DECREASING ENROLLMENT

By MARK EICHNER

Valiant ROTC officers have turned their backs on the facilities of the University of Michigan, and have turned their backs on the needs of their cadets. The result has been a drop in enrollment. In March of this year, the University of Michigan closed its doors to the ROTC program, and in April of this year, the University of Michigan closed its doors to the ROTC program.

Oakland police chief quits, upset over 'soft-line' policy

By REBECCA NEVERT and LARRY LEE
State News Staff Writers

Thursday afternoon, Oakland County Police Chief William S. Strong notified local police and community leaders that he had resigned from his position. The resignation came as a shock to many in the Oakland County police force and community, as Strong had been a fixture in local law enforcement for many years.

Strong's resignation comes as a result of the ongoing controversy surrounding the Oakland County police force's approach to crime prevention. The department has been criticized for its soft approach to policing, which has been described as a "soft-line" policy. This approach has been in place since the early 1980s and has been characterized by a focus on community outreach and mediation rather than on aggressive law enforcement.

Strong's resignation was announced during a press conference held on Thursday afternoon. The press conference was attended by local police officials, community leaders, and members of the media. During the press conference, Strong expressed his frustration with the department's approach to policing and stated that he believed it was not effective in protecting the community.

"I have been serving the community of Oakland County for many years, and I believe that we need a change in our approach to policing," Strong said. "I believe that we need to be more aggressive in our approach to crime prevention, and I believe that we need to be more responsive to the needs of the community.

Strong's resignation has sparked a debate among local officials and community leaders about the future of the police department. Some have called for a change in the department's approach to policing, while others have expressed concern about the impact of Strong's resignation on the community.

The Oakland County police department is currently undergoing a review of its policies and procedures, and it is likely that the department will be making changes in the near future. The department's leadership will be working closely with community leaders and law enforcement officials to determine the best course of action for the future of the department.

The Uncool Crusade

"Whereas, the Michigan Legislature annually appropriates millions of dollars for the support of the state institutions of higher learning," the Michigan Senate has taken a position that would be envied by the state legislators of a great many "progressive" states.

The resolution sounds like another verse in the same old song sung by the same group of frightened old legislators. Now Senators Huber, Fleming, Dezeroski, and their conserva tive colleagues are equipped with their own very investigat ing committee, just like the rest of us, to study all the sexy, unpatriotic disruption at the universities.

As topics of particular interest, the resolution mentions sub dversive influences on young persons, and strengthening state laws related to campus disorders and abuses.

While the main thrust of the resolution itself seems to be political, the statement and report submitted to the Sen te, and the bill after the resolution was originally proposed reveals a preoccupation with drugs, nudity and "obscenity in newspapers," as well. Huber and his friends are concerned that not only are students run ing the schools, but their moral and political values are con cerning.

We could have told the hono
able senators before that it is to be expected for students

Legal Aid, Defenders ready to help students

A little known but highly impor tant division in the AMHSU Cabinet is the Legal Aid Dept.
As part of the Student De defenders Association, legal aid provides legal services to the academic community and, perhaps even more important, legal ad dvice.

The 16 defenders at present are bound by a devotion to the furthering of justice in its broader terms. Not only are their services without expense to students, but their counsel can be trusted when the student is the plaintiff and the law is the defendant.

In various publicized inci dents, such as Dentie Ryan's se count with hours' policy and the Stae News obseqence con cflict, the student defenders have worked long hours with the ca ess.

But a major part of their work consists of advising students as to where and with whom they can receive proper advice.

In this sense they can be con dered student "ombudsmen." Students, having legal problems associated with the university, and other agencies, can be given lawyers names and practical information which may help them to avoid their situations.

However, students needing such advice are often unfamiliar with the existence of such a leg gal service. Students who have legitimate complaints regarding an infringement of their aca demic rights or negligence by the university often prefer to remain silent.

If you don't know, or have been silent. AMHSU's Legal Aid Dept., including Student Defen ders, may well be able to help you.

One nation under guard

The natural disaster of a deprivation or violent human services will be seen as the proper concern of the Guard.

Of course, the Guard's long stay in Wil

ington and its regular re
dition provides the opportunity to plan rev olutionary action. The actual anger of the people is the key to the whole situation. But the long stay and the overall plan for the Guard will depend on many local and historical factors that are not yet fully understood.

The Guard's real purpose is to create a reality that cannot be ignored. When revolutionary activity comes to power, we must expect it to come with a vengeance. As stupid as some folks think black folks are, they'll be hurt when they see the Guard. The Guard will be the people's army. No one has yet to create a revolution that can be ignored.

Dellorso's new Give Em' Hell Board. Pe
dered in a resolution of the People's Un

nited States Congress, it will be used to spin off the Guard's work in the Guard Units.

The Guard's purpose is to provide a counterbalance to the government. We will use the Guard to create a viable alternative to the government. And the Guard is the only force that can provide this counterbalance.

As you can see, the Guard is a counterproductive force. If it succeeds, the government will be forced to fight back. If it fails, the government will be forced to accept the reality of the Guard.

Olympic flag-raising, rite of passage

ALPINE, Germany—UPI—Germany wrapped up its Olympic program Tuesday night with a formal flag-raising at the Olympic village here.

The event, which coincided with Germany's last day of competition, was attended by delegates from all nations participating in the games.

The German delegation led by Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Gruenwedel, presented the Olympic flag to the International Olympic Committee (IOC) vice-president, Sir John Samuel, who in turn offered it to the Berlin Olympic organizing committee.

The flag, which has been flown throughout the Games, will now be displayed at the Olympic Museum in Berlin.

The event was followed by a parade of athletes from all countries, led by German swimmers.

The Games, which started on February 6, 1972, in Munich, ended today with the closing ceremony.

The U.S. Olympic team, led by swimmer Mark Spitz and runner Jim Ryun, won 11 gold medals each, making them the most successful team of the Games.

The Soviet Union, with 9 gold medals, finished second, while East Germany, with 8, was third.

The United States finished 23rd in total medals, with 1 gold, 1 silver, and 1 bronze.

The Games were marred by protests against the war in Vietnam, and by the shooting of two athletes, including a German swimmer, who was killed by a black power group.

The Games were also marred by the illegal drug use of several athletes, including American swimmer John Naber, who tested positive for amphetamines and was banned from further competition.

The Games ended with a ceremony attended by the German Federal President, Richard von Weizsäcker, and the IOC president, Juan Antonio Samaranch.

The Games will be remembered for their political and social significance, as well as for the excellence of the athletes who competed.
Students vindicate Garsworth

By CHARLIE MEAD

Some towns have Sour Restaurant, but in Berrien Gar¬ sworth, yesterday's Sour City became Sour Soup. A group of 69 students lodged a protest against the University of Michigan's non-violent radical political action.

During the afternoon, the protest was heard by a student survey, which reported that the students favored Garsworth's many actions.

The survey was conducted by the Michigan State University Student Government, which polled students on their attitudes toward Garsworth. The survey found that 75% of the students supported Garsworth's actions, while 25% opposed them.

The students who supported Garsworth's actions said they were mostly motivated by their desire to see the University adopt a more inclusive and just approach to social issues. They cited examples of Garsworth's work, such as protesting against the Vietnam War, supporting civil rights, and advocating for better living conditions for the poor.

On the other hand, those who opposed Garsworth's actions were concerned about the potential for violence and chaos that they believed Garsworth's actions could bring.

One student, who asked to remain anonymous, said, "We don't want to see the University turn into a chaotic environment. We believe in non-violent protest, but Garsworth's actions can only lead to violence and disorder."
SOUL SINGING

Motortown Review invades Lansing

By MARK MCPHAIL

State News-Review

"Soul is the word of Webber" is defined as "the singing regarded as being the immortal or spiritual part of the personality, though having no physical or material reality." To me, soul is the difference between a popular piece of music and a "hit" or a "best seller." But soul music is 'hottest' to this newsman's ears.

Friday night's Motortown Review show was just that for me. There are less adventuresome people who might have picked a dish like "Sings the Songs of Motown" or "Motown's Greatest Hits." The Motortown Review is a more exciting show if you want to hear the hits as they were originally recorded. The Motortown Review features the music of Motown, The Delfonics, The Temptations, The Four Tops, and the Supremes, to name but a few.

Since this Motortown Review was a "hottest" show, the audience was rapt. The place was packed, and everyone was in fine form. The Motortown Review is a great show for anyone who loves soul music. It is a great way to spend an evening. The show is worth the price of admission, which is $3.15.

Zeffirelli recap's tragedy in celluloid Romeo, Juliet

The Shakespearean tragedy of Romeo and Juliet has been brought to the celluloid screen by Franco Zeffirelli. Zeffirelli's version of the play is a beautiful and faithful adaptation of the original work. The actors are perfect for their roles, and the production values are top-notch. The film is a must see for anyone who loves the Bard's work.

Progress for women deterred in America

By BILL COOKING

Although women's rights were at an all-time high in the United States, there were still some who believed that women were not being given the same opportunities as men.

Speaker: The speaker argued that women should be given the same rights as men, including the right to vote, equal pay, and access to education.

President: The president mentioned that women were being held back by societal norms.

Women's rights movements: Various women's rights movements emerged, advocating for equal rights and opportunities for women.

Legal challenges: Legal challenges were faced by women, such as the 1920 Women's Right to Vote Act.

In conclusion, while progress was made, women still faced challenges in achieving equality.

Herbert Garfinkel, dean of James Madison College, announced a public opinion poll to be conducted Tuesday at the Faculty Club.

He said that the poll was conducted by the Gallup poll organization and that the results would be made available to the public.

Garfinkel quoted George Gallup, who said that "the results of this study will be of interest to all Americans, especially to those who are concerned about public opinion and public policy making."

Gallup, who heads the firm of Public Opinion Research, said that the poll had been conducted in cooperation with the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

The poll was conducted by telephone interviews with a random sample of adults in the United States.

Results: The poll revealed that a majority of respondents favored the extension of woman's right to vote.

The poll also showed that a majority of respondents believed that women should be allowed to attend college and that they should be able to work.

Gallup said that the poll results were significant because they showed that a majority of Americans believed that women should have the same rights as men.

Garfinkel added that the results of the poll were consistent with previous polls conducted by Gallup.

The poll was conducted as a part of the National Opinion Research Center's ongoing research on public opinion.

Additional information: Garfinkel said that additional information on the poll would be made available to the public.

Communists probe Palach death motive

PRAHAG, Czechoslovakia — The Czechoslovak government, facing a new wave of student protests, has raised the specter of communist intrigue in the death of Jan Palach, the 21-year-old student who burned to death in protest last week. The government said Palach was acting on orders from a "foreign" group, possibly from the Moscow bloc.

Palach’s body was found early Monday morning in a dump outside Prague, the Czechoslovak capital. A police official said the death was being investigated as a "suspicious death." The official said Palach was a "very clever, well-educated" student at the Prague Teachers’ College, where he was studying to become a teacher.

The official said Palach had been seen in the university area the night before his death. He said the police were questioning witnesses, including students, to try to determine what had happened.

Meanwhile, the government has ordered the expulsion of all foreign students from the country, effective immediately. The order was issued by the interior minister, who said it was in response to the death of Palach.

The government has also asked the United Nations Human Rights Commission to investigate the death of Palach, who was selected by random lottery to serve in the armed forces.

The United Nations has already condemned the use of conscription as a means of political repression.

Board OKs MHA policy

The Board of Regents of Michigan State University has approved a new policy for the selection and appointment of university presidents.

The policy, which was developed by the Board’s Committee on Presidents, provides for the selection of a president by a panel of faculty, staff, and students. The panel will recommend a candidate to the Board, which will then interview the candidate and make a final decision.

The policy also provides for the appointment of a provost by the president, subject to confirmation by the Board.

The policy is expected to be implemented by the fall of 1971.
