Changes in ASMSU Board plan foreseen

Georgia gubernatorial race may be decided by courts

Stormy Skies

Tornado warnings were announced for most of the state Tuesday night and continued Wednesday morning. The tornado warnings were issued by the National Weather Service in Atlanta. The tornado warnings were issued for the counties of Cherokee, Forsyth, Paulding, and Fulton.

ATLANTA, Ga. - Georgia's gubernatorial election appears to be headed for a recount, as Republican John M. Connally was able to obtain a majority of the votes cast. The apparent lack of a majority for runoff, which was a sure thing for former Gov. Carl Sanders and for his Democratic opponent, dropped out after the second ballot. The race may become the third in history to go to a runoff, the second LBJ, and the third in 1964, when Connally defeated Sanders. Under the Georgia constitution, a ballot for Washington, which is included in the General Assembly, which is included in the General Assembly.

Is the student "Board of ASMSU" talking to turkey?

To the Editor:

Is the student "Board of ASMSU" talking to turkey?

The ASMSU General Assembly is set up to provide student feedback to the board. The Assembly is made up of appointed representatives from each living unit, with an additional ten student representatives posed to let the board know what students are thinking and feeling. The Assembly provides a sound way to listen to the concerns of different segments of the student population.

Apparentely, though, Student Board isn't too interested in student feedback ideas. At the General Assembly's first and for only meeting, it indicated a desire to meet more than the scheduled two meetings a term provided for under current rules.

The board rejected the idea. One in six seems to strike the board's lack of enthusiasm for student interest in student government.

Apparentely the board fears that if this working group meeting more regularly, it will have a vested interest in accruing more power, and a real hard to cough up when three professors, including Jerry B. Fisher (dean of Arts and Sciences), write the following:

"It is the Board of ASMSU's duty to resolve such important issues of which certain students are aware at this time but which have not been brought to the Board's attention. Board members are expected to be familiar with such concerns before attending a meeting.

"It is the Board of ASMSU's duty to resolve such important issues of which certain students are aware at this time but which have not been brought to the Board's attention. Board members are expected to be familiar with such concerns before attending a meeting."

The board's lack of enthusiasm for student interest in student government is not surprising, for if the board were serious about this issue, it would have initiated a working group meeting more regularly. This working group could be a means of providing a forum for student input into board decisions and policies. If the board were serious about this issue, it would have initiated a working group meeting more regularly. This working group could be a means of providing a forum for student input into board decisions and policies.

In conclusion, the student "Board of ASMSU" is not serious about student interest in student government. They are more concerned with gauging student opinion rather than reflecting it.

Daniel had befriended a rock sngal at MSU rugby and was preparing to meet with him.

I could never understand how the rockin could imagine that Dan would ever agree to meet with him. But, apparently, they did. And the two young men sat down and talked for hours...

I was out of that one that night.

Not the least bit did I understand why Dan was interested in meeting with this young man. I mean, what could the rockin possibly have to talk about with Dan? And why would Dan even want to talk to him? I just didn't get it.

Freshman, varsity gridders play at Indiana
First frosh game since war years

B. NORM SCHRader, State News Sports Writer

With the big spring meet at the University of Michigan now in the history books, the Michigan State University viewing the future with considerable optimism.

A largely-made-up frosh team will hit the field for the first time Saturday night in Big Ten competition.

They will take on the Indiana University grid in Bloomington. The game will start 9:30 Saturday night at Memorial Stadium.

The Spartans will have an 8-9-0 record as they entered the Big Ten competition. Indiana is 7-1-0, having scored some big upset victories.

Said Rutherford, MSU's head man: "This is the best frosh team I've had. We're the .game of the year in this conference, and the Frosh play is the same level as the varsity on the same field.

"They are very experienced and have played a lot of close games. They have the backing of the MSU fans and they will be preferred by the spokesmen.

"The Frosh opened the season with a 15-13 win over Eastern Michigan. They followed up with a 37-7 win over the Nebraska Frosh and a 21-14 win over the Ohio State Frosh.

"The Frosh are very much like the varsity in play. They have some good players in the backfield and on defense. They have a good chance to make an impression in the Big Ten.

"This is the best frosh team we've ever had. They have more experience and have been on the court a lot. They are a lot like the varsity in play and in the way they are put together.

The Sears, Roebuck and Co., which operates the National College Bookstore, has established a new policy on the sale of textbooks to students. The policy allows the bookstore to sell textbooks only if they are accompanied by a purchase order from the college or university. This will help ensure that students get the textbooks they need for their classes.

SHEETS

To the Editor:

I would like to share a recent experience I had while traveling abroad. I was visiting a country where the political system was quite different from my own. It was a fascinating experience, and I hope to learn more about how other countries operate.
