

Hannah seeks ruling on conflict of interest

By KYLE C. KERBAWY
State News Editor-in-Chief

President John A. Hannah has asked Atty.-Gen. Frank Kelley for a ruling on whether he is guilty of conflict of interest.

In a letter to Kelley, Hannah asked whether his interests in a number of off-campus business interests are in conflict with his position as president of MSU under a new law that goes into effect this Saturday.

In reply to Hannah's letter, Kelley said he would give a ruling, though he did not indicate when.

The new conflict of interest law, which was passed last July, prohibits any state officer "from having a direct or indirect interest, financial or otherwise, in a contract with the state or any of its political subdivisions."

Under the ambiguously worded law, MSU Trustee C. Allen Harlan may also be involved in a conflict of interest.

Hannah serves on the board of directors of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and American Bank and Trust Co. of Lansing. The University does business with all three.

"I told Kelley I didn't know whether this new law applies to me and asked him to give me a ruling on it," Hannah said Monday.

"I don't think any University president should be violating the law and if I am, I will resign from the boards."

Harlan is founder and chairman of Harlan Electric Co. which holds a 50 per cent interest in a Lansing electrical firm that has bid on and received contracts from the University.

Harlan, however, has not voted on awarding those contracts received by the firm, Central Electric Motor and Construction, 2443 Rundle Ave.

Instead, he has abstained from MSU board votes approving the contracts, noting that he has an interest in one of the firms.

Harlan owns no stock in either Harlan Electric or Central Electric, having divested himself of all stock in the firm he founded.

Hannah's situation parallels that of University of Michigan President Harlan H. Hatcher.

Hatcher is on the boards of Detroit Edison Co., Tecumseh Products Corp., a refrigeration and auto supply firm and the Ann Arbor Bank. The U-M keeps most of its money in the Ann Arbor Bank. According to Hatcher's assistant, however, the U-M president has not asked for a ruling from Kelley on his outside business interests.

"The reaction one could give is that the new law is so confusingly written that every state official could be embarrassed by it," administrative assistant Hurburt Hildebrandt said Tuesday.

According to Harlan, Central Electric has been bidding on University contracts for the past 20 years.

Since September, 1965, the firm has received contracts worth $1,071,702. They include South Campus Dormitory #4, now under construction; the recently completed 228-unit addition to Spartan Village; the Horticulture Research Center; and two additions to the Plant Science Laboratory.

According to the new law, Kelley is responsible for rendering an opinion on whether there is conflict of interest. He must do so at the request of any state legislator or the governor.

Since the law's passage, question has arisen over how it is to be interpreted. Depending on the interpretation, it could put a curb on dozens of highly placed figures, like Hannah, Hatcher and Harlan, having interests in outside business operations.

James Meredith will oppose Powell in special Harlem election

NEW YORK (AP) -- James Meredith, who broke the color line at the University of Mississippi, was named by the Republicans Tuesday to oppose Adam Clayton Powell in a special Harlem congressional election next month. Meredith said he would accept.

"No one has an automatic right to a seat in Congress," said Meredith, in accepting designation by the GOP executive committee. Confirmation is expected from committeemen in the 18th Congressional District.

Powell has been regarded as a sure winner in the April 11 special election for the seat from which he was ousted by Congress last week.

The Republicans obviously hoped

Meredith's reputation in the field of civil rights would make him a strong contender.

Meredith, who said he was opposed to Powell's ouster from Congress, said he was aware that in opposing the Negro Democrat he might lay himself open to "the fear and the scorn from fellow Negroes."

Powell's lawyers said he will make no attempt to block the special election April 11. It was scheduled by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller after Powell's ouster last week from the House of Representatives.

Attorney Robert Carter said the decision grew out of a conference with Powell, who is in Bimini in the Bahamas.

Democratic leader J. Raymond Jones said he plans to give the required 10-day notice for a meeting of 18th District Democratic committeemen, who will nominate a candidate from their party.

"I'm still sure the candidate will be Adam Clayton Powell," said Jones, leader of Tammany Hall.

Powell has said he feels assured of re-election if he wants it.

There had been some speculation, however, that he might seek to block the election, while pressing court action in Washington to try to regain his House seat.

The ousted Negro Democrat has been an easy winner in his 12 congressional races.

BEFORE VIET PEACE

Goldberg sees rocky road ahead

NEW YORK (AP) -- U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg returned from a far eastern trip Monday night, and said the road to peace in Vietnam appears "rocky and difficult."

His remark paralleled U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's statement Sunday that the war promises to be "prolonged and bloody." Thant spoke to newsmen as he returned to U.N. headquarters from a visit to Burma and his first direct talks with North Vietnamese diplomats.

Thant had said he saw no prospect for peace without a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

However, Goldberg declared: "The way to stop fighting is for everybody to stop fighting. What's required is a mutual de-escalation . . . the United States must reassert that the door is open for an honorable and just peace. No one can make peace unilaterally . . . all violence must stop."

Goldberg's stopover at Kennedy Airport en route from Manila led to reports that he planned an immediate meeting with Thant. However, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations arranged to go on to Washington to meet with President Johnson. He said he hoped to see the secretary-general another time.

Goldberg said his 10-day journey was not a peace mission but that the Vietnam situation was a principal topic of discussions during his visits to Japan, South Korea, Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Vietnam.

As for his own estimate of when peace might be reached in Vietnam, Goldberg said:

"I do not profess to be the greatest expert on this subject. No serious proposal has been made."

He emphasized that he did not mean necessarily that negotiations attempts were at an impasse, nor that a proposal might not come in the near future.

"The world needs an end to this tragic conflict," he said. "We must recognize that the roots of the conflict are not easy to resolve and we must guard against the impatience that comes out of any war."

Goldberg told questioners that within the next 10 days he expected an announcement that a constitutional government had been formed in South Vietnam.

Goldberg had told reporters in the Philippines Sunday that he wanted to get information on Thant's meeting with three north Vietnamese envoys.

Art Tung to run for ASMSU head

A member of the ASMSU Student Board has declared his candidacy for chairman of the next year's board.

Art Tung, junior member-at-large, has announced that he will forego running for the senior member-at-large position April 12 in hopes of winning the chairmanship April 13.

Under the ASMSU constitution any former board member may run for the chairmanship of the third session of student board without being elected at large by the student body.

New members of the student board will be elected on April 12. The following day the newly-elected board members will choose a chairman from among its members.

Greg Hopkins, current Off-Campus Council representative to the student board, will run for one of the two senior member-at-large seats.

Petitioning for member-at-large positions is open to any currently enrolled student who will have more than 12 credits by the end of winter term. Petitions are available in 334 Student Services Building, and must be returned by 5 p.m. Thursday.

STUDENT BOARD VIOLATION

Graham's $50 trip was unconstitutional

By ELLEN ZURKEY
State News Staff Writer

The chairman of ASMSU admitted Tuesday that the student board is guilty of having committed an unconstitutional act.

At a Monday hearing Jim Graham told the All-University Student Judiciary (AUSJ) that he had asked ASMSU for $50 to go to Washington five class days before the student board meeting, to abide by procedures established in the ASMSU Code of Operations.

But Graham conceded to the State News Tuesday that he did not even know about the conference until Jan. 16, the day before student board made the appropriation.

"The board is guilty of violating the constitution," Graham said, "but it did so with the best intentions."

Richard Durell, Monroe senior and pre-law major, has charged the board with committing an unconstitutional act by giving money, which will not necessarily affect the general welfare, to an individual.

The case is currently being considered by a five-man AUSJ panel. AUSJ, whose members are appointed by the student board, is expected to reach a decision on the case within a week.

Steve Rossiter, chief justice of AUSJ, said the new facts would have to be taken into consideration by AUSJ but that it would have to consider the whole case.

"We will have to discuss how much violation constitutes unconstitutionality," Rossiter said.

Student board argued that appropriations such as Graham's have historical precedent, that the constitution gives the board the power to make charitable donations, and that Graham used the proper procedure for obtaining the money. He now says the proper procedure was not used.

Graham said this violation could be interpreted by AUSJ to mean that Durell has a valid case.

Durell said that he sees this as seriously affecting Graham's credibility as head of the student board.

"It's perjury so to speak," Durell said. "I'm disappointed that they tried to lie to win the case."

Durell said he hoped the case would not be decided on that issue alone.

"I am arguing that ASMSU has no right to give money to anything but truly benevolent causes," Durell said.

He said that if his case is won solely on a technicality ASMSU might make similar appropriations in the future.

At the Monday hearing Graham said the student board had made a donation to him as an individual, not as chairman of the board.

"Any student could come before the board and ask for such a donation," Graham said. "Although I doubt that he'd get it."

Bonn students love kiss-in but say 'it can't happen here'

News of the kiss-in, MSU's latest style in "protest" demonstrations, has reached West Germany. Deutsche Welle (DW) radio in Bonn interviewed English-speaking Bonn University students and rushed the tape-recorded story to WKAR radio, MSU.

"That's a nice idea," said a 23-year-old German coed. "It sounds like a great and exciting protest. I'm only sorry we will never have that chance because there aren't any dormitories for males and females in Germany."

An American male student said it couldn't happen in Germany because most students live in private rooms or apartments, and whatever chaperonage there may be is provided by landlords who "of course are not always there."

A coed described as a stunning blonde who could be the contender for Miss Germany 1967 said:

"It's too bad we don't have any grounds for such a protest here. But I think it would be very interesting and fun to try it on a purely experimental basis."

Announcer Leonard Will of DW added:

"The magnanimous opinion among all students here is that although such a protest may not produce any permanent results the effort is reward enough."

WKAR has picked up DW short-wave broadcasts and corresponded with the German station for two years, and uses some DW news on its broadcasts, said Lowell Newton, WKAR news director.

German-speaking MSU students will make a rebuttal tape to be sent to Deutsche Welle, Newton said.

City Council agrees to join liaison project

By BOB IMLER
State News Staff Writer

East Lansing's City Council Monday night agreed in principle to join ASMSU in setting up a town-gown liaison committee to ease student-East Lansing tensions.

Mayor Gordon Thomas said that the city council was interested in going along with ASMSU in establishing a closer relationship in the community.

The MSU speech professor asserted that the misconceptions and faulty information implied in a State News editorial urging students to register and vote was an example of what the committee might be able to prevent. Thomas said the State News had been practicing irresponsible journalism in reporting and commenting on the city of East Lansing.

Mayor Thomas later said that he had also directed criticism at a State News editorial which said the East Lansing Human Relations Commission existed to help dodge the problem of civil rights.

The liaison committee, as proposed by ASMSU, would consist of eight persons, four from the University and four from the city, to meet monthly. ASMSU's proposal also specified what segments of the University would be represented.

By agreeing in principle, Gordon said, the council hoped to reserve a role for itself in working out the details.

"We didn't want to pin ourselves down," he said. "We want to have a voice in working out such details as meeting times, frequency and membership."

Mary Slavik, East Lansing city clerk, agreed Tuesday with the mayor. She said several voter registration difficulties were inaccurate and denied using trick questions to keep students off voting lists.

"Half our registration is composed of students," she said, and claimed student reluctance to show identification and diligence in answering questions and

A solid blow at Bigotry

ASMSU is striking squarely at the roots of racial discrimination in East Lansing, and its target is discriminatory housing, the straightest gate and smallest target in the whole civil rights area.

William J. Pulte is at once the recipient of the board's wrath and the most recent cause of its exasperation.

Pulte, an admitted housing discriminator in Birmingham, had applied for a permit to build an apartment development to front on Bogue Street and the Red Cedar River.

His record of discrimination drew protests from the Ingham County Democratic Chairman, the Lansing area NAACP and former human relations commission member Robert L. Green, and Pulte's statement that selling homes to Negroes could be bad business increased their concern.

Nevertheless, the city attorney reported that the city was constrained by law to let him build if he complied with building and zoning regulations, an action the demonstrated very clearly the amount of support the city gives its open housing policy.

The ASMSU board, having watched statute law triumph over racial justice in the planning commission and foreseeing correctly that the same thing would happen when the city council considered the matter, drew up a resolution citing MSU's civil rights record, Pulte's civil rights record, and the lack of anything the two had in common.

Urging the University, successfully as it happened, not to give approved status to Pulte's project, the Board went on to ask all students to boycott all Pulte-owned housing.

ASMSU will send letters to all of Pulte's lease holders asking them not to renew their leases. It also will ask all students not to subsidize discrimination elsewhere by contributing to Pulte's profits here.

ASMSU has recently been caught up in a burst of energy in its efforts to serve the student body. Some, like the assault on the East Lansing price line, have been worthy and successful. Others, like the draft referendum, have been ragged in conception and execution. Hopefully this effort will be successful.

An anti-discrimination boycott deserves the full support of every member of the student body. This is a rare chance to hit discrimination where it lives--in the pocketbook.

ASMSU has displayed some courage and rather more indignation in taking this step, and they should be applauded and supported.

Keeping them down on the animal farm

Animals we have known: Wednesday night the United Students attempted to hold a quiet orderly demonstration protesting the overzealous enforcement of Public Display of Affection rules in Akers Hall.

About 600 students, drawn by the spectacle of a "kiss-in" came to gawk and stare at the participants, lining the walls, standing on furniture, and doing over $100 damage in the process. Said one: "We overestimated the maturity and sense of the students."

Wednesday night an unknown group merrily, we assume, pushed a Volkswagen into the Red Cedar for a 100-foot trip floating down the river. Damage was extensive.

Last week, a group of men from precinct seven in West Shaw dumped their food on a table, and leaving the cafeteria in a complete mess, marched off to a restaurant.

Comment on the maturity and responsibility of students in these three situations seems essential. We wonder, though, if it would be productive.

Sadly, those who would understand the point of the comment do not need it. Those who need it wouldn't understand it.

THE NATIONS' PRESS

Breaking the monopoly

Several students at Rutgers University here, deciding that a "one-newspaper town (campus) can be a dangerous thing," have challenged the monopoly position of the school's only paper, the Daily Targum. The Press Club Weekly, an eight-page tabloid paper, made its first rounds of the campus last week. "When a town or a campus is exposed to just one point of view," says Leo Dmitzak, associate editor, "the community is deprived of something very valuable to them, and that something is the other side of the story."

Several months of preparation and six practice issues laid the foundation for the new paper's debut. It is published by the University Press Club, which was founded on campus last fall.

The Weekly faces formidable opposition. The Daily Targum is subsidized by the school, and 5,000 copies are distrib-

OUR READERS' MINDS

NSA student mouthpiece

To the Editor:

At a time when involvement is the focus of discussion and action on campuses across the nation, a vocal minority of MSU students is urging that we sacrifice our position in this progress. The NSA is recognized as the mouthpiece of American college students; as such we should take the opportunity to make our contribution to the ideas and actions of the NSA.

As students we have a duty to make our views known on issues which affect us. The student board is elected by the students of MSU to represent them in organizing and administering services for students. As an organized body of student leaders, it is the logical choice as spokesman for MSU. The fact that the major governing groups are represented on the board means that the board is aware of student opinion.

If we deny the board the power to speak on our behalf then we deny ourselves the only effective voice and decision-making body which we have. The question is not whether the board perfectly reflects student opinion but whether it is generally effective in representing student opinion. It is effective; we should not deny ourselves a voice in NSA because it is not perfect.

Ginsberg dissenter

To the Editor:

I resent Mr. Groat's implication that anyone who walked out on Allen Ginsberg or who wrote an article criticizing him did so out of stupidity or sheer failure to recognize Ginsberg as one of the finer intellectual stimulants in life. I had hoped that a man who commands the respect and admiration of thousands of students, as does Gary Groat, and who is, literally, a martyr to the crusade for freedom of choice would be more pragmatic about such things. I submit that "freedom" of choice (or any other thing for that matter) is exactly that. Whether a person chooses to go along with the majority, or the minority, or chooses an alternative somewhere in between is completely irrelevant.

That Mr. Groat chooses to categorize Ginsberg dissenters as "automatons" indicates, to me, a gross oversight on his part, an oversight perhaps predicated by his self-righteous "angry young man" attitude. He assumes that anyone who disagrees with him is a conforming mental midget. This just isn't so. I, for one, liked Ferlinghetti when he was here, and I think that Bob Fogarty is one of the finest instructors (and persons) I have ever met. But Ginsberg is a different story. I find him difficult to accept because he is a phony; but, like Holly Golightly, he is a real phony and this means that his message is valid and that he is to be taken seriously. I'm looking for answers just like everyone else. Only I freely choose to dislike Ginsberg. Let's just say I'm not digging Hindu chants.

TED MILBY

Graham vs. Milby (vice-versa)

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following exchange of letters took place last week.

Dear Mr. Milby,

In reading your latest article in the State News I could not hesitate to comment to you personally on it. First of all the following statement presents the definition of the word "junket": "n. a dessert curded with flavored rennet; a pleasure excursion; v.l. to feast; to picnic; to go on a pleasure trip; v.t. to entertain." Now, Mr. Milby, if you continue to use the word "junket" we can now be clear about exactly what the meaning is that you apply. I thought for certain that this would be of certain value to you as it seems to become one of your very favorite words.

I will not attempt to comment on the various inaccuracies that you decided to spend State News space on. However may I suggest that perhaps your frequent reference to the word "junket" only covers up your actual feelings and sensitivity on this subject. And that those actual feelings and sensitivities have nothing to do with the trip to Washington and have nothing to do with the National Student Association, but instead is your own personal feelings on the Vietnam situation. It seems to me that it would be most appropriate if your columns would concern this subject where we could have the opportunity to debate what I am sure you hold as a personal philosophy on the direction of our government's policies in Vietnam.

I hope that you will consider my remarks as constructively as I have considered yours for the last several weeks.

Jim Graham
Chairman
Associated Students

Dear Mr. Graham:

I, too, have a dictionary. It defines "junket" as "a trip by an official or legislative committee, paid for out of public funds and ostensibly to obtain information." While it is my contention that you are not a legislative representative, I feel that the definition and its implications apply to your case.

As to your more serious point, namely that my objection to your trip and to MSU's affiliation with NSA stem from my position on the Vietnamese conflict, let me assure you that you are mistaken.

In case you are interested, my own position on Vietnam is as follows. 1) It is a mistake for us to be there as we are now. 2) Since we are there, however, to pullout unilaterally at this time would compound the mistake. 3) I favor a negotiated settlement over a military settlement (even a military victory); however, until the time that such a settlement is reached, I feel that we should press on militarily. 4) I am not satisfied with the efforts of the Johnson administration, but I feel that the only language Lyndon Johnson listens to is the x in the voting booth, not the letters of "student leaders." While you and I may disagree on emphasis and detail of the Vietnam policy, I feel that we are in substantial agreement. Furthermore, I feel that this position is in close harmony with the majority of the student body.

Why then, you ask, do I object to your trip to Washington and to NSA? (Admittedly the $50, or 0.167¢ per student is not crucial.)

The reason, Mr. Graham, is that when you go on such a trip, especially with the assistance of student tax money, you are understood to be representing the students of MSU, disclaimers to the contrary. And regardless of what you or I think the students think, unless one of us is clairvoyant, we don't actually know what they think and therefore can't purport to represent them.

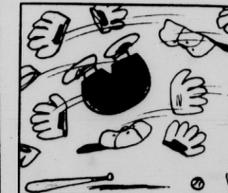

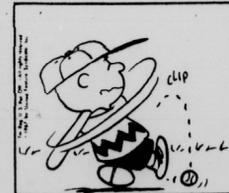

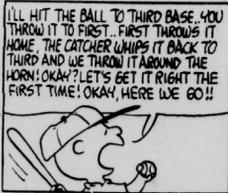

Furthermore, when you do as you have been doing, you act as a pressure group, not just an ordinary pressure group, but one which gets its funds through coerced contributions. Even if we knew that the overwhelming majority of the students felt the way you do, when you lobby for a position with the tax money of the minority which opposes you, you are denying their right to dissent from your views. You are forcing them to contribute to the support of the majority view, with which they disagree. For this reason political contributions are voluntary in this country, and I want to see them remain that way at MSU.

I can understand that it is difficult for one who has spent his entire undergraduate career in student government, isolated from the student body, to understand that some of us have a respect for the rights of the students strong enough to result in this position. But these are my reasons, Mr. Graham, and they have nothing to do with my position concerning Vietnam.

Since you questioned my motivation, I will again question yours. I challenge you, Mr. Graham, to show that NSA is being pushed for the good of the student body, and not for the good of ASMSU officers. I challenge you to show how the average student will actually benefit from affiliation with NSA.

Frankly, James, I don't think you can do it.

Ted Milby
P.S. Tell me Jim, do you also like "desserts curded with flavored rennet."

CLAIMS CONSPIRACY

Defiant Hoffa begins jail term

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defiant but shaken, Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was taken to federal prison Tuesday to start serving his eight-year sentence for jury tampering. The 54-year-old Hoffa came from Washington by car accompanied by U.S. Marshal Luke Moore and two deputy marshals. He had surrendered earlier in the capital, and was fingerprinted, then taken to Lewisburg. Hoffa, still claiming his 1964 conviction was a "conspiracy" in a 10-year federal effort to put him behind bars, will have to serve at least two years and eight months before he is eligible for parole. In the brief interview on the steps of the U.S. courthouse before surrendering, Hoffa said he still believed his attorneys eventually will win him a new trial on his 1964 conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn. "My attorneys will carry on all the necessary appeal steps while I am in jail," he said. "All the motions I filed stated that the government wiretapped, room-bugged, surveilled and did everything unconstitutional they could do in trying to place me in jail as they have temporarily been able to do," he said. Hoffa's surrender climaxed a 10-year federal effort to imprison him. He also is appealing a five-year mail fraud conviction in connection with charges he conspired to divert a million dollars from a $20-million Teamsters' pension fund loan scheme.

Key GM plant struck again

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Mansfield auto workers whose eight-day strike idled nearly 200,000 General Motors employees last month were off the job again Tuesday in a walkout linked to the first dispute. Only a handful of first- and second-shift workers reported to the strategic Fisher Body Division plant, which supplies fenders, floor boards and other body parts for 90 per cent of GM autos.

In Detroit, the United Auto Workers called an emergency meeting of its National General Motors Council for 2 p.m. Thursday to discuss the new dispute, which was apparently triggered by rumors that five men suspended in the last walkout were to be fired.

Yanks kill 61 in Viet battles

SAIGON (AP)—A company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division, reacting to heavy automatic weapons fire, battled all day Tuesday against a Viet Cong force estimated to be of similar size, about 180 men.

Hammered by jet planes and artillery, the enemy broke away at nightfall. A preliminary report from the battle site, near the central coast in Binh Dinh Province 260 miles northeast of Saigon, said seven Americans and 50 Viet Cong were killed. Seventeen Americans were wounded. Further north U.S. Marines rounded out their second year in Vietnam with counterfire against Communists who are still trying to knock out with mortars the long-range 175mm American guns at Camp Carroll that shell North Vietnamese targets across the demilitarized zone.

A U.S. spokesman said 500 enemy shells, lobbed over in three attacks, killed six Marines and wounded 15, but did not damage the guns. The counterfire was reported to have set off a secondary explosion, perhaps from ammunition, in the hills from where the Communists were firing.

Several companies of Marines fought with a Communist force several miles north of Camp Carroll overnight, but the enemy, believed to be North Vietnamese regulars, escaped in the morning hours.

In these and other ground operations Monday and Tuesday, U.S. spokesmen reported 14 Americans killed, 44 wounded and four missing, along with 61 Communist dead.

It was March 8, 1965, that 4,800 Marines landed to establish control of eight square miles of ground around the Da Nang airbase. Now 73,000 are on hand exerting influence over 2,000 square miles of territory in the five northern provinces. They have reported killing 16,000 Communist soldiers while losing 2,000 men.

Sukarno complicity in coup try declared

JAKARTA (AP)—Opening the Indonesian Congress, strongman Gen. Suharto raised the question Tuesday of whether President Sukarno himself instigated the Communist coup attempt of 1965. Suharto urged Congress, however, not to strip Sukarno of his figurehead title of president, fearing that this will drench Indonesia in blood. Sukarno has turned all executive power over to Suharto.

In the Red bid to wrest all power from the army Oct. 1, 1965, Suharto sketched the events of that bloody day when the Communists set up headquarters at an air field and killed six anti-Communist generals. Sukarno was at the air field on that day, and Suharto declared the president appointed a leftist officer, Maj. Gen. Pranoto, as caretaker of the army. "Sukarno did not even try to condemn the coup movement or move from the airbase so he could later crush and punish the movement," Suharto declared. "Sukarno had in fact taken actions which could be considered as approving the movement by appointing a caretaker of the army. "From these facts and attitudes of Sukarno, it raised a question in us whether Sukarno had not earlier foreseen the coup or even that Sukarno initiated the coup himself." Still Suharto asked that Sukarno keep his title, saying the president "will not be active in politics and government fields and will not hold leadership in government by actual physical means." The 635-member Congress is expected to act by Saturday on a resolution adopted by Parliament calling for Sukarno's dismissal and trial. Congress shares legislative power with Parliament but is supreme in policy matters.

Rule enforcement policy flexible

EDITOR'S NOTE: Are rules at MSU becoming more flexible? Residence advisers say what they think, in the third of a four-part series on hall staffs. By BOBBY SODEN and ELLEN ZURKEY, State News Staff Writers

Automatic suspension offenses for non-academic reasons no longer exist. Interviews with several members of MSU's residence halls advisory staff indicated that they agreed that certain rule infractions may make a student "liable for expulsion," but the individual student's attitude has come to play an important part in determination of disposition. A student charged with a rule infraction appears before a student judiciary or a committee in the Dean of Students Office, depending on the seriousness of the offense. Fewer suspensions seem to be the rule of thumb, the advisers said. First violators are more likely to be warned, whereas repeated offenders may be regarded as willful. None of the advisers interviewed seemed interested in seeking out rule-breakers. "We aren't going to go around peeking in key-holes to see if there is booze in the rooms," said one. The advisers agreed that late minutes and unauthorized overnights are the most common offenses in women's residence halls. Alcohol is the biggest problem in men's halls. "The more serious offenses are now being studied more in context," according to Kay White, head adviser at Rafter. "Two girls can do the same thing and have different things happen to them," she explained. "A lot depends on the girl's attitude." William R. Wilkie, head resident at West Fee, claims the University is not becoming more liberal, but is coming to realize that dispositions on offenses "can serve more of an educative function." "If a student is suspended, the University loses all control over him," Wilkie said. "The University assumes in many

'Last hurrah' for seniors in MSU-M hockey clash

By JOE MITCH
State News Sports Writer

Doug Volmar, Tom Mikkola, Mike Jacobson, Sandy McAndrew, Bill Faunt, Bob Brawley, John Shuster and Jerry Fisher.

These eight Spartan senior hockey players will appear in their final home game Thursday night when MSU meets Michigan at the Ice Arena. The game is the opener of the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. (WCHA) playoffs.

And the sorriest of all to see them leave is Hockey Coach Amo Bessone.

For three years these players have given Bessone some of the most exciting hockey in his 19-year coaching career. The ultimate came last season when these players, then juniors, led MSU to its first national collegiate hockey championship.

With the NCAA title came the "Coach of the Year" award for Bessone, awarded annually to the nation's outstanding hockey coach.

Never have these seniors played on a losing Spartan team.

In their sophomore year, MSU finished with a 17-12-0 mark and advanced to the finals of the WCHA playoffs.

The next year, the 1965-66 Spartan skaters ended the season with a 16-13 mark and the national championship in hand.

Presently, MSU is 13-14-1 on the season, finishing the regular season last week with a two-game sweep over Wisconsin.

The Spartan seniors could have their losing season this year, unless MSU beats Michigan and advances to the NCAA playoffs.

"This has been a great senior group," said Bessone, while his Spartans were preparing for Michigan.

"We'll be losing some great ones. None have done better than this one. They won the NCAA championships."

During the past three years as varsity players, seven of the eight players have been regulars, starting on one of the three forward or defensive lines.

Probably the most notable of the Spartan seniors is Doug Vol-mar, who received All-American and All-WCHA honors last year. Considered to have the hardest shot in collegiate hockey, Volmar led the team and the WCHA in scoring during the 1965-66 season.

A 6-0, 190-pounder from Cleveland Heights, Ohio, Volmar has played right wing his entire college career, although this year Bessone has used him occasionally on defense.

He leads the Spartans in total goals this season with 19 and is second in total points with 31.

Three of the Spartan seniors are from Copper Cliff, Ont.--Co-Captains Tom Mikkola and Mike Jacobson and Sandy Mc-

Andrew. Mikkola and Jacobson have teamed up on the No. 1 line this year to form the Spartans' most productive scoring combination.

Mikkola, a 5-11, 185-pounder, is the No. 1 center and leads this year's team in scoring with 39 points, despite missing the first four games with a wrist injury.

He was selected to the NCAA Tournament second team and had 10 goals and 23 assists last year.

Jacobson is fourth in scoring this season with 26 points. He still holds the school record for most goals scored in one season--29, setting that in his sophomore year.

A 5-11, 184-pound wing, Jacobson has scored successive goals in the fastest time of any present Spartan. In his sophomore year he had two three-goal hat-tricks, one in less than a minute. This season he had two goals in less than a minute.

McAndrew, a center on the third line, is known to be one of the best stick-handlers on the team. He was named to the NCAA all-tournament first team last season.

A 5-11, 185-pounder, McAndrew has been among the top scorers for the past three years. Last year he had 14 goals and 23 assists for 37 points, while in his sophomore year he had 17 goals and 20 assists.

This year he is third in scoring 30 points.

The other senior forward is Bill Faunt, who handles the center position on the No. 2 line. Though one of the smallest players on the team at 5-10, 165-pounds, Faunt has been among the leaders in scoring.

Bob Brawley and John Shuster are the only senior defensemen. Brawley, a 5-11, 195-pounder, is one of the top defensemen in the league and was named to the second team of the NCAA All-Tournament team last season.

Shuster, a 5-10, 160-pounder from Wyandotte, has been used as penalty killer during his three years on the varsity.

The eighth senior is Jerry Fisher, the 5-8, 155-pound goalie from Detroit. He was a regular in his sophomore year and part of last year, but has given way to Gaye Cooley this season.

Still, he finished third in the WCHA with a 3.0 goals-against average.

Ward faces last obstacle

By DENNIS CHASE
Associate Sports Editor

Lloyd Ward's future looks bleak.

The 5-9, 158-pound freshman has overcome his lack of size to become one of the top players on the freshman team.

But Ward's troubles are just beginning.

Next year he will try to break into the varsity picture at a guard spot. Only two of the Spartans' eight guards will be graduated this year, and only one of those leaving, Shannon Reading, has played very much.

"It's true that it will be awfully difficult for Lloyd to start on the varsity team, with John Bailey and Steve Rymal coming back, but I expect that he'll play a big part," said Bob Nordmann, freshman basketball coach.

But even if Ward can't break into the starting lineup, he will be high on Coach John Benington's list of possible replacements. He's learned a great deal this year.

"I've improved my defense tremendously," Ward said. "I am more conscious of the responsibility of helping out my teammates."

Why did Ward come to Michigan State?

"Ever since I was young I've always been interested in Big Ten basketball, and I always wanted to play for Michigan State," said the Romulus freshman. "And I heard about Benington, of course."

Ward has done a superb job this year. In the frosh's three intercollegiate games he has scored 17, 23 and 22 points, and, to Nordmann, anyway, Ward's performance was a surprise.

"He's a lot better than I expected," Nordmann said. "We always knew he was a good shooter, but his ball handling is also very good."

Ward, however, doesn't feel he has done as well as he might have.

"I've still got to improve my shooting, and my defense," he said.

Ward's height has been no handicap to him this season. In

Judo with U-M

The Judo Club will meet the University of Michigan at 7 p.m., Thursday, in the I.M. Sports Arena.

The point system and procedures will be explained before the meet. There is no admission charge.

what he calls his best game, against Michigan, Ward scored 23 points while holding 6-3 Rich Bloodworth to 12 in regulation time, and seven more in an overtime period.

"The freshman team was real good this year," Ward said, "and it's great playing with guys on the varsity team that you've read about. The only problem the freshmen had was that we lacked the one big man. We had to make up for it with good shooting."

"Bob Nordmann is a great coach and a great guy. He gets real close to the players and gives you a feeling of being one small family."

Evidently, the feeling is mutual. "Lloyd didn't have a great senior year in high school," Nordmann said, "but then he played on a team that didn't go anywhere. He's turned into a fine player."

Ward, it seems, has had many obstacles to overcome. Next year's challenges should come as no surprise.

Saints get Cuozzo

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts Monday traded quarterback Gary Cuozzo and guard Butch Allison to the New Orleans Saints in exchange for center-linebacker Bill Curry and two draft choices in the 1967 draft, one of which will be the New Orleans' first choice.

Cuozzo has been with the Colts since 1963 as a reserve quarterback behind Johnny Unitas. He had been signed as a free agent from the University of Virginia.

Cuozzo, whose home is in Glen Ridge, N.J., attends a dental school in Memphis, Tenn.

Allison was drafted second by the Colts last year from the University of Missouri, but he was not retained on the Colts roster. His home is in Columbia, Missouri.

Curry played for the Green Bay Packers the past two years. He is from Georgia Tech and was the Packers' first string center most of 1966. He had gone to New Orleans from Green Bay in the recent expansion draft.

Cuozzo had expressed a desire to be traded because of inaction behind Unitas.

Matman Campbell thinks positive

By GAYEL WESCH
State News Sports Writer

The theory of "the power of positive thinking" got a new advocate in MSU's 152-pound Dave Campbell last weekend.

A change to a more positive attitude and more aggressive wrestling tactics were the major factors, according to Campbell, in his gaining second place in the Big Ten meet. Going into the meet Campbell had a not-too-impressive 6-7-2 record in dual meets.

Campbell's gaining 11 points for MSU, at a position where considerably less was expected, gave the Spartans a big boost on their way to their second straight championship, and may have been the deciding factor in MSU's romp to the title.

"As it turned out we didn't need Campbell's points to win, (MSU beat its nearest rival, Michigan, by 14 points)," Spartan Coach Grady Peninger said.

"But we sure were glad to get them at the time, and there's no question they gave the team a big psychological lift."

Campbell scored two points for MSU in his first bout, pinning Purdue's Roger Anderson in 2:38. A narrow 3-2 decision over Minnesota's Ron Ankney in the quarter finals and a 3-0 victory over Northwestern's Russ Schneider put Campbell into the finals against Michigan's Pfd Stehman.

Schneider and Stehman had been rated the top two candidates at 152 by Peninger.

Falling behind quickly in his bout with Stehman, Campbell fought to a 7-5 deficit with 25 seconds remaining before Stehman scored a takedown and near fall to put the bout out of reach.

"I went into the tournament with a changed attitude," the 5-10 junior said. "I started thinking positive, and I felt like I could win it. Instead of wrestling defensively I started wrestling aggressively. That's the big reason why I did better."

Campbell's success was only a small surprise to Peninger.

"He's always been wrestling like an NCAA champion in the wrestling room, but never doing much before a crowd," Peninger said. "Campbell's a psychological wrestler, and if he's up he's tough to beat."

"The main reason I put Sinadinos in his place for the Michigan meet was because I thought Dave's attitude might hurt him."

Peninger entered Sinadinos at 145 and moved Dale Carr to 152 against the Wolverines, and it's likely the line-up would have stayed that way if Sinadinos hadn't injured his knee during the week before the Big Ten championships.

Given the opportunity, Campbell rose to the occasion.

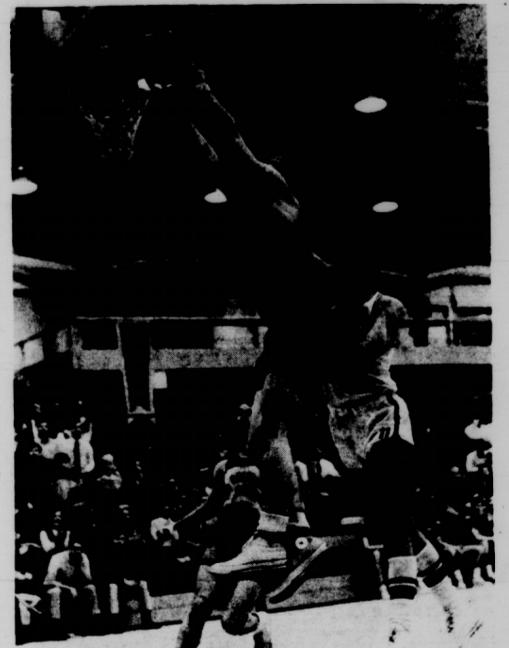

A native of Marcellus, New York, Campbell came to MSU because, "I wanted to get away from home." He hadn't been too successful in high school wrestling and missed his senior year of eligibility due to a broken arm. But he tried out for and made the MSU team.

In his first year of varsity action, Campbell had a 2-5-1 record and started at 147 in the Big Ten Championships. He was eliminated in the preliminaries.

His performance at the conference meet has given Campbell the inside track on the 152 position for MSU in the NCAA meet March 23-25, and Campbell is high on the team's chances.

"I feel we have an excellent chance of winning it," Campbell said. "We got a great team effort at the Big Ten's and if we get one in the NCAA's we can win it all."

Once you get the positive thinking habit, anything can happen.

Tarkenton traded to Giants

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants relinquished their super-special privileges in the college player draft to the Minnesota Vikings Tuesday to exchange for scrambling quarterback Fran Tarkenton, a solid six-year pro.

The Vikings, who already had lost Tarkenton through his resignation on Feb. 9, now will have the first choice of any player in either the 1967 or 1968 college drafts.

As part of the merger between the National and American Football Leagues last June, the Giants were to be allowed to have the first shot at a college quarterback in either of those years but they also were permitted to trade that right for a veteran passer.

They picked off the 26-year-old Tarkenton by giving up their first- and second-round draft choices for 1967, their first pick in 1968 and a player to be named later.

"The Vikings actually will have a freer choice in the draft than we would have had," said President Wellington Mara of the Giants, whose team finished with the worst record in the NFL last year at 1-12-1. "Our special pick in 1967 or 1968 was restricted to a quarterback."

"By trading Tarkenton, the Vikings are not so restricted when they elect to exercise the special option."

Mara explained the so-called quarterback pick was not a bonus selection but merely a preferred position in the draft.

Tarkenton has accounted for 16,472 yards and 128 touchdowns with his famed heiter-skelter pass or run style.

"We'll carry three quarterbacks," said New York Coach Allie Sherman. "Earl Morrall, Tom Kennedy and Bob Post are available for two of the other three jobs. We had to pay a high price for Tarkenton but we had to have quality since we weren't sure how Morrall's broken wrist would come around."

Southern Illinois cagers small college champions

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southern Illinois, whose fantastic success on the hardwoods this season brought big-time prestige to small college basketball, today was officially crowned 1966-67 small college champion for the second consecutive year by the United Press International board of coaches.

The Salukis, who compiled a brilliant 20-2 record and won recognition for their achievements by receiving a bid to the famed National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, were a unanimous 35-choice of the 25-member UPI board.

Coming off a season that saw them win five of seven games against major college teams, the Salukis are only the second team in the history of the UPI small college ratings to win back-to-back titles. Evansville was champion in 1963-64 and 1964-65. Kentucky Wesleyan, which led in the ratings for the first six weeks, dropped two games to the Salukis during the second half of the campaign and finished far back in the voting with 307 points.

There were tight battles waged for the third and fifth positions in the final week with San Diego State edging Indiana State for the No. 3 spot and Southwest Missouri State nipping Akron for the No. 5 berth.

Cheyney State, which ended its campaign with a brilliant 24-2 record, grabbed sole possession of seventh place while North Dakota, Arkansas State and Nevada Southern rounded out the top 10.

Lectures attract nation's best

By DARYL LAMBERT
The Michigan State Philosophy Dept. may well have one of the finest facilities in the entire world because of a technicality in the rules for hiring guest lecturers, said the department chairman, William Callaghan.

In addition to the regular faculty members such as Abraham Kaplan from the University of Michigan and Patrick Suppes from Stanford are utilized as lecturers.

J.O. Urison from Oxford University, Kenneth Sayre from Notre Dame University and C.W. Churchman from the University of California are also part of the MSU faculty.

The latest addition was G.E.L. Owen, a former professor of ancient philosophy at Oxford who came here Friday from Harvard University to present his interpretation of a specific passage in a Platonic dialogue.

These men and a dozen others are recognized by colleagues as the best in their fields. They are the men writing the philosophy of the times. And they are on the staff of MSU.

Callaghan said the technicality involved arises out of the University's outlay limit of $500 per speaker. To bypass this rule, he said, the lecturers are enlisted into the faculty and paid a "salary" equal to their standing charge for speaking engagements.

This massive display of top philosophic talent is all a part of the Isenberg Lecture Series. This program began in 1965 in honor of the late Arnold Isenberg, a MSU professor of philosophy who did work in "value theory."

Callaghan described the beginnings of the program as "a great educational breakthrough." He ascribed its novelty as a result of solving a problem simply and sensibly.

The problem was to find some way to attract important figures from the two coasts where pay and climate are better, to encourage participation with other universities and add prestige to the department and to the University, Callaghan said.

The Isenberg Lectures are the answer.

These lectures are used as a vehicle to locate the top men in a field of current controversy and invite them to MSU for a public lecture and co-participation in a seminar.

Each term a different topic is chosen and the program is supervised by a faculty member specializing in that field.

The seminars, listed under Philosophy 494, draw about 20 top philosophy majors who prepare for the seminar with readings suggested by the speakers.

The post-lecture seminars give the students a chance to probe each speaker's thoughts and arguments.

The students are usually exposed to four lecturers per term. In compensation for the amount of work they have to do they meet some of today's most important living philosophers.

The series first attracted speakers from among Mr. Isenberg's friends. The program now has become so famous that speakers clamor for an opportunity to lecture and other universities write far in advance to reserve a spot to participate, Callaghan said.

Indicating the esteem in which these lectures are held in the academic community, Gregory Vlastos opened his Feb. 17 lecture by referring to the Isenberg series as "... the most distinguished series of philosophic lectures in the United States." Vlastos, a professor at Princeton, is an expert on Plato's writings.

The spring term series will revolve around the theme, "Philosophy of the Mind." The speakers will be Roderick Chisholm from Brown University, Herbert Feigl from the University of Minnesota and Wilfred Sellars from the University of Pittsburgh.

AMLEC expands London program

MSU's summer European study program has been expanded to allow as many as 75 students to study political science in London this summer.

This program in London will include two regular MSU courses -- political science 340 and 455, taught by MSU instructors, and other activities offered by the European Language and Educational Center (ELEC) there.

As one of the four-credit programs offered by MSU's American Language and Educational Center (AMLEC), the London courses will be offered for nine MSU term credits, and will include students from other universities as well.

Taught on a team system by Ken A. Bode and John N. Collins, instructors in political science, and a third instructor not yet named, political science 455 will be given with a special emphasis on European and British politics and government.

The instructors expect to bring in government officials to talk to the classes, and lead field trips to points of special interest.

Prerequisite for the courses is one course in either government or political science at the college level, a transcript and two recommendations.

Transportation to and from Europe is combined with the other AMLEC programs, in two New York to Paris jet flights, leaving June 24 and 25, and returning August 19 and September 9.

Other AMLEC programs include language study for credit in Paris, Cologne, and Madrid, and non-credit offerings in Paris, Lausanne, Cologne, Barcelona, Madrid, and Florence.

Cost for these and the London program vary, but all include a $275 round-trip flight fare.

Students in the London program must enroll for both courses. The courses will alternate weekly on a morning and afternoon schedule, with planned activities available on an optional basis for the other half of the day.

Enrollment in the London program is limited to 75 because of limited classroom space, but the language centers have no limits.

Students wishing further information on any of the programs should contact AMLEC at 58-A Kellogg Center, or call 353-0681.

YOUNGEST STATE LEGISLATOR

Warner backs tax reform

"Gov. Romney's tax package will ease the tax burden on low income families while raising total state income," Rep. Dale Warner, R-Eaton Rapids said.

Under the present system, a family of five earning $3,500 a year would pay $309 in state and local taxes.

With Romney's proposed tax reform program, the same family would pay $278 a year.

Warner, a 1962 graduate of MSU, was speaker of the former All-University Student Government Student Congress, and was involved in the drafting of letters that eventually led to making ROTC voluntary instead of compulsory for MSU male students.

"The main burden of taxation would shift to people in the middle and upper income brackets as well as to businesses and banks," Warner, who at 25 is the youngest Michigan legislator said.

A typical family of five having an income of $18,000, having previously paid $1,029 in taxes, under the new system would pay $1,319.

"There is a need for tax reform because under the present system low income families pay a higher proportion of their income in taxes than do high income families," Warner said.

Romney stated in his message on tax reform that businesses are excessively taxed through fixed charges having no relation to profit.

These high taxes discourage new businesses and are not fair to businesses operating on a small profit margin, Romney said in his message.

"They failed to have the foresight necessary to manage our state's resources wisely."

Under the present system the largest percentage of the total state tax is paid by businesses. "Michigan is spending more money at a faster rate than ever before," Warner said.

"The difference between the state's income and outgo is greater than ever," Warner said. "At present, Michigan is spending $130 million more than we're taking in. In other words, we have an operating deficit this year of $130 million."

The blame for Michigan's fast growing expenditures clearly rests with the Democratic legislature of 1965-66, Warner stated.

Study of teachers shows 'manager' role

Teachers in urban schools are more concerned with managing their classes than with academic problems, according to the results of a recent MSU education study.

Mrs. Judith Henderson, instructor in education, described the study to a group of educators here Monday.

She said that the study had been done to help settle a conflict among educators as to whether the entire teacher education system needs upgrading or just inner-city teacher education needs to be concentrated upon. Students complaining about the lack of reality of the present system also helped initiate the study.

Professional observers studied classrooms in selected urban and rural schools in Michigan. They classified teachers' approaches as academic, managerial, social and psychological.

Mrs. Henderson said that observations from the data revealed a predominance of academic functions and a minimum of social functions. Teachers in general are providing and intensifying knowledge rather than seeking it, she said.

However, she noted that when considering just the urban schools, it was found that the managerial function increased to the detriment of the academic side. Mrs. Henderson said, "Better than half the time in the classroom was given to managerial functions rather than social or academic."

"The question everyone has to ask himself is whether or not this is the kind of picture we want," Mrs. Henderson concluded.

Radio board opens at-large petitioning

All-Campus Radio Board petitioning for member-at-large positions for 1967-68 will be open from today until April 7.

Pete Sorum, radio board chairman, said applicants must plan to be on-campus students next year, have a minimum 2.0 grade average and not be affiliated with any student radio station.

Members-at-large will be chosen according to recently approved radio charter amendments stating that the selection take place annually before the third week of spring term. Those elected will assume duties fall term, but will be considered ex-officio members during spring term.

Selection will be made at the board's first meeting in April. A new chairman will also be chosen at this time.

As stipulated in the charter amendments, the chairman will be an on-campus student selected from nominations submitted to the board. The choice must be approved by the president of MHA, the president of WIC and chairman of the ASMSU Student Board.

The WMSN network also needs a business manager, Sorum added. Interested persons may inquire from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. in 8 Student Services where the member-at-large petitions will be available.

WMSN is presently broadcasting to Shaw, Brody, Wonders, Wilson, Case, Hubbard, Akers, Holmes and McDonel. The engineers said some adjustments are necessary to improve reception in Wilson.

Married housing complex: unreal city

By RANDOLPH HUGHES

An ideal city would have to go a long way to match the services that the MSU Married Housing Division offers.

What city has free plumbers and electricians on call 24 hours a day; or free snow removal, lawn care, trash removal, playgrounds or schools?

Add lesser services like a complete furniture refinishing and repair shop and you have an idea of the complexities of managing MSU's married housing operation.

Surprisingly, managing what is probably the largest university-sponsored married housing complex in the United States raises few major problems, said John Roetman, married housing manager.

One reason that few major problems arise may be that married students have a tendency to be serious, probably because of the shift from married population of mainly undergraduates five or ten years ago to the predominantly graduate population of today, Roetman said.

While the usual stay is two years, families have been known to reside in married housing as long as eight years, Roetman noted. As many as eight children have lived with their parents in one of the two-bedroom units, he said.

Perhaps the most difficult problem is having to tell someone as far away as California that no guarantee can be given as to whether or not he will receive an apartment at his requested date. It is virtually impossible to guarantee this to anyone, as the number of vacancies that arise is impossible to forecast, he added.

In spite of the long waiting period, no expansion of the married complex is planned in the near future, Roetman said. He specified the waiting period for a one-bedroom unit as 9 to 12 months and three to five months for a two-bedroom unit.

An additional 288 apartments were completed in November at Spartan Village, the last of the three married housing units to be built, Roetman commented. University Village was completed in 1955, followed by Cherry Lane Apartments in 1956, and Spartan Village, in 1958. The only basic difference between the three complexes is a variation in the floor plans.

Cherry Lane Apartments have the highest number of applicants, probably because they are closest to campus. This complex has the fewest number of units, Roetman noted that the students seem to prefer the all-brick buildings to the newer aluminum and plastic sided structures.

While many of the older units are carpeted, the newer ones are not. The carpeting in the older units is removed when it wears out and is not replaced. This is because few of the tenants are conscientious in removing stains and the carpets soon become very soiled.

So many of the tenants prefer to have no carpet at all rather than a stained, worn carpet, he said.

Although many residents dislike the noise transmitted through the thin walls, Roetman said he doesn't receive many complaints to this effect. It is very difficult to solve this problem, he added. He also noted that the sound-proofing seems equal to similar off-campus apartments.

'U' FOOD SCIENTISTS LEARN

Nose knows flavor best

Science has come up with many possible reasons for the cause of flavor in food, but it appears that, in the end, the nose knows best.

That's what MSU food scientists have learned in their studies to identify and isolate many of the hundreds of chemical compounds that constitute meat flavor, according to Albert M. Pearson, professor of food science.

He said that the carbonyl compounds may affect the flavor by the amount present, much as the effect of salt and pepper on food depends on how much is used.

In another study, Pearson worked with Bernard S. Schweigert, professor and chairman of Food Science, and Anne Sanderson, a former graduate student, to compare the effects of two methods of cooking beef.

They boiled one sample in water and cooked another in fat, then measured the carbonyl compounds resulting from each method.

Results showed that the carbonyl compounds are responsible for flavor and aroma differences in roasted and boiled beef, Pearson said.

MSU researchers are presently working in a similar manner with chicken to determine the compounds that affect its flavor.

The research is supported by grants from the U.S. Public Health Service's Division of Environmental Engineering and Food Protection.

flavors among the animal species.

"We've found that when you remove the sulfur compounds from a meat sample, the meaty aroma is gone, but when you remove the carbonyls, the aroma still remains," Pearson said.

If he can determine the elements of normal flavor, then, Pearson said, he can tackle the problem of abnormal flavor. Such knowledge could make it possible to develop a hamburger that tastes like fried chicken.

The two main classes of flavor compounds in meat are sulfur compounds and carbonyls. The sulfur compounds are responsible for the meaty flavor and carbonyls for the differences in

Academic regalia renting

Students graduating winter term have until the day of commencement, Sunday, to be measured for rental caps and gowns, said Jack W. Ostrander, assistant Union manager.

Measuring is taking place in the Union's fourth floor ping pong room 8:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. through Friday, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Saturday and 9:00 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Students who are unable to come for sizing at these times may come to the Union desk between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. today and Thursday, and between 7 a.m. and 12:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

After 1:30 p.m. on the day of graduation, caps and gowns may be picked up in the basement of the Auditorium.

After commencement exercises, caps and gowns may be returned to either the basement of the Auditorium or to the Union desk. Students may keep their tassels.

The fee for bachelor degree candidates is $4.50.

Fees for masters and doctorate candidates will vary, depending on whether or not a hood is rented.

Agriculture Clinic to attract 450 industrialists to MSU

The 13th annual Agricultural Marketing and Agribusiness Clinic is expected to attract about 450 industry leaders to MSU March 14-15.

Speakers from industry, government, MSU and other universities will discuss some of the recent developments and problems in agricultural marketing.

The clinic will provide separate seminars for those concerned with the marketing of grain, beans and farm supplies; dairy products; fruits and vegetables; poultry and eggs; and livestock and meats.

Sessions are also scheduled for directors of agriculturally related firms whose industry often is called agribusiness.

General meetings are also planned for those working in all phases of agricultural marketing.

At noon on March 14, E. Dean Vaughn, asst. director of the Federal Extension Service Division of Marketing and Utilization Sciences, will speak on "Transportation's Role in Tomorrow's Agribusiness."

Program chairman George Stachwick, Michigan Extension Service marketing program director, said the clinic's theme is "Adjusting to Change."

Stachwick, speaking of the basic purpose of the clinic said, "We try to identify the most important problems confronting the commodity firms, and bring in outstanding speakers to discuss these problems and suggest possible solutions."

The grain, bean and farm supply session will cover grain exporting, shipping rates, grain drying in country elevators, sanitation and corn storage by chilling.

Subjects in the livestock and meat meetings will include state and federal meat inspection and pricing by retailers, packers, cattle feeders and commission firms.

The poultry and egg clinic will discuss merchandising of turkeys, marketing of spent hens, disease problems, legislation covering egg marketing and an analysis of egg production and marketing systems.

The dairy session will be concerned with the National Commission on Food Marketing, processor-retailer relationships, new non-dairy foods, merchandising strategy and will feature a talk by a California dairy producer and distributor.

Fruit and vegetable marketers will discuss changes expected in the marketing system; a manufacturer's views on the fruit industry; the operation of a cooperative; merchandising canned and frozen vegetables; export potential for Michigan processed fruit; plans for a Southwest Michigan processing plant; and the organization of California canners and growers.

The agribusiness session will feature a talk by John Trocke, extension district marketing agent in Holland, Mich., on "Responsibilities of Directors for Tomorrow's Agribusiness Firms."

Petitioning open for IFC positions

All fraternity men who are interested in petitioning for chairman of one of the Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) committees should fill out a petition this week, according to Dick Herrold, president-elect of IFC.

Petitions are being distributed at all fraternity houses and at 307 Student Services Bldg.

Students arrested for larceny, shoplifting

Four students were arrested recently by the East Lansing Police for larceny from East Lansing buildings.

James T. Coburn, Pontiac sophomore; Thomas R. Fredricks, Birmingham junior and Gerald F. Jagger were arrested Friday for allegedly stealing a cigarette vending machine from Eden Roc Apartments, reported East Lansing Police.

The three demanded examination upon arraignment before Judge William Harmon in the East Lansing Municipal Court and were released on $1,000 bond.

The fourth student Gary A. Severn, Harbor Beach junior, was arrested for shoplifting Monday by East Lansing Police.

He entered a plea of guilty in Municipal Court and was to pay $60 in fines and costs.

Pope liberalizes Catholic hymns

VATICAN CITY (P) -- In a landmark document modernizing the rules for Roman Catholic music, Pope Paul VI Tuesday opened the way for possible use of blues, beat rhythms, spirituals and jazz in religious services.

The changes mark a revolution in the sacred music traditions of the 2,000-year-old Church.

"This document is one of the great landmarks of the liturgical movement," said the Vatican's leading expert on church music, the Rev. Annibale Brughini.

The document, titled "Instruction on Music in the Liturgy," goes into effect May 14, Pentecost Sunday.

The document urges more singing in services; authorizes singing of ancient Latin hymns in modern languages, and recommends use of instruments native to different countries and cultures.

It also permits a period of wide experimentation to try modern musical forms and instruments for church use.

In the document Pope Paul did not give a specific blank go-ahead for any new form or musical instrument.

But blues, spirituals, beat music and jazz were not prohibited and the document was drawn up in general terms to give the ruling bishops the widest possible choice.

Registration light for city

Voter registration for the April 3 East Lansing elections has been extremely light, according to city clerk Mary Slavik.

As of Jan. 31, 9,450 persons were registered to vote in East Lansing. By 6 p.m. Monday, the registration deadline, 44 persons had registered during the day. The city clerk's office was also open Monday night for registration.

Miss Slavik said that last week the office was open Monday and Tuesday nights but only one person came to register.

She attributed the light registration to a lack of interest in the election. Three city council seats and the office of constable are on the ballot. There are no propositions to be voted on.

There have been no petitioners for the office of constable, she said, so it will be a write-in election.

Friends say Lodge may quit Saigon

SAIGON -- Henry Cabot Lodge, United States ambassador to South Vietnam since Aug. 10, 1965, wants to be relieved of his duties in Saigon, reports the New York Times.

The Times, in a copyrighted story, said that Lodge wants to leave after the new South Vietnamese constitution is promulgated. The constituent assembly plans to complete its draft of the document by March 27, and a thirty-day period in which the governing military junta can amend it will follow.

A search for a successor has so far been more difficult than expected, the paper said, and Lodge's departure could be delayed indefinitely.

"Informed sources" and "friends" of the ambassador are the basis of the Times story.

Lodge, 65, served his first term as ambassador to Saigon from August, 1963 to June, 1964.

It's what's happening

The Fisheries and Wildlife Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in the Club Room of the Natural Science Building. Ted Black from the Rose Lake Wildlife Experimental Station, will speak about "Pesticides and Wildlife." Refreshments will be served.

Spartan Wives will hold their annual fashion show, "Spring Bouquet," 7:30 tonight in the Union Ballroom. Student wives will model clothes from Green's, Beaux and Belles and the Smart Stork Shop. A donation of 50 cents is asked.

Town - gown

"Some students won't tell you anything," she said, "but there is never a problem with the married students."

Mrs. Slavik also denied that asking a student if he went home for Christmas was a trick question to keep students off the rolls. "Other factors enter into consideration. If a student goes home for Christmas, he can still qualify."

Voters are registered according to state law, she said, and the work of her department has been supported by the Michigan State Dept.

In other actions the council accepted a tax roll for a storm drain project on Burcham Drive and approved the recommendations of the traffic commission to remove parking on the west side of Abbott Road from Oak-hill to Fern Street and on the east side of Park Lane from Linden to Beech Street.

Rules

"The University is more thorough now, since the Paul Schiff case," said Win Everbeck, assistant adviser at Butterfield.

Miss Everbeck indicated that the residence hall is turning away from a disciplinary role. The authority is already established, she said, in the University.

"I feel it is my responsibility to let the students know the rules," said Glen Stevens, head adviser at Shaw. "But it is their responsibility to live up to them."

Tomorrow: What are the major problems facing residence advisers?
