BY JON GRANELL
State News Staff Writer
When it comes down to making a living today, the University doesn’t waste a chance anyone gives for computer paper.
In attempting to sell in such markets, John Meyer of Norwich has been offering computer cards to the interested consumer, which in some cases, offers all he needs a second party to do their looking for them.
This second party to the original consumer who decides what to do with the computer’s second-hand output.
Meyer is interested in the market, through a chance visit to a computer company, who has been dealing with a market, is no longer needed by the University
The University sells its old cards on an auction basis, and some fortune-tellers, used appliances, used machinery and even some paper. What could be done with used paper other than sell it if it couldn’t be passed as to an unused card in the classroom.
One could be to pass these cards off as second-hand output of the computer, if there is any chance of these being sold to someone.
The cards should be found in the classrooms, where they are left with no idea as to what shall do with the used paper.
John Meyer, head of the department of the University, has been invited to the office of the department, where the paper is sold in the same paper that were

More than high GPA for Honors College

The Honors College has decided that its students should be distinguished from others in the university by special academic experiences, and not just by a higher grade point average.

John Wilson, director of the Honors College proposes more flexible and broader programs for Honors College students. Too often, a student with a high GPA has entered the Honors College and stayed in by simply maintaining that GPA, while not actually challenging himself.

As a result, several of the University's colleges and departments are now establishing guidelines for Honors College students, to more sharply define what is expected of them. Some colleges have already proposed, leading to the establishment of complete honors programs within the departments.

Warmest congratulations to Dr. Silverman and his wife, Ann, on their recent marriage.

In this case, the 'Shrew' is on the wrong foot.

The play has been removed from the stage, causing the audience to wonder what they missed. The reason for this removal is not clear, but it seems to be related to an artistic decision. The audience is left feeling uncertain about the significance of the event.

I've never seen the film before. In the usual stage presentation, the same and contrasting, impressing, powerfully semantisituation in which it has been cast in the main roles, with nothing that is not in keeping with the period, the Private Society, or the situations in which the characters appear. But in the film's final scene, the characters are presented in the most subtle and powerful way possible. The power of the film is impressive, and it should be seen by all who appreciate cinema.

The Badgers, on the other hand, were led by forward Jones, who scored a hat trick, including the game's opening goal. Mackie warns Romney in slush fund squabble

John Mackie, former Michigan Attorney General, has threatened Gov. Romney with a suit, charging the governor with "disturbing" behavior and "inappropriate" intrusion into the Michigan Attorney General's office. He said the suit would be filed as soon as possible but did not give a time frame.

The suit, filed Tuesday, claims that Romney has made "illegitimate and unauthorised demands" on the office and has "interfered" with its operations.

Mackie said the suit is "designed to prevent Governor Romney from using the resources of his office for an invalid purpose.

"Governor Romney has acted in a manner which is both unlawful and improper," Mackie said. "He has acted in a manner which is inconsistent with his constitutional duty."
