Student riots close classes at Ohio's CSU

MILWAUKEE, Ohio — Classes at Central State University, some of a Negro student demonstration. "For the safety and welfare of the student body..." "With the academic year this fall, the CSU administration has imposed a blanket ban on all classes," according to the student leader. "This is the third day that classes have been cancelled due to student protests." From the Chicago Daily News.

Tax rise to aid services

By TRINKA CLINE

State Senator Warfield

To support legislative aid and many

An editorial in the Daily News stated that the "tax rise to aid services" is necessary.

Students will vote Monday on a referendum to raise the tax rate on students to provide a public relations officer free of charge. The referendum will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the campus.

There was no assurance that property damage would be paid and many students were in favor of the referendum.

Some furniture and fixtures such as the analysis of the referendum and the effect it would have on the campus were discussed. The referendum was approved.

undiscovered diabetic

The death of an MSU student at the early morning of the last week of his life was due to diabetes, according to County Coroner Jerry Holmes. Joseph D. Krehbiel, 20, Princeton, N.J., was found in severe shock on one of the dormitory floors early on Monday morning. "The body was wrapped neatly in a blanket," said University police. "There were no signs of foul play." From the Chicago Daily News.

Les Rothcer confer on Viet war troubles

LBJ’s news conference on Viet war troubles was characterized by a dramatic speech in which the president defended his handling of the war and his policies. The speech, delivered at the White House on November 15, 1967, was a response to the ongoing conflict in Vietnam and the growing domestic opposition to the war.

Despite the administration’s efforts to downplay the severity of the situation, the president acknowledged the difficulties faced by American soldiers and their families.

Rothcer began by discussing the need for a “wholehearted” effort to win the war, emphasizing the importance of American military victory. He also stressed the need for continued support from the American people.

In the speech, Rothcer acknowledged the growing anti-war sentiment in the United States, but defended his administration’s approach to the war. He argued that the United States was committed to the success of the war effort and that it was essential to maintain public support.

Rothcer also addressed the issue of the war’s impact on American society, recognizing the sacrifices made by American families.

While the speech was received positively by the administration, it was met with mixed reactions from the American public. Some viewed it as an attempt to deflect criticism, while others saw it as a genuine effort to address the concerns of the American people.

Despite the mixed reactions, the speech was seen as an important moment in the administration’s efforts to manage the war and its impact on American society.

NOVEMBER ISSUE

Hemoglobin herosics end fear

"I have given blood for the MSU Blood Drive, and that is enough to make anybody a hero."
ENDS don't justify CIA means

To the Editor:
The letter from L. C. R. in the November 3 News is certainly an interesting document, if not an inspiring one. As a reflection of the mentality which pervades within the Central Intelligence Agency, it sheds light on what is at war in America.

Children need gifts

To the Editor:
Your single-sentence and select-excepting article of "Highland children go to school" was neither justified nor enlightening. To have the children of Spartan Village School and the very few who attend the schools there be supercilious, notwithstanding the article's inaccuracy, is an actual report. Their self-selection for SPANISH is neither more than the fact that the children had not been asked to consider other schools. This does not mean they would have changed of "choice" necessity for themselves. Instead, they learned hundreds of happy hours as they remained in search of identification in their own school.

We have a more impressionistic group of children with whom to work and parents we have worked with in our efforts at Spartan schools.

NOMINATIONS for DISTINGUISHED FACULTY AWARDS

The undersigned committee (representing the dean’s advisory committee of each college) solicits nominations for distinguished faculty awards from faculty members and from student organizations. Nominations may be based on teaching, advising, research, publications, art exhibitions, concert performances, committee work, public service (extension, continuing education or work for government agencies), or a combination of the above. In accordance with the latest recommendation of the Educational Policies Committee, greater emphasis will be placed on teaching. Nominations should not be held to administrative excellence or length of service. However, nominees should normally have at least five years of service at Michigan State University. Each nomination should be typed double-spaced on plain bond paper. It should be headed:

NOMINATION for M.S.U. DEVELOPMENT FUND DISTINGUISHED FACULTY AWARD

Nominee

College

Department

The heading should be followed by a typed (double-spaced) recommendation of not more than 500 words. Additional materials (bibliographies, supporting letters, etc.) may be submitted to the college committees, but will not be forwarded to the University committee.

Nominations, in finished form, should be delivered to the appropriate college representative not later than November 22, unless an earlier date is established by the college.

Each college representative will meet with the dean’s advisory committee of his college to receive the nominations and vote on the person which will be submitted for further consideration at the University level.

East Lansing face-lifting in planning stages

The overall design for one of the traditional, century-old buildings in the city, the Knapp's Store, will be changed with the Knapp's chain of clothing stores. The store, which is located on the corner of East Grand River Avenue and Michigan Avenue, will be given a new face-lift, with architectural and interior changes planned. The Knapp's Store is one of the oldest remaining structures in the city, and its design concept will be similar to that of the neighboring East Lansing City Hall.

The design for the parking garage, which is planned to be constructed next year, will be similar to the overall scheme of the CBD area. The architect, John Knapp, manager of the Knapp's Store, said that he hopes the proposed parking garage will provide space for the students. He also indicated that the parking community was handled through the design process.

The proposed parking garage will be located on the east side of East Grand River Avenue, next to the Knapp's Store. The parking garage will be divided into two sections, with a total of 1,000 parking spaces.

The design for the parking garage includes a pedestrian ramp, which will connect the garage to the street level. The pedestrian ramp will be accessible to people with disabilities.

The parking garage will be constructed by the East Lansing City Council, and the cost of the project will be approximately $5 million. The parking garage will be funded through a combination of city funds and private contributions.

Overall, the plan for the parking garage is expected to improve the traffic flow in the area and provide additional parking for the students. The project is expected to be completed within the next two years.
Rosenblum finds PAC colorless

The Performing Arts Company, at mingling at production and consistency in performance this year, according to Marshal Rosenblum, far Rockaway, N.Y. graduate student, and a member of MU’s Performing Arts Company.

A four-year veteran of University theater, Rosenblum sees the days of the vaudeville shows, such as 'The Pity She’s a Whore,' as 'They don’t do anything to de-3efile what they think they will sell. Book. 'Arse and Old Lace' can be put as a major production. "There's a disservice being done. They play it safe and put that on to taste of something by Aloe or Gessand they do it in a way where infantile and above." he said.

Rosenblum said the theater here is not really involved with the any more. "The theater is not oriented to students on and demonstrations--for two reasons: to help the identity of the theater and to make a contribution to the University. There's a lot of other voices that would welcome con-act with the outside. But there's not enough room of objectives to realize the potential. There is talent here,'" Rosenblum said.

State colleges run not Y.

"It's a time when it's just an annex of the big productions.
The objectives have been high, but they're discon-
ected from the rest of the world and the college service," he said.

Rosenblum sees the comparative reaction as growing sophistication in the theater's audience. The theater ought to respond.

"The PAC should have more of an identity on campus. Go out of the theater for talks

Damage to glass expensive

Local employers have been forewarned of a cost increase to glazing for advertisements.

"I'm not sure if the insurance companies will raise the price of the insurance. The policyholders are getting the price to rise in the next few years," said a local insurance agent.

Police are searching the area where the glass was broken.

A woman walking through the damaged glass was not injured.

"We're trying to locate the source of the damage," said a police officer.

The cost of glazing for advertisements is

Purdue boasts awesome offense

By GAYEL MUSCH
State News Sports Writer

There’s only one thing making life really worth living at Purdue this year, and it’s not a title game. In fact, with the Boilermakers leading the Big Ten this season, finding an opponent that can keep up with them is tough. But Purdue fans have no reason to worry about the possibility of a lackluster competition. The Boilermakers have been playing against the best of the best this season.

Purdue has topped three Big Ten opponents, scoring 44, 50, and 54 points per game, respectively. In three of those games, the Boilermakers have scored more than 50 points. Last season, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin were the only Big Ten teams that scored 40 points or more against Purdue. The Boilermakers have had their share of close games, but they’ve never had a game where they were scored on by more than 10 points. Purdue fans have every reason to expect a close game against the Michigan Wolverines this week.

Purdue quarterback Jesse Phillips has completed a total of 197 passing attempts and has completed 10 of those attempts against Michigan. Phillips has shown great leadership and has proven to be a key player for the Boilermakers. His performance against Michigan last week was impressive, and fans are eagerly waiting for his performance against the Wolverines this week.

The Boilermakers have been playing against some of the best teams in the Big Ten, including Ohio State, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Each of these teams has faced off against Purdue this season, and each team has been defeated. Purdue’s defense has been a key factor in their success, allowing only 12 points per game against these teams. With the Boilermakers leading the Big Ten this season, fans are excited to see how they perform against the Wolverines this week.

Michigan has been a strong opponent for the Boilermakers this season. They’ve completed 10 of 11 passes against Michigan, with Phillips’ throwing accuracy being a key factor in their success. Phillips and Jesse have been the two main forces driving the Boilermakers’ offense this season. Phillips has shown great leadership and has proven to be a key player for the Boilermakers. His performance against Michigan last week was impressive, and fans are eagerly waiting for his performance against the Wolverines this week.
State works for road safety

By STAR MORAN

State News Staff Writer

Death Exacty on the highways, a record of every crash, accident, collision and fatality, was released this week by the Ohio Department of Transportation.

The report, which covers the period from 1966 to 1970, shows that there were 11,126 fatal accidents on Ohio roads, resulting in 15,694 deaths and 50,000 injuries.

The report also shows that Ohio's road safety record has improved over the past five years, with a decrease in both the number of fatal accidents and the number of fatalities per 100,000 population.

However, the report also highlights the importance of continued efforts to improve road safety, as the number of serious injuries resulting from accidents has remained relatively stable.

The report calls for continued investment in road safety programs, as well as increased enforcement of traffic laws and improved education programs for drivers.

The report can be found on the Ohio Department of Transportation's website at www.ohndot.gov.
