Can you see the path that leads to enlightenment? That path is not visible to the eye, but is only perceived by the heart.

The path is not just a journey, but a journey of the self. It is a journey of self-discovery, self-realization.

The path is not always easy, but it is necessary for the soul.

The path leads to the ultimate goal of understanding the true nature of existence.

Juvenile books: index of culture

Juvenile literature has served as an aid to the culture of the times. Just as in the past, these books serve this same function. It is impossible to state whether a children's book is of lasting value; it is probable that many later books will be no more than footnotes in the story of childhood. The first large segment of literature aimed at youth were "the romance writers," Nye said, who wrote with high ideals in mind. They were interested in the youth of today and tomorrow, and what they were writing would be remembered. Gridiron frenzy hits peak

Elder's Note: Joe Mitch, a State News sports writer, attended Ara Parseghian's news conference at South Bend. Monday, Mitch was relabeled by the Notre Dame coach and banned from speaking to Notre Dame players for asking the question, "How do you plan to counter Michigan State's powerful defense?"

By Joe Mitch

South Bend, Ind.—You could feel the tension and excitement mounting on the campus of the Notre Dame University this week as one strolled under the Irish's famed Golden Dome.

Students milled around the dormitories and classrooms, taking eagerly about the upcoming college football battle between Notre Dame and Michigan State Saturday night. Everyone knew the outcome of the game would decide whether or not the Fighting Irish would be the national champions.

Rumors of a possible Michigan State upset continued to circulate, but Mitchell was confident the Irish would win. "I think everyone in America is talking about the Michigan State game," he said. "But the Irish are the favorites and I think they will win."
Spartan seniors share sentiments

By ART KLEIN
State News Staff Writer

The starting seniors on MSU's football team have become familiar to fans during their careers here. Their names and pictures have appeared in everything from national newspapers to local home journals. Their last game is approaching however, and after this they will have gotten out of this game which has been such a large portion of their lives.

Each of three players - Jerry West, Jeff Richardson and Gene Washington - has been singled out by Coach Duffy Daugherty as the Spartans' most outstanding offensive lineman. Richardson, a defendant lineman who was also the 10 heavyweight wrestling champion in his sophomore year, feels that the most lasting thing he learned was how to get along with different types of people.

"There are so many different kinds of guys and when you are working closely with them it improves you learn all about yourself and all about where they are from," he said.

Washington, who is a Big Ten hurdles champion as well as an All-American, feels that the biggest thing he learned is how to make things happen in football to win close games.

All three of the players feel that the most important lesson was that you have to ignore the score 0-0 and then go into the second half. You have to believe that you have to ignore the score and then get into the second half and play to win.

"The practices seemed easier and more fun and you are doing things in the dumps, but under those conditions, when you win it means more to you," a senior said.

When asked whether the most important lesson was that you have to ignore the score 0-0 and then go into the second half, he said, "That is true, that you have to believe that you can win the game, and then go into the second half and play to win.

"The practices seemed easier and more fun and you are doing things in the dumps, but under those conditions, when you win it means more to you."

A pair of seniors who have teamed up a number of times for touchdowns over the past three years were shown on this scoring play in the Iowa game. Jerry West (77) leads Clint Jones (26) to paydirt.
There was also the "great poll mystery." After last season's combination in Notre Dame history.

"Sickening sentiment." isn't as good as last year's unit, and that MSU quarterback Jimmy Rockne and Jim Seymour were "legends" after four games. They are the home field would give the advantage to the "second-best" team in the country. But that old Notre Dame tradition has captured the man, why they get the edge, year after year.

No sports fan is indifferent to Notre Dame. You either love them or you hate them.

There's no sport in this. The Spartans are The Fighting Irish. They have tradition on their side. Everyone has heard of Knute Rockne and "The Four Horsemen."

They have two S's going for them: size and sentiment. Sentiment must be the reason that many picked the Irish in the country. But that old Notre Dame tradition bit tends to make me sick. But then I'm rooting for Michigan State, or as we are known --or you hate them.

We at Moo-Ll lack class. All we have is five All-Americans and the world on our side. After all, they are The Fighting Irish.
EAGER

Nuns at Center
loyal to Spartans

Eagerly awaiting Saturday’s game between No. 1-ranked Notre Dame and No. 2-ranked MSU are Sisters Ancilla, Marcell, Cormier and Daniel, Sisters of Charity at St. John Student Parish. All have followed football since childhood and enjoy it immensely. Serving as spokesman for the foursome, Sister Daniel said “We all taught school and had to be interested in football or the students wouldn’t respect us.”

“I come from a family of seven brothers; I had to like football,” Sister Cormier added.

Through their work at St. John Catholic Student Center the sisters have met many Spartan stars including Clinton Jones, Gene Washington, Bob Apisa, Dick Kenney and Pat Gallinagh. Many players attend religious services at the center Saturday mornings and can often be found watching the Sunday afternoon professional games at the sisters’ convent across from the student center.

Following Mass one Sunday morning last fall, Sister Daniel told Coach Duffy Daugherty, “Clinton Jones reminds me a lot of Whizzer White (former All-American from Colorado). From that time on Duffy knew I was a football fan,” she said.

The sisters said they receive many curious looks from people when attending games. “People can’t believe nuns would be interested in football,” chuckled Sister Daniel.

Following last year’s victory at South Bend, a smiling Sister Daniel was approached by a priest from Notre Dame. “What are you so happy about?” he asked. “Because we won,” she replied.

Religion is not a factor in determining whom we root for,” said Sister Daniel. They all agreed that the school and town with which they are associated determines their loyalty. "It would not be right to cheer for Notre Dame when we know MSU’s coach and players and live in East Lansing,” said Sister Daniel.

Sister Daniel said Jones told her after last year’s Rose Bowl defeat that the team learned a lesson and will prove to the nation this year that it deserves to be No. 1.

“There may be a little feuding this week because Jim Seymour, Notre Dame’s star end, was a former pupil of our sisters in Berkley, and they will be pulling for Notre Dame,” Sister Daniel said.

“My brother, a priest, is coming from Colorado and will be rooting for Notre Dame. I’m sure we will have a few differences in opinion,” the sisters said.

The sisters describe Jimmy Raye as a “clever fellow.” “You never know whether he is going to run or pass,” they added.

They attend all home games and believe there is no comparison to viewing the game on TV and actually attending. “You just can’t feel the excitement as much when you watch it on TV,” Sister Daniel commented. The women said, too, that they watch the Bump and Duffy Show each Sunday evening.

Because of their extreme interest, they said they ask Duffy many questions about various plays and penalties and are learning more about the game each week. "It will be close, but I’m sure we’ll win,” the sisters concluded.
PLAY AKRON

MSU Booters in tourney

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor
Michigan State’s soccer team, well-rested after an 8-0-1 season, starts the first round of the NCAA preliminaries Saturday. It plays the University of Akron here at 10 a.m.

The Spartans have a 5-0 record against Akron in a series which started in 1962. The scores have been relatively close: 6-4, 3-0, 5-0, 5-2 and 4-1.

In the Oct. 17 contest, the Spartans trailed the Zips 1-0 in the first period on a goal by Jim Fonte from Hassan Ahmadi. Fonte beat second string goalie Joe Baum, and it marked the only time in the season that the Spartans had trailed in a game.

Forty-mile-per-hour winds, and the fact that leading scorer Guy Busch and goalie Kevin O’Connell were out with injuries (O’Connell played the second half) made it uncertain whether the Spartans would get their fifth straight win.

But Tony Keyes scored his ninth, 10th and 11th goals and Tom Kreft added another to sew up a hard fought victory.

"Both teams missed numerous opportunities," Kenney said after the game.

For the preliminaries, the team is in fair shape. Pete Herie’s Achilles tendon, aggravated in St. Louis, is still bothering him and Tom Kreft’s knee has been slow in responding to treatment, Man- ny Roschinski, who broke his leg before the season began, has not seen any action so far, but he worked out for the past two weeks and Kenney expects him to see limited duty.

Neither Herie nor Kreft participated in the practice scrum- mages this week.

"Any team plays better in the playoffs," Kenney said. "This is a one shot elimination, so Akron will feel no hesitation about shooting the works. They have nothing to lose."

There are 16 teams in the preliminary round. After this Saturday there will be eight, and after Nov. 26 there will be four. Those four will be eligible to go to Berkeley, Calif., for the finals.

If the Spartans win Saturday, it is likely they’ll go to the East Coast to play the winner-in that division.

Congratulations!
We’re proud of the team the students, the alumni, the coach, the faculty, everyone connected with MSU! We can only say, “Beat Notre Dame!”

Go Spartans, beat Irish

MSU BOOK STORE

in the Center for International Programs
South Bend 'blues'

By MIKE GROSSMAN

The fearless Greens from Lansing town
Charged out upon the field.
The fans hurray'd and waved the air,
And swore Parseghian 'd yield.

The giant Greens were ready. For
The kickoff they did wait,
Till Kenney's toe-kick—smacked the ball,
And sent it out the gate.

The Fearing Irish looked aghast.
When Kenney kicked they cowered.
Then huddled round, they tried to plan
A play that'd overpower.

A pass attempt on the first down,
The call was whispered then,
But speedy Summers sensed the same,
And slyly stole it when

The ball was thrown -- and sharply too --
It would have reached a Blue,
Had not Jim Summers intervened,
And scored for MSU.

"Chalk up 7 on the boards,"
The cry went through the crowd.
Parseghian tore his hair and cried,
And whimpered right out loud.

Determination drove the Dames
To our forty-five,
Till Webster wrought down seven men
And ate them up alive.

Twenty-three they lost that play,
Still Webster called "Again!"
The ball was snapped, the Dames dispelled
As Bubba lunch'd on them.

The afternoon was quite a day.
For Jimmy Raye 'twas easy
To slip and slam and pass past men,
Cause Jimmy's suipi—griese.

"Substitutions from the bench!"
Parseghian rose and cried,
But there were none, they'd snuck you see
Up in the stands to hide.

As quarters went the Spartans shined,
The Irish showed no flair,
The scoreboard broke. It couldn't hold
No more than nines -- a pair.

At least the press,
The UPI and AP know it's true,
That MSU is No. 1
And Notre Dame but two.
Ken Earley has gridders 'geared'

There is a lot behind the Saturday afternoon Spartan football game, both physically and emotionally.

And there is one man who makes it his job to protect them, Ken Earley, the head equipment manager.

He has been with the Spartan football teams since 1954 and, next to Head Coach Duffy Daugherty, probably knows the current football setup here better than anyone else.

Often, he is approached in private by a player who wants his advice as a doctor. "I have to use psychology on them," Earley says. "I have no medical background, so when they ask for advice, I have to tell them to talk with someone more qualified, but at the same time I try to help them myself."

Earley makes it clear he is the equipment manager and not the doctor.

"My job is to make sure the equipment is just right. After every game, all the equipment is checked over to make sure nothing is broken or cracked. That's how a lot of injuries happen, through broken equipment."

"At the games," he said, "I'm on the sideline and am easily accessible to spare parts. Sometimes a strap on a shoulder pad will break and it has to be replaced before the officials call a time out. I make it a practice to tape any broken equipment during a game that doesn't need a new part right away."

Earley explains each player wears from $130 to $150 worth of game equipment and uniform, with the figure higher for linemen.

He noted one exception here, Dick Kenney, who wears about $100 worth. Kenney wears soccer shoes (when he wears them), hockey shoulder pads, and no thigh pads or face mask.

Each player has two helmets, one for practice and the other for the game, and eight jerseys.

On the current fiscal inventory, the varsity has $55,000 worth of gear. Earley said he has a $75,000 yearly budget for equipment.

He is assisted by four students and Martin Daly, who handles the freshman gear.

Earley speaks highly of the players this year, calling them "as nice a group of guys as a guy could ask for."

"At Notre Dame last year, the players were mad when they returned to the locker room before the game and the South Bend crowd was yelling they were No. 1.

"The team came back out and showed who was No. 1 and took some of the cockiness out of the crowd."

"They respect Notre Dame."

THE WILLSTAFF INC.
Sometimes the hero just doesn't get the girl.

That was the way things stood in 1945, when Illinois met Northwestern in their traditional end-of-the-season game.

Prior to the game, the students of both student newspapers had conceived "Sweet Sioux," a wooden Indian. The Illini won the contest, 13-7, but they never got the girl. The following September, "Sioux" was stolen from her showcase home at Evanston.

The poor girl never turned up, and so the "Sweet Sioux" Tomahawk, named in her honor and, perhaps, memory, was inaugurated in 1946, and has been the symbol of victory in the series since.

Saturday, there's nothing that Illinois and Northwestern would rather do than bury the tomahawk in each other's heads. The Illini have moved into third place in the conference and have a 4-2 record. Their season's mark is 6-8, and Pete Elliott's boys would like, after a so-so start, to break even this year.

Northwestern's chances aren't quite as pleasant. The Wildcats are deadlocked in seventh place with Wisconsin and Indiana at 1-4-1, and are 2-4-1 on the season.

The Illinois Northwestern set-to is but one of many trophy games this weekend.

Michigan State had jump on the rest of the conference, earning the right to wear the Big Ten crown another year after completing its 10-season mark with a 5-5-1 win over Illinois. The Spartans will be back for more Saturday, this time the mythical national championship and the Mackey Trophy, presented by the Michigan State and Northwestern Alumni Clubs of Detroit.

Purdue, although 6-6 is not so official, was much in the races to the Rose Bowl last weekend by beating Minnesota, 36-0, for the second straight year.

If the Boilermakers are to go to the national finals this year, what better way for them than the Old Campbells' Bucket that won't tip up over ruby wine when they win over Illinois in Columbus? Purdue is in second place in the conference, 3-1 and 2-1. The Boilermakers are backed by the seventh place team, Iowa, with 3-8-1 and Northwestern, at 1-4-1. Penn State is 2-5-1 on the year.

If quarterbacks Bob Griese and Frank Stavroff decide to take the air, they may have to get clearance from the local authorities.

Stavroff passed for 380 yards last weekend, for a new Big Ten record. The old mark was 384, set by Iowa's Gary Snook in 1954 against Purdue.

Minnesota and Wisconsin lock horns in their traditional finale game, this time at Madison.

Minnesota lost its chance, however faint, at the Rose Bowl last week with its loss to Purdue. The Gophers' Big Ten record is 5-2-1, 4-4-1 in all games. Wisconsin is 5-2-1 on the year.

Ohio State and Michigan, tied in fifth place at 3-2-1, will be battling for advancement at Columbus. The Wolverines are 5-4-1 on the season, while the Buckeyes are 4-4-1 in all games.
NEEDS GROWTH

Spartan Stadium squeeze at limit

Squeeze plays of a football variety are becoming common at Spartan Stadium. When teams like Michigan or Notre Dame come to town, many fans find their seats trimmed to 16 inches.

Since that's the limit of the capacity stretching gimmicks, thoughts are starting to turn to another expansion of the Spartans' home.

With the University's ever-increasing enrollment, Spartan Stadium's 76,000 seating capacity will be needing comparable increases.

Additions are nothing new to the stadium. The first structure was erected in 1922, seating 14,000. In 1935, the capacity was brought up to 26,000 and was officially named Macklin Field.

Spartan Stadium came into its own in 1948, when another addition brought the seating to 51,000. More seats were built in 1956 (9,000) and 1957, the latter date heralding the upper decks and enlarged press facilities.

When you look at the figures involved, that eight-dollar fee seems a pittance. The '56 addition ran $43 per seat. The next building project hiked the going rate to $130 per seat; the jump due in some part to the inclusion of the press box.

It's estimated that if more seating capacity were provided, the cost would run $100 a seat.

Biggie Munn, MSU Director of Athletics, has just such a plan in mind.

"We have a thought in mind of taking the second deck and bringing it around the south end," Munn said. "This would increase the seating capacity to a little over 88,000."

If the plans were to go into effect, 10 tennis courts would have to be removed, according to Munn. He indicated that he would like to move them to the Fee-Akers area, where they could be equipped with lights.

The only big problem is money. "Money would have to come from the Athletic Dept.," he noted. "And we don't have the funds to do it. We'd have to borrow most of it."

"If the steel and other materials could be secured this winter," Munn remarked, "it could be ready by next fall."

"Increased enrollment is but part of the problem," Munn and the general public figure heavily into the plans for Spartan's own未来的game.

Student football ticket card sales this year figured to 29,000. There were 26,000 season ticket books sold. Notre Dame received 10,000 tickets for the game, leaving 11,000 for alumni and general sale.

Presently, there are a total of 91,727 alumni all over the country and world. Of this figure, 58,289 are in Michigan.

Munn said that with the schedules that have been set up for future seasons, the demand will be increasingly great, and looks to expedient action."

"The game" (continued from page 3) it was widened with a knee injury the last two weeks, should be a ready and in top shape for the game.

Quarterback Jimmy Raye, who is just one shy of the MSU season touchdown mark with 10, will be throwing to receivers Gene Washington and Al Brenner.

It could be an offensive explosion. It could be a defensive tug of war. But whatever it is, it promises to be great.
Special cheers for rally tonight

"Stew the Irish!" . . . "Tame the Dames!" . . . "Make Irish Stew," these and other special Irish chants will be introduced at tonight's pep rally on Donald Field. Michigan State's 12 cheerleaders will lead the crowd in cheers for Saturday's football game with No. 1-ranked Notre Dame.

"School spirit is down from last year," said Gary Hampel, Mayville senior and squad captain. "The students seem to cheer only when the team is moving or when they are in a tough situation."

Hampel and other squad members attribute the drop in school spirit to the fact that they won't be able to play in next year's Rose Bowl. Spartan cheerleaders expect the spirit at Saturday's game to be the best this year.

"A victory will give us a perfect season record, and will no doubt return our No. 1 rating," said Bill Kisto, St. Joseph junior.

Highlights of tonight's pep assembly, sponsored by Union Board, will be a skit performed by the cheerleaders to the tune of the song "Leader of the Pack," and a song about the "Irish and Notre Dame."

Students are encouraged to take anything appropriate to tonight's rally and Saturday's game, said Terry Mitter, Taylor junior. "Signs, pom poms, and posters will be used to display our spirit and to let the team know we are behind them all the way."

Cheerleaders will be in all sections of campus recruiting enthusiastic fans to the rally, according to Mitter. "This will be the seniors' last game," Hampel said.
