State News Staff Writer

Calling for direct action against the draft system, several Democratic students at Michigan State University called for a demonstration to protest the draft system.

"What is occurring in other states is occurring here," said one student. "We need to do something about it here as well." The students planned to hold a rally to draw attention to the issue and encourage others to join in the protest.

"We need to show the world that we are not content with the current system," said another student. "Our actions will be a demonstration of our commitment to peace and non-violence." The students hoped to draw support from others and create awareness about the draft system. If you would like to learn more, please consult the back page.

Fraternity house class is worthy experiment

MSU will experiment with an expansion of its living-learning concepts this spring by offering two classes off campus in Fraternity house. The fraternities seem to favor the project, and, no doubt, the more natural atmosphere of the house will be more suited to seminar-type sections and discussion classes.

Such classes in fraternity would add to the Greek system's relevance to education. One way Greeks can find a more academically-oriented role in the educational system is by joining the educational team. Larry Owen, Inter-Fraternity Council president, says the basic aim of the project is to provide closer contact with the faculty in an informal environment.

"Hopefully there will be no time elements involving a mud-rudy, no night out of class," he said. "The classes will be over when the fraternity members are through taking courses." Courses taught in fraternity also should be offered on campus for students at other times so that all students who do not want to go off campus do not have to.

Let students lead grade campaign

To the Editor:

The sorority of the better department at the University of Michigan has announced that this year's system of grade reporting for the members of this organization will involve both the sorority and the student body. The system has been developed by the sorority in consultation with the University administration and is designed to improve educational standards and encourage academic achievement.

The sorority has decided to introduce a system of grade reporting in which grades will be reported on a cumulative basis. This system is expected to result in a more thorough evaluation of the student body and to encourage a higher level of achievement.

Mc Cormick Place symbol of modern society?

As the city of Chicago broke early Monday morning the unbelievable news spread almost as rapidly as the first hot air at McCormick Place, clearing up the symbol of the new Chicago, lay in ashes.

An early morning blaze had consumed the concrete and steel structure that stood on the shores of Lake Michigan. It was ugly, the buildings want to rebuild McCormick Place as yet another demonstration of modern American architecture. "More durable than the Roman Coliseum," one newspaper article put it. Chicagoans loved their modern-day coliseum. It seemed to be the real reflection of all the Shirley accomplishments of our civilization. It was enormous, it was expensive, it was built to endure.

Now it's strapped bare and cold and dead on the shores of Lake Michigan. It is ugly, but I want to see Chicago want to rebuild McCormick Place as yet another demonstration of modern American architecture. "More durable than the Roman Coliseum," one newspaper article put it. Chicagoans loved their modern-day coliseum. It seemed to be the real reflection of all the Shirley accomplishments of our civilization. It was enormous, it was expensive, it was built to endure.

This is the unbelievable news that spread almost as rapidly as the first hot air at McCormick Place, laying in ashes. The firemen all collapsed. The firemen couldn't do anything.

When the wall was first erected the average cost of a cent of $35 million, many hailed it as a lasting achievement of modern American architecture. "More durable than the Roman Coliseum," one newspaper article put it. Chicagoans loved their modern-day coliseum. It seemed to be the real reflection of all the Shirley accomplishments of our civilization. It was enormous, it was expensive, it was built to endure.

Rebels a minority, survey reveals

By CHRIS O'CONNOR
State News Staff Writer

Are MSU students seething with dissatisfaction over the growth of student protest? A recent survey conducted last term by students in Sociology 492 says no, reports are the only issues that more than 10 per cent of the students are interested in.

Students were found to be much more concerned with other issues such as criminal justice, foreign policy, and the war, than with the student protest movement.

Cubist art, expert here

Robert Rosenblum, professor of Art History at Michigan State University, will speak on "Cubist Art" at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 19, in the Kress Art Center Gallery in the Student Center.

The lecture will deal with the social and political problems of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, and with the art of Pablo Picasso and Georges Braque, two of the movement's founders.

GOVERNOR'S BUREAU OF CAMPAIGN COORDINATION presents

"HALF A SIXPENCE"

By ROB ZECSCHIN
State News Reviewer

The musical is not as exciting as the cast of "Half A Sixpence," but it is more enjoyable overall. The story follows a young man who, through hard work and determination, is able to overcome the odds and achieve his dreams.

The songs, performed by a talented cast, are catchy and memorable, and the cast's performances are strong. The set design is simple but effective, and the costumes are well-crafted.

Overall, "Half A Sixpence" is a delightful musical that is sure to please audiences of all ages.

Visiting policies to be discussed

Funds voted for lectures

The Student government at Michigan State University's Student Center has voted to give $5,000 to the student movement. The funds will be used to help finance a march to Washington, D.C., which is to be held on April 21.

The vote was taken at a meeting of the Student government last week. The funds were requested by the Student Center's student council, which represents all of the university's student groups.

The march will be led by the Student Center's student council, which represents all of the university's student groups. The council requested the funds to help finance the transportation and accommodations for the marchers.

The Student center's student council is made up of representatives from all of the university's student groups, including the student government, the student body, and the student center. The council is responsible for administering the funds voted for lectures.

Ski Club becomes biggest on campus

The MSU Ski Club, started in 1948, is now the largest club on campus with approximately 350 members. Any student, faculty member or alumnus of MSU is eligible for membership. The cost per year to belong to the club is $3. Membership can be obtained at any club meeting.

The purpose of the ski club is to promote, develop, and teach skiing. It provides the opportunity for skiers to belong to a social group while enjoying skiing.

Also, the club promotes and supports the MSU ski team with about $150 a year.

This year the ski club is sponsoring a day trip to Caberfae, three weekend trips to Boyne, and a trip to Aspen during spring vacation.

SKIING CASUALTIES FALL

Olin treats ankles, legs; those are the breaks

The weekly procession of students injured while skiing began last weekend as usual at Olin Health Center, according to Dr. James S. Feurig.

An average of about six students each weekend are victims of significant injuries incurred on the slopes in northern Michigan.

The most common injuries treated at Olin are fractures of the lower leg and ankle and knee strains.

Twice as many men as women are injured, Dr. Feurig said. He attributes this to the fact that men will flounder and tense up in an effort to get out of trouble when skiing. When a girl sees trouble ahead, she is content to get off her skis and fall, leaving her muscles more relaxed.

Surprisingly, the number of injuries has declined in the last few years.

Several years ago, when there was an enrollment of about 14,000, there was an average of four or five injuries each week. Now, with an enrollment of 35,000, the average has only increased by one or two, Dr. Feurig said.

This can be attributed to better instruction, better equipment and an overall improvement in skiing methods, he said.

"I can remember when a person with no experience rented a pair of skis and went north to tackle the advanced slopes. If a tree got in his way, that was too bad," Dr. Feurig said.

Modern skis and bindings have greatly decreased the number of injuries. The old wooden skis tended to break and the old-fashioned leather binding would not allow the skier to get off his skis if he got in trouble.

Modern clothing allows freedom of movement while keeping the skier warm. It used to be necessary to wear so many clothes that the skier's agility was restricted.

Dr. Feurig also said that the skier of today is in better shape than in past years because of the importance placed on strengthening exercises designed for skiers.

Omnipresent. The always-lurking, usually-feared ski patrol is a welcome sight to skiers in trouble.

I.M. ski permits reduce rates at Brighton

In the last eight days, over 100 members of the University community have taken advantage of the intramural ski permits available for the Mt. Brighton Ski Area, according to Carol Harding, director of women's intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

A total of 275 permits have been given out in this second year of the program, she added.

The permits allow students, faculty and staff to ski at reduced rates non–5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Rates are $1 for an all area pass ticket and $1.50 for all equipment. This is a savings of $2.50 off the regular price.

Most people don't realize that Brighton has a permanent snow base, Miss Harding said. With a snow making capacity 30 percent greater than last year, the resort can make 8-1/2 inches of snow each day for 1-1/2 runs.

Quarter-million skiers to use 83 state spots

Michigan's winter vacation season is now in full swing with a record number of resorts across the state expected to accommodate by April 250,000 skiers who will spend about $75 million, according to the Michigan Tourism Council.

Eighty-three centers, the most in any state, dot the Michigan winter sports map with two new areas; Barn Mountain in Boyne City and Paradise Valley Ski Park off M-47, south of Saginaw.

Michigan State skiers returning to their favorite hills will find major improvements since they stored their skis for the summer. Many resorts have expanded their slopes, built lodges, added snowmaking and grooming equipment and expanded dining facilities and cocktail lounges.

Six ski areas have installed new lift and tow facilities while two resorts are appealing to "fly-in" skiers with the addition of air landing strips. Thirty-seven resorts this year feature night skiing.

For the after-ski hours two resorts have added Finnish sauna baths, three have installed heated swimming pools and two others have added ice skating rinks.

Although Michigan experienced below-average conditions for snowfall than any other point east of the Rockies, they base their optimism on the growing trend toward "northern" winter vacations and the fact that, except for a few areas in New England, the Michigan snow belt consistently records more snowfall than any other point east of the Rockies.

Skiers abound

The MSU Ski Club, as indicated by this picture of last week's meeting, is now the largest club on campus. During the last few years it has also been the fastest growing club.

MSU Ski Club plans trips

MSU Ski Club trips are open to all paid members of the club. This year a one-day trip, three weekend trips and a trip during spring vacation are planned.

The day trip is set for this Saturday to Caberfae in Cadillac. Approximately 40 students are expected to participate. The club will arrange rides for people who need transportation.

The first weekend trip to Boyne Falls is scheduled for Jan. 29. The group plans to stay at Alpine Acres. On Jan. 28 the club will ski at Sugar Lake Mountain at Traverse City where it will help the MSU ski team host the Michigan Inter-collegiate Ski awards. On Jan. 29 the club members will ski at Boyne Falls.

The club will be staying at Silver Birch at Boyne Falls the weekend of Feb. 11 for its second trip. A third trip to Boyne Falls is being planned for the weekend of Feb. 25 or Mar. 4 with the members staying at the North Arms Resort.

An average ski weekend consists of arriving at the ski resort about 9 p.m. Friday. A party is held Friday night. Members spend all day Saturday on the slopes and another party that night. Sunday is spent skiing and arriving back on campus about 9:30 p.m. Accommodations usually have six to eight people in a cabin.

The final trip of the season is to Aspen, Colo. during spring vacation. Suzy Drulard, Traverse City sophomore, is in charge of the trip. Tentative plans are for the group to leave Lansing March 19 and return March 29. Approximately 100 students are expected to go on the trip.

Transportation will probably be by chartered buses and a train. The cost of transportation is estimated at $65.

While at Aspen the club members will stay in dorms. Food will probably be left to the individual. Members will probably be able to ski at Buttermilk, Aspen or the Highlands.

For the estimated eight days of skiing and three days of traveling, the total cost has been estimated at $165. The club is asking for a $10 deposit on the trip so it can make plans.

The Ski Club and MSU are not responsible for any ski injuries sustained during a trip, but in recent years there have been no serious injuries.

Tips help beginners plan first ski trips

With winter here, skiers will be heading for the slopes on weekends, and whenever they find the opportunity.

For the intermediate and beginning skier here are some helpful tips to assure you an enjoyable trip.

If renting equipment, go early to reserve it (about Wednesday if renting for the weekend). Prices are $4-$6 per day or $9 a weekend.

Check to be sure you get properly fitting boots. The heel should fit snugly, but the toes should not be cramped.

On the slopes one easily forgets that tingling feeling which turns out to be frozen toes.

Spray your bindings with silicone to prevent rusting. This also makes bindings easier to adjust.

Don't use good ski gloves on the slopes. If you own your own equipment, Beginners' ski packages, which include skis, release bindings, boots and poles, range from $65-$85.

When shopping for equipment the novice should take along someone who knows skiing and equipment.

ASSURES FUN

Machine snow
smooths slopes

Michigan skiers are assured more days on the slopes this winter than ever before, even if the snowfall should be below normal.

The new and improved snow-making equipment at nearly half of the state's ski areas is the reason.

Acclaimed to be better than nature's own, artificial snow is gaining favor with Michigan skiers. It accounts almost one out of every 10 skiers in the United States, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Without snow machines, most of us would be skiing primarily in the Upper Peninsula instead of in the more populous regions to the south.

Installing snow-making machines is a costly operation. A $500 investment is necessary for a small slope, while up to $125,000 would be necessary for a large ski area. But the results are worth the investment.

Ski enthusiasts will spend $25 million this season in Michigan, according to the Michigan Tourist Council. Lodges, motels, restaurants, specialty clothing stores and other related businesses anticipate even more spending with the new snow and better facilities.

Michigan skiers will enjoy 19 more slopes and nine more lifts, from T-bars to triple chair-lifts, for the greatest season ever.

At least two resorts have added sauna (health) baths and two others have installed heated swimming pools. Thirty-seven areas offer night skiing, two more than last year.

Expansion of ski areas has continued in Michigan despite the fact that six recreation centers have not reopened. The major reason cited by the Michigan Tourist Council for the closing of the six resorts is that they had no snow-making equipment to compensate for last winter's warm weather.

Most ski operators look forward to aiding nature by installing snow-making machines and by adding better facilities so that Michigan skiers are guaranteed an uninterrupted Thanksgiving-to-Easter season on the slopes.
Knickers are in

Ski styles feature solid colors, fur hats

Winter term is here and with it comes snow, skiing and ski weekends, and here is what is new in skiing for all ski enthusiasts, from beginners to most advanced.

Solid colors are in this year; the prints are fading in popularity.

Fur hats are also very fashionable this season.

Navy blue in the color ski shops advise this year, with matching stretch pants and parkas, by manufacturers such as Aspen, White Stag and Edelweiss.

Navy blue is the color ski shops advise this year, with matching stretch pants and parkas, by manufacturers such as Aspen, White Stag and Edelweiss.

Good parkas and pants start at $30.

Knickers are very much in this year, starting at $17, with socks around $7.

Ladies' stretch pants are new being made with Lycra. They come in one size and are priced at $30.

Imperial hand-knit sweaters are again popular in solid colors for the men and solid colors with piping or moderate floral patterns for the women, starting at $30.

Black remains the traditional color in after ski boots with the new addition of real fur boots for the ladies, priced at $45.

Ski shops report ski gloves seem more popular than mittens this year.

The Scott Co. has developed new gloves, tested to 40 degrees below zero, and priced at $30.

Ski-mate brings fun indoors

A new skiing sensation appeared at the Michigan International Ski and Winter Sports Show held at the Detroit Light Guard Armoury.

Unveiled in November, the machine called "Ski-Mate" enables a person to ski in his own home on the living room floor. The machine consists of skis mounted on rollers.

When the skis press against the moving rollers under a man's weight, the skis react as if they were gliding down a hill. The machine, or one similar to it, can be used by anyone who wants to maintain his form during the off-season. It can also be used when there is a lack of snow in the winter.

However, the biggest attraction at the ski show was a 50-foot-long, 20-foot-wide indoor mountain. Such ski greats as Stein Ericson, Adrian Davillier and Art Furier have performed on this mountain.

It consists of a revolving white nylon belt which traveled uphill while the skier—on full-size or "shortie" skis—went downhill. When forward motion was stopped, the skier zipped to the top of the platform.

Called Ski-O-Tron, it enables the skier to perform all the maneuvers that can be done on real snow.

Suggestions given for beginning skiers

For a beginning skier interested in buying the basic equipment, the question is: what gear is necessary?

Tony Vescolani, ski expert at the Sportsmelier Shop in East Lansing, advises that the beginning skier needs a good boot, a good, safe binding and a pair of flexible skis.

Skis should have a good stiff upper portion, no lateral movement at the ankle but should buckle are sturdier than the less flexible skis. A basic outfit with wood skis costs slightly more than $100, and metal ski outfits start at $100. A high quality outfit would sell for about $250.

Modern skis require little upkeep. Skis should be kept "black-eyed"; they should be fastened at the top and bottom with the running surfaces touching but with a small block of wood placed between them at the center. This maintains the tension or camber in the skis and prevents warping.

Boots should be kept polished and silicone applied at the seams and soles only. The polish should be low in oil content.

A car rack is almost a necessity and can be mounted on the truck or roof. A word of caution: in Michigan it is illegal to have any overhang on the driver's side.

Metal skis should have a plastic running surface and wood skis should have multiple plastic laminations by Dr. W. C. Jensen, registered optometrist.

Typical scene

With the number of skiers in Michigan growing rapidly most of the ski resorts in Michigan which has more of them than any other state are frequently crowded. This scene at Alpine Valley near Pontiac is typical.

Skiers seek, find variety in state's resorts, facilities

The Michigan skier looks for first-class accommodations, no matter where he goes, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Two of the three busiest motels and lodges in the Cadillac area have indoor swimming pools plus good restaurants, cocktail lounges, and entertainment. Caberfae Lodge even has an attached bowling alley.

Shanty Creek, near Bellaire, and Boyne Mountains Lodge, near Boyne City, have what many skiers consider plush, expensive accommodations. For those on a tight budget, rooms are available in most areas by group plans. Students seem to prefer this type of arrangement.

Everything a skier could possibly want can be found at most of the state's larger resorts—lodge facilities, dining establishments, lounges, shops, swimming pools, and good accommodations. It also has snow-making equipment.

In the next few years, more new ski areas will open in Michigan. This condition will result in the other resorts improving their already fine facilities. The skiers will continue to use the slopes in increasing numbers, and the resorts will be continually improving their facilities.

German tourists are spendingest

BONN (U.P.)—West German tourists spend twice as much abroad as the nation earns from foreign tourists and the gap is growing larger, the Federal Statistical Office reports.

Income from foreign visitors grew during 1965-66 by only 5 per cent, while German spending abroad jumped 23.8 per cent.

Gliding merrily down the snowy slopes is not the only thing a beginning skier must learn. A lesson which comes much harder is to maintain balance and grace while being towed up the mountain.

Skiing conditions excellent

Excellent skiing was reported early this week by most of Michigan's winter sports centers, according to the Michigan Tourist Council. New snow, ranging from one to 14 inches, was on the ground at nearly all centers and many reported that it was either snowing or they were making snow.

Western Upper Peninsula — excellent skiing on an average of 15 to 19 inches of base, 5 inches of new snow; excellent tobogganing.

Traverse City — Cadillac — Marquette — very good to excellent skiing on an average of 19 to 24 inches base, 6 inches new snow.

Clare — Mio — Lake Huron — good to excellent skiing on an average of 9 to 15 inches base, 3 inches new snow.

Grand Rapids — Southwest Michigan — good to excellent skiing on an average of 7 to 13 inches base, 2 inches new snow; excellent tobogganing.

Saginaw Valley — Southeast Michigan — good to excellent skiing on an average of 10 to 16 inches of base, 3 inches new snow; very good tobogganing.

Council has resort maps for skiers

The 1966-67 edition of the Michigan Winter Sports Map, listing winter sports centers and their facilities, is now available for free distribution, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The map locates 83 centers including 15 in the upper peninsula, 38 in west Michigan, 19 in east Michigan and 11 in southeast Michigan.

Sixty-four centers have skiing only, four have tobogganing only and fifteen have facilities for both sports.

Copies of the map and other winter vacation information can be obtained by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48902.
Skiers' ranks, resorts swell

The Upper Michigan Tourist Assn. reports that its 15 member resorts are already in their third month of operation and the number of people skiing continues to swell. The ski resorts in this part of the state, however, still allow the avid skier some moments of privacy to master the steep slopes.

The East Michigan Tourist Assn. reports that Mt. Frederick, just north of Owosso off M-47, has three slopes and two rope tow operations with night skiing. This area is in the develop- ing stage, so it should present the experienced skier with a real challenge.

The Grayling Winter Sports Park has a new chairlift on a 1,000-foot slope, plus a new rental shop on a 725-foot slope. The 12 resorts that comprise the East Michigan Tourist Assn. all are reporting banner years.

The Southeast Michigan Tourist Assn. also reports a banner year for its members. According to the association, ski buffs will find many improvements in West Michigan.

Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands have expanded their snow-machine coverage. The beginners area at the Highlands will be served by a third triple chairlift, and along with Boyne Mountain, it will have special rates for the chairlifts serving the beginners area.

The Highlands also has several new and intermediate ski slopes to suit any other resort in the state. It has long been recognized as the Midwest's most diversified winter sports activity cen- ter, Caberfae improvements for the new season include a major expansion of snow-machine coverage.

An expert ski run, sauna baths and a beauty shop have been added at Shanty Creek Lodge.

Thunder Mountain, northeast of Bayo Falls, reports development of a lodge and chalet vil- lage. It really looks like a banner year for Michigan skiers.
