle

We are concerned with the recent trend of violence and intimidation directed towards students of color. We call on all members of the community to work towards a more inclusive and welcoming environment.

We urge all students to stand together in solidarity and to work towards a more just and equitable society.

Recent Plans

We are excited to announce our recent plans for the upcoming academic year. We are looking forward to a year of growth and development for our student community.

We encourage all members of the community to get involved and to contribute to the success of our student government.
London H.Q. Site Offered to NATO

The British government has informed the NATO Alliance that its intention is to contribute a site in London to the London headquarters of the alliance.

President Johnson has described the site as being centrally located in London. The site is expected to be available for use in 1970.

The decision to offer the site was taken after consultations with member countries of the Alliance. The site will be used for administrative purposes.

The offer was made to the Alliance by the British government, which has been a strong supporter of NATO since its inception.

In recent years, the Alliance has been expanding its presence in Europe with the establishment of new headquarters in Brussels and Paris.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.

The offer of the London site is seen as a further step towards the integration of the Alliance's activities in the United Kingdom and will contribute to the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The decision was taken after careful consideration of the needs and requirements of the Alliance members, and it is intended to facilitate the efficient operation of the Alliance's headquarters in London.

The site will be available for use by the Alliance at the earliest possible date, and it is expected to be operational by 1970.

The offer is seen as a demonstration of the British government's commitment to the Alliance and its support for collective defense.

The offer is also seen as a gesture of goodwill and cooperation with the other member countries of the Alliance.

The British government has been a long-standing supporter of the Alliance and has played a significant role in its development and expansion.
Six Quarterbacks
Shine In Scrimmage

BY LARRY UHER Bresna Sports Writer

Head Football Coach Duffy Daugherty had no problem with the problem of talent, this week. Having Don’s gridiron buttons through his first scrimmage of the spring season last Tuesday, and the problem of the "10 men that are different than the other ten" frustrated him neither.

The quarterbacks came out with nothing but finding a quarterback is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

The situation was much the same last year when Bresna had to move on an inexperienced in-tact team.

Not too many weeks ago, Bresna, just as Duffy Daugherty had his stable of quarterbacks, spoke of the experiments and the variousdiagonal shifting patterns.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.

"We are not in particular on the quarterbacks, but it is important that they have balance," Bresna said.

The experiment included halfback, split end, quarterback, tight end, and various other formations.

"We will go out on the field and practice the new formations and see how they look," Bresna said.

It is not only the quarterbacks that are being tried in the new formations, but all of the other men also.

The quarterback situation is a problem that is always good to have to face before getting started.
Old Armor Collection In Unusual Museum Exhibit

An unusual way of showing the Museum's unusual collection is as well the process of making armor to hand in the Military Hall of the University of Michigan.

A display of armor, located on the main floor, depicts the process of making armor in the 18th century, and the University's recent graduating student audibility of the craft.

The display of a Communication, representing historic local costume, indicating the period and character of the armor shown.

A large group with several items is placed in the display, making it in the process of showing the student's work.

Dressel Gets L.D.D. Honor

Fred T. Dressel, director of the Museum's department of museum research at the University of Michigan, visited his old alma mater for the commission of an important project for the University of Michigan. Dressel has been a member of the Museum's staff since 1941. He was awarded the University of Michigan's highest honor for his contributions to the field of museum research.

The New Commission

The new commission includes the following people:

- Fred T. Dressel, director of museum research at the University of Michigan.
- The Museum's department of museum research.
- The Museum's staff.

The commission is responsible for the planning, implementation, and evaluation of the Museum's research projects.

Brody Votes Today On New Constitution

Brody Comrades approved the new constitution today at a constitutional convention. The new constitution includes several changes, including:

- A new chapter structure.
- A new membership structure.
- A new governing council.

The new constitution will be voted on today at 3 p.m. in the Museum's auditorium.

Quartermaster

Quartermaster (continued from page 4)

- Open Tenite for Rush
- 7-10 p.m.
- Phone: 337-0346
- 343-1504

For Ride Call

333-3555

In the event of an emergency or crisis, please contact the appropriate authorities immediately.
WASHINGION (AP) - The United States Tuesday rejected President Charles de Gaulle's one-year deadline for removal of American forces from France. It said such a proposal would "tamper with the security of the entire NATO alliance."

It is widely expected that De Gaulle will visit Paris, the State Department outlined a procedure that would give the United States a chance to express its views in a more relaxed atmosphere.

De Gaulle had suggested a deadline of April 1, 1970.

The move also would amount to France being told the cost of the U.S. forces is too high.

The United States is pursuing the possibility of the United States and France having an agreement on military matters.

In addition, the United States has declared that France's military forces would be denied access to NATO nuclear weapons in Germany if they remained in German soil.

There are 16,000 French ground troops in Germany.

The move was delivered to the French Foreign Ministry by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen and a copy was sent to the French Embassy in Washington.

The United States has told France that it would like to proceed with the building of the new nuclear plant at Le Creusot on the condition that it is not used against France or any member of NATO.

Ramparts Slam MSU

Jenifer Declerie, University public relations director, and Ed¬ward Hackman, then chairman of the political science department—were sent to Viet Nam by President Johnson as special emissaries to the North Vietnamese by Fishel. Killingsworth said:

"The request for supplementation card that MSU needed for Viet Nam was prepared by the group involved. Killingsworth with "I can say with my own personal knowledge that President Johnson was not eager to take the position of sending people to Viet Nam at the request of the U.S. government.

"Killingsworth said that he himself was not sure whether to send the trip to Viet Nam."

He added that Michigan troops would have become involved in the project had it not been for the intervention of the U.S. government.

Commenting on the description of "high ranking" by MSU personnel in Viet Nam, Killingsworth said:

"This is only one side of the picture. The other side is that there are many people who have no interest in Viet Nam, who have at best some curiosity for the people who live their lives."

According to Killingsworth, there had been on the MSU campus during the past two years a drive to become more fully involved in the world and to become more politically conscious.

Latin Studies Talk Today

The trip is in a series of monthly seminars sponsored by the Latin American Studies Council which will begin today.

Julián C. Errázuriz, associate professor of economics, will speak on "The Economic Development of Latin America." The seminar will be held in 103 East Union, whenever scheduled for April 1, is delayed to some extent in the same time and "New Approaches to South America," by Robert R. Elson, a member of the University Museum, 5-5-5.

The series of seminars will be held in the Union, which will be scheduled for April 1, will be held under some restrictions and "North America" by the Latin American Studies Council, and "Latin American Social, Economic and Cultural Problems," by Professor Killingsworth.

The students involved in Latin America will be people working their way through the language, the second session of the Latin American Studies Council, which is scheduled for Wednesday, 5-5-5.

The second session of the Latin American Studies Council, which is scheduled for Wednesday, 5-5-5.

Bill Rastetter

Sr. Class Vice Pres.

The Brothers Of Zeta Beta Tau

Are Proud To Announce The Opening
Of Their New House. April 16

However . . . Rush Will Be Held Tonite, Room 21

At the Union 7-10 P.M.

Number 323-3356 351-5615

For Rides Call: 351-5565 and 355-7766 after 7:00

Will Success Spoil Phi Sig?

It might. A new house, bigger pledge classes, and higher social standing could go to our heads.

It's happened before. A small, struggling fraternity hits it big, and turns into a small dormitory. Or snob factory.

That close-knit spirit we've always had might vanish with size. Business may pledge because they're impressed with the house, not the brotherhood within it.

Growth is something we've always desired and pursued. But snob makes us an impersonal, conceited, status symbol. We never want to get that big. We'll have to watch ourselves closely. Will you?
Cosmic Processes Led To Life—Jastrow

Michigan new life evolved from vast hydrogen clouds in space was documented Monday by the director of the Center for Space Studies.

Tracing the origin of life on our planet, Dr. Norman H. Jarvis said the solar system was already packed with hydrogen clouds when the planets were formed. He explained that most hydrogen clouds became the planets, but just enough remained to form small bodies which eventually developed life.

"The Solar System had much more hydrogen than we think existed when the planets were formed," said Dr. Jarvis. "This is the reason why life was so important to the development of the solar system, and even today, hydrogen clouds are still around.

Once the gas cloud had formed, it began to contract and cool. By 200 million years, the cloud had shrunk to a small disk that would eventually become the sun. The sun is now about 4,000 miles in diameter, but it is still growing.

"The sun has increased in size and temperature by about 20% since it was formed," said Dr. Jarvis. "This increase in size is due to the energy released by the fusion of hydrogen into helium in the core of the sun."

The sun is now at the end of its life cycle, and it will eventually cool down and become a red giant. But until then, hydrogen clouds will continue to exist in our universe, providing a source of energy for all life on earth.

---

The men of Sigma Alpha Mu will hold OPEN RUSH TONIGHT at Pi Beta Phi Sorority

For Rides During Open Rush Call: 337-9738 All Other Times: 351-4924

The Sorority House is located at 343 N. Harrison

---

Changes Plea

Apologies for page 15 issue! It will occur in your next issue, but we are attempting to correct it as soon as possible.

---

You've Seen the Name Now Meet the Men of Theta Delta Chi

501 MAC

For Rides Call: 332-5263 332-5456

---

Expert Reviews Apollo Program

During the Apollo moon flight, the nation was captivated by the adventure and excitement of the mission. People from all walks of life watched in awe as the astronautsorbited the moon and returned safely to earth. But what is the significance of the Apollo missions in the context of our nation's history and future?

---

The men of Delta Sigma Phi invite you to open rush

THE DELTA SIGMAs have been leaders in progress in their fraternity systems of AMERICAN STATES. As a result, the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity's participation has placed them at the forefront of fraternity excellence. As a result, the Delta Sigma Phi organization has been recognized by many of the nation's top universities.

In this spirit, the Delta Sigma Phi chapter at your university is excited to invite you to open rush. This is your opportunity to be a part of our fraternity, to learn about our values and traditions, and to become a valuable member of our community.

---

While Rush and 1970...
Clumsy Direction Creates Third-Rate Performance

By Bob Zeschin
State News Reviewer

It's no uncommon for great actors to strive to make a play look, unfortunately, it's even more common for a good play to look great, says critic Bob Zeschin.

That was the case Thursday at the University Theatre when the Acting Department presented "The Dining Room," a play by Arthur Miller.

Unfortunately, the acting was not as great as the play's potential. The audience was left wondering what could have been if the actors had put more effort into their performances.

The play, set in a family's dining room, follows the lives of five generations of the Jones family over the course of the family's history.

The actors, however, did not fully capture the characters' emotions, leaving the audience feeling detached from the story.

The set was simple and effective, with the family's dining room serving as a focal point for the play.

The lighting was adequate, but the sound design was lacking, making it difficult to hear some of the actors.

The direction was competent but lacked the intensity needed to make the play as powerful as it could have been.

Overall, "The Dining Room" was a third-rate performance, with the actors' lack of intensity and the production's lack of polish preventing it from being a memorable experience.

Kresge Memorial Exhibition Honors Former MSU Professor

At least three periods can be distinguished in the paintings of the late Mary Jane Jones, who donated an estimate of her work to the Kresge Art Museum.

In the past, the artist often used a more realistic approach, but in recent years her work has become more abstract.

In the present, Jones's work is characterized by a balance of both realism and abstraction, creating a unique and engaging style.

Jones's legacy is celebrated in the Kresge Memorial Exhibition, which will be on display through April 27.

The exhibition features a selection of Jones's paintings, as well as a selection of her sculpture, creating a comprehensive look at her artistic career.

The exhibition is open to the public and is free of charge.

"I am honored to have my work recognized in this manner," Jones said in a statement.

"This exhibition gives me the opportunity to share my art with others and to celebrate the impact it has had on me.

"I hope that viewers will enjoy the paintings and sculptures on display and that they will be inspired by my work.

"Thank you to the museum for this opportunity and to the people who have supported me throughout my career."
Results Come “Naturally” When You Dial 355-8255 For An Action Ad.
Expectant Parent Classes To Start

A new series of Expectant Parent Classes, designed for registered nurses, begins next week. Interested persons may attend any of these weekly classes at Mersey Foundation, 113 E. Huron Ave., Second Floor, Lansing. Classes are led by Dr. W. Stephen, MD., Community Health Center. Enrollment is limited to 12. For more information, contact Mersey Foundation at 487-2271.

CROIX MEMORIAL

Michigan State University's Honorary Treasurer, Mr. E. C. Smith, announced that the CROIX Memorial Fund has raised over $500,000. This fund was established to support the university's campuswide memorial. The fund is currently seeking donations from alumni and friends of the university.

PECAN Ext. 59

Home Economics majors are invited to participate in the Michigan State University Honorary Council meeting on Wednesday, May 10, at 7 p.m. in the Home Economics Building. The meeting will include the election of officers and the presentation of awards. All Home Economics majors are encouraged to attend.

Ext. 59

Michigan State University's Honorary Treasurer, Mr. E. C. Smith, announced that the CROIX Memorial Fund has raised over $500,000. This fund was established to support the university's campuswide memorial. The fund is currently seeking donations from alumni and friends of the university.

CROIX MEMORIAL

Michigan State University's Honorary Treasurer, Mr. E. C. Smith, announced that the CROIX Memorial Fund has raised over $500,000. This fund was established to support the university's campuswide memorial. The fund is currently seeking donations from alumni and friends of the university.

Michigan State University's Honorary Treasurer, Mr. E. C. Smith, announced that the CROIX Memorial Fund has raised over $500,000. This fund was established to support the university's campuswide memorial. The fund is currently seeking donations from alumni and friends of the university.