Hints from North Vietnam may make talks possible

by WILLIAM R. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Guerrilla Viet-Nam has not been forthcoming about its outlook for any of its overtures to the United Nations. The last one was to be in Geneva, possibly adding another on some later date, such as next month, according to United Nations sources. State Department sources have pointed out this has not been a very encouraging approach for Geneva. The Viet-Nam communists could be considered a sort of "wildcat" approach for the moment.

There is no official position from the United Nations on the peace talks. The talks are to be continued on Geneva with the hope of a settlement being reached.

Ruby Charges Neglect

Earl Ruby, brother of the late Jack Ruby, told newsmen that his brother was neglected by Dallas authorities before his death. He said that published speculation that Ruby's slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald was part of the plot to assassinate the President is "absurd." The Associated Students of Michigan State University, on the other hand, asked for a "thorough investigation" into the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald and the President's assassination.

There Are Now '2' East Lansing Stores!

There are now two Marshall Music Co. stores in East Lansing. The original Marshall Music Co., at 121 S. Washington, announced that it has moved to 307 E. Grand River. The two stores sell the same line of products and in the same way, but the new Marshall Music Co. at 307 E. Grand River, will be larger in size and layout.

NEW YORK (AP) -- Lewellyn E. Thompson, the new U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, left for the past today, visiting a pledge to seek improved relations between the two superpowers.

Before departing in the United States, Thompson gave an interview in which he denied that the United States was not interested in the Soviet Union. He said that the United States was interested in the Soviet Union but that the United States was not interested in the Soviet Union.

In addition, Thompson said, "We do not want to accept any situation that would lead to a Communist victory in Vietnam."

An urgent need, I believe, for a serious discussion between campus and corporation. I am genuinely concerned about recent studies which indicate that an alarming percentage of college students have no interest in pursuing careers in business. Many of these students show little respect for business and have a condescending attitude towards those who do choose it as a career.

Some say business leaves them cold. Lacks action. That it's boring, unimaginative, stuffy and self-seeking. Others say they don't want to be lost in the corporate crowd and that there is little chance of early recognition for a young man in business. Some question whether business offers the opportunity for the personal satisfaction that comes from humanitarian service. Their answer: Join the Peace Corps or VISTA; teach; or enter a service profession.

If you are motivated toward teaching, medicine, government or law, I say go at it eagerly. They are valuable careers for which we in business have great respect and admiration. Many of our most able business leaders have professional backgrounds and our everyday operations bring us into close contact with men outside of industry.

However, don't sell business short. If you shrug off a business career because you think it offers no excitement, no challenge, no chance for recognition or to make a meaningful contribution to society... I think you're wrong.

A tremendous opportunity for human and social betterment may well slip away if brighter students turn their backs on business for reasons not necessarily valid. The coming years promise fantastic new developments in the sciences, electronics, transportation or just about any field you can name. However, realization of these great potentials requires fresh thinking, young, vigorous minds able to channel ideas creatively and productively, able to make decisions, able to generate action, the very thing you crave.

This is why I'm concerned. If I read some of you right, we're in trouble. Perhaps certain college students are misinformed and should be set straight. Or maybe we in business had best undertake a basic reappraisal of our way of doing things. If changes are in order, I'd like to find out.

Frankly, we don't understand each other well enough... we don't communicate enough. And, therefore, I propose we set a specific course to try to resolve this.

Let's discuss business openly, two-way, pro and con, on the pages of your campus newspaper. You express the views of those around you. I'll respond. Tell me what you think is wrong with business, what might be changed. Why you feel there are more exciting opportunities elsewhere. It's up to you.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Galvin

In August, I wrote this letter to Edward Kokalas, Michigan State student. It is an invitation to a dialogue about business—a dialogue which has been appearing regularly in this newspaper for the past few months. Mr. Kokalas' response was provocative and to the point. I hope I've answered some of the questions he raised. Shortly after the dialogues started, I began to get letters from other students and faculty members expressing interest in the series and asking why not open the dialogues to others—get the views of everyone on campus. Students, teachers, and administrators. That's exactly what I'd like to do. And while I obviously can't promise that every letter will appear in print, I can assure you that I will read each and respond.

Whatever your major study, whatever your ideas—I'd like to hear from you. You may want to agree or disagree with some of the past dialogues or bring up new issues that haven't been explored. You may just want to sound off about business. It's up to you.

MANSFIELD PREDICTS

Domestic costs cut for war hike

WASHINGTON UP! — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted Wednesday that President Johnson will carry out his announced intention of trimming back domestic expenditures by $3.5 billion in the current fiscal year ending next June. He said Congress should help.

"We should take the high road, base our right to the necessities of the times and put those spending cuts on offer," he said.

He said he expects Johnson to propose $10 billion in immediate supplementary appropriations to meet Vietnam war costs. Mansfield is giving "earnest consideration" to the request in his Senate speeches.

"I don't think there will be any sweeping new proposals in any sweeping new programs," Mansfield, who conferred with Johnson in an interview, said in an interview. "I don't think there will be any sweeping new proposals in any sweeping new programs."

Congress will be asked to pass legislation for the years 1966 and 1967, the latter including the trimming back of unexpended funds for six years, Mansfield said. "We should not be carrying out efforts that are not here justified because the law has not been passed."

"We should carry the裁 edges of the programs, which have already been passed, with the degree of responsibility that is shown in the way we have passed most legislation." said in an interview. "We should carry the edges of the programs, which have already been passed, with the degree of responsibility that is shown in the way we have passed most legislation."
The retirements of several recent Michigan State University faculty members were approved Thursday (Dec. 15) by MSU’s Board of Trustees. Among the list of retirees is Dr. William H. Combs, dean of University Services and a member of the faculty since 1931. He will retire on July 1, 1968.

Dr. Combs, a specialist on affairs of the Far East, Dr. Fee spent six years as head of the history department of the University. The following year as director of the School of Business, he became professor of history in 1950. He was also administrative assistant to Dr. Walter R. Fee, professor of political science and from 1944 to 1947, assistant professor of history and chairman of the history department. He also served from 1957 until this year as director of the School of Business.

Benington's Yule: 'bah, humbug!'

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

John Benington muses about his team's performance in the season and its potential future.

"We're not a great shooting team. For the most part, we're in the first round. MSU led at 66, on Dec. 21, the Spartans err'd the Quaker City Tournament at Philadelphia on Dec. 26.

The fourth game with Wichita State and 46 for Michigan. The Spartans defeated the State University of Iowa 72-70, in the first round. MSU led at 72-70, with nine seconds remaining in the second half.

After a win over Tulane, 76-65, on Jan. 12, the Spartans defeated the Wichita State University 72-70, in the final game.

Lafayette's rebounding. Rebounder-in-chief Matt Radman is also 8-0.

The three-time Big Ten champion of four games and then we had this Upset win highlights wrestlers' break."

Kobs to retire after 39-year stay

by NORM SAARI

Benton Harbor — John Kobs, a pioneer in MHSAA coaching, will retire July 1. He will step down as baseball coach of Central Michigan University and as an assistant at Michigan State University, after a 39-year career in coaching on the high school, college and professional levels.

Kobs has been on the job for 39 years, six months and 3 days. He has taken 574 games and winning 377 for a winning percentage of 66 percent. He has been on the coaching staff for 32 years. He has a successor in the program.

"I only had three assistants," he said. "His successor, Mr. Landrith, will do an outstanding job. He has been an extremely loyal friend," Munn added. "He has not stopped now that he has retired. He has been an extremely loyal friend," Munn added. "He has not stopped now that he has retired.

January's meeting of campus events includes a wide variety of entertainment, ranging from musical concerts to drama and travel films. A new exhibit opens in Kamlon-Wilson on Jan. 12, and runs through Jan. 29. Two films, "The Cinema and The Print," will be shown on campus. The films display the differences in methods of transmitting messages. The ten performances will be offered by the Michigan State Theater, which is located in downtown East Lansing. The performance will be held every Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m. The admission charge is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. The film series offers a chance to escape from the daily grind and enjoy some of the finest entertainment available. An offering of the International Film Series will present "The Last Tango," a film about love and relationships in the world of today. The film will be shown on Jan. 12, and runs through Jan. 29. The admission charge is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students.
