Welcome Home, Spartans

Capital City airport Saturday night with the scenes of the biggest welcome home the Spartans have received during the era of the Big Ten. Former MSU quarterback, Ernie Brands, and his wife, Steve, were met by several hundred friends and admirers as they entered the terminal. The crowd included many of the former Spartans, the MSU cheerleaders, and the MSU band, who provided a festive atmosphere for the return of the two-time MSU national champions.

Spartans romp to 2nd title, await Notre Dame invasion

By ED BRILL
State News Sports Writer

The Michigan State Spartans romped to their second Big Ten title last Saturday, and then coasted in the final game of the season. The Spartans became the first team since Ohio State in 1940 to win a conference championship in their first two years. The season ended with a 42-0 victory over the Northwestern Wildcats.

The Spartans' final game was a 23-point victory over the Wildcats. "It's nice to win a championship," said Spartan coach Duffy Dougherty. "It was a great season, and we're looking forward to next year." The Spartans finished the season with a 9-0-0 record, including two MSU touchdowns on burst-up the stands, and the team secured the conference title.

The victory over the Wildcats was the 14th straight conference win for the Spartans, who finished the season with a 9-0-0 record. The team's defense led the way, holding the Wildcats to just seven points. The Spartans' offense was led by quarterback Ernie Brands, who threw for 232 yards and three touchdowns.

The win was the final game for several Spartan seniors, including Brands, who is graduating. "It was a great season, and I'll always remember this win," said Brands. "I'm excited to see what next year has in store for us." The Spartans will now focus on preparing for the national championship game, which will be played in January.

Cape Kennedy, Fla. — With skillful precision, three University of Michigan men teamed up to become the first American astronauts to orbit the earth for more than 24 hours. The mission, which was a major milestone in the space program, was accomplished by the crew of Gemini 12. The mission was a success, and the astronauts returned safely to Earth.

"We are the men who know," said Cmdr. William R. Pogue, who served as mission commander. "This is our time to shine, and we're ready." The mission was a historic moment in space exploration, and it marked the beginning of a new era in space travel.
ECHOES ON THE RHINE

Out of the bubbling cauldron of West German politics a new chalice has emerged, Kurt Kiesinger.

When Ludwig Erhard was forced out of office following the breakdown of his coalition in the Bundestag, his party, the Christian democrats, were hard pressed to find a successor. Finally they selected Kiesinger. A Gestapo with a Nazi background, he served as an SS officer in the concentration camps.

Kiesinger favors a more independent course for Germany, and has broken with the United States—in short, more national socialism.

While we tend to view this skeptically, we realize that it is the result of a natural tendency.

AMSU traffic appointment hit

To the Editor:

Before the establishment of AMSU, appointments to the University Traffic Control are given to members of the Alumni Association. More direct appointments are given to President W. C. Baughman.

AMSU assumed this responsibility. Each year we select one member-at-large to handle protests and administrative responsibilities. The Board approves the list of recommendations and other candidates for the position of student traffic controller.

Last year and this year on the AMSU Board were members of our student body, and having been given the opportunity, we have been able to participate in the appointments. The AMSU Board has moved from the position of student government to the position of student traffic controller. In order to do this, we have to determine the criteria that we will use to make the selection.

We believe that the criteria should be determined by the Board and then be approved by the student body. We believe that this will give us more control over the appointment process.

Germany is attempting to reinstate military forces and the occupation forces without a resurgence of nationalism is unrealistic.

But while this nationalism should be carefully watched, the same occupation forces which engender it will prevent the rise of a Fourth Reich.

Kiesinger seems new French ties

News-Sentinel, Carmel — Gov. George Deukmejian, who earlier this year told the California Legislative Council that the state would not permit armed personnel to enter foreign territories, said today that he has no objections to the presence of French armed personnel in Orange County.

A spokesman for the governor said that the decision was based on the fact that the French military mission is for the purpose of providing technical assistance to the California National Guard.

Deukmejian also announced that he has instructed the state's military officials to extend all possible support and cooperation to the French forces.

The announcement follows a recent visit by French Defense Minister Alain Poher to California to discuss the deployment of French forces in Orange County.

Poher, who met with Deukmejian and other state officials, said that the French forces would be involved in a joint training exercise with the California National Guard.

The exercise, scheduled for the next few weeks, is designed to strengthen military ties between the two countries and to enhance interoperability between French and American forces.

Deukmejian said that the exercise would also provide an opportunity to assess the effectiveness of the French forces in a real-world environment.

He added that the state would keep a close eye on the exercise to ensure that it is conducted in a professional and safe manner.

The French forces are expected to remain in Orange County for several weeks, during which time they will be engaged in a variety of activities, including live-fire exercises and joint tactical exercises with the California National Guard.

Deukmejian emphasized that the presence of French forces in Orange County is part of a broader effort to strengthen military ties between California and France, and that the state is committed to supporting the French mission in every way possible.

He concluded by saying that the state looks forward to a long and fruitful partnership with France, and that it is confident that the joint exercise will be a success.

Fans start lining up for ND game tickets

Spartan fans started lining up early for tickets to the upcoming Notre Dame football game at Spartan Stadium. About 150 fans were in line by 5:30 a.m., the stadium's opening hour, and that number steadily increased as the morning progressed.

By 7:30 a.m., the line had grown to over 500 fans, with more arriving throughout the day. By game time, the line stretched back several blocks from the stadium.

The fans were enthusiastic and patient, with many of them wearing team gear and displaying their loyalty to the Spartans. Despite the long wait, there was a sense of excitement and anticipation in the air.

The stadium sold out in just over an hour, with all tickets completely sold out by 9 a.m. The fans were able to purchase their tickets online, over the phone, or in person at the box office.

Some fans were willing to wait for hours, with some standing in line for over six hours. One fan said, "I've been a Spartan fan my whole life and I'm not going to miss this game."

The atmosphere at the stadium was electric, with fans cheering and singing the fight song as they entered the stadium. The noise level was high, with fans yelling and cheering throughout the game.

The Spartans went on to win the game against Notre Dame, 38-14, with a strong performance from their quarterback and a solid defense. The stadium was filled with a sense of pride and accomplishment, as the fans celebrated their team's victory.

Overall, the experience was one that fans will not soon forget, with memories of the game and the atmosphere that will last a lifetime.

Varsity displays defense in downing frost cagers

By BOB HORNING

Five swarms of defense—hustling, sullen, sharp and imaginative—combined to hold Minnesota to nine points Saturday, as the Spartans defeated the Gophers, 20-7, for the first time in five years.

Minnesota, which led 7-5 after nine minutes, scored its only points in the third period, when place-kicker Tom Wenzel kicked a 19-yard field goal to make it 7-7.

This was about the only spark offered by the Gophers, who were completely outclassed in a game that was dominated by the Spartans from start to finish.

The announcement made me proud to be a Michigan Stater. That was not expected by the team.

They saw. They heard. They felt. They cruised.

A shoo-in for the bid. They closed the season with a 16-0 blanking of the Badgers, and a 4-4-1 record overall.

The Hoosiers, still with one man of the big Ten, and a 1-7-1 in all games.

Week," as proclaimed by Gov. George Romney.
Doubting Thomas Paine reawakens for ATL students

A real cause curious, ATL students, professor's words a decade, well. Robert, associate professor at Dartmouth College, in an earlier letter addressed to the faculties of the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Maryland, expressed his doubts about the potential of the Thomas Paine movement as a means of achieving social change. He wrote:

"I am not in favor of the abolition of the monarchy, nor of the establishment of a republic. I believe that the best and most practical way of effecting a revolution is through a gradual process of education and reform."

The letter, dated 1776, was later published in a collection of Paine's writings, titled "The Rights of Man." Paine's ideas were influential in the American Revolution and continue to be studied by political scientists and historians to this day.

Buckley praised by Jeffrey Hart

The American Dilemma: A Decade of Modern Conservatism, by William F. Buckley Jr., has been praised by Jeffrey Hart, an editor of The American Spectator. Hart described Buckley as "a masterful chronicler of the political scene," and "an unequaled exponent of the conservative tradition." He also noted that Buckley's "witty and incisive" style made his writing "a delight to read."

Teenage killer of seven just wanted the publicity

Albeke, Ala. — He was "a kid that nobody knew." Until today.

But people in this close-knit Mid-South community were shocked to learn that Robert Daniel Smith, 19, had been accused of killing seven people, including two children, in a murder-spree that left police bewildered.

"I don't know who he was," said Mrs. Mary Daniel, his mother, who said she had not heard from her son since he left the family's home in Blytheville, Ark., several months ago.

She said Smith had been a "good" boy before he left home, but that he had always been "a little quiet." Mrs. Daniel said she had no idea where her son had been for the past several months.

"I don't know what happened to him," she said.

The case has left authorities in the town of Lyon, Ark., where the seven were found dead, trying to piece together the events leading up to the murders.

"We're just trying to figure out what happened," said Lyon Police Chief George Parrish.

He said the investigation was "very complex" and that it could take "weeks or months" to sort out the details.

"It's a terrible situation," Parrish said.

Smith was arrested in connection with the murders after a warrant was issued for his arrest.

He was being held at a county jail on charges of murder and attempted murder.

The investigation is being handled by the Lyon County Sheriff's Office and the FBI.

Family members of the victims have expressed shock and grief over the deaths, saying they were "never expecting this to happen."
