Smucker Comments on Overseas Projects

To the Editor:

It seems to me that the editorial statement regarding Smucker’s overseas projects is not entirely accurate. Smucker has invested in Europe and Asia, not just in Africa. Smucker has a long history of investing in overseas projects, and it is important to recognize their contributions.

I appreciate your consideration of this matter.

College Bowl Mixup

At the annual ASMSU College Bowl, teams from different colleges compete against each other in a quiz bowl-style competition. The winning team is awarded a trophy and bragging rights for the year.

This year’s College Bowl was held on Saturday, March 19, 1966, at the Michigan Union. The competition was divided into two sections, each consisting of four teams. The first section included the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, University of Toledo, and Michigan Technological University. The second section included the University of Detroit, Wayne State University, Lawrence Technological Institute, and Eastern Michigan University.

The University of Michigan won the first section, while the University of Detroit won the second section. The overall winner was determined by a final round, and the University of Michigan emerged as the champion.

The College Bowl provides a fun and competitive atmosphere for students from different colleges to come together and test their knowledge on a wide range of topics.

Spartan "9 Still Holding On In Big Ten Race

IOWA CITY—Michigan State's baseball team was earning the home-stand nickname of Big Ten Conference championship race leaders, the Hawkeyes front-runners at the race trail, struggling to remain in contention for the league crown after winning the conference title. Going into the final week of conference action, Iowa had a 1-2 York record; 3-2-1 record behind league-leader Ohio State.

To win the championship, the Spartans must keep a three-game series from Michigan next weekend against the Hawkeyes, who are just one of the nine games, and second-place Minnesota, upcoming.

In Iowa, there needs a miracle. Over the weekend, Iowa State lost to Minnesota and straight dropped by 1-0. The Spartans gave the Hawkeyes a mathematical chance of getting the conference crown, but it's a chance that is just a mirage.

Jerry Wilson supervised and called the game by the Hawkeyes, who boxed themselves into a 1-0 hole Monday night. With the first game on the first of the first, Saturday, and the second on Monday, the Spartans played a split double and ended their hopes for the Big Ten Spots.
