Penn, NYC Merge; 5 Others Vetoed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bipartisan coalition that is making a push to end the debate over same-sex marriage in New York City and New York State said Wednesday it had agreed to a deal between the two states that would allow same-sex couples to marry in both states.

The coalition, which includes 14 state lawmakers, agreed to a plan that would allow same-sex couples to marry in New York City, where same-sex marriage is currently legal, and in New York State, where it is not.

“This is a significant step forward in the movement for marriage equality,” said Assemblywoman Linda Rosenthal, a Democrat who represents Manhattan and the Bronx, in a statement.

The coalition’s proposal would allow same-sex couples to obtain a marriage license in the city and then have it validated in the state, where they would be considered legally married.

The plan also includes provisions for civil unions and domestic partnerships, which would allow same-sex couples to have legal recognition in the state.

The coalition’s proposal is expected to be introduced in the state legislature later this month.

Greeley Week Continues

For the eighth time in a row, the Greeley Weekly News, a student newspaper published by the University of Colorado at Greeley, has been named the best student newspaper in the country by the National Scholastic Press Association.

The newspaper, which is published six times a week, has been named the best student newspaper in the country every year since its founding in 1947.

The newspaper is known for its investigative reporting, its coverage of local news, and its commitment to journalistic integrity.

200 Test Winners Plan Study Here

The University of Michigan has announced that it will offer 200 scholarships to incoming students from the U.S. and abroad to study at the university's Ann Arbor campus.

The scholarships, which are valued at $20,000 each, will be awarded to students who meet academic criteria and demonstrate financial need.

The program is open to all incoming students, regardless of their country of origin.

Dorm Room Available In Tripples

It is still possible for returning students to sign up for dorm rooms in residence halls, even though they may have not been selected for housing during the previous academic year.

Applications for dorm rooms will be accepted until June 30, and students are encouraged to apply early.

Norman D. Peck, director of residence life, said that even seniors and juniors who have been offered on-campus housing may still apply for dorm rooms and be selected.

He said all housing applications will be reviewed in order of receipt, and that students who apply before the deadline will be given priority.

Lake Erie Flood Rages In Monroe

In the last three months, its water level has increased by nearly 10 feet, causing flooding and property damage in the area.

The Monroe Water Board has declared a state of emergency, and has asked residents to take precautions to protect their homes and property.

May Nase Divorce Law

The Michigan legislature has passed a bill that would allow same-sex couples to divorce in the state.

The bill, which was introduced by State Sen. Jim Ananich, a Democrat, and State Rep. Julie Rogers, a Democrat, would allow same-sex couples to petition for divorce in the same manner as heterosexual couples.

The bill has been signed into law by Gov. Rick Snyder, and is expected to take effect in December.
Segregation Study
Step In Right Direction

FOR ALL THOSE high-minded youngster who think segregation is the way to a better world, the recent decision by the U.S. Supreme Court has been hailed as a victory for integrated public schools.

In a 6-1 decision, the Court held that separate but equal schooling for Negro and white students is unconstitutional. In the past, Negro students have been forced to attend inferior schools, which have lacked the opportunities and educational resources available to white students. This decision is a step forward in the struggle for equality in education.

In the Cities, attempts have been made to provide equal opportunities for Negro students through integration programs. These programs have sometimes met with resistance from both sides, but the Court's decision is a clear indication that segregation is no longer acceptable.

Tighter Anti-Trust Laws Needed

AN INCREASE IN monopolistic ten dencies is a problem faced by all selling prices upward. Though the manufacturers are the only ones who benefit from the rise in prices,
the consumer is indirectly affected by this increase in the cost of goods.

THOUGH NO ONE COMPANY has the power to control all manufacturing, a trend towards monopoly is evident. This has been described as "Giantism," and it is true that a few large companies have a significant share of the market. But in most cases, the rise in prices is due to the efforts of the companies to increase their profits, rather than to an actual shortage of goods.

These industries must be curbed, not only because of their impact on the economy, but also because of their effect on other industries. The production of goods and services is not only determined by the companies, but also by the needs of the consumers. If the companies continue to raise prices, it will become difficult for consumers to afford essential items.

Policeman Gets Thanks

To the Editor:

A few months ago, a policeman was involved in a minor traffic accident. He acted with courtesy and professionalism, which were appreciated by the driver involved.

Recently, the police officer received a letter of thanks from the driver, expressing gratitude for his kindness and dedication to his officer's duties.

This incident highlights the importance of police officers in ensuring the safety and well-being of the community. Their efforts are often unrecognized, but their contributions are invaluable.

If you have had a positive experience with a police officer, consider expressing your acknowledgment and appreciation.

Court's Action
Benefits U.S.

POLICE AUTHORITIES in name of our larger goals are reacting to a situation that has come to light in the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision. The Court's decision has had a significant impact on the police force, and it is important for us all to understand its implications.

In decreeing the constitutional right to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures, the Court has placed a greater burden on law enforcement agencies. It is now understood that the police must adhere to strict guidelines in conducting investigations and making arrests.

The police force has been working cooperatively with the courts and government agencies to ensure that our rights are protected. This has resulted in a more transparent and accountable law enforcement system.

If you have any questions or concerns about the Court's decision, please contact the police department or appropriate legal authority.

Congressional OK Assured On Information Access Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - A "freedom of information" bill, which would open federal agencies to public scrutiny, cleared a major hurdle in the Senate Thursday by the 51-48 vote of the bipartisan Appropriations Committee.

First congressional approval of the measure, pushed by Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., and Sen. James A. Abourezk, D-S.D., represents a belated recognition of the need for laws that would permit the public to inspect government records, a new

No Shakeup For Slumping Batmen

BY JOE WITCH

Coach Danny Louwiler will have no changes in his starting lineup this weekend against Big Ten foe Michigan. The Spartans are coming off a 2-0 loss to Purdue last week.

Larry Kenney will start the game on the mound opposite Michigan's Ken Heith. In last Big Ten game Louwiler has played steady ball even though some mistakes in the field have accounted for some errors in the game.

"Now I have to go with what I've got and hope to bring some offense from the outfield," said Louwiler.

Either John Hines or Chuck Blum will start the outfield since Louwiler is concerned about the defense opposite Michigan's hitting team.

"My starting lineup will be the same unless the team shows they will be better," said Louwiler. "My team is50.47 innings to 0.47 innings, Smile."}

Matt Litwhiler's five-save relief pitcher has done a good job since Louwiler moved the infantry out of the picture.

Steve is their second baseman, and his smooth defense will be missed against a potent Michigan batting team.

Michigan has scored 20 runs in the last two games, and their hitting is their only strength, said Louwiler.

In the one game Steve started, Michigan scored a shutout, 2-0, and Louwiler will start the same lineup against Michigan.

U.S. Reliant On Space Engineering

Exceeding man's investigation and exploration of outer space is one of the key challenges facing the United States. The Space Task Group at the National Academy of Sciences Research Center was formed to "build a solid foundation for Space in the Future" in the United States. This group has identified "Space" as a national priority and has recommended that the United States invest more in space research and development.

The report states that space research and development is not just about rockets and satellites. It is about understanding the universe, the Earth, and our planet's resources. The report emphasizes the importance of integrating space research into other scientific disciplines such as biology, chemistry, psychology, and sociology.

The report concludes that a strong space program is essential for the United States to remain competitive in the world. It calls for a coordinated national approach to space research and development, with a focus on practical applications and peaceful uses of space.
