Where have all the billions gone?

Between now and June 30, the Johnson administration will apologetically spend 89.7 billion dollars more than it had originally planned.

The area in which the government's judgment proves to be 10 billion off is certainly the Viet Nam war.

Only a suspicious mind might think the President and Congress were able to ratify the cost of Viet Nam originally to keep down the size of the budget—for the public's benefit.

So suspect, if you will, that we can all look forward to indulging in some left-wing[{w:2}] anti-war demonstrations in all the major cities of the world. At least we won't have to worry about the Administration's commitment to Viet Nam.

Icers’ home opener with U-M tonight

By GAYL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

Like the Spartans and Michigan are to do, the MSU and Wolverines will exchange blows and words, and will have nearly the same purpose to put forth the greatest showing that they can in their exchanges.

MSU spent the hour Monday with a game against the Wolverines tonight at 7:30 at the Ice Arena with a game against the University of Michigan hockey teams.

The Spartans have used to do, the MSU hockey teams have been dominant in the area, but the Wolverines have been the up-and-down team in the region. The Spartans have been dominant in the area as well.

The Spartans have won the last four meetings with the Wolverines, including a 7-0 shutout on Saturday night at the Ice Arena. This year’s meeting will be an important one as the teams battle for first place in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

In Hatfield style, the Spartans will bring their speed and pressure to bear against the Wolverines, who will rely on their defense and goaltender to keep the Spartans at bay. The game will be a tough one, but the Spartans are confident of victory.

TEST FOR DEFENSE

Cage competition stiffens, Wichita State Saturday

Wichita State, 20th in the AP poll, will face a tough test Saturday when they travel to San Antonio to play the University of Texas.

The Shockers are coming off a win over Creighton last night, but they will be facing a team that is ranked higher in the AP poll. The game will be a good test for the Shockers as they look to improve their overall record.

Bennington described Wichita as a small, fast team that runs and presses all the time. “They press all over the floor and sometimes a small, fast team that runs and presses all the time. “They press all over the floor and sometimes you have to shoot in a hurry or they’re right back at you. They give up a basket to keep the other from scoring.”

Students just aren't church-goers; resent imposition of ethical codes

By RICHARD PHILIPS
State News Staff writer

In a study indicating that most young people take their church once a week, religion is to the young what it is to the old: a source of comfort and reassurance, a source of spiritual sustenance. But, for the young, religion is something more. It is a source of identity, a source of meaning, a source of purpose.

In the study, conducted by the Department of Sociology at Michigan State University, the researchers found that most young people are more likely to attend church on a regular basis if they have a strong moral code, a strong sense of community, and a strong sense of belonging. The study also found that young people are more likely to attend church if they have friends who attend church, and if they have family members who attend church.

Spruce up Christmas tree with different greens

Don't just cozy up the halls with the same old pine. Arguably the most popular evergreen is the Christmas tree, and the word "spruce" is often used to refer to it. However, there are other options available to add some variety to your holiday decor.

One alternative is to use a fir tree, which can provide a similar look without the same risk of fire hazards associated with pine. Firs tend to have shorter needles that hold up well to being outdoors, making them a good choice if you're looking for a tree that will last throughout the holiday season.

Another option is to use an artificial tree. Whether it's a pre-lit tree or one that requires strings of lights, an artificial tree can be a practical choice for those who don't want to deal with the maintenance of a real tree. Artificial trees are also available in a variety of styles and sizes, allowing you to customize your Christmas tree to fit your decor.

No matter which type of tree you choose, remember to take proper safety precautions. Always keep a close eye on the tree, and make sure it's not too dry or brittle, as this can increase the risk of fire. Additionally, be sure to use fire-resistant materials like greenery and decorations to create a safer holiday environment.

Committee to revise fines

Next term the student library committee will be revising a portion of the current library fine regulation and proposing implementation of the "U-M method" for fines. The committee will be working on a revision of the fine regulations, which will be presented to the ASMSU board of directors for approval.

The original committee which worked on an increase of fines from 50 cents a day per book to $1 if a book was not returned by the deadline will revisit the issue and make necessary adjustments. The committee will also be reviewing the "U-M method," which will provide students with an alternative to paying fines by using library services.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Green, professor of educational psychology, and John N. Gage, associate professor of political science, participated in a panel discussion on "Negro Power" November 11 in the auditorium of National University. Following is a summary of the debate by Richard Young and John Moore.

Robert Green: Robert L. Green, professor of educational psychology, was introduced as the keynote speaker for the "Negro Power" panel discussion. Green's remarks focused on the importance of education and the role of the federal government in promoting civil rights. He argued that the federal government has a responsibility to ensure equal opportunities for all Americans, regardless of race, and that education is a critical component of achieving this goal. Green emphasized the need for federal funding for education programs that can help break down barriers to education and provide opportunities for those who traditionally have been denied access. He concluded his remarks by stating that the federal government has a moral and legal obligation to ensure that all Americans have equal access to quality education.

John N. Gage: John N. Gage, associate professor of political science, presented a counterargument to Green's views. Gage argued that the federal government's role in education should be limited and that the primary responsibility for education should lie with the states and local communities. He contended that the federal government's efforts to mandate school desegregation in the past have led to negative consequences, including increased violence and the loss of educational opportunities for children. Gage emphasized the need for a more balanced approach to education policy that recognizes the importance of local control and the need for flexibility in addressing educational challenges.

After graduation, what?
Will you begin your career as an engineer or scientist or return to school for an advanced degree?

You can do both at NOL

If you are an engineer in the top third of your class or a scientist in the top quarter of your class at MSU, you have the opportunity to begin your career in one of the world's great laboratories and, at the same time, go ahead with your plans for graduate study.

In addition to competitive salaries, NOL offers you a graduate study program that is one of the best in the world. You will work with men in the top third of their classes as you contribute to the solution of problems in the world's scientific and technical fields.

NOL is a laboratory in the true meaning of the word: one of the largest and best-equipped laboratories in the world. It is a laboratory open to all; NOL accepts applications from individuals in any field of study and from any country.

The next was not made public, and this is one of the problems associated with the drafting process of the treaty.

The board is not equipped in many cases to make an accurate and fair determination of the merits of a case.

However, too often we lose ourselves in the mechanical and commercial aspects of our duties and fail to remember, or at least convey, our real attitude toward you. We are proud of Michigan State and its people. We like you for what and who you are and not just for your patronage.

We can think of no better time than the Christmas season to make our feeling known, and to wish you well.

Have a happy holiday.
