SDS Handout

Unlike last year, the expectations for a Democratic Society rally in Michigan were not high. The plans called for distributing the program, 'Coed's Word Attacked by O'Brien's Defense' written by Brian Brill. Several students at Michigan State agreed to distribute the program at the rally. The plan was to distribute the flyers in front of the student center at the rally.

State needs law school; MSU 'good site as any'

Special to the State News

Evidently, the idea of an independent law school at Michigan State University is still not dead.

Michigan State President B. J. Artis said yesterday that the campus' administration is trying to find a way to bring a law school to the campus.

"We are still interested in a law school," Artis said. "We have been talking about it for quite some time." Artis said that the administration is trying to find a way to bring a law school to the campus, but that it is not clear how this would be done.

The idea of a law school at Michigan State has been discussed for many years, and there have been several attempts to bring a law school to the campus. The most recent attempt was made in the 1960s, when the administration was considering the idea of a law school for the campus. The administration was interested in the idea of a law school, but there were several problems that prevented the administration from bringing a law school to the campus.

One of the problems was the cost of bringing a law school to the campus. The administration was not willing to spend the money needed to bring a law school to the campus, and there were also several legal problems that prevented the administration from bringing a law school to the campus.

In addition to the cost and legal problems, there was also the problem of finding a site for the law school. The administration was not willing to spend the money needed to buy a site for the law school, and there were several legal problems that prevented the administration from buying a site for the law school.

Despite these problems, the administration is still interested in the idea of a law school at Michigan State. The administration is currently looking at several options for bringing a law school to the campus, and it is hoped that a law school will be brought to the campus in the near future.

Wall Street rally continues, but market still unsteady

No one anticipated the continued rally on Wall Street that began last Tuesday. Investors were encouraged by the fact that the war is not going as well as expected in Viet and this news helped push the market higher. The Dow Jones average of 80 Industrials closed up 42 1/8 points at 758 1/4 after being up 32 1/8 early in the day. The New York Stock Exchange average of all common stocks closed up 13 3/4.

'Stronger Than Dirt'

The recent English term "Stronger Than Dirt" has been used many times in recent years. However, it is not clear who originated the term or where it came from. The term is often used to describe something that is very strong or powerful, but it is not clear how it has come to be used in this way.

It is possible that the term "Stronger Than Dirt" has been used in a rock band's song or in a movie title. However, it is not clear how this term has come to be used in a way that is different from its original meaning.

Charity for Snoopy and friends

When snorky's doghouse was gutted by cartoonist Charles Schulz, dozens of relief funds sprang up U.S. schools, the Detroit Free Press reporting.

The total amount sent in was not given, but it shows that the heart of the nation is still willing to help.

Meanwhile, at SMU the annual Campus Community Chest drive has begun. This year's goal is slightly more than the cost of a doghouse (even that of a well-heeled dog). The goal is $144,150.

Whether the money goes to a' well-known recipient, the dogs to help children, you'll never know until people send.

The money collected will be distributed among 57 members of the Campus Community Chest.

Streamline the U.S. Cabinet

The Editors

As soon as some minor changes were made in the House of Representatives and the Senate, the whole clock was wound. It will be next to impossible for the President and Department of Transportation.

Considering the current status of the Cabinet, it is understandable that the President and Department of Transportation.

The Cabinet, which has no decision-making power, is too often named in canard.

In any event, the President has no mandate to name the Cabinet.

M.A.D. defeats its purpose

The Editors

M.A.D., or the Anti-Defamation League, is an organization that is designed to fight anti-Semitism in America. However, M.A.D. has failed to achieve its goal.

The organization has been criticized for its handling of anti-Semitic incidents, including its response to a surge of anti-Semitic incidents in the United States in recent years.

The organization has also been criticized for its lack of transparency and accountability. It has been accused of shielding its leaders from public scrutiny and of using its resources to promote its own interests.

As a result, M.A.D. has lost much of its credibility and effectiveness. It has also lost support from many of its members and partners.

The organization has faced several challenges in recent years, including financial troubles and legal issues. It has also been accused of engaging in questionable practices, such as using its resources to promote its own interests.

In light of these challenges, it is unclear whether M.A.D. will be able to achieve its goal of fighting anti-Semitism in America. However, it is clear that the organization must address its critics and work to improve its accountability and transparency in order to regain the trust of its members and partners.

SDS ‘face lifting’ welcomed, gains respect at Careers ’66

The Editors

SDS has learned how not to confuse “face lifting” with personalities, a sign of political maturity. Consequently, the charges SDS members make are no longer the ones that are made against them. They are certainly of greater value to free expression of ideas.

Good fit

SDS members sometimes ride side-by-side with students who were passing Careers ’66 programs, it was all very natural, and it all fit together.

Thats. the amazing part it all fit together so well.

The students acted in a mature manner. The University allowed SDS to stay and distribute their literature, and the Admini- tered all the other matters. In this way the game is played, the MC needs to have the right students for the job. This sometimes makes the game hard to follow for the average viewer. As a teacher, the MC needs to realize that when he makes the game hard to follow for the average viewer, he has failed.

And there’s the tune-up, the MC be- gins the game and the MC needs to start the information about the number of points. The key here is, if a player licenses the […]
ROMNEY RETORNS "FERENCIJE ISE 'FALSE'"

George Romney said today that Michigan Governor Arthur J. Childs was not arrested today on a charge of perjury in a Detroit Supreme Court case. Romney produced what he said was a copy of a letter written to him by Ferency Dec. 15, 1964, by the state Fair Competition Practices Commission, which is attached to a copy of a letter written to the governor by the state auditor general in March, 1965, stating that the governor had been convicted of perjury in the Detroit Supreme Court case.

The governor declared that Romney had not only been convicted of perjury in the Detroit Supreme Court case but had also been convicted of perjury in the federal district court in Detroit and was not entitled to the Michigan governor's pension.

HANCOCK ISSUES FELON ANNOUNCEMENT

A nameless Republican's reaction to Ferency's announcement that "I was opposed to open housing rights," was an assertion by Archibald B. Crowe of Detroit, "I have always been in favor of open housing rights." The commission has no power to select candidates. The 11 member commission, appointed to try to head off a future peace-keeping operation of the United Nations is to remain.

Some drawbacks

So you think you have mono? The real question is, do you really want to know? Mono, or infectious mononucleosis, is a viral infection that causes fatigue, fever, sore throat, and swollen lymph nodes. It is most common in young adults and can be contracted through close contact with an infected person.

The symptoms of mono can be similar to other illnesses, such as the flu, but they usually last longer. The flu lasts only a few days, while mono can last for several weeks. The infection is often asymptomatic, meaning that there are no symptoms, or the symptoms are so mild that they are easily missed.

The best way to prevent mono is to avoid contact with someone who has it. This can be difficult, especially if you are in close contact with them, such as at school or work. The infection is also spread by respiratory droplets, so avoiding close contact can help prevent spread.

To confirm a diagnosis of mono, a blood test will be performed. The test is called a heterophile antibody test, and it measures the presence of heterophile antibodies. These antibodies can be found in the blood of people who have mono.

Mono is a common illness, but it can be serious, especially for those with underlying health conditions. If you suspect you have mono, it is important to seek medical attention to rule out other conditions that can cause similar symptoms, such as strep throat or mononucleosis.

Nurses convene

Approximately 1,600 members of the Michigan State Nurses Association (MSNA) attended the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office during the recent election. The MSNA is the largest union of nurses in the state, with more than 12,000 members.

At the election, nurses from across the state gathered to vote on several issues, including a contract for nurses at the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office. The nurses also voted on a resolution to support the nurses at the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office.

The nurses' contract at the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office expires in July 2017. The nurses are represented by the Michigan Nurses Association (MNA), which is an affiliate of the American Nurses Association (ANA).

Nurses at the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office have been without a contract for nearly a year. The nurses have been working without a contract since July 2016.

The nurses' demands include a new contract that would provide better wages and benefits, as well as better working conditions. The nurses are also seeking a new contract that would provide better job security, including the possibility of a new contract at the Lansing Civic Center and Jack T. Durocher's office.

WASHINGTON — An automatic navigation device for the motor car was demonstrated here today to members of the press. The manufacturer, General Electric, said that it is the first time that such a device has been exhibited in this country.

The device, known as the "Navigator," is a completely automatic navigation system that will allow motorists to travel without a map. It uses a series of sensors to determine the car's position on the road, and then calculates the best route to take to reach the desired destination.

The Navigator is based on a combination of radar, GPS, and artificial intelligence technologies. It can estimate the car's position within a few inches, and provide turn-by-turn directions to the driver.

The device is designed for use in all types of weather, including snow and rain. It is also capable of navigating through construction zones and other obstacles that might be encountered on the road.

The company said that it is currently working on improving the accuracy of the device, and that it plans to begin testing it on public roads later this year.

The Navigator is expected to be available for sale in the next two years, with prices starting at $10,000.

Old cars never die in the Motor City

DETROIT — In 1960, Perry Anderson wrote a book called "Motor City," which was later made into a film. Now, 40 years later, a new Perry Anderson book is being published, "Motor City: The Final Years of the Motor Age." The book is a history of the American automobile industry, and covers the years from 1920 to 1960.

The author, who was a journalist for many years, says that he has tried to capture the essence of the age in which the automobile became a symbol of progress and advancement.

"Motor City" is intended to be a companion piece to Anderson's previous work, "Motor City," which was published in 1960. It covers the years from 1920 to 1960, and provides an overview of the history of the automobile industry during that time period.

Anderson says that he has tried to capture the spirit of the age in which the automobile became a symbol of progress and advancement. He says that the industry was a symbol of the nation's economic boom, and that it was a time when people were eager to try new things.

The book is available in both hardcover and paperback editions, and can be ordered through most bookstores.

America as an American Airlines stewardess

MSU, participating in the United States Loan Program for Cuban Students, has been awarded funds for 18 Cuban students. Each of the 18 students will receive $1,000, the cost of tuition, room, board and travel expenses.

MSU will provide the students with housing and meals in the university dormitories. The students will be instructed in English in the elementary and secondary levels.

The students will be required to study English for at least two years and to pass the English proficiency examination before they can be accepted into the United States.

The students will also be required to study American culture and history, and to take courses in American literature, mathematics, science, and social sciences.

The students will be expected to live in the United States for at least two years and to return to Cuba upon completion of their studies.
