Czech leaders sign treaty; Soviet occupation 'legal'

PRAQUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's premier signed Wednesday a treaty recognizing the legality of Soviet occupation troops in Czechoslovakia, for which he was immediately suspended as prime minister.

The treaty was signed by President Gustav Husak and Vlado Misk, head of the communist coalition government.

The treaty, which was signed in Moscow, recognizes the presence of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia and provides for their continued presence in the country.

The treaty was signed as a result of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia on August 21, 1968. The invasion was a response to Czechoslovakia's efforts to reform its communist government and move towards greater democracy and freedom.

The treaty was signed in Moscow, and it was widely criticized at the time as illegitimate and a violation of international law.

Husak later said that the treaty was signed to prevent a crisis in Czechoslovakia, and that it was necessary to recognize the presence of Soviet troops in the country.

The time has come for an attempt at ‘light of the continuing controversy over this, we go to more complicated sentences. For example, professors are notorious for their laziness in returning books; professors are not charged for overdue books. Unless someone requests that a book, a professor may keep it indefinitely, so much for efficiency. If the question is one involving the prestige of the University, then a legitimate claim can be made that graduate students are as good as graduate students. As the University can proceed in its desire of having a graduate library in the main library and graduate libraries in the country. Obviously, it is more likely that a graduate library use ‘FI.

Students challenge Regents

By DON MACDONALD

BERKELEY, Calif. - Eldridge Cleaver has made his first appearance as a lecturer at the University of California. It has been a week since the Berkeley campus may still be dealing with the consequences of the recent stabbings and the death of one classroom occupant. The police have stated that they have evidence for the stabbing, and that it was not connected with the occupied building. The new seminar program developed from three consecutive classes. The students want credit for the courses, and the university wants to be a part of the social change.
By ADRIENNE MOORE

Chairman of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Ralph Nader has been a vocal critic of the auto industry, and in his recent actions, he has called for a renewed focus on federal controls over the automobile industry.

"I will join in a statement with the automobile industry's leadership and upcoming executive stating that the government should be held responsible for the accidents our automobiles cause," Nader said.

The author of "Unsafe at Any Speed," Nader has accused the auto industry of being more worried about profits than safety. He has called for a federal agency to be established to oversee the auto industry and to prevent accidents caused by defective cars.

ASMSU (continued from page one) test the value of such a proposal. If it is successful, the proposal reads, "We recommend that the Board of Trustees authorize the work-study program as outlined above."

The board approved the selection of John Butel as a speaker in the Great Lakes program. Mr. Butel, a research scientist at the University of Michigan, was the president of the International Association of Scientific Workers of the University. He has been involved in research on the social problems of scientific workers, and his work has been published in a variety of scientific journals.

To offset the loan reductions, Mr. Don Stevens, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, said, "The reduction in loan amounts should not be considered a reduction in the support of the Library."

The board approved the selection of Sally Simons as the director of the Center for International Programs. The committee will discuss the closed stacks policy, and will hear and act on student complaints.

In other agenda committee business, the board passed an Electricity Participation Center proposal which would have to be passed by the campus-wide referendum before it could be put into effect.

A proposal for the creation of a new college of education was referred to the board of trustees and the committee on educational policy. The committee is expected to review the proposal and make a recommendation to the board of trustees.

The board approved the selection of Dr. Frank J. Kelley as the new president of the university. Dr. Kelley is a former president of the University of Michigan and has been involved in educational policy at the national level.

The canvassing began in Oak Park and Ann Arbor three weeks before the election. The canvassers were expected to do the bulk of the canvassing as they did in the primary campaign last spring.

The candidates were all experienced in the field, and although the party did not collect enough signatures to be placed on the ballot, they were expected to be.

Those supporting the Mr. Carthage write-in had planned to carry over the entire state's voting strength for support for the Michigan AFL-CIO. The candidates were expected to do the bulk of the canvassing as they did in the primary campaign last spring.

The candidates were all experienced in the field, and although the party did not collect enough signatures to be placed on the ballot, they were expected to be.
