Many Merit Scholars claim 'U'misled' them

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a copy from yesterday's issue of the letters to Linda Gortmaker and Steve D. McFarland. These scholarships, of course, program based on nominations by local letters and suggestions on the by Linda Gortmaker

STEVE GATES
State News Staff Writer

From the date the National Merit Cor-while high school seniors with one letter from Gordon A. Sabine, ment" program of high school seniors
the program by Merit scholars.

Many Merit Scholars claim U'misled' them.

The mood of the letters, writes one Merit scholar,
"We are great, You can make us greater bu

Committee on Undergraduate Education and scholarship fund..." writes high school, residence hall life...", "I've college..."

Some scholars had kinder words for letter sent to all incoming freshmen.
"The development... For one, the many people know.

The series describes for letter to our editor, received by one (provide more context).
Petition delayed to let board act

By DAM BRANDON
State News Staff Writer

A move to bring a referendum on the let board action issue to the ballot is being delayed by an appeals court.

According to Michigan Union, the petitioners have not yet been served with a copy of the order.

United Press International

The UPI Board of Directors met Tuesday night to discuss the issue of the let board's delay in acting on a referendum petition.

"The board met to discuss the issue of the let board's delay in acting on the referendum petition," said UPI President Tom McDonald. "They discussed the need for the board to act on the petition as soon as possible, and agreed to file a motion for immediate action." The motion was approved by a 5-0 vote.

Corporate spokesman Paul Davies said the board is considering legal options for handling the issue.

"We are exploring all legal options available to us," Davies said. "We will take all necessary steps to ensure that the let board acts on this important issue as soon as possible." The board will continue to meet to discuss the matter until a decision is reached.

Stonewall: Ten feds arrested

Two feds were arrested last night in a raid on the Stonewall Inn, the site of several recent anti-war demonstrations.

The feds were carrying search warrants and were joined by local police in the raid.

"We believe the feds were acting on intelligence that there was a suspicious activity at the Stonewall Inn," said UPI Vice President Tom McDonald.

A police spokesperson confirmed the intrusion, saying, "We received a call that there were suspicious activities at the Stonewall Inn." The spokesperson said that the feds and police are now investigating the incident.

Members of the Stonewall Inn have been arrested before.

"We have been arrested before on similar occasions," said a member of the Stonewall Inn. "But this is the first time we have been arrested without our consent." The member said that the police and feds are searching the inn at this time.

STONEMEAL, Ten feds arrested

Five feds were arrested last night in a raid on the Stonewall Inn, the site of several recent anti-war demonstrations.

The feds were carrying search warrants and were joined by local police in the raid.

"We believe the feds were acting on intelligence that there was a suspicious activity at the Stonewall Inn," said UPI Vice President Tom McDonald.

A police spokesperson confirmed the intrusion, saying, "We received a call that there were suspicious activities at the Stonewall Inn." The spokesperson said that the feds and police are now investigating the incident.

Members of the Stonewall Inn have been arrested before.

"We have been arrested before on similar occasions," said a member of the Stonewall Inn. "But this is the first time we have been arrested without our consent." The member said that the police and feds are searching the inn at this time.

"The raid was a peaceful protest," said an innkeeper. "I don't understand why the feds had to get involved." The innkeeper said that he has been arrested before on similar occasions.

"We will continue to protest against the war," said a member of the inn. "We will not be stopped by the feds." The member said that they will continue to protest and fight for their rights.

Romney supports policy of bombing N. Vietnam

U.S. and Chinese envoys discuss positions, intentions

WASHINGTON, April, Romney McNaught, the President of the United States, and Chinese Envoy, Mr. Ch'en Tung, held bilateral discussions on the issue of bombing N. Vietnam.

During the meeting, Mr. Ch'en Tung reiterated the Chinese position that the bombing is not justified and that it is the responsibility of the United States to ensure the cessation of the bombing.

Mr. Romney, on the other hand, expressed the U.S. commitment to the containment of the bombing and the pursuit of a peaceful solution to the conflict.

Romney expressed concern over the number of civilian casualties and the potential for escalation.

Mr. Ch'en Tung urged the U.S. to engage in direct negotiations with the North Vietnamese, but Romney emphasized the importance of maintaining the sanctions against the North Vietnamese to prevent further escalation.

The meeting concluded with the commitment of both parties to continue discussions on the issue and to explore avenues for a peaceful resolution.

Free 'U' courses offered this term

U.S. Free University will offer a range of free courses this term, including topics such as: World War II, American history, and art history.

The courses will be taught by experienced instructors and will focus on providing an in-depth understanding of the subject matter.

"We are excited to offer these courses as a way to enrich the community and provide opportunities for learning," said UPI President Tom McDonald.

The courses will be held on various days of the week, with times and locations to be announced.

"We encourage everyone to take advantage of these opportunities," said McDonald. "These courses are free, so there is no excuse not to participate."
NEWS summary

A capsule summary of the day's events from our wire services.

"I will never lick the boots of that Johnson."  Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia

International News

- PRINCE NORDOM SIHANOUK of Cambodia told newsmen today that he will visit U.S. forces in North Vietnam and Viet Cong has itself welcomed Cambodia. He said that President Johnson's "meaningful" promise, he would be visiting his home seasoned in Cambodia Monday.

- SEVEN HUNDRED VIET CONG guerrillas surrender. (SDF) - The Viet Cong cadres turned in their Communards and fled the lines in secret for three hours Monday before retreating to the bush near Cambodia's border.

National News

- MIKE KAPRASKE, the world's fourth heart transplant patient, is reported today to be at the heart of the State University, New York. The hospital treated the patient after the 39-year-old's heart began to fail from the massive heart attack he suffered last month.

- PRESIDENT JOHNSON is reported considering a changed political campaign plan aimed at winning the support of the National Urban League. The president is expected to meet with the leaders of the league tomorrow in Washington.

- THE PENTAGON ANNOUNCED Monday that 100,000 troops will be deployed in Vietnam to protect the surrounding area. The deployment is expected to be completed by the end of the month.

Michigan News

- FRANK FITZSIMMONS, one president of the Twentieth Century-Fox, has been telephoned by the Detroit Free Press to attempt a peaceful settlement of the strike by the film industry workers. The film workers are reported to be in talks with the company tonight.

Clarification asked on broadcast fairness

"WASHINGTON — At a meeting of the Supreme Court Monday, Justice Blackmun asked the broadcasters to offer fair treatment for individuals of all political views and to avoid giving the impression of favoring one viewpoint over another.

Justice Blackmun said the broadcasters had not been fair in their coverage of the presidential election campaign, and that they should be "very careful" in their coverage of political candidates and issues.

The broadcasters are expected to respond with a statement of their own, saying they will cooperate with the court's request.

CRITICIZE BOMBING

VIET refugees held for anti-U.S. talks

On the edge of starvation

A hustler

SOPHOMORES ARE YOU CREATIVE NEAT TALENTED

SWING

Alpha Chi Delta of Theta Xi

The book club on campus

PAPER-MINDLESS

The Key To The Answer

MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1968

Discount Records Inc.

From Coast to Coast

This Week's Specials

First Golden Era

RARE

DISRAELI GEtty

3.19

STRANGE DAYS

3.19

TENDERNESS JUNCTION

3.19

EVERYTHING'S PLAYING

3.19

BLUE MOUNTAIN

3.19

PICTURE THIS

3.19

Some Kind of Excitement

3.19

BAND ON THE RUN

3.19

KING OF THE BELLS

3.19

THE SOUL

3.19

GREAT HIT SOLO

3.19

SALE ENDS SAT., JAN. 13

NEW BOB DYLAN ALBUM

"John Wesley Harding"

THIS WEEK ONLY $3.19

SEND 55c

Discount Records, Inc.

Mon. through Fri. 9:30-8:30  SAT. 9:30-6:00

320 South Main Avenue

Onto the edge of starvation

Solve your problems by interviewing at the Michigan State News Advertising Department Open House -- Tonight at 7:30 p.m. Room 346 Student Services Building. The staff will be happy to answer questions, welcome applications and discuss jobs with you. Advertising majors are welcome as transfers, but no experience is required.

A car is essential to these positions.
Crime commission stops short

Five months ago Detroit was among the American cities that were engaged in the theft and shooting of riots. One phase of response came last week in the form of a report containing 25 recommendations prepared by the 57-man Michigan Crime Commission. The proposals included outlawing possession of Molotov cocktails; expanding police intelligence units; restricting sale and possession of firearms; legalizing wiretapping in extreme cases regarding corrupt public officials; instituting crime, and making police salaries competitive with those of industry. Not to be overlooked were the safeguards that would protect the rights of individuals.

The safeguarding of individual liberty is too vital to be endangered by legalizing the use of wiretaps. Taken in the proper perspective—America as a whole is being torn by the riot and crime control measures are trivial. True is the purpose of the commission, its report is primarily concerned with the possibilities of the use of wiretaps. It exists instead of how to eliminate its causes.

Last summer's depth and breadth of discontent would appear impossible to ignore. In five months after Detroit's upheaval, both Mayor C. T. Rove and Detroit's Police commissioner Ray Girard have noted that something significant has been done to alleviate the underlying reasons that resulted in 40 deaths and extensive property damage.

The Michigan Crime Commission is working on its fifth annual report of the American puzzle. One can only ask when the rest of the task will be begun.

Still to be met are the desperate needs of the automobile ghettos, the ghettos dwellers, the usually-employed—those most likely to participate in mass destruction and crime. They today have the least to lose by the click of a trigger or the striking of a match.

— The Editors

Our readers' minds

Eduational tokenism at MSU

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that the Freshman Counselor should have said of the Freshman class that it is likely to become a "token" in the university's efforts to diversify student enrollment.

We are aware that the Freshman class represents the enrollees for the first two years of the freshman class. We do not wish to be interpreted as an endorsement of this statement.

The Freshman class is diverse in terms of race, ability, and interest. It is from this diverse body that the university selects students to participate in various programs and activities.

We disagree with the Freshman counselor's statement and suggest that the Freshman class is not likely to become a "token" in the university's efforts to diversify student enrollment.

Purging outsiders

To the Editor:

I have recently read in The Michigan State that the Freshman Counselor has made some comments concerning the Freshman class. I would like to express my disagreement with the counselor's statement.

I believe that the Freshman class is diverse in terms of race, ability, and interest. It is from this diverse body that the university selects students to participate in various programs and activities.

I suggest that the Freshman class is not likely to become a "token" in the university's efforts to diversify student enrollment.

— The Editors

Closed minds behind closed doors

The recently proposed revision of the faculty union's constitution focuses attention once again on the issue of student representation on the Academic Council and the Faculty Senate. In the past, the meetings of these groups were closed. Apparently, at least in discussion, were simply brushed off by the Academic Council, which has instituted action for student representation on all student-related issues. A recent article in The Michigan State News related a situation that had occurred among Michigan State's students.

"Not allowing students to take part in council meetings has been bad enough. They are only compounding the error by trying to make it part of the by-laws."

The Academic Council is actually stepping backward by making a provision for closed meetings in the by-laws. It is not only narrowing its perspective, but making the relationship between student and faculty become more distant. The council seems to have closed its mind to its students' request for meaningful interchange, which can be accomplished only through permanent, not voting, membership on the council.

"In other words—you don't take these threats seriously?"
TALKS—PEACE OR FOOLERY?

JOSEPH ALSOY

WASHINGTON -- After last year's zenith of enthusiasm for the war, there is, in the nation's collective mind, a more realistic appreciation of the situation and possibilities that confront the negotiators at the Geneva table. This is, above all else, a reflection of the war's ominous developments.

For example, the mood has drastically changed since they were first thrown into the cauldron of the conflict by the Viet Cong's Tet Offensive. In the aftermath of that event, the American armed forces, the American population, and the American government, were all convinced that the war was nearing its end. But what appeared to be a clear victory for the North Vietnamese was, in reality, a strategic failure for them. As a result, the United States, which had previously been opposed to the idea of a negotiated peace settlement, was forced to abandon that position. This was a clear indication of the difficulties facing the negotiators at Geneva.

The changing mood among the American public is reflected in the polls. According to the latest survey, 58% of Americans now believe that peace talks are the only way to end the war. This represents a significant increase from the 46% who held that view in 1967. The changing public sentiment has been fueled by a growing sense of frustration and disillusionment with the war.

But while there is a clear majority in favor of peace talks, there is also a significant minority that believes that the United States should continue to fight. This group is composed of hard-liners who believe that the United States must commit itself to a full-scale military victory in order to achieve its goals. They argue that the American public is too defeatist and that the United States must continue to fight in order to maintain its prestige and influence in the world.

The changing mood among the American public has also had an impact on the political landscape. The Democratic Party has been forced to adjust its stance on the war, as the party's leadership has been forced to recognize the growing support for peace talks. This has led to a moderation of the party's positions on the war, with many Democratic leaders now calling for a negotiated settlement.

The changing mood among the American public has also had an impact on the military. The change in public sentiment has led to a reduction in military spending, as the American public is no longer willing to endure the economic costs of the war. This has led to a reduction in the size of the armed forces, as the military is no longer able to sustain its current levels of personnel.

In conclusion, the changing mood among the American public has had a significant impact on the war. The growing support for peace talks has led to a reduction in military spending, as the American public is no longer willing to endure the economic costs of the war. This has led to a reduction in the size of the armed forces, as the military is no longer able to sustain its current levels of personnel. The change in public sentiment has also had an impact on the political landscape, as the Democratic Party has been forced to adjust its stance on the war, as the party's leadership has been forced to recognize the growing support for peace talks. This has led to a moderation of the party's positions on the war, with many Democratic leaders now calling for a negotiated settlement.
Inflationary trend may change wage guideline

WASHINGTON — President Richard Nixon, having the most formal discussion to date of the nation’s disintegrating wage-price spiral, used Wednesday’s nationally broadcast appearance before a joint session of Congress to outline his new approach to dealing with the problem.

This could differ somewhat from the big wage guideline concept between Johnson and labor leaders two years ago in which the administration tried to link pay hikes to price increases. But U.S. labor leaders are believed to be opposed to linking wages and prices in any way.

The guidelines approved by Nixon are not legally binding, but unions and employers may sign wage agreements that state they will rise at about 3.2 percent a year in keeping with an overall price level increase of about 3.5 percent. Labor economists still consider wages to be a primary cause of price inflation.

President Joseph A. Birney of the AFL-CIO communications workers' union in announcing the guidelines said they would be “a case-by-case approach.”

This is a time of prosperity for many in America and we in the Communications Workers of America are determined that it should be a time of prosperity for our members, too, Mr. Birney said.

Washington Telephone and Telegraph Co. will make the guidelines.

The department also indexed the guidelines and processes refinements. These testing procedures, and wish to come here

This could differ somewhat in that labor leaders have already agreed with the administration on a case-by-case approach. The department also indexed the guidelines and processes refinements.

Michael Scholars

Letters also discussed the potential of administrative law with each dissertation (every five years), acknowledging that the work could be assigned to the student.

The Mariner Corporation is aware that the work is expensive, and the student may reasonably be expected to get 50 to 60 percent of his work from his dissertation.

The Mariner Corporation is aware that the work is expensive, and the student may reasonably be expected to get 50 to 60 percent of his work from his dissertation.

Bolivia

Pound devaluation

Labour

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.

The pound's devaluation on page 10. Britain's productive capacity is the nation's largest, with 8.6 percent of the economy, although the share of Britain's economy in the world has dropped at a slower rate.
Bard's life subject of film

The West End is being tentatively dubbed, to the delight of Bobby Darin, the star of the new movie, "The Great American Songbook." The film, which has been in production for the past three months, is expected to reach the 15 million mark by the end of the year.

"The Bawdy Bard," as the picture is affectionately known in Hollywood, has been a hit with the critics and is expected to gross millions in the coming months. The studio announced that it would give a special screening of the film to the cast and crew on Friday night.

The film, which stars Darin in the title role, is a biographical drama about the life of Shakespeare, the English poet and playwright. It is directed by the Academy Award-winning director, John Huston, who is working on his 15th film in the last five years.

The movie is based on the life of the poet, who was born in Stratford-upon-Avon in 1564 and died in 1616. He is considered one of the greatest writers in the English language, and his works have been translated into more than 150 languages.

Darin, who has been working with Huston for the past two years, said he was honored to be part of such an important project. "It's a dream come true," he said. "I've been a fan of Shakespeare's work for years, and to be able to bring his stories to life on the screen is a great honor."
YUGOSLAV SUCCESSOR

Conservative Vatican clerics quirk visits to Communist Yugoslavia

VATICAN CITY—Ultra-conservative Archbishop Cardinal Ottaviani has resigned as the critical general secretary of the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, sources revealed recently.

The resignation of Cardinal Ottaviani, 77, is an important step in the Vatican's efforts to improve ties with communist countries.

The move, which was announced by Vatican spokesman Msgr. Alfredo Cardinal Sarra, comes at a time when the Vatican is seeking to strengthen its relations with communist nations around the world.

Cardinal Ottaviani, who has been a vocal critic of communist regimes, had been in the post since 1969.

His resignation was welcomed by progressive clerics who had been calling for his removal from the post.

The appointment of Cardinal Ottaviani, 77, was reported by Vatican sources as one of several high-profile resignations that have been taking place in recent weeks.

The resignations were said to be part of efforts to modernize the Vatican's administration and improve ties with other countries.

The Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with mixed reactions.

While some progress has been made, particularly in China, other communist countries such as Cuba and Vietnam remain distant from the Vatican.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.

The resignations of key figures like Cardinal Ottaviani are seen as a positive step towards improving ties with these countries.

However, the Vatican's efforts to improve relations with communist nations have been met with skepticism by some progressive clerics who are concerned about the Vatican's continued support for authoritarian regimes.
PSYCH SURVEY
Environment traps low IQs

Youth of below average intelligence may actually be crippled by the same middle-class environment which produces excellence in average and above average children, according to Lee S. Shulman, associate professor of educational psychology.

Shulman based these findings on recent research he has been doing with a group of educable mentally retarded youngsters in Chicago. Shulman, who is working in cooperation with the Chicago Jewish Vocational Service, has just completed a five-year study of the group. The study was financed by the U.S. Office of Education funds.

Objectives of the study were to observe the process of vocational development in these groups, examine the effects of early training programs and identify differences which emerge under the influence of such programs.

"It is clear that the environment from which handicapped children come is a major determinant of the success of such children," Shulman said.

Shulman also found that Negro and white students differ in the groups.

"It appears that Negro and white parents react differently to having their children labeled as mentally retarded," Shulman explained, "In most middle-class white families the consequences of such labeling usually result in social isolation for the child. Lower-class Negro families seemed to treat mentally retarded children very much as they do other youngsters in the family."

According to the study, the particular vocational program used in the study did not appear to improve the employment prospects of the children. However, some of the findings of the study suggest new directions for alternative approaches in programs for the mentally retarded.

The differences between Negro and white students may result from the fact that standardized intelligence tests are less accurate for Negro mentally retarded youngsters than for middle-class white children. According to the study, it is due to the fact that middle-class parents are more likely to have children who score high on these tests than are lower-class parents. This study shows the importance of early identification and placement of mentally retarded youngsters in order to improve their employment opportunities.
Attention Car Owners

Complete front and rear repair and alignment

- Brakes
- Suspension
- Wheel alignment - steering corrections
- Motor tune-ups

Liskey's Auto Safety Center

244 South Larch

Wednesday, January 9, 1968

Campus smoking law ignored

By FRED SHERWOOD

The Michigan State Daily

There were a few when someone smoking on campus might have had his pipe or cigarette extinguished in a hurry, according to Sam Gingrich, MSU fire safety officer.

"I first went to school here in 1938," Gingrich said. "The men always smoothed the rules out without question in the Red Cedar."

The long-standing rule against smoking was ignored by the Board of Trustees, and anyone seen smoking was thrown in the Red Cedar," Gingrich said. "I have not heard anyone come forward to the violation of this authority," he said.

But there is a problem concerning smoking brought to light by information received from the Spartan. "I can remember when they used to burn out the pipe before coming on campus," he said.

Gingrich added that he was a problem with smoking when he was a returning veteran, but "The rule was relaxed shortly after 1945 when returning veterans became prevalent."

"More to the point, "The rule was very strict."

"The Chemistry Building, Agriculture Hall and several other buildings have set up smoke and no smoking areas," Gingrich said. "The fire hazard of smoking might get be as serious as the smoke and the need it creates to continue.

Richard O. Bennett, director of Public Safety, said that during the last four years 49 fires on campus were attributed to "smoking or various related actions."

"In a dormitory, his attention about "once or twice a day" being used for smoking," Gingrich said.

Gingrich suggested that "certain smoke hazards from smoking are more serious than others." He added, "The ordnance is still in effect.

There were five facets to Triangle life:

Scholarship first,

leadership, second,

the development of character, featuring enduring friendships,

a deep interest in campus and community activities, and a deep interest in campus and community activities, and last but not least a complete social program.

The Winged Spartans

A five-sided triangle?

There are five facets to Triangle life:

Scholarship First,

the development of character, featuring enduring friendships,

a deep interest in campus and community activities, and a deep interest in campus and community activities, and last but not least a complete social program.

Remember also that the Winged Spartans are once again offering their Proud Shields for the memories and summertime pleasures every year, at Spring Term. These opportunities are available to all members and non-members.

We will kick off the new Year with an open meeting tonight, Jan. 9, 8:00 p.m., at 30 Union Building. Speaker, movie, and refreshments will highlight the evening. Also present will be club members, officers and guests of the Tri Delta Chapter. Let's see you there!
By GAYEL WESCH-
State News Sports Writer

The emphasis will be on studies and baseball from now on for Rich Jordan, one of MSU's busiest athletes the past two years.

Jordan, who lettered both in basketball and baseball last season and participated in pre-season football practice this fall, narrowed his endeavors to one sport, baseball, by quitting the basketball team last week.

The decision was made after a serious look to the future, Jordan said.

Lafayette stays at Olin for flu

Lee Lafayette, 6-6 Junior center, spent Monday at Olin Health Center recuperating from a case of the flu which kept him at half strength for the Illinois game. He practiced, but was expected to be ready for practice Tuesday.

The Illinois game, MSU's opener in the Big Ten, was originally scheduled as a home game for the Spartans, but a previous commitment made it impossible for the Dlini to be the home team in the final game of the year, March 9. The two teams traded home dates, and the Spartans, opened its conference schedule with a loss.

With Duffy Daugherty's permission, Jordan tried out for the football team at fullback in Fall drills but dropped out before the season opened.

Basketball Coach John Bennington said he really wasn't surprised by Jordan's decision, and that he wouldn't probably turn to the basketball team if he had to make the decision again.

"Everyone is disappointed to lose a player of the size," Bennington said, "but I really wasn't surprised.

"Rich has had some tough breaks this year. He got sick and then injured and didn't make the traveling squad and it's tough to earn it by concentrating on one sport.

A 5-7, 150-pound Farmington native, Jordan was a two-sport star in high school and was all-state in both basketball and baseball and All-American in basketball.

Jordan also received an offer from the Pittsburgh Pirates to sign after graduating from high school, but he turned that down.

He came here to play baseball, and he really wasn't working on it as strictly as he wanted last year. He showed the talent during the conditioning practice the team takes before going south and it affected his batting.

"I love basketball, and I've always been more of a baseball player, but my future is in baseball and I thought that better start concentrating on it," Jordan said that he was also working toward a teaching certificate and would be better able to earn it by concentrating on one sport.

A 5-7, 183-pound Fennville Junior, Jordan was a four-sport star in high school and was all-state in both basketball and football and All-American in baseball.

Last basketball season he played in 17 games; all but one as a reserve, and scored 38 points.

A baseball outfielder, Jordan played in 35 games last season, mostly as a starter and hit .227 in 75 at bats. He stole nine bases and handled 26 chances in the field.

"Many people thought that he was too short to play major college basketball but that wasn't the case at all. Basketball is really the sport where he can really help the basketball team," Jordan said that he was not worried about dropping to shorter line and that he would rather playing that line than the one he would play at shortstop.

"Playing basketball last year I missed the indoor drills and batting practice the team takes before going south and it affected my batting.

"I love basketball, and I've probably spent more time playing it, but my future's in baseball and I thought I'd better start concentrating on it."

Jordan said that he was also working toward a teaching certificate and would be better able to earn it by concentrating on one sport.

A 5-7, 183-pound Fennville Junior, Jordan was a four-sport star in high school and was all-state in both basketball and football and All-American in baseball.

"Many people thought that he was too short to play major college basketball but that wasn't the case at all. Basketball is really the sport where he can really help the basketball team," Jordan said that he was not worried about dropping to shorter line and that he would rather playing that line than the one he would play at shortstop.

"Playing basketball last year I missed the indoor drills and batting practice the team takes before going south and it affected my batting.

"I love basketball, and I've probably spent more time playing it, but my future's in baseball and I thought I'd better start concentrating on it."
For Rides: ED 2-3581  453 Abbott

THETA CHI

The Men of ALPHA TAU OMEGA
Cordially invite you to OPEN RUSH
Tues. and Wed. Jan. 9 and 10
451 Evergreen St.
7-10 p.m.

For rides call Ed 2-0846
Peninger to coach All-Stars

By JOE MITCH

Vince calls Raiders 'great football team'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Peninger has been selected as one of two East Coast representatives to the National Collegiate Athletic Association All-Star football game April 9 in Philadelphia.

Ed Parzy of Navy was the other East Coast selection named by the Wrestling Coaches Association, Howard Reiss of Portland State and Tom Semn of Colubne will handle the West.

In the brisk mist held to 105°F the West gained a 29-17 victory.

Pre-period tablet helps relieve that 2 to 7 pound monthly "water weight" gain that can cause pain, nervousness, irritability.

Discover Pamprin®, the medical formula that helps return your normal period weight gain. You use it in those 4 to 7 days before your period, your body begins to retain extra water weight. You look puffy, feel unsightly. The extra weight puts pressure on delicate tissue causing simple headaches, irritability, nervousness.

Pamprin gently relieves your body of the extra weight...puffy looks...stuffy feeling. Works before and during your periods.

Get Pamprin now and be ready to break your monthly water build-up!

What's happening on campus? PLENTY!

JAN 10
Marketing Club Members will fly to Benton Harbor for a tour of R.T. Scholl and Division Plant leased Capitol City Airport, 800A M.

JAN 17
MEAD CORP., Represented by V.P. Sula Morris. J. Deming retails the lead with "Corrugated Containers: Market Innovation in Action." 7:30 TEAK ROOM, EPPLEY.

JAN 24
James Daley of Procter and Gamble will bring "Develop New Markets" up on the market: Introduction of Crest. 7:30 TEAK ROOM, EPPLEY. EVERYONE INVITED.

FEB 15
F HCI Corp. and Rubber Co. heaps things capping with their concept of marketing strategy. 7:30 TEAK ROOM, EPPLEY. EVERYONE INVITED.

FEB 21
P.P. Foote of Estatta will present "Presenting Opportunities of the Last and Strongest Industry."

GET WITH THE MARKETING CLUB
It's What's Happening
Tuesday, January 9, 1968

State News Classified 355-8255 - Call today.

I may save you up to $125 (or more) financing and insuring your next car

Says MAKE MONEY $S
Skiier's Car Plan
ACTIVE, ALERT, STUDENT TRAVEL REPRESENTATIVE
BAHAMA TOURS Call TRAVEL King Callist 527-3944

For Rent
WINTER and spring, Cedar Villas.

Cedar Village

Peer-man furnished aparment.

NEED ONE for three-man base
Skiing in Swan Valley, or 36 E. Terry, 5-0256.

U.S. 31 - $32-
NEED ONE for two or three.

5-0256. 3-1/10

RENTALS for students. Low

EARNINGS ARE unlimited as an

(Students reside in dormitories or

State News Classified 355-8255

14 Michigan State News, East Lansing, Michigan