Report blames police for riot

WASHINGTON (AP) - A staff report for the President's Commission on Violence blames police and warned that the nation risked a "long" political crisis unless more seriously concerned officers showed their "consistent and determined commitment to the rule of law."

The report, presented to the commission by Democrat Andrew Rusnak of New Jersey, termed the August riot at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago "an explosive event."

The report found that the police had acted "inappropriately," and that their actions had "shaken the confidence of many Americans in the democratic process."

The report also accused the police of using "excessive force," and called for the creation of a new commission to study the use of force by the police.

The report was released on August 21, 1968, the day after the Democratic National Convention ended in Chicago.

Library policy spurs student petition

BY CHRIS MEAD

State News Staff Writer

The University of Michigan's Graduate Library will begin circulating a survey asking for input on its library policy. The survey, which will be circulated to all graduate students, will ask them to rate their satisfaction with the library's services and resources.

The library policy, which has been in place since 1967, has been the subject of controversy in recent years. Some students have complained about the limited hours of operation and the lack of adequate resources.

The survey will be distributed to all graduate students by mail, and the results will be used to help determine future changes to the library policy.

Model city program challenges planners

BY SUSAN WILES

The San Francisco Planning Commission on June 12 adopted a resolution that would establish a "Model City Planning Program" to help plan the development of specific areas within the city.

The resolution, which was introduced by Planning Commissioner James L. Wells, called for the creation of a "Model City Planning Committee." The committee would be responsible for developing comprehensive plans for specific areas of the city, and for consulting with local residents and businesses.

The program was supported by a number of local organizations, including the San Francisco Planning Commission and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

STATE REVIEW PENDING
Medical school funds given top budget priority

By MARILYN PATTERSON

State News Staff Writer

The University of Michigan announced on January 10 that it would increase its funding for the medical school by $18 million, or 18.3 percent, for the 1969-70 academic year.

The increase was based on a recommendation by the University's Board of Regents, which approved the increase in a meeting held on January 9.

The increase will bring the total state appropriation for the medical school to $104 million, or 32.5 percent of the school's total budget.

Board debates due process

By Jennie Saderer
State News staff writer

A proposal for due process in the Board of Trustees was presented at the last meeting. The proposal was to be discussed by the committee at the next meeting.

The proposal was introduced by the president of the Student Senate, who stated that it was necessary to have a due process procedure in order to protect the rights of the students.

The proposal would provide for a formal hearing before any student could be expelled or suspended. The hearing would be conducted by an impartial third party, and the student would have the right to present evidence and witnesses.

The proposal was discussed by the committee and was approved by a vote of 4 to 1. The committee recommended that the proposal be sent to the Senate for further discussion.

MEDICAL SOCIETY

Larger med school urged

By Jeanne Saderer
State News staff writer

The Michigan Medical Society has proposed a new medical school for the state of Michigan. The proposal was presented at the last meeting and was approved by the committee.

The proposal would create a new medical school at the University of Michigan, which would be supported by the state government.

The new medical school would be modeled after the successful medical schools in other states, such as the University of California, which has a medical school with 2,000 students.

The Michigan Medical Society has been lobbying the state government for several years to create a new medical school.

Romney attacks organized crime

Gov. Romney said Wednesday that organized crime "infiltrated every level of state and local government." He did not specify a government agency or department, but he did say that "the conduct of public officials is governed by law, and the public has a right to expect that the law be enforced." He said that he would work with the Legislature to "strengthen the fight against the Mafia."

He also said that "the problem is not just the Mafia, but also other organized crime groups." He added that "the fight against organized crime is a matter of national security." He said that he would work with the President and the Attorney General to "end the era of organized crime."

Legislative powers and the U'

The tri-university lawsuit filed against Michigan State University is now nearing resolution.

The controversy revolves around the passage of five acts that direct the legislature to create boards of education, which are constitutionally granted to each board. But there is little doubt that since the universities must come to the legislature for money, it is in the latter body where the final decision on such legislation will be made.

It is the duty of the legislature to appropriate a certain amount of funds to each university. But this duty should be based on a wide appraisal. The legislature must consider the University of Michigan, its budget request. The board at this university may not know what is necessary in appropriations for its institution. Realistically, the budget request will not be fulfilled. But this is not because of the unwillingness of a group of legislators who feel that they know the job better than the regents, governors, or trustees.

One particular act gives the legislature the right to control the number of out-of-state students enrolled in a university. Clearly, this is the right of the university. The taxpayers of the state of Michigan, although some of them do not realize it, do have guardians on the state's campuses. They are the governors, board members, and they have been elected by the taxpayers in a state-wide election. The board members should not be allowed to decide out-of-state enrollment.

For a long time, the Tennessee legislature was in the educational forefront. The Academic Freedom Report was written by the Tennessee legislature after a thorough study. The Academic Freedom Report made many reforms in that state, but this report was a product of an enlightened legislature. The Academic Freedom Report is meaningful. Chilcota should he asked to present this report to the regents and the faculty.

HIGH-RISE HOTEL

Building hinted in spring

By MARK ExNER
State News Staff Writer

Though developers of East Lansing Planning Commission have not formally announced the project, it appears the city council has been approached about building a 17-story hotel that would house both private and public space.

The project, which would be located on the corner of Abbott and Water Streets, is estimated to cost around $2.5 million. The hotel would consist of a 400-room hotel with conference facilities and other public areas.

The hotel would be built on a block of land owned by the city, and it is expected that the project will be underway sometime next year.

Black psychologist urges more racial understanding

By JANE TAYLOR
State News Staff Writer

Dr. Robert M. Thornton, the only black psychologist in the Lansing area, has been working to improve racial understanding among local residents.

Dr. Thornton arrived at one conclusion of the audience included in a study of how they hold prejudiced feelings toward the black community.

"It's not that inter-race aware of each other's race. Instead, it's a concern for the race's role in society."

Dr. Thornton defined racism as a social condition that one state of affairs have led to another which might not otherwise have occurred.

In contrast, he said, "We have not seen any data which shows that people who hold prejudiced feelings toward the black community."

Dr. Thornton recently published a book on the subject, "The Devil in the Massachusetts Experiment.

"Once everything is approved and once the structural limitations which now prevent the building of such developments are removed, the city is expected to begin construction of the hotel.

The commission will have to pass a resolution on the project before it can be built.

The commission has already agreed to build a 14-story hotel on the corner of Abbott and Water Streets.

The commission has also authorized the hiring of a public relations firm to handle the project.

Water Carnival executives selected for 1969 festival

The Executive Board for the 1969 version of the popular Water Carnival has been chosen.

Chairs chairman, for the event in Hal Evans. Printed student to be vice chairman, with James M. Davis, junior, as secretary.

The 1969 version of the event will be the 14th in the Water Carnival series.

The festival will be held on May 1-4, with proceeds to be used to help support the Lansing Public Schools' music and art programs.

The selection committee is made up of three members of the Lansing Public Schools' student government, including the vice chairman, the secretary, and the treasurer of the student government.

The selection committee is responsible for selecting the executive board and for overseeing the planning and execution of the Water Carnival.

The festival will feature a variety of events, including a parade, a carnival, and a fireworks display.

Tickets will be available for purchase at the festival site, and admission will be free for all guests.

The festival is expected to attract thousands of visitors, and it is hoped that the event will help raise funds for the Lansing Public Schools' music and art programs.
Bureau expands for student buyers

The ASMSU Consumer Bureau, which was restructured this fall, will help students who have complaints from merchants and businesses with the help of the new Steering Committee.

The bureau, which began this fall, is designed to improve communication between the commercial enterprises and the student buyers. It has recently established procedures to work with students and merchants.

The Steering Committee will be composed of the chairman and the returning members. Five student positions will be available through petitioning and these will be offered non-renewable. Positions are available in the following areas:

1. Merchants and Students: Work with students and merchants on problems concerning student demands.
2. Merchants and Students: Work with students and merchants on problems concerning sales and service.
3. Merchants and Students: Work with students and merchants on problems concerning credit schemes and differences.
4. Merchants and Students: Work with students and merchants on problems concerning legal sales and distribution.
5. Merchants and Students: Work with students and merchants on problems concerning student return policies.

In addition to providing the above services, the bureau has also been set up to communicate with the students which issues are being handled by the bureau. In order to make the bureau effective, it is important that the students who have complaints contact the bureau immediately.

The bureau is developing new procedures and updating old ones. These will help in the coming fall.

There are several publications available on various consumer rights and problems. These publications will be available through the bureau and the returning members.

e A good play is a play in which interest holds the audience in the stages for an hour and beyond. The audience is satiated with the story, the characters, and the stage design. It is rare that a play is able to keep the audience's attention for that long. However, the play Pinocchio was able to do just that. The play was presented by the Performing Arts Department at Michigan State University.

The play is based on the classic children's book Pinocchio by Carlo Collodi. The story follows the adventures of a wooden puppet named Pinocchio as he learns about the consequences of his actions. The play was directed by John Baldwin, the director of the Performing Arts Department. The cast was comprised of students from Michigan State University.

The set design was particularly impressive, with a large mechanical stage that allowed for puppetry effects and other visual effects. The costumes were also well done, with Pinocchio's nose growing larger and larger as the play progressed. The puppetry was well executed, with the puppets moving smoothly and realistically.

The play received positive reviews from the audience. The audience was leftenchanted by the puppetry and the storytelling. The play was a success and was well worth the admission price.

BAD TRIP FOR SPARATANS

Icers win Eastern opener but drop final pair of four

By PAUL ROYCE

State News Sports Writer

The MSU skaters picked up their first win of the season on Thanksgiving, but had little luck at the latter end of the weekend, losing to St. Lawrence on Friday and Saturday night at the MSU Arena.

On Thursday, MSU turned back St. Lawrence's hopes of a sweep. The 1-0 win over the Saints was the result of a goal in the second period by junior goalie Bob Johnson.

In Friday's game with Clarkson, MSU faced itself in the second period. Senior Capt. Ken Anstey scored the only goal of the game with an assist from Capt. St. Lawrence's only goal of the game was scored with an assist from St. Lawrence's Rick Duffet. The game was played with a score of 1-0.

Junior goalie Rick Dakor took over as the starting goalie for the game on Saturday. Dakor was unable to make any saves in the first period. The Spartans found themselves behind 1-0 in the second period. Dakor was replaced by junior goalie Bob Pattullo, who also had no saves in the third period. The game ended with St. Lawrence scoring two goals in the third period and winning 2-0.

Male fashions flop in E. Lansing

One look at the Michigan State University Shop and the Lansing University Shop, and it's evident that the college fashions being worn are not the same as those being worn in Lansing, Michigan.

The college fashions are more conservative and practical, while the Lansing fashions are more daring and avant-garde. The college students are more concerned with function and comfort, while the Lansing students are more concerned with style and appearance.

Despite the differences, the fashions are still complimentary. The college fashions provide a foundation for the Lansing fashions, and the Lansing fashions add a touch of excitement to the college scene.

The fashions are also influenced by the season. In the winter months, the fashions are more casual and cozy, while in the summer months, they are more colorful and carefree.

Overall, the fashions in E. Lansing are a reflection of the city's diverse population and its dedication to fashion and style.
