U.S. reluctant to apologize to N. Korea

WASHINGTON - The United States repeatedly assured North Korean diplomats that an apology would be made in advance as the price for the South Korean Embassy attack, but in the end, the United States let the North Koreans have their way.

This is the conclusion of a report issued by the State Department's Office of Inspector General. The report was based on interviews with officials from the United States and North Korea.

The report found that the United States had failed to make the apology in advance as promised.

The report also found that the United States had failed to provide evidence of North Korean involvement in the attack.

The report recommended that the United States should apologize in advance as the price for the attack.

The report further recommended that the United States should provide evidence of North Korean involvement in the attack.

The report also recommended that the United States should take steps to prevent similar attacks in the future.

The report concluded that the United States had failed to meet its obligations under the United Nations Security Council resolutions.

The report recommended that the United States should take steps to ensure compliance with the United Nations Security Council resolutions.

The report also recommended that the United States should take steps to prevent similar attacks in the future.

The report is the latest in a series of reports issued by the State Department's Office of Inspector General.

CONG ATTACKS MAKE VIET

The greater asset, allowing closed honesty

Uncategorical is (was) ..., signing out all night to a man may go on sight. Rather than work for the institutions, the system forbidding sign-out to men's apartments has in the case encouraged瞄d dishonesty.

Quite simply, it's not that hard to find a "friend" on off-campus-female type-to whom apartment men can sign out, but go elsewhere.

In the best interests of the University and its codes, honesty, not vague allusions to good and evil, should prove the greater asset.

Civilians caught in crossfire in Mekong Delta offensive

WASHINGTON — President Johnson proposed Monday to increase federal assistance for higher education aid and recommended a sharp cut in total spending by the federal government for the fiscal year 1969. This is an increase of $11.6 billion over the present year.

At the same time, $71 billion would be cut from higher education construction funds. Johnson said a proposed graduated travel tax on spending in excess of $71 million per day, $71 billion was estimated that 1,200 civilians were killed and more than 3,000 wounded. See page 3.

The Spartans ranked Ohio State first, winning the league.

"That's how it's playing, because we're the only team that has the kind of experience to get us through," Beisinger said.

"We're not going to be able to do that this year, if we get a little tired." Beisinger said.

"We're playing well and we've had a few losses," Beisinger said.

"What's it like to be a giant yourself, and your better nature coming through?"

Ryun isn't only star in MSU Relays

By DON SOPRIVA

State News Sports Writer

World-class distance man Jim Ryun will be the highlight Sunday at the Michigan State Relays. The sprint star's presence will also be felt in the 400-meter hurdles, where he is the clear favorite.

Twenty-eight-year-old records of another race, are adding their luster to the competition, along with many other events.

The MSU Relays, formerly known as the St. Thomas Relays, are being held at Michigan State University for the 33rd consecutive year.

More than 6,000 people are expected to attend the meet, which features 57 events.

The meet is sponsored by the MSU Student Association and is being held in conjunction with the Michigan State Student Association.

IRON man

Jim Ryun will be the highlight of the meet. The 28-year-old American record holder in the mile and 1,500 meters will also compete in the 800 meters and the mile.

Ryun, a star at Ohio State, is currently ranked second in the world in the mile and 1,500 meters. He set the world record in the mile at the 1967 World Championships in Rome, Italy.

In addition to his distance events, Ryun will also compete in the 800 meters and the mile.

The meet includes events for both men and women, and will feature a variety of distances, including sprints, hurdles, and relays.

The meet will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m., with the awards ceremony taking place at 6 p.m.

The MSU Relays are a major event for the university and the surrounding community, and are a source of pride for the student athletes who participate.

The meet is open to the public, and admission is free.

For more information, contact the MSU Student Association at 517-355-5161.
