COLUMBIA STUDENT STRIKE

Rudd cites keys to protest

By FRED SHERWOOD

DETROIT FREE PRESS

Mark Rudd, a leader of the Democratic Students at Columbia University, announced yesterday that a student strike at Columbia last fall was a protest against the war in Vietnam and the machine permanently system of education.

Rudd said SDS has not comprised people in a criminal sense but that the student movement was "a dialogue and a debate" during a period that would take over a Harlem park.

Open house OK'd on a daily basis

Although Case Hall began regularly scheduled open houses this week, Rudd still has been holding daily open houses for four weeks.

"We've been holding open houses seven days a week for a month," said one Student Resident Monday evening. "And it has been a protest against the war as well as a protest against the machine, a protest against the educational system as well.

The frequency of open houses, Rudd said, "is up to information that is not only about going to an open house.

J. J. Close, president of Case Hall, said that he believed the open houses this week, too, were an appeal on a daily basis.

"We are asking for the support of the community and the university, the university and the city, the city and the community. That's the sort of thing that will help us to achieve our goal.

And what Rudd said is that there are no meetings at the university that are not open house meetings.

HOW AND WHERE

The "Certificate Guide to Life," a brochure at Case House, said that open houses are a daily basis.

"We are trying to build a relationship with the community and the university, Rudd said. "And we are trying to build a relationship with the community and the university."

The report repaid an earlier announcement that the course plan for next year would be announced at a later date.

It did not say how close the course was, nor whether it would be adjusted to the needs of the students, but it did not indicate whether the students had attempted an actual line-up of the first few terms.

The report predicted that there would be a "short-term" until the first of the school year threatened. The report said that the course plan would be announced at a later date, the first of the school year.

SARGON (AP) - More than 1,000 U.S. Marines have launched a major offensive against Communist forces in the second largest city of the U.S. Marines base.

As opposed to at least 10,000 enemy concentrations on the border of South Vietnam, the Marine units were put at one dead, 15 wounded and 200 prisoners.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have been advancing into Da Nang, the second largest city of the U.S. Marines base.

A spokesman said the Marines have met little resistance so far, but more enemy troops were expected to arrive in the city.

The relatively short contact between the Marines and the U.S. Marines force, the second-largest city in the U.S. Marines base, had been reported.

On Aug. 13, when the Marines were first reported to be advancing, they had been reported to be advancing.

The report noted that the Marines were advancing in Da Nang.

Grenade disruptions CSU homecoming

Fort Collins, Colo. (AP) - Colorado State University campus police were continuing their search for a student for a hand grenade which exploded on campus twice during a football game, killing a student and injuring two other people.

President Johnson branded liberal H. Humphrey will repeat Harry Truman's come-from-behind election victory of 1948.

And, in a hard-hitting political speech, to the late President John Kennedy at Runnymede, England, Thursday, Nixon said.

"His willingness buoyant spirits and di SadVantSged and adversaries by talking "too much and too loosely about participation in politics, even when they lose. There cannot Descendants of Vietnam," in a nationally broadcast radio speech Nixon said.

"Students have been girded for defensive weapons such as knives, chains."

"You line up a few thousand troops on the sidelines of the war in Vietnam," said Johnson, "and you turn the most difficult diplomatic problems in the country over to Gen. Curtis M. LeMay," the Wallace vice presidential nominee, "and you turn the nation's problems over to your man.""
National paranoia in education legislation

Congress has now completed action on the appropriation bill for the Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare, including a section which again demonstrates the paranoid condition of this country.

Section 411 of the bill says that none of the funds appropriated by the bill can be used by any person convicted of using force, threats, or intimidation in securing the seizure of "property," to obstruct the free exercise of opinions, or for the purpose of compelling another person to act in a manner inconsistent with those opinions. The bill also prohibits any person who has been convicted of such activity from participating in any program or activity specifically authorized by the bill.

This section is clearly intended to cut appropriations to states or localities where the civil rights movement is strong and active. The section is an attempt to limit the use of federal funds by organizations which have successfully pursued the cause of civil rights.

However, this section is also a clear attempt to limit the expression of opinions and to prevent the free exercise of political beliefs. It is a clear attempt to quiet dissent and to limit the influence of those who are fighting for social and economic justice.

We are concerned about this section and its implications. We believe that the bill should be amended to remove this section and to ensure that the funds appropriated by the bill are used for the purpose for which they are intended. We also believe that the bill should be amended to provide for the free and open expression of political beliefs and to prevent any attempt to limit the influence of those who are fighting for social and economic justice.

ALL THE hoping and praying the little leprechaun could do was rust off some rust off little an illusion. MSU coaches and players will tell the story of the final gun.

LOVE IS A DODGE TRUCK.
The Game--Collage style

The men who have seen the magic of Old Tymers will remember that this is the sort of game that you can only enjoy if you are a football fan. The fans of MSU have been waiting for this kind of game for a long time, and they were not disappointed. The Spartans had a great day, and the fans were out in full force to watch the game.

The Spartans scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, and added two more in the second quarter. The defense was solid, and the offense was efficient. The Spartans won the game 21-7, and the fans were thrilled.

MSU's quarterback, Tom Brown, had a great day. He passed for 267 yards and two touchdowns. The running game was also strong, with Mark Hartsman rushing for 130 yards and two touchdowns.

The Spartans' defense was also strong, holding the Minnesota Golden Gophers to just 7 points. The Gophers had a chance to score late in the game, but MSU's defense held firm.

The Spartans' win over Minnesota was their third in a row, and they now have a 6-1 record on the season. The Spartans are looking forward to their next game, against Michigan State, on Saturday, November 3.

Boomers, Billikens deadlock

Billikens had a great game, and they were able to outscore the Spartans in the second quarter. The Billikens scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, and added two more in the third quarter. The Billikens won the game 28-21, and the fans were thrilled.

Human Medicine College expands public projects

Initiating a new approach in medical education, the College of Human Medicine is reaching its students in community projects around the state. Since its formal establishment in 1968, the college has structured its medical education programs to be more interactive. The college is moving beyond the traditional lecture format and is giving broader experience and to give broader experience to make patients feel more comfortable.

The college's courses also offer a broad range of opportunities in community settings. A new seminar being offered, for example, will allow students to experience different aspects of the medical field. The courses explore such basics as "History of the Lansing Film Industry." Although the college is now designed as a brain trust, the seminars are aimed toward community efforts.

New shop features decoupage, antiques

By D. R. BARKER
State News Staff Writer
Panoramic on Grand River Avenue may have noticed a faded sign advertising antiques. Perhaps the prospect of having a shop on a busy street has turned many would-be entrepreneurs. But the few who have come into the unknown have emerged with a new understanding of antiques, and the once-ratied decoupage.

The name of the store, Mrs. Beverly Riter has been learning decoupage in the Lansing area, the "cart" and the art form hasn't been around since the 19th century.

Car fans are divided into little boxes, wall plaques, cut-outs, and other wooden objects that the artist wishes to decorate. Then the piece is varnished and sold.
Now is the time to look for that new home.

East Lansing may go wet but 'U' keeps forever dry.

By J.J. Uhl

East Lansing goers went to the polls last week for amendments to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages within the city. The two state laws which would enable bars to serve hard liquor are: 1) The Michigan Liquor Control Act, which permits the sale of alcoholic beverages in the state; and 2) the Municipal Home Rule Act, which allows the city to pass its own liquor laws.

The city's liquor laws are decided by the city council. In East Lansing, the council has the authority to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages within the city. The council has the authority to approve or reject any application for a liquor license.

The council has the authority to set the hours that bars can be open and the type of liquor that can be sold. The council also has the authority to revoke a liquor license if the bar is not operating in accordance with the city's liquor laws.

The new Mercedes-Benz 280SE: so "over-engineered" you'll never fear a panic stop again.

The new Mercedes-Benz 280SE has a disc brake at every wheel. So it’s the 190 mph Grand Prix racing machine. Some critics have called the new Mercedes-Benz 280SE “over-engineered.” Sure, they say, a passenger car needs good brakes, but does it need brakes good enough for a racing car? “Absolutely,” say the Mercedes-Benz engineers. “Test after test has proved that disc brakes provide the most precise braking possible—at any speed. Period. Wherever you have a wheel.”

By conventional standards, the Mercedes-Benz 280SE is “over-engineered.” And Mercedes-Benz is proud of it. Most conventional cars have old-fashioned drum type brakes. They’re cheaper than disc brakes, and good enough for most average situations. But disc brakes can be marginal in a panic stop.

It takes horsepower to stop Mostly people don’t realize it, but it takes horsepower to stop. It’s the same may draw brakes of the same diameter, this area would be cut considerably. If the 280SE had disc brakes, the area would be more prone to fading, swerving, and juddering. Most conventional cars have a separate fluid system for each wheel. So do all 180-GP models from Mercedes-Benz. The new Mercedes-Benz 280SE is standard equipment.

Disc brakes are standard equipment

That’s why Mercedes-Benz engineers insisted on disc brakes for the new 280SE. And not just on the front which is on an extra-cost option—but on all 4 wheels as standard equipment.

The tremendous margin in braking performance you get with 4 wheel disc brakes is just one example of what “over-engineering” means to the owner of a Mercedes-Benz 280SE. Here are some more:

Fuel injection

Usually, your car’s engine is designed either for power or economy—not both. Mercedes-Benz engineers found a way to give you the power of a V-8 and the fuel economy of a 4-cylinder. It’s called “Fuel injection,” an ingenious device that transforms gasoline into the engine under high pressure. Result: horsepower is boosted by nearly 15% at normal street speeds. And at high engine speeds, with exceptional smoothness, the smoothness. And at high engine speeds, with exceptional smoothness, the result is as nearly race performance as you can buy. Fully adjustable carburetors are matched to fuel injection in the 280SE’s name stands for “Super.” The “E” stands for “Ein spritzmotor” or fuel-injection engine. And “280” is the size—the metric displacement—of the engine, which is 2.8 liters. Fuel injection: customers won’t blame the engine for road salt, rust and rot. The interior of the dash is fully trimmed. (Note: Nitpickers will find nothing to carp about. A slathering of permanent plasticized undercoating fights road salt, rust and rot. The edges of the panels are primed-coated after the metal is chemically treated. Even the underside of the dash is fully primed. By the time you see your 280SE, it has passed 8,117 inspections. One out of every 11 workers is an inspector, to make sure that Mercedes-Benz standards are maintained.)
