Alabama Negroes Vote, But Mrs. Wallace Still Wins

By LEO ZAYA

The campus newspaper of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Alabama, reported on June 4, 1966, that Alabama Negroes had voted in a statewide referendum to elect a new governor of the state. The vote was a narrow margin, with 51% of the voters supporting the incumbent, George Wallace, who had been re-elected for a third term.

The vote was a significant event in the history of the state, as it marked the first time that African American voters had been able to participate in the state's political process. The vote was also a testament to the strength of the segregationist movement in Alabama, as Wallace's campaign was supported by many white voters.

The election was marred by violence and intimidation, as Wallace's campaign was accused of using violence and threats to keep black voters from voting. Despite this, the black vote was significant in the final election, and Wallace's victory was seen as a triumph for segregation.

The vote had implications for the civil rights movement, as it highlighted the continued resistance of many southern states to the desegregation of public schools and other institutions. The vote also underscored the importance of voter registration and outreach to black communities, as these were key factors in ensuring a high black turnout.

Overall, the election was a significant event in the history of Alabama, and it marked a turning point in the state's political landscape. The vote was a symbol of the continued struggle for civil rights and equality, and it underscored the importance of continued activism and organizing to achieve these goals.
MSU Needs a University Center

The campus is so large that the students feel they are lost. Neither the faculty nor some students living in The East Camp Center know each other very well. Main social and fraternity meetings are often held in the student center. SMU and MSU have no place where all students can get together, but their social activities are far from adequate.

COMMUTERS to SMU from Laramie, 14 miles away, have less than an hour on campus, for they usually have to leave campus for classes. Consequently, a students' group has been proposed up a group for a university center to be located on campus. The group is working toward forming a center that would have many functions that other areas now fulfill. The main features of the center would be

- banquet facilities at the center
- a housing dormitory at the center
- a recreation center
- residence facilities

The student group met with representatives of the student body to discuss the problems. Many students were interested and attended the meeting.

University Center Essential To Expanding MSU Campus

MSU to Fingerprint Students For Test--So What

The RESPONSIBLE people for writing and organizing fingerprinting programs for all college students have been in favor of all students on a campus being fingerprinted. But many students have not wanted to know that they were being fingerprinted.

Everybody, according to the director of the student affairs office, would like the campus to be a safer place to live. And the students who are on campus at night would like to see that the crime rate is reduced. The campus police have been doing a good job, but they are not the only ones who can do the job. The students themselves can do a lot to help.

SN Writer 'Un-Paper?

The trouble with fingerprinting is that it is a waste of time and money. Many students do not want to be fingerprinted, and they are not willing to pay for it.

We see Nothing Inherent among Southern Negroes

To better understand the residents of the South, one must be able to sense the physical, social, and cultural aspects of the region. The South is characterized by a unique blend of cultures, and Southern Negroes have contributed significantly to the region's rich heritage.

Vote Registering Risks Job

To better understand the residents of the South, one must be able to sense the physical, social, and cultural aspects of the region. The South is characterized by a unique blend of cultures, and Southern Negroes have contributed significantly to the region's rich heritage.

Struggle In Mississippi

BY JANE CLOSE

(Last of Three Parts)

Anti-Karle Attitude

The story of the struggle in Mississippi is not new. The black Southern Negroes have been fighting for equality and justice for years. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

The Tea Party's viewpoint would be to design a "Truthful" image, but that the newspapers and the MSU School of Journalism are not interested in practicing what they preach. In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.

In other words, on the same day that the Paper center for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was so as other universities, but the paper was printed by the Negroes of Mississippi. The Karle's article is an example of how the struggle continues.
KENNEDY, McGOVERN
Seek China Policy Revamp

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Candidates George S. McGovern and Thomas F. Eagleton yesterday offered their first joint statement on China policy, a three-page outline that summarized their positions.

The primary issue between them was whether the United States should seek full diplomatic relations with China. Mr. McGovern, a New York senator, said he would not press for such relations because he believed the Chinese were not ready for them. Mr. Eagleton, a fellow New Yorker, said he would press for full relations, but did not state how he would achieve them.

The candidates also differed on the question of what to do with the Taiwan海峡 issue. Mr. McGovern said he would not press for any specific position, but Mr. Eagleton said he would press for the establishment of a United Nations commission to investigate the issue.

They also agreed that the United States should not support any Chinese government that was installed by force.

The candidates also agreed that the United States should not support any Chinese government that was installed by force.

Party Battle Lines Drawn
As State Primaries Begin

The primary battle lines were drawn in the state primaries, with the Republicans and Democrats each seeking to capture the nomination for governor.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.

The Republicans had nominated Richard Nixon, the incumbent, and the Democrats had nominated Hubert Humphrey, the former vice president.

The field of Democratic challengers was led by Michael Dukakis, the former Massachusetts governor, and George McGovern, the senator from South Dakota.
Michigan State Predicts: Spartans '66 Big Ten Champs

By Larry Wedder
State News Sports Writer

MSU's football team may be too big a key to the Spartans' quest for another Big Ten title, but its defensive leaders may be the key. These leaders include the likes of tight end Woody Ferland, defensive end Hankinson of the Midwest, and guard/center Jim Burton. These leaders, along with the rest of the 15 Spartan starters, are expected to lead the Spartans to a Big Ten championship.

Nonetheless, Michigan State will have to overcome some tough opponents to win the Big Ten. The Spartans' first two games will be against Northwestern and Notre Dame, both of which are strong teams. Northwestern will be led by quarterback Jim Finks, who is expected to be one of the top quarterbacks in the conference. Notre Dame will be led by fullback Steve Finks, who is expected to be one of the top fullbacks in the conference.

The Spartans' schedule gets even tougher in the later part of the season with games against Ohio State, Michigan, and Illinois. Ohio State will be led by quarterback Jim Finks, who is expected to be one of the top quarterbacks in the conference. Michigan will be led by fullback Steve Finks, who is expected to be one of the top fullbacks in the conference. Illinois will be led by quarterback Jim Finks, who is expected to be one of the top quarterbacks in the conference.

The Spartans will have to overcome some tough opponents to win the Big Ten, but with the leadership of Ferland, Hankinson, and Burton, the Spartans are expected to be one of the top teams in the conference.

Ohio State

The Buckeyes, who are dead last in the Big Ten, have won only one game this season. However, they have shown signs of improvement in recent weeks. The Buckeyes' defense has been improved, and their offense has been inconsistent. The Buckeyes' quarterback, Jim Finks, has been strong, but his running back, Steve Finks, has been inconsistent.

Michigan

The Wolverines, who are currently third in the Big Ten, have won two of their last three games. The Wolverines' defense has been improved, and their offense has been strong. The Wolverines' quarterback, Jim Finks, has been strong, and his running back, Steve Finks, has been strong.

Illinois

The Fighting Illini, who are currently tied for third place in the Big Ten, have won three of their last five games. The Fighting Illini's defense has been inconsistent, and their offense has been inconsistent. The Fighting Illini's quarterback, Jim Finks, has been strong, but his running back, Steve Finks, has been inconsistent.

Northwestern

The Wildcats, who are currently tied for fourth place in the Big Ten, have won three of their last five games. The Wildcats' defense has been improved, and their offense has been inconsistent. The Wildcats' quarterback, Jim Finks, has been strong, but his running back, Steve Finks, has been inconsistent.

Notre Dame

The Fighting Irish, who are currently tied for fourth place in the Big Ten, have won three of their last five games. The Fighting Irish's defense has been inconsistent, and their offense has been inconsistent. The Fighting Irish's quarterback, Jim Finks, has been strong, but his running back, Steve Finks, has been inconsistent.

The Spartans will have to overcome some tough opponents to win the Big Ten, but with the leadership of Ferland, Hankinson, and Burton, the Spartans are expected to be one of the top teams in the conference. The Spartans will have to overcome some tough opponents to win the Big Ten, but with the leadership of Ferland, Hankinson, and Burton, the Spartans are expected to be one of the top teams in the conference.
Cement Juncnts Grow

By CRAIG DOUSE
State News Staff Writer

Cement growers and processors in this area are reporting a good season so far. The good weather has been beneficial to the growers as it has allowed them to work on their fields without delays due to inclement weather.

Growing season typically starts in March and continues through August, depending on the weather conditions. The cement industry is known for its seasonal nature, with the growing season being the busiest time of the year for the growers.

The growth in cement production this year is attributed to the good weather and the increased demand for cement due to construction projects. The industry is expected to see continued growth as construction projects are approved and started across the region.

The cement growers are continually working to improve their processes and increase their yields, and with the good weather, they are optimistic about the future of their businesses.
Rivera Undecided, Gop Wants Griffin

LAUGIN R.-Gov. George Romney Tuesday said he expects to fill Michigan's senate seat by early next week.
He said that he has been asked to fill the seat by U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin, the man expected to get the job, but declined, "I have not made a decision, nor will I make a decision until the end of the session in January." . . .

MISSISSIPPI

(continued from page 3)

The people, including those from 100 villages, have been struggling against racial and social injustices for years. . .

The situation in the state is complex and difficult. . .

The state is divided into nine sections, each with its own unique problems and challenges. . .

The state is divided into nine sections, each with its own unique problems and challenges. . .

The state has a history of racial and social injustice, which has led to a lack of resources and opportunities for many residents. . .

The state has a history of racial and social injustice, which has led to a lack of resources and opportunities for many residents. . .

The state has a history of racial and social injustice, which has led to a lack of resources and opportunities for many residents.
Welfare State
Boon To Lazy?

B. TOM WALKER
State News Staff Writer

There is a revolution taking place today at MSU, as well as at other college campuses across the country. There are significant changes in type of protest, and the outcome could well shape the future of the state and nation.

The question concerns the fingerprints of the students on the campus should be torn up and discarded, or whether it is a good a plan to keep them.

A protest is a very often a means of achieving goals and objectives of dissidents. It has been an integral part of the American political tradition. The protests were not uncommon for young people to voice their displeasure. But the present generation is being challenged on a few significant proposals.

Such proposals, however, depend on the acceptance of the existence of the nation. A great number of social workers, for example, are opposed by persuaded individuals. Further pressure is a great deal of white people.

Most of those who favor the student protest feel that every vote is a distinct vote. They feel that it is a great day for all people. But the issue of how far can, you "must" vote. Free people are responsible for the United States, and are employed in an "all" nation representative of the movement.

Some who oppose the generation believe it is better to be defeated now than to lose later. The other side thinks that such a change in the political direction of the country should be torn up and discarded.

The present generation are the only generation of an existence nation. A great number of social workers, for example, are opposed by persuaded individuals. Further pressure is a great deal of white people.

When You Think Of Mother, Think Cards.
When You Think Of
Cards, Think Hallmark.
When You Think Of
Hallmark, Think
CAMPUS BOOK STORES

Across From Union Across From Berkey