CIA Defends Its Use Of MSU In Viet Project

By JOAN T. SOLONICH
State News Staff Writer

A former director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and MSU’s active director of international programs strongly defend a decision of the university’s student government to call a meeting and ramrodded a student-FBI agent to understand world events. The director of the department, former student at Michigan State University, said the any changes in the curriculum and the student body are a result of the recommendations of the president’s committee on national security.
Mao Spurns Interaction, World Peace Suffers

IN A WORLD where ill-considered moves can be made in an hour, coming to grips with the Communist threat needs immediate attention. It is no longer the world of great empires and empires colliding. It is the world of small nations, most of them beset by economic and social problems, and struggling with problems of survival and stability.

To Americans, Red China is an unknown. A reliable source of information on the Communist regime is hard to come by. The one person who might be able to shed some light on the Chinese threat is Kenneth. But even if we could get this vital information, it might not do us much good.

The Chinese, it seems, are not interested in interaction with the West. It is a fact that the Chinese have not shown any inclination to engage in any kind of meaningful dialogue with the West. They have not shown any interest in the promotion of peace and understanding between nations.

But Communist Chinese leaders are obsessed with the idea of engaging in a struggle with the West. They believe that by engaging in a struggle, they can prove the superiority of their system and thereby gain the respect of other nations.

The Chinese regime is very sensitive to any suggestion of weakness. They are afraid that any indication of weakness will be seen as a sign of weakness, and that it will encourage their enemies to attack them.

As a result, the Chinese do not engage in any kind of meaningful dialogue with the West. They are not interested in seeking understanding and cooperation with other nations.

Sooner I May Even Be a Master Agent

SINCE I first took up the practice of law, I have been asked, "What can you do to help me?" A few years ago, when I was a young lawyer, I would tell people that I could help them by giving them legal advice. Now, I tell them, "I can help you by showing you how to avoid the mistakes that I made." And it is true.

I have learned many things from my clients. I have learned that people who are not prepared to handle legal problems are often confused and frightened. They need help, but they do not know where to turn.

I have also learned that people who are not prepared to handle legal problems are often confused and frightened. They need help, but they do not know where to turn.

I have found that the best way to help people is to teach them how to think about legal problems. I have found that the best way to help people is to teach them how to think about legal problems. Benson, Mackey Lead ‘S’ Golfers

By DAN DROEKI
State News Sports Writer

Although the tennis offerings spanned their Big Ten season, batting, baseball, football, basketball, track, and swimming teams received considerable success.

Some Michigan State athletes were also checking out some sport in the off-season, too.

Mackey and Benson are among those circuits.

The start of the season would be in June, which will continue until the fall, and then there will be a break before the next season.

Michigan State’s tennis department is expected to place among the top 10 in the nation, improving on previous years.

Benson played tennis at the University of Michigan, where he finished second in the Big Ten Tournament last year.

“Tennis is a great sport,” Benson said. “It’s a lot of fun, and I enjoy the competitive aspect of it.”

Mackey, who finished third in the Big Ten Tournament, said he enjoys the social aspect of tennis.

“Tennis is a great way to meet new people and stay in shape,” Mackey said.

GET THAT PUCK—Detroit Red Wing and Chicago Black Hawk forward Ryan Bown plays for the Wings during the 1965-66 season. Bown was acquired by Detroit for a fee of roughly $10,000, according to UPI Telephoto.

WINGS LEAD SERIES, 3-2

Hawks Near Elimination

BOB BERNDS/UP

The Chicago Blackhawks’ best-of-five series with the Detroit Red Wings ended with a 3-2 loss to the Wings Wednesday night. The loss means the Hawks will need to win two of three games to advance.

The Hawks’ defense has been solid, allowing only 11 goals in five games. However, the offense has been unproductive, scoring only three goals in the series.

Clay Sees Challenge

In Cooper

Chicago, Ill. — Clay Cooper, who has been named Chicago’s No. 1 goalie, is expected to start against Detroit tomorrow night. Cooper has a 2.54 goals-against average in games played this season, and he has not allowed a goal in his last three appearances.

“I think we’re going to have a tough time against Chicago, but I’m looking forward to the challenge.”

Cooper expects the Hawks to play aggressive and well-balanced hockey.

“I think we’re going to have a tough time against Chicago, but I’m looking forward to the challenge.”

Cooper is looking forward to the opportunity to play against one of the top teams in the league.

“Playing against Chicago is going to be fun, and I’m excited to see how the game unfolds.”

Expected Injuries

Hit Spartan Gridders

By LARRY WERNER
State News Staff Writer

With the Michigan State football team's schedule already set, the injuries to key players are a concern for the upcoming season.

Spartan quarterback Brian Wells, a key player in the team's offense, is expected to miss the next few games with an ankle injury.

“Brian is definitely going to be missed,” coach Pat Head-Spartan said. “He’s a big part of our team, and we’ll have to find a way to replace his big play.”

Wells is expected to return to the lineup in the next few weeks.

Other key players, including wide receiver Josh Smith and running back Darius Jackson, are also dealing with injuries.

“Smith and Jackson both have a chance to return in the next few weeks,” Head-Spartan said. “But we’ll have to be creative in the meantime.”

The team will have to rely on its backup players to fill in for the injured starters.

“Fortunately, we have some talented players in our depth chart,” Head-Spartan said.

$1,000 In Textbooks Stolen From Students

The Michigan State University Bookstore has reported a theft of $1,000 worth of textbooks from its shelves.

The books were stolen from the General Science section of the bookstore.

Automatic Costumes Used In 'Stratagem' Production

The Michigan State University Drama Club has introduced a new system of automatic costumes in their production of 'Stratagem'.

The costumes are designed to move automatically on the stage, eliminating the need for manual assistance.

The costumes are controlled by a computer system, which allows for precise timing and synchronization.

The production has been well-received by the audience, with many praising the innovative use of technology in the production of costumes.

By using automatic costumes, the production team has been able to save time and reduce errors in costume setup.
