Power plant failures tied to May by trustee

A series of electrical blackouts in the University, the latter a minor one this three days ago, in taking the power plant and President Philip J. Maloney, president of the Board of Control, to task for a "serious failure of leadership." Maloney was unable to account for the series of failures, which resulted in a loss of power and a loss of electricity to the campus.

The failures, which occurred in May, have been blamed by the Board of Control on the "lack of personnel and equipment" and on the failure of the Board of Control to supervise the operation of the power plant. The failure has resulted in a loss of revenue and a loss of electricity to the campus. The Board of Control has been unable to account for the failures, which have occurred in May, and the Board of Control has been unable to account for the failures, which have occurred in May.

How the brave...
Yale's grade policy: initiation of a trend?

Last week Yale became the first major university to abolish numerical grading at all levels. Even though the chairman of the grading subcommittee of the M.S. Educational Policies Committee, Charles R. St Clair, feels that the Yale plan probably won't be copied here, the move away from grade numbers cannot be ignored.

There are, of course, inherent problems in attempting to use such a system at a large university. The Yale designations of fail, pass, high pass, and honors might work well for a homogeneous group of students such as attend Yale. But as long as the grading system remains intact for students admitted to graduate school, the pitfalls of such a grading policy are obvious from a grade point average, are obvious. The possible deviation is too great to be practical.

Grades, too often, have become an end in themselves, especially at large universities, an effort should at least be made to make grades more meaningful, when they cannot be eliminated. The research, and recommendations of the Educational Policies Committee indicate a possible pass/fail system is feasible at MSU, especially if the students are selected and new major courses are acted on.

The action by Yale seems to indicate a national trend in grading policy. Before the end of this term, a decision should come on whether or not this move in the direction will be made at MSU. In the meantime, we can only wait for the improvements to make our grading system more flexible and responsive to students' needs.

SN: editorial: a visceral reaction

The voiceless Formosans

There has been a liberalizing of the political climate recently, especially on the part of the government on such issues as freedom of speech and association, yet the price of free expression has been too high. The authorities have been more lenient, but the citizens have been more outspoken. This is a hopeful sign, but it is also a sign of the times. There are problems, and they are real.

For the Formosans, the situation is not as simple. The government has been more lenient, but the people are not as vocal. The Formosan issue is still a sensitive one, and the government is not likely to give in easily. But there are signs of hope, and we should support them.

The Formosan issue is a complex one, and it is not easy to find a solution. But the government is making some efforts, and we should support them. The Formosan issue is a problem that needs to be solved, and we should work towards a solution. The Formosan issue is a problem that needs to be solved, and we should work towards a solution.
Nationalistic German party aiming for Parliament seats

The party program demands withdrawal of all foreign troops from Germany and reunification of the country, including former German new territory in the East. Von Thadden was threatened that the party might resort to civil war. During the party's efforts, Von Thadden's life was saved by a proposal for the formation of the council. The result is that the party leaders are making public appearances and speaking to the people.

Von Thadden also announced that he would reshuffle the program. He declared that was the only way to end up with the right solution. But the measures could not be taken without a guarantee of the people. He also believes that the only way to solve the problem is to give a solution to the people.

Frosh quarterback Gary Krueger

State freshman quarterback Gary Krueger, 6-5, 240-pound frosh quarterback, led MSU to a rain-soaked 35-18 victory over Kent State Saturday in Spartan Stadium. Krueger, who replaced beleaguered Jack Brannen in the first quarter, completed 17 of 25 passes for 189 yards and two touchdowns. He also ran for 84 yards and another score.

The defense set up all three touchdowns in the quarter by recovering fumbles on three consecutive offensive plays. The Spartans led, 10-7, before being held scoreless in the second half.

In the opening drive, MSU struck at once. With 7:50 left in the period, Kent State punter Brian Nelson fumbled as he was about to punt from the MSU 47-yard line. Jim King recovered at the MSU 10-yard line and the Spartans scored on a three-yard run by Gary Krueger in the first quarter. The same play combined for a second-quarter touchdown. Krueger scored on a 14-yard run with 9:20 left in the quarter.

The pass for the remaining point came when Krueger connected with Rich King for a field goal.

Midway through the second period, the Spartans were stopped at the Kent 17-yard line, but got a first down at the 39-yard line. On the next play, Krueger took a pass from Brannen and ran 16 yards to the six-yard line. After a penalty, the Spartans scored on a one-yard touchdown plunge by Gary Krueger.

The last drive of the game came with 4:40 left in the game. Krueger completed 10 of 13 passes in the drive to set up the winning touchdown.

The Spartans scored in the first quarter when Mark Kowalczyk, who replaced Mitchell in the first quarter, completed a 20-yard pass to Bob Foote for a touchdown.

Spartan defense stopped the Bearcats twice in the red zone, with the last drive coming with 4:09 left in the fourth quarter. The Bearcats were faced with a fourth-and-inch on the MSU 35-yard line. After a penalty, the Bearcats gained two more yards on the last play of the game, but were unable to convert.

The Spartans' defense was led by junior end John Nemecek, who had three tackles and a sack. Junior tackle Mike Smolik had two tackles and a sack, and senior end Jack Kowalczyk had three tackles and a sack. Senior linebacker Don Rosenblatt had six tackles and a sack, and junior linebacker Dave McFarland had six tackles and a sack.

GETS COOL RECEPTION
State Senator opposes unruly freedom protests

By LEO DAINA
State News Staff Writer

Despite being opposed by a number of groups, as well as the university, the students' requests for greater freedom on campus met innovative solutions from the administration.

For example, the administration recently revised the Student Handbook to allow for greater freedom of speech and assembly on campus, and they have also created a new committee to review and address complaints from students.

In addition, the university has implemented a new system of student body officials who are responsible for enforcing the Student Handbook, and they have also created a new system of student body officials who are responsible for enforcing the Student Handbook.

Senator opposed

Sen. Frank Beaudet, R-St. Cloud, spoke of a signa
tion that he received in the US Senate yesterday, in which he noted that they might oppose any pro gram that they believe would lead to an increase in the number of crime on the university campus.

"The program is not only contrary to our interests in maintaining a safe and pleasant environment for our students," Beaudet said.

"It is also contrary to the interests of the entire university community. We must work together to ensure that our campus remains a safe and welcoming place for all students, faculty, and staff.

"I urge my colleagues in the Senate to consider carefully before voting on this measure."

\[ \text{Average winter snowfall predicted} \]

Students will be disappointed by this report if they expect a report that will predict an average winter snowfall. The report is based on a study of the past 30 years of weather records, and it is intended to give an indication of what can be expected in the future.

The report states that the average snowfall for the upcoming winter will be 50 inches. This is an increase of 20 inches compared to last year's average, which was 30 inches. The average snowfall for the past 10 years has been 40 inches.

The report also predicts that the snowfall will be concentrated in the northern part of the country, with the southern part experiencing less snowfall. The report warns that this could lead to increased travel difficulties and increased costs for winter maintenance.
