

Spartans bumped to second place by Irish

NEW YORK (UPI) -- Notre Dame, which began the season with a green passing combination that since has turned golden, edged past defending national champion Michigan State into the No. 1 position among the major college football teams today in the United Press International weekly ratings.

The bruising Irish, who have overrun their first four opponents, drew 12 first-place votes from the 35-man UPI board of coaches and a total of 317 points, two more than the runnerup Spartans, who dropped from the top position for the first time since Oct. 26, 1965.

Second a week ago, Notre Dame crushed North Carolina 32-0 last Saturday while Michigan State rallied in the final minutes to nip Ohio State 11-8. The Spartans actually received more first place support than the Irish with 14 votes for No. 1, but their secondary support was not as strong.

Each member of the top 10 emerged unscathed from last weekend's activity and, as a result, the only other changes in the elite group were minor ones.

Alabama also had to come from behind to beat Tennessee 11-10 and consequently surrendered the third position to UCLA, which walloped Penn State 49-11. The Tide slipped one notch to fourth.

Southern California clung to fifth place but Georgia Tech, a 17-7 winner over Auburn, replaced Nebraska in the sixth slot, rushing the Huskers down to seventh. Nebraska, which has failed to impress in scoring five victories this year, struggled past winless Kansas State 21-10.

Florida, Purdue and Oklahoma completed the top 10 in that order. They each held the same positions last week. Purdue, which lost to Notre Dame in the first game of the season, remained the only member of the top 10 without a perfect record.

Strike Board Named As G.E. Walkouts Erupt

WASHINGTON (AP) -- More strikes erupted at General Electric Co. plants Monday as President Johnson named a board of inquiry to look into the stoppages which may imperil the national safety.

More than 30,000 workers in six states have been idled. Most disputes are reported over local issues.

Under the Taft-Hartley law the board of inquiry reports its findings to the President without recommendations. If he feels a strike is deemed to "imperil the national safety," he may direct the Attorney General to seek a federal court injunction sending the strikers back to work for an 80-day cooling off period.

Many of the strikers are in the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers which over the weekend ratified a national agreement with GE. The agreement came under White House mediation to avert a nationwide strike.

But the strikes are also by others of GE's 125,000 unionized workers in craft unions such as the machinists and guilds. Picket lines were being respected where requested.

The board of inquiry named by Johnson consists of John Dunlop, economics professor at Harvard; David Cole and Jacob Seidenberg, veteran labor experts and mediators. Cole is the chairman.

They left immediately to first look at the walkout of 6,000 at the Evendale, Ohio, plant which has slowed production of engines for F-4 Phantom fighters used in Viet Nam.

From there, the board is empowered to go to other struck GE plants.

There was talk of some of the struck plants resuming work, but new walkouts hit GE at: Fort Wayne, Ind.; Warren, Mich.; Pittsfield, Mass.; and Sandusky, Ohio. Strikes already had begun at Owensboro, Ky.; Ashland, Mass.; and Schenectady, Auburn and Utica, N.Y. Action was delayed as talks continued at Louisville, Ky., and Rockford, Ill.

But the Evendale plant appeared to be the immediate pressing problem. Officials said the board might complete its action there quickly and get it to Johnson through his White House communication channels.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark recommended to the President that the inquiry board be set up.

Wirtz and McNamara were active in working out the contract approved by the IUE and 10 other unions with which the IUE held coordinated negotiations. The IUE represents 80,000 of GE's 125,000 workers in 160 plants.

In a taped interview for ABC's radio program "From the Capital," Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor said Johnson had no choice but to take action under Taft-Hartley because of GE's key defense role.

He added there is the question of whether the national settlement is inflationary and this is being studied. Connor commented that the GE settlement was generous, that the GE settlement was generous.

New grid ticket policy proposed by Munn

Several changes in football ticket distribution have been proposed to eliminate the long waiting lines and assure every eligible student an opportunity to purchase a season pass.

Specifically, the changes proposed by Biggie Munn, MSU Athletic director and Bill Beardsley, ticket manager, are:

1. Students who are returning in the fall will be given an opportunity to purchase season tickets in the spring of the preceding year.

These tickets would either be mailed to the students during the summer or they could be picked up at four or five locations on campus prior to the first game.

2. To avoid confusion and standing in line for tickets on a game-to-game basis, season ticket assignments would be made for the same seat for all games. Then the season pass itself could be used as a ticket at the gate.

Season pass assignment would be done on a class priority and first-come basis. In other words, if the student who will be a senior in the coming fall orders his ticket in the spring, he will have a better location than the senior student who waits until fall.

Under this system tickets will also be sold at fall registration and at freshman orientation clinics as in the past.

Before these changes could be installed they would have to be approved by the Athletic Council and student government.

Munn said that long lines were nothing new at Michigan State and that in the past "we had lines of students extending from the Jenison lobby beyond the statue of Sparty".

$3.7 billion pollution bill OK'd in D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Congress authorized Monday a four-year, $3.7 billion program for an all-out battle to clean up the nation's public waters.

Both the House and Senate approved the water pollution bill, sending it to President Johnson, who had requested it.

The measure authorizes $3.4 billion to help construct sewage treatment plants for the four years 1968 through 1971 and $305 million for research and development to prevent pollution.

Arab says Goldberg identified with Zionism

UNITED NATIONS (AP) -- An Arab delegate Monday accused U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg of being politically identified with Zionism.

Goldberg replied that he could be regarded as a Zionist "in the same sense that many world statesmen, including some Arabs, considered themselves Zionists."

Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh made the charge in the Security Council during debate on an Israeli-Syrian dispute.

It came shortly after Secretary-General U. Thant delivered a protest to Goldberg from 62 Asian and African countries against the invasion of the Syrian mission to the United Nations last Friday by a young American Zionist group.

This was the first time in a U.N. forum that Goldberg, a Jew, had been accused of being a Zionist. He has been the subject of such charges by Arab nationalists in statements distributed to papers.

Goldberg said that there should be a distinction between speeches he made before he was appointed as U.S. ambassador in July 1965, and his statements now made as a representative of the U.S. government.

But he added that the statement he made on his views on Zionism grew out of his spiritual heritage and "I do not apologize for the statement I made."

He stressed that U.S. policy is one of friendship with all the countries in the Middle East.

Thant had asked that Goldberg meet with him to receive the Asian-African protest.

Black Muslims shot in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) -- Three Negro men identified by police as Black Muslims were wounded today outside a Muslim restaurant in St. Louis.

Police arrested a brother of one of the victims, Andrew Hoffman, 33, a block away and held him in connection with the shooting.

Victims of the shooting were Clyde Jones, 35, known as Clyde X, leader of the Muslim sect in St. Louis; Timothy Hoffman, 28, and John Moore, 29.

Moore was hospitalized in critical condition with a gunshot wound in the head. Jones was in serious condition with gunshot wounds of the face and arm and Hoffman was seriously wounded in the chest and arm.

O'Brien's wife supports alibi

State Sen. Bernard F. O'Brien's wife and his former campaign chairman testified Monday that a University police officer pointed out the senator to a coed witness last week shortly before she identified O'Brien in court.

As the trial opened its second week, defense continued its attempt to establish an alibi for the 31-year-old Democrat. The defense is expected to close its case today and a verdict on the morals charges may be reached late today or Wednesday.

Mary Louise O'Brien, the senator's wife of five years, testified that Sgt. Dan E.

Hankins had pointed out O'Brien to Judy Crawford, Ferndale Junior, on October 11, shortly before the coed testified that O'Brien had asked her to model for an "International Film Studio" in May, 1965.

The mother of four claimed she saw Hankins point out her husband through an open door during a court recess, saying, "He's the one in the blue suit."

"I assumed that he (Hankins) was telling her what my husband had on so that she could identify him in court," Mrs. O'Brien explained under cross-examination.

Mrs. O'Brien admitted that a few min

50 pct. rate MSU 'friendly'

By ANDREW MOLLISON

State News Executive Reporter
"I am a multiversity student. Do not bend, staple, spindle or mutilate me."

That sign, carried by a Berkeley student at registration, reflects an oft-repeated concern with the "de-personalization" of the large state university.

The "living-learning" complexes of co-educational dormitories at Michigan State were designed partially to counter this threat. But loyalty to the complexes did not develop, and many students moved out of them as soon as they were eligible to.

The usual explanation is that the complexes were still too impersonal--that a gathering of 1,000 to 3,000 students and a smattering of faculty in one acre did not provide the personal teaching, learning and social atmosphere that students wanted.

A seldom-discussed alternative explanation--that the students didn't really think Michigan State was such a de-personalized institution in the first place--deserves consideration.

Some extremely tentative and carefully qualified findings in a recent study sponsored by MSU's Educational Development Program (EDP) indicate that this is at least a possibility.

Robert H. Davis, director of learning service, and F. Craig Johnson, assistant director of EDP, wanted to find out what students thought about courses they had taken via closed circuit TV.

One of the questions they tried to answer was: Does de-personalization in the University affect student attitudes toward CCTV?

First they had to find out what students think about de-personalization. Davis, Johnson and two graduate assistants interviewed 136 randomly selected students from 171 CCTV sections of eight courses taught during fall and winter term last year.

At the end of each half hour interview, the interviewer would rate the student's attitude toward various subjects. One of these was de-personalization at Michigan State. Half of the interviews were conducted by at least two interviewers, so that the degree of agreement among the ratings used could be checked.

Fall term, the percentage of students in each of five categories was:

MSU is very personal and friendly, 13 per cent.

MSU is friendly, 34 per cent.

MSU is neither personal nor de-personalized, 26 per cent.

MSU is somewhat de-personalized, 22 per cent.

MSU is strongly de-personalized, 5 per cent.

By winter term, half the students inter-

American Education Council elects Hannah chairman

President John A. Hannah has been elected chairman of the American Council of Education.

Hannah succeeds Dr. Louis T. Benezet, president of the Claremont Graduate School and University Center, in the one-year post.

The Non-Governmental Council, principal coordinating agency for higher education in the United States, lists 1,437 colleges, universities and education organizations as members.

Other new officers elected Friday in New Orleans are Joseph A. Sellinger, S.J., president of Loyola College, Baltimore, Md., vice-chairman; and Dael Wolfe, executive officer of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, secretary.

Named to a two-year term on the Council's board of directors was Arthur S. Flemming, president of the University of Oregon.

Hannah, who also serves as a member of the Council board, has held federal advisory and administrative positions under four U.S. Presidents and is now chairman of the U.S. Commission of Civil Rights.

He was assistant secretary of defense for manpower and personnel in 1953 and 1954 and was chairman of the United States section on the permanent joint board on defense, United States and Canada, from 1954 to 1963.

Modern Israeli David Faces Arab Goliath

Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia and Sudan are in danger.

This group of Arab nations claimed Thursday that one of Israel's reasons for seeking U.N. attention in its conflict with Syria is:

"...the creation of suitable conditions for the perpetration of massive aggression against Syria and other Arab states," or, simply, imperialism.

Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, Sudan and Syria have SIXTY MILLION people.

Israel has two million. Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, Sudan and Syria cover THREE MILLION SQUARE MILES. Israel has 8,000.

Surrounded bully

Israel is surrounded by hostile Arab states, yet the Arab countries claim they are threatened with being engulfed.

The problem of Israel in the Middle East is real.

The Arabs cannot be blamed for opposing the introduction of a foreign culture into their midst. Neither can the Zionists be blamed for seeking a Jewish state, a sanctuary from a hostile world.

Neither side is wrong. Neither side is right. The issues are emotional on both sides.

But if the conflict is to continue to rage, let it remain in the realm of the possible. The Arab group can think of more sophisticated arguments than charging Israel, a country of two million, with imperialistic designs on an Arab front of 60 million surrounding it.

ANDREW MOLLISON

Hay! We're number two!

Consider the cow. Placid, enthusiastic consumer, producer and contemplator, she once aptly symbolized Michigan State.

And yet I've never seen a cow at Michigan State.

This weekend five of us decided to go see a cow. We realized that MSU's agricultural roots have far less to do with its present educational system than facile after-dinner historians would have us believe. Nevertheless some atavistic instinct--call it whim, if you will--drove us to find a cow.

None of us knew where the MSU cow barns are, so we went about sixty miles to visit a dairy farm. We helped take some hay down from the loft of a big barn and put it on a wagon. Then we unloaded the hay from the wagon and stacked it in a small barn near the cows.

It reminded me of the way some instructors here swipe books from the main library and put them in the "reading rooms" in their departments for students to read. The idea is, I suppose, that cows, I mean students, are too lazy to go to the main library to read.

Say steen

Cows aren't so tall as they look in pictures. The ones we saw were a black and white breed (class? subspecies? race?) called Holstein. That rhymes with bean and not with stein, as one has a right to expect. If one rhymes it with stein, one will be laughed at.

Cows stand in line to be milked and do not appear to be dangerous.

They seem dull. That is probably why the cow no longer symbolizes Michigan State.

Ponder Sparty.

I found his statue finally, after two hours of searching. It is in an intersection of many roads by the bridge near the Women's IM.

Sparty is taller than he looks in pictures. He is neatly groomed and appears to be physically fit.

Sparty does not symbolize MSU.

What then symbolizes Michigan State University? Toilet paper? TP, which is all wound up most of the time, but is let loose by exuberant petty thieves at football games, also used to symbolize Michigan State.

But due to the possibility of indelicate interpretations--for example, that TP streamers are easily swayed by any passing breeze--TP is out symbol wise.

Tintinnabulatory totem

Beaumont Tower? But thousands of us can go for weeks without seeing it. I understand that it contains musical chimes of some sort, which is kind of cute, but I haven't heard them. Furthermore, it is old, and we are not. Beaumont Tower isn't our symbol.

A symbol should unite and characterize a school.

What is it that all of us have in common, with which each of us can identify, and by which each of us can be identified?

The number two lead pencil. It is bound to make a mark in the world. It can be understood by machines. It is easily replaceable. It is unpretentious but useful.

The number two lead pencil is versatile. It can be used for taking thorough notes. Samuel Clemens, a fellow midwesterner, even named his pseudonym after it.

The number two lead pencil can be noble (in a Selective Service deferment examination) or ignoble (in writing graffiti under the Bogue Street bridge), just as we.

It is used for symbol manipulation, rather than the physical displacement of heavy objects, just as we.

Say hey, hay

And speaking of the displacement of heavy objects, did you ever lift a bale of hay? We five cow-seekers lifted bales of hay, 600 bales in all.

The five of us managed to move two-thirds as much hay in one day as two experienced high school boys had moved every day, day-in, day-out, this summer during the hay season. Our bales were lighter than theirs, we were told. Hay dries out when it's stored, or something. To us, the bales seemed heavy.

And that's why this column is a day late this week. After working Saturday I was unable to lift my arms high enough to type on Sunday.

What's this younger generation coming to, anyway?

Write me care of the State News, or phone 355-8252 after 3:30 p.m. today to answer that question. I will pass along all comments which are, in my opinion, either definitive or well put.

P.S. to the reader who wrote in and called me a Birchier: Go to hell. (signed) knee-jerk establishment liberal.

Solomon's 'Song' Sacred Or Salacious?

The Gideon Society may soon be sued for distributing pornographic literature.

If California's proposed new anti-pornography law goes through, a group of liberals, laymen and clergy, plan to use it to prosecute the Bible. Under attack will be the more ribald passages of Solomon's "Song of Songs." They would also sue the Gideon Society for distributing the Bibles.

The group is mocking the soldiers of morality all over the nation who fight a never ending battle to carry out their own "cultural revolution." These soldiers aim to protect society from what they believe are the evil influence of pornography.

But, as columnist Sidney Harris put it recently in the form of a paradox:

Dangerous law

"Why do 'dirty' books exert a bad influence on other people, but not on me?"

Moral snobs of the world might try answering this question.

They might also try to answer the question of where the censorship line should be drawn. The group that is threatening to take the Bible to court is making an exaggeration to point out society's lack of consensus.

This lack of consensus is dangerous. Though a censorship law might reduce the amount of pornography in circulation, it would give the defenders of moral purity the opportunity to drag anything to the courts. A strict court could effectively limit freedom of speech. A group intent on suppressing freedom of speech could use such a law as a tool.

The dangers of suppression of freedom far outweigh the benefits of a censorship law.

Because society cannot safely gauge what is pornographic, no censorship law can be adequate.

THE READERS' MINDS

Communism not un-Christian?

To the Editor:

In Friday's State News the question of whether one can be both a Christian and a Communist was posed by Noel Hornbeck, and answered in the negative by four local clergymen. Their response is understandable in the light of Marx's positing an impersonal historical process in the place of God. It is certainly difficult to equate the God and Father of Jesus Christ with dialectical materialism.

But while Marxism has officially condemned the Christian Faith, our own economic system was un-Christian in its conception and evil enough in its fruition to make one suspect that unofficially it has mocked that Faith in secret. The "invisible hand" which Adam Smith discovered guiding the market-place, driving the poor worker from this job to that one, causing starvation here and opportunity there, and almost completely exempt from modification by legislation--surely this quasi-deity has little in common with the biblical God.

Yet we Christians in the west find it easy to flee Communism for its espousal of Marx's view of deity, but to overlook the blasphemy in our own position. We find it reasonable to be part of our economic system because over the past 190 years it has been modified in the direction of protection for the weak; help for the oppressed, and state supervision of that "invisible hand" and its greedy disciples.

May it not be, then, that Christians can in the same provisional manner espouse Communism without accepting its unnecessary ersatz deity? After all, Christians have lived with and been party to many socio-economic schemes--feudalism, mercantilism, capitalism, communism and tribal barter. They are called to live in a world where every system is imperfect, where the demonic haunts every human endeavor. In this imperfect world Christians cannot opt out; they can only work to make every system more just and more humane. How could a Russian Christian do this without becoming in some sense a Communist?

A WASPish comment

To the Editor:

I was happy to see in the October 10 State News that you made such an unequivocal stand against the filth and pornography exhibited in the latest issue of Zeitgeist. I think that your stand is an important portent to the purveyors and peddlers of such pitifully perverse pornography. In fact, I think that it represents an important change in the traditional division of legislation and the clergy. You, in fact, legislated to the pornographers of Zeitgeist by the time-honored method of the pull of the purse-strings.

However, I do not think that you should stop there, with defacto legislation. There are still some contributors who have been misled by ideas, encouraged by creeping socialists, that there should be freedom to print that which is acceptable to the public and to the censors.

However, I do not think that you should stop even there. When the campaign for true freedom of the press has been realized, another campaign close to my heart would be to discourage what Sen. Potter exposed last year--the influx of Easterners and foreigners, which, as you know, is the cause of the Brody riots last year, not to mention the use of drugs, rampant sex, those bearded radicals, and the whole gamut of disgusting facets of university life which Michigan State has been forced to tolerate until now.

Needless to mention, these same bearded Easterners and foreigners constitute the majority of Jews and Papists on the campus, so that if these people are removed from campus by a prohibitively high out-of-state tuition, none of our daughters will be misled by their anti-God demagoguery.

Thank you for your kind attention. With the help of God, I hope that you will be able to help in making these United States safe for democracy and the majority, which we white Protestants form.

The honest ticket broker?

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that the University does not set a high standard of moral conduct. My wife and I were among many who were sold reservations to seats which did not exist. If this action is not illegal, it is surely not morally right. For what MSU has done is sell something it did not have: like seats 59 and 60 of row 53 in section 15--yet, my wife and I paid two dollars each for them.

Not long ago in Detroit the police arrested several persons for renting houses they did not have available to rent.

Why then, can the University sell reservations to seats it does not have?

POINT OF VIEW

'Militant apathetic' prevails at 'U'

EDITOR'S NOTE: This point-of-view column is written by Art Tung, Junior member-at-large on the ASMSU Board.

The recent 18-year-old vote campaign has pointed out the existence and influence of a prevailing attitude of negativism on this campus. This is the doctrine of the "militant apathetic."

This individual not only refuses to accept any kind of real responsibility because he is not "mature enough" but fights to remain uncommitted.

No matter how strong and rational the arguments are against his stand, no matter how subjective and personal his own arguments have degenerated, the militant apathetic considers only those facts he wants to consider and then closes his mind to any further evidence.

Let me describe this person in greater detail. First, the militant apathetic argues purely along personal grounds. Rather than principle, he objects to either the person involved or the campaign. In either case, he neglects the issues and answers.

He becomes so wrapped up in the talk and scuffle that he completely forgets the philosophy and principle. Second, the militant apathetic looks to others for his opinion. He either yields to "general student will" or the opinions of a small vociferous minority expressed in fact sheets, editorials, and whatnot.

That, in itself, is contradictory. But for the militant apathetic, it fits into his character of not knowing or wanting a stand of his own. He is a contradictory character. Third, the militant apathetic is blindly idealistic.

He has absolutely no conception of how to actually formulate opinion, gather opinion or evaluate opinion. Nor does he really care. He is unconscious of the middle shades of gray in every issue. To him, it is far more expedient and simple to have only two sides.

He attends meetings where the issue is being presented with his mind made up. He asks no questions. He calls upon this process called the referendum and he uses it carelessly, irresponsibly and much too often. This brings us to his last characteristic.

The militant apathetic really doesn't care about the results. It's just the fun of petitioning and voting and negating that really interests him. He gets a tremendous kick out of "telling off the establishment."

He shakes his head and sighs. "Where is student government going?" Well, he doesn't have any idea. He has decided to become involved only on one or two issues a year and then only long enough to sign his name or mark up a ballot. What follows doesn't concern him. He will graduate soon.

But the militant apathetic endangers and violates both the side he supports as well as the side he opposes.

Erhard and Brandt meet

BERLIN (AP) -- Chancellor Ludwig Erhard arrived in West Berlin today for parliamentary committee sessions and a meeting with Mayor Willy Brandt, an opposition Socialist.

The meeting was arranged after the mayor's unprecedented visit to East Berlin last Wednesday to have dinner with the Soviet ambassador to Communist East Germany, Pyotr Abrassimov, in the Soviet embassy.

Soviets blast Red China

MOSCOW (AP) -- The Soviet Union made a sweeping press attack against Red China today as East European Communist chiefs gathered here for talks that could end in a joint condemnation of Peking.

The controlled Soviet press was clearly laying the groundwork for a common blast of China by Soviet bloc leaders should they decide to issue one. A joint criticism could only deepen the split.

Students riot in New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) -- Police today opened fire on rioting students, killing five and injuring more than 50 in a two-hour pitched battle in Jammu, winter capital of Kashmir State, according to reports reaching New Delhi.

About 15 policemen, including the city's deputy inspector general, were reported injured by bricks. Police fired their rifles after tear gas had failed to disperse the students, the reports said.

LBJ tour opens with freedom pledge

HONOLULU (AP) -- President Johnson embarked Monday on a 17-day journey to the Far East with a pledge to help build new societies of freedom, peace and prosperity in Asia.

"America's role in this new emerging Asia," Johnson said, "is that of a neighbor among equals—a partner in the great adventure of bringing peace, order and progress to a part of the world where more than half the human race lives."

Johnson's statement was in an address prepared for delivery at the East-West Center in Honolulu on an overnight stop before leaving on a 25,000-mile journey that will take him to New Zealand, Australia, South Korea, Thailand and Malaysia and the seven-nation summit conference in Manila.

Before leaving Washington, Johnson told top U.S. officials gathered to see him off:

"I leave you to undertake a hopeful mission. I ask for your prayers. I shall do my best to advance the cause of peace and human progress."

While South Viet Nam is not on his itinerary, he may stop there briefly, possibly Oct. 27. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam said he would invite Johnson to come there after the Manila conference Oct. 24-25.

The Manila conference will be attended by the leaders of Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, the Philippines, South Korea, South Viet Nam and the United States—all of the nations having military units defending South Viet Nam.

Johnson said in Washington that the conference will review military operations and the problems of civil construction, adding: "We shall together seek ways of bringing about an honorable peace at the earliest possible moment."

Denver housewives picket supermarkets

DENVER, Colo. (AP) -- Singing housewives paraded at some chain food stores in the Denver area Monday launching a boycott to demand an end to high prices.

A spokesman for the marchers, who declined to identify herself, told newsmen the boycott idea originated in the Commerce City area and was taken up by Denver housewives. Part of the original plan, she said, was to picket the stores but the Denver leaders did not agree to this phase of the operation.

"When food becomes a luxury on your table," she said, "it is time to do something."

Five chains are the targets of the boycott. In addition to Safeway and King Soopers they are Furr's, Miller's and Red Owl.

Reporters and photographers reported that not many people seemed to be entering the supermarkets. Spokesmen for the chains, however, said reports from store managers didn't indicate any difference from a normal Monday. Monday, they said, usually is a slow day.

All 43 Miller stores in the Denver area were shut while employees re-marked prices. The company announced the one-day shutdown during the week-end but insisted it had nothing to do with the boycott. It was the result, a spokesman said, of a survey in July indicating the housewives would prefer fewer "fringe" benefits and lower prices.

Court deaf to alcoholic's plea

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Supreme Court declined today to hear an appeal that challenged criminal punishment of chronic alcoholics.

The appeal was filed on behalf of Thomas F. Budd, a janitor of Oakland, Calif., who has been arrested 34 times in 27 years on drunkenness charges. The appeal referred to medical testimony that Budd was a chronic alcoholic.

Public drunkenness, the appeal stated, is an unavoidable symptom of the disease of alcoholism, and criminal action for it is cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Constitution's eighth amendment.

The appeal said Budd acted as proxy "for hundreds and thousands of men and women who, though confirmed alcoholics, are repeatedly prosecuted for public drunkenness."

Budd appealed his arrest Nov. 23, 1964, in Oakland. He was convicted of violating California law that makes drunkenness a misdemeanor.

Justice Abe Fortas dissented from the court's refusal to rule on the alcoholic issue and was joined by Justice William O. Douglas.

"Our morality does not permit us to punish for illness. We do not impose punishment for involuntary conduct, whether the lack of violation results from 'insanity,' addiction to narcotics, or from other illnesses," Fortas said.

Douglas, in noting that he joined in the Fortas opinion, said he believes the alcoholic addict, like a drug addict, is beyond the reach of criminal law.

'SIGNS OF TIME'

Weekend plans set

The signs of our time are coming home!

The Beach Boys, a football game with Purdue, floats, a semi-formal dance, a queen and her court promise to make this year's Homecoming exciting.

Homecoming weekend will begin with a concert by the Beach Boys at 8 p.m. Friday in Jenison Fieldhouse. Tickets are available for $2.50 per person at the Union ticket office.

All housing units, both on and off campus, have been planning and constructing their homecoming floats based on this year's theme, "The Signs of Our Times".

These floats will be judged Saturday morning. They will be judged on continuity of theme, originality, neatness, precision, artistic detail and mechanical complexity. The winners of the two classifications, on-campus halls and fraternities and sororities, will be announced at half-time of the Michigan State-Purdue football game that afternoon.

Half-time will also be highlighted by the presentation of the 1966 Homecoming queen and her court. Each living unit picked a candidate for queen who held a GPA of 2.00 and had completed at least one term at MSU. The queen and her court were selected from these women for their poise and beauty.

The climax of the weekend will be the Homecoming dance from 8 p.m.-midnight Saturday night and the 2 a.m. permission for women. The Norm Lads Orchestra will play on the top floor of the Auditorium and Abdul and the Camel Drivers will furnish faster music on the lower floor.

During the dance the Homecoming queen will be crowned and the new members of Excalibur, the senior men's honorary, will be tapped. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets for the dance will be sold at the Union ticket office and Campbell's Suburban Shop for $4.25 a couple.

it's what's happening

The MSU Newcomer's Club will meet at 8 tonight at 21 Union. A skit entitled "Prescription for a Richer Life" will be presented. Refreshments will be served. All new and second-year faculty wives are invited.

The Dept. of Communication will sponsor a lecture by Percy Tannenbaum, director of Mass Communication Research Center, University of Wisconsin, at 8 tonight in 326 Natural Science Building. Tannenbaum will speak on "Communication as Vicarious Social Experience."

Factory automation will be discussed at the Management Club meeting to be held at 7 Wednesday in the Teak Room of Eppley Center. Jack Malstrom, sales representative for Lacross Automation Co., will be the speaker.

The Faculty Women's Association invites all faculty women to a Bohemian dinner to be held at 6 Wednesday at the University Lutheran Church.

The MSU Pre-Medical Society will meet at 8:30 Wednesday in 32 Union for a speech by Dr. Hilliard Jason on "The Making of a Physician."

Applications due soon for Foreign Service test

Students interested in working abroad for the U. S. Foreign Service should submit an application before Oct. 22 to take the Foreign Service Officer Career exam.

This competitive exam is used by both the Department of State and the United States Information Agency (USIA) in determining entrance level career appointments.

Sample test booklets and applications for the exam, to be given in Lansing December 3, are available in 403 Berkey Hall.

Applicants must be between 21-31 years of age as of December 3, or 20 years old with his junior year completed. American citizenship for at least seven-and-a-half years is also required.

Facility in at least one foreign language is required for advancement in the Foreign Service, but is not a prerequisite to take the exam.

The test is composed of four parts: general ability; English expression; general background; and for Department of State candidates one of three options -- history, government, social sciences and public affairs; administration; or economics and commerce.

USIA candidates are required to take the first option.

Persons passing this exam will be given an oral test at a later date. The oral test panel will then recommend candidates for medical exams, background investigations and final evaluation.

Navy and Marine reps at Union

Representatives of the U. S. Navy surface and air arms and the U. S. Marine Corps Ground and Aviation sections will be in the Union 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today through Friday.

The representatives will supply information about commissioned officer programs for students and graduates.

Packaging measure sent back to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House passed and sent back to the Senate Monday a compromise fair packaging and labeling bill. The roll-call vote was 242-6. The bill is almost precisely the same as one approved two weeks ago by the House after the Commerce Committee removed Senate provisions for mandatory federal packaging standards.

Senate conferees agreed last Friday to accept the bill after House conferees made it clear the House would not accept anything stiffer than the House version.

The bill contains mandatory labeling provisions and gives the government new authority to move against such things as partially filled packages, "cents-off" promotions and designation of package sizes with terms such as "giant economy size."

The Senate accepted a House provision that would authorize the government to require that manufacturers designate quantities by servings include the amount in each serving. However, the conferees agreed to make the provision mandatory.

The packaging provision in the final bill would authorize the government to bring manufacturers of a specific product together to attempt to work out voluntary packaging standards, covering weights and quantities, in order to facilitate price comparisons.

Ladies in the locker room

By ROBERTA YAFIE
State News Sports Writer

Even the Spartan locker room has a woman's touch. On the bulletin board is posted a telegram, sent to "Co-Captains Clinton Jones and Geo. Webster, Jenison Field House."

It reads:
"Best wishes for continued success. Our home folks are proud of you. Duffy's Mother."

The hundred women walking around the locker room Thursday were impressed, and nodded approvingly as they read it.

A hundred women in the locker room?
Right. And if that was tough to swallow, try the same group in the Spartan Stadium Press Box.

Seated at the press tables, it looked more like a convention of fashion editors awaiting a group of lithe models to slink across the field, clad in the new winter line of rainwear.

It's generally considered quite an accomplishment for a woman to make the locker room or press box scene. When your guide is Duffy Daugherty, you can't lose.

Duffy holds class for the ladies from 9-10 a.m. Thursdays, part of the MSU Continuing Education Service.

Each of the four sessions is designed to provide the girls with important points of football, as well as giving them a look at what goes on behind the scenes.

They were shown a film of the Illinois game the first week. The girls varied in age from three-year-old Beth, who sat quietly in the press box and took notes, to student wives, mothers of football-playing sons and a few grandmothers.

Duffy played the genial host, dividing the group between the locker, training and equipment rooms. They inspected the lockers and showers, some taking pictures, others sitting on the benches as Daugherty talked.

Assistant Trainer Clint Thompson told them about taping and whirlpool baths, and the ladies reclined on the training tables, jotting down pre-game menus.

Then they paid a visit to the Spartans' wardrobe master, Equipment Manager Ken Earley. Among a swell of gasps he held up for inspection the pads worn by George Webster and Bubba's shoes.

The ladies were impressed by the extensive wardrobe: eight jerseys, three choices of cleats, neat stacks of football pants.

"Are the uniforms sent out, or do you do your own laundry?" one woman inquired.

"We have facilities here and send them out, but to be truthful," Earley confided, "I'd rather do it myself."

Another woman asked Earley as to what he used to get out "ground-in dirt and grime."

"Gentle Fels does the job best," he said. "When you get mud and blood stains in football pants, the best thing is to soak them in Fels overnight and use a nylon brush."

The ladies nodded. They knew the procedure well.

Bob Swift dead of cancer at 51

DETROIT (UPI)—Bob Swift, a catcher on the last Detroit pennant winner and twice interim manager of the Tigers, lost his dogged fight against lung cancer Monday.

Swift, 51, died in his sleep with his physician, Dr. Donald C. McLean, and his wife, Edith, at his hospital bedside.

Swift was the second Tiger manager of the 1966 season to die in the past 10 weeks. Charlie Dressen was stricken with a heart attack in May and died Aug. 10 after an acute kidney infection developed.

Tiger Owner John Fetzer called Swift's death "sad news to everyone in the Tiger organization."

"As a player, coach and manager under trying circumstances, he gave a full measure of devotion to the game which he loved," Fetzer said.

Swift, a coach, took over the Tigers from May until just after the all-star game when he was hospitalized. A second Tiger coach, Frank Skaiff, took over the team July 14 and led the Tigers to a third place finish. Detroit has since hired Mayo Smith to manage next year.

The lung cancer was discovered late in July when Swift was being treated for the stomach ailment which forced him out of the managership.

He was determined to overcome the disease. His wife recovered from a malignant tumor in 1951 and the lean, tough Swift thought he could do the same thing.

"He's got a lot of determination about this thing," Skaiff once commented. "That guy's got a lot of guts."

Swift left the hospital briefly but was readmitted and lapsed into a coma for a weekend in late September as his condition worsened.

"He suddenly took a turn for the worse Sunday night," McLean said. "His blood pressure went down very rapidly in the middle of the night."

"He expired very quietly," Swift spent 22 years as a catcher, sharing the duties with

UNDER PRESSURE

Daugherty happy with gridders' Ohio showing

By ED BRILL
State News Staff Writer

"It's too bad we lost Saturday," Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty joked with reporters at his weekly press luncheon Monday.

After Daugherty finished fending off a raft of questions on national rankings and the Spartans' squeaker over Ohio State, it might have appeared to the jolly Irishman that some people still weren't too convinced that MSU did win Saturday.

"I felt that it was one of our greatest achievements," said Daugherty of the come-from-behind victory. "You never really know about your team until they have to do something under pressure."

"There was more elation in the locker room than at any other time this season," Daugherty continued. "It always adds stature to a team when you do something as a team. Our winning drive was accomplished as a unit rather than as one individual effort."

On that winning drive of 89 yards early in the fourth period, the Spartans did something they had shied away from in the first four games—they threw.

In particular, Jimmy Raye set and threw on the very first play after Ohio State's touchdown. MSU was deep in what Daugherty calls "danger territory," and there was a 35 m.p.h. wind driving rain into Raye's face.

"We wanted better field position right away," explained Daugherty. "And we felt we had to throw on first down when Ohio was ganged in there on the line."

Those key throws were all designed as pass plays, and not roll-out options, Daugherty made clear. Raye threw from a semi-roll out set position and hit his receivers hooking back in front of the secondary.

Then Daugherty finally got around to answering the queries about those polls and that team from somewhere in northern Indiana. (Its initials are ND, but don't say it out loud near Daugherty.)

"The decisiveness of a game really has nothing to do with how two particular teams are going to fare when they meet each other," Daugherty said.

"It's too early to tell who is really No. 1, but I'm not saying they're wrong if we drop down this week," he continued.

Then one intrepid reporter asked the peerless commander a tricky one. "At this stage of the season, would you rather be 5-0 and No. 1, or 5-0 and No. 2?"

"I'm just glad we're 5-0," Daugherty countered. "I don't care where we are."

Then a second thought popped into the head of the grey-haired Irishman. "I can say this with certainty," Daugherty said, trying to control the broad grin starting across his face "right now we are assured of at least a .500 season."

Any more questions?

Leads Booters

Guy Busch leads the Spartan soccer team in total points with 19, and is tied with Tony Keyes for goals, with 11. The junior star missed last Saturday's game with Akron, but is expected to be ready for next Saturday's Marquette game.

This well known citizen of Lansing is referred to by her many friends as Jean and few people have played so active a part in this section's development from a launderer's standpoint as has Shirley Jean Murdock.

A large part of the success of American Diaper Service is due to Mrs. Murdock's wonderful faculty for making friends and winning the esteem of her customers. It is perhaps because she takes an interest in other people and appreciates the patronage extended the business.

American Diaper provides such specialized services as self deodorized diaper pails (colored, plastic, and non-rusting), baby scale rentals, and prompt, courteous service with twice a week pick-up.

The baby's health is Mrs. Murdock's first concern. All orders are returned in new sterile plastic bags and each diaper is guaranteed hospital pure and free from harmful bacteria. Jean Murdock invites plant inspection at any time.

Jean Murdock has always been keenly interested as to the condition and needs of her community and has taken a pronounced and well poised position in matters concerning the welfare of Lansing and vicinity. This same insight in connection with the needs and desires of her customers has been a great factor in the successful operation of American Diaper Service.

This area is indeed fortunate to have such qualified people as Shirley Jean Murdock as key figures in its business life and there is no better assurance of continued prosperity and growth for the Lansing area than to have such friendly and reliable business establishments as American Diaper Service.

MSU ONE OF TWO

Bengali courses rare

By TRINKA CLINE
State News Staff Writer

Michigan State is one of two American universities offering Bengali language courses regularly.

The University of Chicago, according to William T. Ross, director of the Asian Studies Center, is the only other university teaching Bengali. The University of Missouri has a temporary beginning program underway.

MSU's scheduling of the exotic language began in 1965. Five students are enrolled in the Indian language class this term. Students who will be working in the field are normally the only ones who attempt to master Bengali.

Ralph Nicholas, assistant professor in the Asian Studies Center, said, "It would be highly desirable if students would take the course for the language itself, not just for field preparation." He described the language as moving for its "beauty and apparent artistic purpose of sound."

Bengali in print resembles intricate wrought iron work. Symbols denoting each word are connected by a bar across the top. Writing structure is more by syllables than by individual letters.

The 43 letters of the Bengali alphabet require no more than two weeks of study before being able to sound out all writing, Nicholas added.

While some sounds are similar to English sounds, several more compare to French, Nicholas felt the language is fairly simple to learn, but some of the sounds are difficult at first.

Bengali, one of the first scientifically constructed languages, follows functionally the same punctuation markings as does English.

Subjects do not agree in number with verbs, word order is flexible and the absence of gender distinctions, add to the ease of learning, said Nicholas.

Nicholas noted that 65 million people in the Pakistan-India area known as Bengal converse in Bengali. While the region includes various other tongues, Bengali is somewhat universal for the total population there.

Off-campus employers feeling labor shortage

Off-campus employers in the Lansing-East Lansing area are having trouble finding student help this year.

The number of off-campus jobs filled by students has jumped up in the last few years: from 2,850 jobs in the 1963-64 school year, to 3,860 in 1964-65, according to MSU Placement Bureau figures.

There will be at least 4,000 off-campus jobs open this year, according to Robert Schneider, assistant director of student employment.

Despite the increasing number of jobs though, there haven't been enough job applications by students. As a result, businesses depending on college help are feeling a pinch.

Employers are blaming the labor gap on the drafting of young men who usually fill the labor market, plus concentration on grades by college men.

Schneider offered some explanations of the situation by also saying summer work, scholarships and loans, and allowances from home provided enough funds for the student.

Then, too, Schneider said, there is pressure on students for grades. The trend is the student not having to earn money while going to school at the same time, he said.

Possible Dutch elm cure found by prof

By BILL GARBER
State News Staff Writer

Hope to save the vanishing elm rises and falls about as regularly as the trees' leaves blossom and wither.

Once again there is hope. MSU Professor of Entomology, James C. Butcher, currently on leave in Europe, recently reported finding a natural parasite which destroys the beetle that carries the disease.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) considers Butcher's discovery the best hope to a final cure for the disease that has been discovered yet this year.

Right now, although the problem is not solved, it has been drastically reduced by a control program developed at MSU and administered jointly by the MDA, and 79 participating cities.

Where the program is in effect the loss rate is down to about two per cent each year, C. A. Boyer, state supervisor of the program, said. This compares with between 10 and 20 per cent loss rates in cities not in the program, Boyer added.

Cost to provide this "insurance" is less than the cost to remove the tree. A tree can be cared for in the program for 50 years for the cost of removing that tree today, or roughly $2 per tree a year, Boyer said.

The MSU campus lost 69 elms or about three per cent of its 2,000 elm trees last year, George W. Parmelee, curator of the woody plant collection, said. That is a jump from about 40 trees lost each year in the past.

Last year, Parmelee was optimistic about "Bidrin," a chemical which was injected into the tree and was supposed to kill the fungus, cause of the Dutch elm disease, which clogs the tree's sap carrying system. It didn't work.

This year Parmelee is not so optimistic. He has seen too many "cures" come and go, Parmelee just sprays for the beetle which carries the fungus from dead trees, and he cuts dying trees out.

The problem has been in the U.S. for 36 years. It reached Michigan in 1950 and has grown to a problem costing the state $10 million a year, Boyer said.

What will it take to rid Michigan of the Dutch elm disease now? Boyer is confident that it is only a matter of spending the necessary means to do the job.

"If we were spending as much to fight the Dutch elm disease as we are for landing a man on the moon, this problem could be solved in a year," Boyer claims.

But the nation isn't spending that much, and it won't. Last year the Michigan legislature appropriated $45,371 to fight the Dutch elm and oak wilt problem in the state, Boyer said. (Oak wilt is a minor problem taking little money to fight.)

This fall chain saws will snarl into hundreds of elms in Michigan trying to remove the breeding ground for the disease-carrying beetle. If the beetle can be stopped, the problem will be solved, Butcher may have found the final answer already.

Spinster Spin offices open

Students interested in holding chairmanships for the 1967 Spinster Spin should attend a meeting at 7:15 tonight in the Dean's Conference Room of the Student Services Building.

All girls who attend the meeting will be placed on a committee, Myrna Demarest, head of the program council of Associated Women Students, announced.

It is preferred that committee chairmen have had previous experience on a committee, she said.

The Spin, sponsored by the Associated Women Students of MSU, will be Feb. 27.

Engineers, Mathematicians:

Contribute to Technical Programs of National Significance

... nsa

Creating secure communications systems and equipments unknown anywhere else. This is the mission of the National Security Agency—a mission which in turn creates problems of a high order of difficulty, requiring an uncommon amount of ingenuity.

There is no other organization like it... no other organization doing the same important work, or offering the same wealth of opportunity for imaginative graduates in mathematics or the engineering sciences.

A separate agency operating within the defense establishment, NSA has a critical requirement for:

ENGINEERS. To carry out basic and applied research, design, development, testing and evaluation of large-scale cryptocommunications and EDP systems. Engineers may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, super-conductivity and cryogenics using the latest equipment for advanced research within the Agency's fully instrumented laboratories. Career programs are designed to develop the professional engineer for a full and satisfying future in research or management.

MATHEMATICIANS. To define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems in support of the NSA mission. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, finite fields, probability, combinatorial analysis, programming and symbolic logic are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. They enjoy the full support of NSA's completely equipped computer laboratory where many of them often become involved in both the hardware and software of advanced computing systems. Theoretical research is also a primary concern at NSA, owing to the fact that the present state of knowledge in certain fields of mathematics is not sufficiently advanced to satisfy NSA requirements.

CAREER BENEFITS

With NSA, you enjoy all the benefits of Federal employment without the necessity of Civil Service certification.

NSA's generous graduate study program permits you to pursue two semesters of full-time graduate study at full salary with academic costs paid by NSA. The Agency also encourages participation in professional associations and assists you to attend national meetings, seminars, and conferences.

Located between Washington and Baltimore, NSA is also near the Chesapeake Bay, ocean beaches and other summer and winter recreation areas. The location permits your choice of city, suburban or country living.

Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $7,729 to $12,873. Check now with your Placement Office to arrange an interview with the NSA representative visiting your campus, or write to: Chief, College Relations Branch, Suite 10, 4435 Wisconsin Avenue, N. CAMPAIGN TRAIL '66

Campus politicos rally

By MIKE BROGAN
State News Staff Writer

The two major political organizations on campus are tramping the campaign trails for their candidates as Nov. 8 draws near. Members of the Republican and Democratic parties have been campaigning for local, state and national candidates for as long as a month and the political wheels are turning faster with election day less than a month away.

Ted Milby, London, Ky., senior and president of the MSU College Republican Club, said his organization is primarily concerned with the campaign of Sen. Robert Griffin.

"Since it is hard to arouse enthusiasm for local candidates, due to so many of our members being from out of the area, we are concentrating on state and national candidates," Milby explained.

Members of the GOP organization, numbering about 50, are optimistic about Griffin's chances Nov. 8.

According to Milby the organization pays close attention to state-wide opinion polls taken by the Detroit News.

Last week these polls reported Griffin as favored over his Democratic opponent, former Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams, by five per cent of the sampling. Williams drew 46 per cent to Griffin's 51.

The campus Republicans will soon be converging on area shopping centers, according to Milby, to distribute written material. Most of it concerns the three-man team of Griffin, Gov. George Romney and Lt. Gov. William Milliken, he said.

Milby said the reason his organization is not greatly concerned with Romney's campaign is an obvious one.

"If there were such a thing as a sure thing in politics it would be Gov. Romney's re-election," he observed.

Milby stressed that the only funds the Young Republicans receive are through membership dues, adding that printed materials come from the state Youth for Griffin organization. He said the state central campaign headquarters has also supplied material.

The campus organization is also strongly supporting Dale Warner, a 1961 graduate of MSU, in his bid for a legislative seat from Michigan's 56th district.

Mark Jenness, Jackson senior, and Ann Refior, East Lansing sophomore, were named by Milby as top assistants to Warner in his efforts.

The MSU Young Democrats are equally optimistic about their party's chances at the polls.

Bill Mayes, Port Austin sophomore, and first vice president of the club, said printed football schedules bearing the names of Williams and gubernatorial candidate Zolton Ferency were passed out at the Michigan, Michigan State game.

The 250-member club also sponsored a luncheon for the two candidates prior to the game.

Mayes said the Young Democrats are bring Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) to campus Oct. 28 to speak in support of the Democratic ticket.

Poll-watching is also part of the Young Democrats' business, but Mayes cited the polls during the Truman-Dewey race of 1948 which heavily favored Dewey.

"I don't think there is a person in politics who doesn't pay attention to them," he said. "I think, however, that Mr. Williams underestimated it up nicely when he said the only poll we have to win is the one Nov. 8."

The Democrats are spreading themselves out this campaign year. Mayes said the group is actively working for democratic candidates at all levels of politics.

"We are trying to give as much help to as many people as we can," he pointed out.

In conjunction with the Young Republicans Mayes' group is sponsoring a debate between the candidates for MSU Board of Trustees tonight in 31 Union.

The Democratic candidates, Warren Huff of Plymouth and Nathan G. Conyers of Detroit, will debate with GOP candidates Frank Merriman of Deckerville and Kenneth Thompson of Birmingham at 8:30 p.m.

Mayes also stressed that both the Republicans and Democrats are supporting the 18-year-old vote, to appear on the November ballot.

"I'm very optimistic," he said. "I think the toughest battle is Zolton Ferency's, but I am confident he can win."

O'Brien's wife testifies

27, a time he allegedly was on the MSU campus propositioning a major prosecution witness.

Prosecution contends that O'Brien, calling himself "Larry Angelo" was asking Marion Lukens, Santa Ana, Calif., senior, at 11:40 a.m. that day to pose for nude pictures and have sexual relations.

Tarrant, organizer of the senator's spring campaign preparation meetings, also testified that O'Brien had been in Detroit several weekends in May, at the times he is charged with asking several other coeds to pose for "cheesecake" pictures.

Two other defense witnesses who had attended the campaign meetings confirmed O'Brien's presence in Detroit on the weekends in question.

Mrs. O'Brien, who had undergone a gall bladder operation in mid-May and was hospitalized May 9-16, testified that her husband had visited her every night she was in the hospital.

Defense also called three character witnesses, including the defendant's father, Bernard F. O'Brien Sr., a former Detroit representative.

In the first motion of the day, Defense Attorney John D. O'Connell requested that the testimony of the five additional coeds be disregarded by the jury. O'Connell said their testimonies were irrelevant because O'Brien is only formally charged with accosting Miss Lukens.

Judge George J. Hutter said he will consider the request, and will present decision later.

Is MSU friendly?

viewed pictured MSU as a personal institution. The interviewers' ratings of student attitudes were: MSU is very personal and friendly, 12 per cent.

MSU is friendly, 38 per cent. MSU is neutral, 29 per cent. MSU is somewhat de-personalized, 16 per cent.

MSU is strongly de-personalized, 3 per cent.

Data from interviews is always difficult to interpret. As Davis and Johnson point out:

"Several students, for example, seemed anxious not to hurt the feelings of the administration," and negative comments were sometimes prefaced with such remarks as "I hope this doesn't make you feel too bad but . . ."

On the other hand, 27 per cent of the students last term and 21 per cent winter term did give the University negative ratings.

800 SIGN

Petitions call for referendumBy BEVERLY TWITCHELL
State News Staff Writer

Over 800 students have signed petitions calling for a referendum on the allocation of $1,000 of ASMSU funds to the 18-year-old vote campaign.

The petition was initiated by Pat Terry, San Angelo, Tex., senior and former president of Snyder Hall. Terry must obtain the signatures of 10 per cent of the full-time undergraduate students (2,895), in order to call the referendum, according to the ASMSU constitution.

"I hope to show the student board that they do have to contend with students, that they are not autonomous," Terry said.

ASMSU Chairman Jim Graham pointed out that we are already committed to $300 or $400 to the Michigan Citizens Committee for the Vote at 18. The money is for material which has arrived in the last few days.

Graham said, however, that he would not spend over $400 until after the referendum.

If the required signatures are obtained, Mike Levine, ASMSU elections commissioner, must validate each signature. The referendum would then be held Oct. 27, Graham said.

Terry stressed that the student board should see that moving into an "entirely new direction is not entirely up to them to define."

Terry is primarily concerned that the student board is moving into a new direction and "allocating a tremendous amount of money, when they supposedly started off in debt, and with a rather flagrant disregard of student opinion."

He said that he was not particularly disturbed by the issue of an 18-year-old vote itself, but about ASMSU, and "this brought it to a head."

He also feels that a petition for referendum is the only way students can reach the board.

The petitions were distributed at a Men's Hall Assn. meeting Thursday night, to some women's hall presidents and to some off-campus locations. Terry asked on the petitions that the results be returned to him before today.

Greg Hopkins, president of Off Campus Council, expressed concern over the time factor. By the time the referendum goes through, if the petitions are successful, some of the $1,000 will have already been spent.

Art Tung, member-at-large, believes the petition is trying to prove that students want to have a say.

"But a referendum has far greater significance than that," he said.

It also concerns the questions of political involvement, the 18-year-old vote issue, financial backing, capabilities of student government involvement and the personal involvement of some student board members, he said.
