ROBIN (AP) — President Nixon wanted to remove beards from the halls of Congress. But in the halls of Michigan State University in East Lansing, most beards went right on growing. President Nixon, however, saw the Office of Civilian Defense in its new role as a political arm of the administration. The President was surprised when the Michigan State University office of the Federal Council of Civil Defense was not as informative as he had hoped. The President's office was not notified of the decision to remove beards from the halls of Congress. The President was not satisfied with the reports of the Office of Civilian Defense and the Michigan State University office of the Federal Council of Civil Defense. CRISIS INTERVENTION

"New York police study families"

By NAKIA REEVES

New York City Police Commissioner Lewis W. Shanklin has ordered a study of the homes of all people killed in the five boroughs of the city, according to a statement issued.

Most of the inmates that take place in the streets are committed by people who know their constituencies personally. A great many of the time, the police are just not able to cope with the problem. The families that are torn apart, often are the families that the police are trying to help.

One day we were all standing in the lobby of the police station, and a young boy came in, looking very upset. He was talking to some of the officers, and they were trying to comfort him. One of the officers was talking to him about his family, and how they were doing. Then he said, "I just don't know what to do. My family is just...just falling apart."

The officer responded, "I'm sorry that you're feeling that way. It's tough to see your family suffer. But you're not alone. We're here for you.

"Sad" of people, it's hard to say, but we're here to help."

The study will take place in the next few months. It's a large project, but we're ready. We have a team of experts working on it, and we're confident that we can make a difference.

"It takes a village" to raise a child, said one officer. "We're here to be that village, to provide support and help when it's needed."

The study will be wide-ranging, looking at all aspects of family life, from the emotional to the practical. We'll be working with families all over the city, to understand their needs and challenges.

We know that families are a key part of our community, and we're committed to helping them. We're excited to get started on this important work, and we're looking forward to seeing the results.

"We're here for all families," said another officer. "We're here to listen, to support, to help."

The study will be funded by a grant from the state, and we're grateful to them for their support. We're committed to making this a success, and we're looking forward to sharing our findings with the community.

"We believe that every family deserves to thrive," said one officer. "We're here to help make that happen."

The enemy's offensive slackened off on its fifth day Thursday but allied forces in Vietnam expected a second and more violent wave of attacks. The opening phase has proved as bloody as the big drive a year ago.

Allied, 2,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers have been killed in the offensive, and 32 more have surrendered or died. At least 300 Americans have been killed.

National News

President Nixon's foreign tour and informal talks with heads of state were endorsed condi-tionally Thursday by Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich. The senator reiterated his contention that the U.S. contribution to a slow-down in the arms race should include abandonment of the disputed antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

A leading Republican critic of the projected ABM system, Mr. Hart, and hope Thursday that the matter will not become a partisan issue in the wake of increasing opposition by many Democrats. "Robert Freeman., Dean Cooper, R-Ky., said a strong statement against the project by Hubert H. Humphrey "will be helpful in swaying public opinion."

A 28th department of Michigan government-to-deal exclusively with the problems of youth—was proposed in the state senate Wednesday.

The state Senate delayed again Thursday a final vote on the controversial bill that would authorize local officials to declare a state of emergency in the event of a possible riot.

New dept. seeks students

By MARK EICHER State News Writer

A new department has been newly formed at the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources and is looking for undergraduates to build it up.

The newly formed Department of Park and Recreation Resources Management at MSU is looking for undergraduates, graduates, and college professors.

"If we don't have students, we don't have a program," profes sor and chairman of the Department of Park and Recreation Resources Management, Twardzik said.

"The excitement here is to pry open doors." Twardzik, an assistant professor at the University of Michigan, is looking for students to help build up the future of the department.

However, there are challenges in getting small departments off the ground and in keeping them there. The department is looking for students to help out with these challenges.

For more information on how to get involved, contact the Department of Park and Recreation Resources Management at MSU.

Urban planning grads hit program

By JANE SCHULZ

On average, a student at the University of Michigan spends about 14 hours per week studying for exams.

Fifteen graduate students have written the comprehensive exam of the Department of Urban Planning by the Department of City Planning.

The exam is a major part of the curriculum for urban planning students. It is also available to professionals in the field of urban planning.

The test consists of four parts: a written essay, a multiple-choice examination, a short-answer examination, and a project in urban planning.

The exam is designed to assess the student's understanding of urban planning concepts, the ability to apply these concepts to real-world situations, and the ability to communicate the results of their work effectively.

The exam is graded on a scale of 1 to 5, with 5 being the highest possible score. Students who achieve a score of 5 or above are considered to have successfully completed the exam.

The Department of City Planning at the University of Michigan is a leading institution in the field of urban planning. It offers graduate programs in urban planning, as well as undergraduate programs in the field.

The department is located in the Center for International Programs, and is open to students from around the world.

The department is dedicated to providing students with a comprehensive education that prepares them for careers in urban planning.

Separate black church vital

By CAROL CORRIERE
State News Service Writer

Integrated education and inter-racial contact with other church members are stressed in the "Creativity Festival" approach to Sunday school teaching being used by the United Church of Christ in Lansing. Mary Richards of the Lansing United Church of Christ, who is coordinator of the creative festival, said that one of the main goals is to avoid separating black and white children in the school system. "It is necessary that these two groups be brought together in order to bring about a true understanding between black and white people," Mrs. Richards said.

The creative festival will take place at Sunday school during the next month. Although the children will be divided into groups, Mrs. Richards said, and given the opportunity to engage in activities with their friends at Sunday school, the idea is to make the Sunday school more fun and meaningful for all children.

The special interest group will take place on the second Sunday of each month, starting today. Mrs. Richards said that the goal is to bring children of all ages together in order to share experiences and gain a better understanding of one another.

Easter differences noted

By CAROL CORRIERE
State News Service Writer

The difference between the dates of Easter for the Anglican, Episcopal, and the Church of Sweden are from the Jews, and are due to the fact that the Church of Sweden is the largest Protestant denomination in the United States. The Orthodox Church regards that Easter should also take place at the same time as the Jewish Passover, but the Orthodox Christians only require that Easter be marked by a special feast and service.

D образования и интер-прайз кон такта с другими церковными сообществами являются важными элементами в "Festivall Creativity" подходе к воскресной школе, который используется в Лансинге. Мэри Ричардс из Лансингского Церковного Союза, который является координатором этого фестиваля, сказала, что одной из основных целей является предотвращение того, чтобы черные и белые дети были в различных группах в школе.

"Его задача состоит в том, чтобы эти две группы были объединены, чтобы можно было понять друг друга и научиться у себя друг у друга," - сказала Мэри Ричардс.

"Специальная группа будет проходить один раз в месяц, начиная с этого месяца. Мисс Ричардс сказала, что цель этой группы - сделать воскресную школу более веселой и значимой для всех детей.

Мисс Ричардс сказала, что это будет сделать, чтобы дети, особенно черные, могли участвовать в этих мероприятиях и развиваться вместе с другими детьми, чтобы они могли лучше понять друг друга.
