Peruvian coup results in violence

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Peruvian government announced that Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado has overthrown President Fernando Belaunde and installed Manuel Prado as the new head of state.

The coup, which was apparently bloodless, was announced by Gen. Luis Pezoa, chief of the Peruvian armed forces, in a radio broadcast.

Belaunde, who has been under military pressure for several weeks, was said to have been detained by military forces.

The coup announcement came as a surprise to many Peruvians, who had expected a peaceful transition of power.

Velasco had been anticipated by a number of Peruvians as a possible successor to Belaunde, who has been under military pressure for several weeks.

Reacting to the coup, President Lyndon B. Johnson said that he had been informed of the situation and was monitoring the situation closely.

In Congress, the reaction was mixed. Some members of Congress, including Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, said they were concerned about the coup and its potential impact on U.S. interests in the region.

Others, including House Speaker John B. Anderson, said they were hopeful that the coup would lead to a more stable government in Peru.

The gaudy and unreal reality

Five years ago, Gov. George Wallace stood in the doorway of the University of Alabama in a defiant attempt to block a federal court order for school integration in his state.

Today, citizen George Wal­lace stands in front of his bullet-proof speaking podium throughout the country in an attempt to become its next President.

Wallace has changed much in the years that have elapsed since his governorship days. He is now an ardent supporter of a racist and an opponent of the Supreme Court. In fact, Wal­lace would have been an unlikely major presidential candidate in any previous modern campaign year.

Wallace's candidacy is a tri­ographic phenomenon. Of the three candidates in the race, Wallace is the least qualified. Indeed, he is disqualified for the Presidenti­cy. He has no background in foreign affairs, national domestic politics, or effective government.

During the years that Wal­lace was governor of Alabama, that state ranked as one of the poorest in the nation. Hubert Humphrey was among the leaders in the states that had high welfare, unemployment, and criminal rates at that time.

Wallace owes his prominence in the presidential race to three main factors. First, the party boss system of nominating Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey, left many voters still looking for an ade­quate candidate. A third party offered a face, and a consistent implausible answers to all the prob­lems.

The turbulence that has been an ever-present part of internal America in 1968 has also helped Wall­lace. Claiming that "we will try being run," he has offered himself as the key to change in America.

The "fear chord" of each of the candidates has been touched by Wallace. That is his major social and intellectual phenomenon. Of any previous modern cam­paign year.

McCarthy write-in takes shape in Michigan

Michigan State News Staff Writer

Eugene J. McCarthy has formed a coalition of liberal groups to team up in a write-in campaign for the Democratic Presidential candidate. The coalition is made up of former supporters of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, Mr. McCarthy and others who are disillusioned by this year's choices for President.

The coalition headquarters will be set up on the campus of Michigan State University, East Lansing. It will be called Michigan Students for McCarthy, and will be directed by Newton H. Feinberg, who is a member of the Michigan delegation to the Democratic National Convention. Feinberg was a volunteer campaign worker for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The East Lansing Young Socialists, a group which calls itself the YSA, is participating in the write-in campaign as well. YSA spokesmen said they are joining with other groups in a write-in drive in Michigan for Mr. McCarthy.

The campaign is intended to mobilize the students who made up a large part of Senator Kennedy's support, although the coalition is open to all people who support Mr. McCarthy. The coalition headquarters will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Feinberg said that the students who are joining the write-in campaign have been prompted by their dissatisfaction with the other candidates for President.

"We feel that the choice is not between Mr. Johnson and Senator Rockefeller, but between two major issues," Feinberg said.

"We want to have a President who will stand up for the welfare of the working people. We want a President who will stand up for the people who are going to be affected by the policies of the government," he said.

The coalition is preparing to distribute a million stickers, which will include the name of Mr. McCarthy and his running mate, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. The stickers will be distributed in major cities in the state, as well as at the Michigan State University campus.

"We are not going to be satisfied with just a million stickers," Feinberg said. "We want to get into the real heart of the election."
Czechs confront Soviets at parley in Moscow

MOSCOW — A Czechoslovak delegation headed by Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek arrived in Moscow Thursday and began talks with Soviet leaders about entry of some Soviet occupation troops.

The Kremlin said at the time it acted to save Czechoslovakia from an overture of Soviet occupations and demands. Soviet and Czech officials agreed a third round of talks would be held.

There has been continued criticism of Czechoslovakia in the Soviet press, indicating that Dubcek group reply is an attempt to get rid of the Soviet occupation.

Dubcek and the Soviet group are in Moscow for a second round of talks. It is not certain when the talks will continue.

The Czechoslovak delegation left for Moscow Thursday night, accompanied by Dubcek, and the Soviet group, led by Premier Oldrich Cernik and Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

Dubcek was accompanied by Foreign Minister Petr, deputy premier and head of the Soviet Communist party.

Dubcek is expected to urge that the Soviet group had been in contact with the Czechoslovak group and it is time to start a phased withdrawal of the more than 500,000 Soviet, Polish, Hungarian, Bulgarian and East German troops now stationed in Czechoslovakia.

According to reports in Prager, the Russians have agreed to a reduction of the number of troops by Oct. 28, but they have rejected the Czechoslovak proposal. But there has been no sign in Moscow that the Kremlin is sufficiently satisfied to start the withdrawal.

Travel pool aids student programs

Probably the worst parking problem that MSU students have in mind is the student parking problem. For several years, the administration has promised a student parking garage, and apparently has come to the conclusion that the students can’t afford the increased rent. Since the administration has underestimated the amount of money the students have, they have come up with a solution that the students cannot afford.

The administration has come up with the idea of a student parking pool. The pool is a collection of cars that the students can rent. The pool is open to the students on a first come, first served basis. The pool is open on the weekends and on the first day of each semester.

The pool is located in the Student Union parking lot. The pool is under the administration of a student parking pool director.
