Calahan’s cartoons often feature Linus the Dog, a character created by Charles M. Schulz, known for his work on the comic strip “Peanuts.” Linus is a mischievous and sometimes misguided dog who uses his wit and humor to comment on the world around him.

The article explores the tension between the traditional values of the university and the demands of the modern, rapidly changing society. Calahan’s use of humor and satire allows him to illuminate the complexities of this relationship.

Overall, Calahan’s work is a reflection of the times, capturing the essence of contemporary society through the lens of his unique and widely recognized cartoon style.

what is the definition of a private brand?

To some people, it is a retailer’s own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it’s the opposite. Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands.

If this wasn’t true, how foolish we’d be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars in processing plants and testing laboratories.

If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaply without quality control, anybody could produce them for us.

The idea of quality private brands isn’t new at A&P.

As a matter of fact, it’s one of our oldest policies-and by golly, we’re proud of it.

Are A&P Private Brands a good reason for shopping A&P? They’re one of many.

Hostility Sparks Student Protests

BY BOBBY SODEN
State News Staff Writer
Almost 40 police officers, community leaders, reporters, faculty and students occupied the MSU Police Department building yesterday as a part of a demonstration by the Michigan State University chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Darryl Rusk, president of the local chapter, said the protest was a part of a national effort by the NAACP to demand that the police department be forced to make changes in hiring policies.

The event was organized by the National Student Association, which is a part of the national NAACP.

Yesterday afternoon, the police department was crowded with people who were demanding that the department be more representative of the community.

The protest began with a march around the MSU campus, and ended with a sitting-in at the police department.

Rusk said, "We are calling for the police department to be more representative of the community, and to improve its hiring practices."

He said that the department has had a history of hiring only white officers, and that this has led to a lack of trust between the police and the community.

"We are not asking for special treatment," Rusk said. "We are simply asking for fairness and equality."

than any other runner in the conference, and he set a new record.

Spain's team also surprised the other conference members, as they finished in second place in the meet. This was an unexpected result, as Spain had not been considered a strong team in the conference.
