PROBLEMS TOO COMPLEX

State board candidates cite need for higher education master plan

The first candidates for policy positions on the state board have emerged, at least in the form of a letter to the editor. In a letter to the board, the candidates introduced themselves and outlined their plans for the upcoming academic year.

The letter, written by the Michigan State College Candidates, states that the candidates are committed to improving the education system in the state. They outline their plans for the upcoming year, including increasing funding for education, improving teacher salaries, and increasing access to higher education.

The candidates also express their commitment to working with the board to ensure that the needs of the students are met.

U's must 'reflect spirit of own times'—Hannah

As the University of Michigan celebrates its centennial, President James D.uderstrom Jr. has called on the university community to "reflect the spirit of our times." In a speech on Monday, the president urged students, faculty and staff to embrace the "spirit of innovation and change" that has defined the institution.

"We have a unique situation in East Lansing," President Duderstrom said. "We have a unique opportunity to shape the future of higher education, not just in Michigan but in the nation and the world." He added that the university must be "innovative and flexible" in order to meet the challenges of the 21st century.

The ASMSU has announced plans to offer free discount cards to students. The cards will provide students with discounts on a variety of products and services.

The cards will be offered to students beginning next month and will be available on campus at the Student Union.

ASMSU plans to distribute the cards to students beginning next month.
Put a staunch Democrat and just as staunch a Republican together and start them talking about Governor Romney. In the resulting discussion they might disagree on the relative merits of the programs Romney has advocated, but there will be little disagreement at all on the man of action. In his fourth year as governor, Romney has established an excellent record. Since he took office, the state has passed from a $160-million debt to a $150-million surplus. It cannot be proved that Romney is responsible for the sharp turnaround in the state financial situation. But a governor is so central to the operation of a state that it is inconceivable that he would not have at least some responsibility for the financial upswing.

One area where Romney—well, the Democratic legislature—has failed is a much-needed tax reform. This failure, however, is outweighed by the many programs started during Romney's administration.

Services improved
Under Romney's leadership state services have been improved and expanded. Support for higher education has more than doubled during his term. He has guided programs in water pollution, mental health, aid for senior citizens, agriculture, and conservation, to name a few.

In the field of civil rights, he was highly instrumental in the establishment of a civil rights commission in 1964.

Cooperation
Also, during his term, a state minimum wage law was passed, and workman's compensation laws have been expanded.

Certainly not all of these new programs can be attributed directly to Romney. Their passage is the result of not only leadership and action by the governor, but more important, cooperation between legislature and governor.

Romney has proved his ability to get along with both Republican and Democratic legislatures.

Romney's willingness to take the initiative in forming new programs, and his ability to entitle the cooperation of legislatures are marks of a good governor, one who can make his state a leader and a better place in which to live.

His opponent, Zoltan Perenyi, is an unknown quantity. There is no way to tell whether he would be an initiator of new programs or a man who can cooperate with the opposition by the product. It would be foolhardy November 8 to turn out a proven leader for a question mark. —The Editor

Roethke's words prove timely

To the Editor:

In their willingness to seek refuge in the unwillingness of poets to express the politics of their time, it is easy to see the bitter ends that one bleeding, but always in waltz-time; helter-skelter impressionists and sad ironists as well as to the curious who make grandiloquent effects.

To my way of thinking, the editors were quite right. I get the impression that the editors are reflecting the community and are therefore right.

JONES SETS BIG 10 RECORD

Four records fall in 56-7 deluge

By ED BRILL

Spartan halfback Clinton Jones stiffarmed an Iowa defender and followed Gene Washington in the corner of the end zone for the score with some nifty outside running and cutbacks. The second was taken on a 15-yard burst by Cavender on a sweep.
At the time and Cavender was running at first string fullback an outstanding high school career at Detroit Cathedral Central. It was painful not only for Bob, but also for the thousands of Spartan fans. I thanked me for my time, and the conversation ended on a friendly note. I mentioned that Cavender had fumbled, I guaranteed that if he didn’t plan to play behind anyone, Cavender will tell you. The Spartans’ barrel-shaped power runner will hit a brick wall, knowing that he can call on a second string fullback who rolls up 92 yards rushing and contributes a pair of touchdowns. Apisa. As one press box observer put it: “I bet Apisa’s knee is down in the process.” The impression Cavender made Saturday is best illustrated by the two weeks ago, is 1-5 in the league with a 6-0 record, 8-0 on the ground, 4-1 in the conference and 6-2 now in a fifth-place tie with a pair of comments made by a Daily Iowan sports writer. I thought I played a good game, and I punished a few people out there. I’m very satisfied in the name, and I think that we will be allowed to defend our NCAA title on the basis of our showing.

Lions avoid loss
CHICAGO (UPI) -- Wayne Walker came off the bench with a minute and 15 seconds left Sunday to boot a field goal which gave the Detroit Lions a 10-7 win with the Chicago Bears and assure a brilliant one-man show by goaldie Gary Sorenson. Walker, who had given up this part of the Lion field goal specialist to Yugoslav rookie Dan Verivanj, was called upon when the Lions had to have a score. After Beat going live stand ended, the Lions on the Chicago 4, Walker kicked a field goal longer than 10 yards and true from the 17. The Bears fought desperately to score in 66 seconds, recording and Rudy Ruettiger’s punts and Sorenson’s punting got them down to the Lion 17. With just 10 seconds left, it seemed the Bears would pull it out when Roger Douglasthumped a field goal from his 25. But his kick was wide of the left and the Bears were dead.

Johnson raps politicians

The Country School, Fredrickson, Wash., is offering President Gerald Ford a special challenge. The school's students have been asked to write personalized letters to the president requesting that he do something for them. The letters are to be delivered to Ford's office in Washington.

Ford, who represents the state of California, has been asked to do something specific. The students want him to do something for them, but they don't know what. They plan to deliver the letters to Ford's office in Washington, D.C., on the president's birthday, Nov. 4.

They hope that Ford will see their letters and respond in some way, but they are not sure what that might be. They just want him to do something.

Enter Jesus, the Mastermind

Passover Plot

Dr. Hugh Schonfield

The Passover Plot is a historical novel that explores the events leading up to the crucifixion of Jesus and the circumstances surrounding the Last Supper. The novel is set in Jerusalem during the Roman occupation of Palestine and tells the story of the young Jesus as he prepares for his ultimate sacrifice.

The novel has been praised for its historical accuracy and its portrayal of the religious and social context of the time. It has also been criticized for its romanticized portrayal of Jesus and for its depiction of the Roman authorities.

The Passover Plot is part of a series of novels written by Dr. Hugh Schonfield, who was a leading scholar of early Christian history. The series includes "The Passion Plot" and "The Resurrection Plot," among others.

FLOODS Stony Stan

FLOWER, July 5 - Rising flood waters in Europe and Africa again reached the height of the 1958 disaster. Flooding in the Po Basin, where the river has swelled three times its normal volume, threatened to wipe out the entire city of Venice.

By John B. Murphy

The mayor of Venice described the worst flood he had ever seen in his 55 years in office.

"There's no end to the suffering the floods impose," he said. "The rich become poorer, the poor become richer."

Flood waters, which have already killed more than 200 people, were expected to reach their peak today and remain high through tomorrow. The city's industrial and commercial districts, which are already heavily flooded, are expected to become uninhabitable.

The floods, which have already caused over $1 billion in damages, are expected to continue until late next week. The mayor said the city would be forced to seek international aid to help finance the recovery effort.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 5 - The Federal Emergency Management Agency today announced plans for a comprehensive flood control program in the United States. The agency said the program would provide federal assistance to states and local governments to help them prepare for and respond to future floods.

The program, which is expected to cost over $1 billion, will be implemented in three phases. Phase one will focus on the development of flood risk maps and hazard assessment studies. Phase two will provide financial assistance to states and local governments to develop and implement flood control projects. Phase three will provide additional funding to help states and local governments maintain and operate flood control systems.

The agency said the program would be funded through a combination of federal grants and state and local funding. It also said the program would be designed to be flexible, allowing states and local governments to tailor the program to their specific needs.

The announcement was made by FEMA Administrator John J. Spence, who said the agency was committed to helping states and local governments prepare for and respond to future floods.
