There are five candidates running for the two important student member-at-large positions on the ASMSU board. Three of them deserve careful consideration in the voting on Thursday, April II.

Allen Minter, Harvey Dzodin, and Jeffrey Zeig all present impressive credentials for the post, each with much to offer.

Minter is perhaps the most unique of the candidates running for the post. His lack of real experience in student government hurts him, especially in competition with such student government "veterans" as Dzodin and Zeig. But Minter brings with him something completely different and fresh way of looking at student government and what it can do.

Minter is an outspoken critic of ASM SU. He doesn't merely offer superficial alternatives that might appeal to students but that provide nothing for them after election. He is eager to learn what he does not know about ASM SU and the problems of student government.

Dzodin has been adding specific goals to his pre-election platform.

"There must be student votes and student influence," Minter declares. "The students must have the major voice in deciding how the University is to be governed. I am committed to this."

This is an active type of philosophy that students have perhaps been promised by candidates in the past, only to see such promises fade into inaction. But already, in the first few days of this year, Minter has begun acting on some issues while other candidates, and the board members, nothing but talk.

Ejecting Minter to the board might be a big step forward. If we vote for him, we would like to see students take action.

Dzodin presents another case entirely. He is, of course, the only present board member running for re-election. And while he was by no means typical of the members of the Third Session board, his own talents in better with the personalities on the new board, and will put his experiences to work to the immediate benefit of students and the board.

While many are aware of the role of senior member-at-large in the next board, Zeig is a man whose talents must not be lost. It is crucially because we can envision him, more than the other candidates, applying his abilities with no loss of effectiveness in another post, that we do not endorse him for one of the senior seats on the board.

Zeig's list of activities is a long and impressive one. Foremost, though, is his post of Vice President for Student Services in the ASM SU Cabinet that he has handled with great ability for the past three years.

"I must sit here and see, as he himself sees, it, to be a public interest."

But we feel that the faults of the cabinet this year have been the result of the ill-fated election. And, as much as the result of poor leadership in the cabinet inasmuch as the board that elected the cabinet also voted in favor of the board that has been so obviously lacking in leadership for this year. So, we agree, is a strong need of a new board and the complete new blood that have been sorely lacking in the past.

This, we agree, is a strong need of ASM SU, and is nearly enough to elect two new people.

Zeig for the senior seat.

Troops sent to Baltimore; order kept in major cities

By Associated Press

More federal troops were re-en listed to stop unrest in Baltimore, where a second night of riots and violence was under way.

But soldiers sent to the city to ensure that law and order were ensured despite the presence of 7,000 troops.

Sources told The Associated Press that authorities probably had talked for about 2,800 more troops. About 1,300 federal soldiers were sent in Sunday night to reinforce 5,500 National Guard troops, the maximum that can be put on active duty.

Tensions had been high since two black youths were shot in the neighborhood in Brooklyn was like a "tom- tomb" Sunday night.

The nationwide deployment of soldiers and National Guardsmen was put at 53,000, approximately the largest such force ever turned out for a civil emergency in the United States.

This weekend marked the first time since March that troops have been called out in three states. Clevelander have been killed in the first day of civil riots in cities. More than 150 were reported dead and more than 800

were reported injured.

The death toll includes 11 in Chicago, six in Washington, five in Baltimore, two in the Detroit area and one each in Minneapolis, Detroit, Nashville and Memphis. Tenn., and Tallahassee,

Fla.

Planes for President Johnson were ordered to return to their home towns in the upper peninsula.

The first of 11,000 National Guard troops received orders

Monday to return to their home towns in the upper peninsula.

The Governor ordered troops into Detroit Friday when announced residents of communities, crowds and rioting threatened to mushroom into a major disturbance. He said the action was "preventive rather than corrective."

Senior netters seek 'S' title

By GREGG LORIA
State News Sports Writer
Two senior members of the Spartan tennis team figure MSU will have excellent chances to repeat as defending Big Ten champions and both could establish major roles in the title defense.

Senior netters Mickey Szilagyi and Steve Brody, who form the number two doubles team at MSU, will have a distinct advantage over many of their opponents. They have gained the number two doubles position for a reason.

Last year Szilagyi had an excellent first season at MSU, as he was the Big Ten singles champion and as part of the number one doubles team. His efforts paid off as he won the prestigious boils Slingshot in the semester finale.

This year Szilagyi is once again playing in the number three singles position, and again bounced up with the number two doubles combination.

I hope that we can repeat on the season's change, and personally would like to do so in the NCAA meet and play well in the national ranking.

But looking at the team as a whole. I think that we can win the Big Ten this season. After all, we can get by Michigan. We're going to be tough, so we have some tough matches (but no, but in Michigan)

M S U 's track team will be in the third place NCAA March 25 to open its outdoor season Saturday on site at Forest West Course.

The Blue and White in the Big Ten, while MSU took third place in the 1967 Big Ten meet, was third in both team and individual events.

MSU Coach Frank Pincus is looking for a good start from the Blue and Whites with several top performers from last year expected to stay on top.

Charles Pollard, fourth in the Big Ten enz for nine row and Texas, is expected to do well in the 220 yard dash, along with Mike Van Holst in the 440 intermediate hurdles.

The Big Ten is in the Big Ten and is strong team this year, according to coach Pincus.

MSU's top performers at his level should be the same as during the indoor meet.

Bill Wadsworth, Bill Steven, Pat Wilson and Don Coone, the Spartans' top performers at the indoor meet, will be strong performers at the outdoor meet Saturday.

Wadsworth, the 100 meter dash and Texas, is expected to stay on top.

Kovacs tonight; Paulsen forever

By STUART ROSENTHAL
Entertainment Writer

It has now been six years since the audience saw the last episode of "The Ernie Kovacs TV Show." It had ended in 1959 and was succeeded by "The Tonight Show," which Ernie's widow, Edie Adams, had been producing until her death on April 7. Ernie Kovacs, however, did not have the last laugh. After he died in a car accident in February 1962, his widow, Edie Adams, was discovered to be a devoted, hard-working producer who had been behind the scenes, working hard to keep the show going even after his death.

Ernie Kovacs Special
The Academy Awards of the late Ernie Kovacs is the theme of the ABC TV special, "Ernie Kovacs Special," which will be broadcast on WJRT-TV, channel 12, Monday night. "Ernie Kovacs Special" will be the first of a series of specials commemorating Kovacs' career, which will be presented by his widow, Edie Adams.

Among the highlights of the special will be the premiere of the Kovacs film, "The Show of Shows," which was made in 1959 and features Kovacs' most memorable performances. The film will be followed by a special tribute to Kovacs' career, with interviews with his contemporaries, including Steve Allen, Jack Paar, and Don Rickles.

The special will also feature a tribute to Kovacs' television counterpart, Sid Caesar, with footage from his own shows and interviews with Sid Caesar. The tribute will include footage from "Your Show of Shows," "Caesar's Hour," and "The Sid Caesar Show," as well as interviews with Sid Caesar himself.

The special will be hosted by Edie Adams, who will share memories of her husband and his career. She will be joined by other guests, including Steve Allen, Jack Paar, and other friends and colleagues of Kovacs.

The special will be broadcast on WJRT-TV, channel 12, Monday night, at 9:00 PM. It will be repeated on Tuesday night, at 1:00 PM, and on Wednesday night, at 3:00 PM. The special will also be available on demand through the ABC TV network.

Although long lines formed in front of offices leasing apartments up to three days ahead of Easter weekend, the apartment market is not as strong as it was in previous years. This year, about 20 percent of the apartments available in East Lansing and other areas of the Lansing area are still available.

However, the managers say that they are not worried about the slow market. They say that they are more focused on the quality of the apartments they have available and the service they provide to their tenants. They say that they are also focused on providing a comfortable and safe living environment for their tenants.

Colony Village opened its offices to impatient tenants on Friday. The company said that it had received a large number of inquiries and that it was willing to show the apartments to interested tenants.

Although every company and man will try to maintain the appearance of reasonable qualifications, shopping around is the only way to be sure. In addition, the Michigan Insurance Department has a list of all companies in the area.

The decision between these different types of policies should be based on an accurate evaluation of needed and financial considerations.

Death penalty delayed from Lindberg law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court delayed today the death penalty case of James Earl Ray, who is on trial for murder in connection with the murder of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The court's decision to delay the case was based on a review of the evidence and the arguments presented by Ray's lawyers and the prosecution. The court said it would be inappropriate to proceed with the case without a full and fair consideration of the evidence.

Ray is accused of assassinating King on April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tennessee. King was shot in the head, and died later at a hospital near the site of the attack.

The case has been a source of controversy since it began in 1968. Ray was initially convicted of murder, and sentenced to death, but his conviction was overturned by a federal appeals court.

The new trial began in 1969, and Ray was再次 find guilty of murder, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

The death penalty case has been at the center of debates over capital punishment in the United States. In recent years, several states have abolished the death penalty, and others have put it on hold.

Ray's lawyers have argued that the case should be dismissed, and that the evidence against their client is insufficient to sustain a conviction.

The prosecution has countered that the evidence is overwhelming, and that Ray is guilty of murder.

The case is expected to continue for several months, and a new trial date has not yet been set.

Petitions available for AUSJ positions

Petitions for the Student Faculty Advisors and the Associated Student Union (AUSJ) are available in the Student Services Building. Visitors are invited to attend.

AUSJ positions are open to students who are interested in serving as advisors. The positions are designed to provide opportunities for students to develop leadership skills and to contribute to the development of the student government.

AUSJ members are elected by the student body, and are responsible for managing the student government and for representing the interests of the student body.

The Student Faculty Advisors are responsible for managing the AUSJ, and for overseeing the activities of the student government.
