The Romney Express halts at 52nd Street

Gov. Romney found last week the path to the White House is littered not only with rose petals, but also with rusty nails of bureaucracy. Running full tilt from Lansing to Washington to Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles, the Romney express had been prepared to pass at CBS headquarters in New York for coal and water before it would make the dash to the Republican convention when the attorney general signaled STO.

The network would not permit Romney to buy time unless he was a declared candidate. The rules of the Federal Communications Commission’s “Faitness Doctrine” make economically impossible for the networks to accept advertising from a candidate other than a stated declared candidate, and CBS was tired of giving free air to the man running harder for the presidency than anyone else, in fact, according to William Jennings Bryan.

Romney’s presidency would fly in the face of what the network has come to accept as fact: that a candidate must be a declared candidate at least 60 days before the convention.

CBS managers have been preparing for a confrontation since early this fall, and variations of the Romney campaign have been heard on the radio network since then. Romney’s broadcast time has been used to publicize his ideas and to air advertisements over a number of news programs.

The network plowed on with its initial stance when Romney announced that he was thinking of running.

“Romneyism” is the term the network has given to the man and his ideas. Romney is considered a symbol of the business community and the people are being exposed to his ideas on a daily basis.

The network has been much surprised by the strength of this man from the standpoint of his possible impact. Romney’s broadcast time has been used to publicize his ideas and run advertisements.

CBS had anticipated a confrontation with Romney when he announced that he was considering a run for the presidency.

Buckeyes eliminate MSU from Big Ten race

By JOE MITCHELL

State News Sports Editor

It looks like the Spartans are one step closer to the state championship. Following their 35-10 victory over the Buckeyes, head coach Brian Hoyer said, "I think we've played well all year."

The Buckeyes, on the other hand, fell to 4-2 on the season and are now tied for second place in the Big Ten. Head coach Mike Stoops said, "We need to focus on our mistakes and get back to work.

Huff 'steaked' to best game

Despite being a backup, Jim Huff had a standout game against Michigan State. Huff completed 18 of 25 passes for 241 yards and three touchdowns.

"It was a good game, but we need to improve our defense," said Huff after the game.

Frosh game postponed again

The State University's football team has been unable to play due to a lack of eligible players. The team, which started the season with 35 eligible players, now has only 10.

"We need to find more players to fill in the gaps," said coach Mike Stoops.

Buckeyes' Huff has biggest day

Sophomore fullback Paul Huff had the best game of his career against the Spartans. Huff rushed for 171 yards and scored a touchdown.

"I was surprised to see Paul run the ball so effectively," said coach Mike Stoops.
