Jordon slams Israel for village air raid

UNITED NATIONS—Israel was criticized by the Arab world last week for its actions in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Arab leaders called for an immediate halt to air raids on Arab villages.

The Arab League meeting of ministers in Cairo, where Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was present, agreed that the immediate withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab lands was a key demand. The crisis in the Middle East because of the depredations of both sides continued to escalate.

The crisis cannot wait any longer than it has to be faced by Arab nations, said the United Arab Emirates, and by Jordan. Israel was also criticized by Arab nations for having forced them to evacuate their village or face eviction. But Arab nations said the violence could not stop Israel.

Usama bin Thalath, president of the Arab League, said: "If a settlement cannot be achieved, the Jordanian president will be forced to evacuate his village or face eviction. The Jordanian forces of the Arab League are determined to protect the interests of our people in this area."

The new housing development will be located near the existing UNRWA refugee camp, and will provide 200 units of housing for Palestinian refugees.

The project is expected to be completed within two years, and will help address the housing needs of Palestinian refugees in the area.

Regional aid offices revamped by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is revamping the foreign aid program in the State Department to cope with the new realities of the global economic order. The President's objectives are to increase the effectiveness and economy of the aid program, and to make it more responsive to the needs of the recipient countries.

The changes reflect the President's desire to use American aid to support the goals of the new administration. The new approach will focus on areas where the United States has direct interests, such as the Middle East, Central America, and South Asia.

The changes are expected to result in a more streamlined and efficient aid program. However, the President has not yet announced the specific changes that will be made.

Defence retreats in Sirhan trial

LOS ANGELES — The defense has made a number of significant withdrawals in the Sirhan trial. Sirhan, a former Jordanian diplomat, is accused of assassinating President Kennedy.

The defense has abandoned its attempt to prove Sirhan's insanity and has now focused on establishing his lack of premeditation. The defense has also dropped its bid to have the case dismissed on jurisdictional grounds.

The trial is expected to continue for several more weeks.
Support volunteer army bill

I have corresponded with Sen. Mark Hatfield (R-Or.) concerning the military bill that he has introduced in the Senate. As a veteran of four years in the army, I want to see a reasonable measure taken to secure an army corps from which all citizens will be drawn. A draft bill that ensures every man of military age will do his duty in the service of his country is a necessity. The army bill that the Senate is considering is a step in the right direction.

Letter campaign proposal passed

Problem: Gripes on campus

Write your congressmen as follows:

A "Write Your Congressmen" campaign proposal submitted to the Student Senate February 27 by Nathan Schlotterer, chairman of the Student Academic Committee, the board passed the proposal which makes the offer written to congressmen available to students.

The purpose of the list is to include student interest in current social issues such as the military draft, human rights, the Vietnam War, and others. The list is intended to encourage congressmen to care for the students' welfare, and student brothers in Congress.

This proposal will enable students to write to congressmen about their concerns which may not necessarily be of interest to them. There are reservations, however, that the congressmen may not be interested in the students' welfare.

Student governments should begin to see the resources available for changing the laws which affect us. We must begin to organize the student movements, the national government, and the student government.

Some will be able to write to all congressmen on campus and at other colleges and universities.

A copy of the list will be made available in the offices of all Michigan Student governments.

By STEVE ROSE
State News-Islewriter

Monday night in the Auditorium, MSU in preparation to be shown at a special concert by the University's own pianist, Zang Lan Lan, will present a program of new compositions by Roger Sessions, one of America's leading composers of contemporary music.

The Ford Foundation annually sponsors this type of new music program, two of which are to be performed outside of New York this year. For the outstanding reputation of its Tuesday Concert Series, MSU has been chosen as one of the performing places.

The new piano sextet Sonatas No. 3, in one of these selections to be played by Lan Lan, is said to be a notable example of the trend in contemporary music to explore the extent of the technical possibilities of the piano.

"Minds and Machines" will be the theme of the Isenberg Lecture Series beginning at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 24.

In progress each term since 1959, the series concentrates on various areas of philosophy with a heritage of renowned lecturers.

"Minds and Machines" is non-productive in the University. Instead, it is displayed in the form of black America looking at the white mind. Pianist Scott is an African American, born in Mississippi.

The pianist is known for his ability to create music with a breadth of emotional range. "Minds and Machines" is an example of this ability.

Isenberg theme: "minds' and machines". The series is made up of lectures on the theme of "Minds and Machines". The series is made up of lectures on the theme of "Minds and Machines".

'S'-Iowa grid game part of fall TV plan

NEW YORK - A television schedule featuring 31 games -- including four night contests -- involving 46 teams was announced Wednesday for the Ivy League fall college football season.

There were eight night games included in the total of 11 national television games.

The wild card game innovations, first used last season, will be repeated in 1980 with ABC picking a game in November on a Saturday night.

Yale and Penn will play at night while no television games were regular season game colleges.

Defending national champion Ohio State will be seen in one of the night TV games, September 29, when the Buckeyes game at Northwestern.

The TV slate against Purdue on Nov. 5 will probably be a night game but is considered a television alternative if Purdue and Iowa, which play in Iowa City, are a doubleheader with Notre Dame.

One big reason for an early season night TV game is to increase attendance.

The two-hour network specials are scheduled for the following week.

Spartans trail Michigan in all-sports race

By DON KOPEVA
State News Writer

MSU is running second after the winter sports season in the competition for the Big Ten all-sports championship. The rankings follow:

1. Michigan (42.3 points)
2. MSU (39.6 points)
3. Minnesota (36.0 points)
4. Wisconsin (28.9 points)
5. Iowa (27.9 points)

The team takes into consideration the number of points earned by each team. The higher the number of points, the better the team. The competition is based on the number of points earned by each team in the winter sports season.

MSU finished seventh in football last fall, and third in cross-country for the third straight season. The team also finished second in football but seventh in cross-country. But the Wolverines finished fifth in football and third in cross-country. They also finished second in cross-country and third in track, tied for third in wrestling and finished fourth in basketball.

Lack of depth would generally lower the Spartan average to the second place, except for the men's basketball. The Spartans defeated the Wolverines runners-up. The men's basketball team had two seniors and one junior. The Spartans defeated the Wolverines with a young team, and the Michigan team had two seniors and one junior.

MSU held 18-19 titles in cross country and wrestling, while MSU has won seven of the last six years. The Michigan State Board of Trustees has named MSU's football coach, basketball coach and hockey coach as the Big Ten coaches of the year.

A Michigan committee to fight President Nixon’s ABM-Safeguard system will be announced next week by James McNeely, chairman of the Michigan Democratic party.

The committee, to be compounded by political activists and technicians, such as physicists, will join with other groups across the country to campaign against Nixon’s proposal to install ABM-Safeguard units on a worldwide scale.

The project, which is intended to create jobs, will be announced next week by McNeely and other Michigan Democrats.

McNeely said the committee will be named the "Committee to Repeal ABM-Safeguard." McNeely and several other Michigan Democrats have been working on the project for the past several months.

The committee will be headed by McNeely, who is the current chairman of the Michigan Democratic party. Other members of the committee include state senators and representatives, as well as community leaders.

The committee will focus on raising awareness about the ABM-Safeguard system and on educating the public about the dangers of deploying such a system.

McNeely said the committee will also work on developing alternative proposals for managing national security.

The committee’s goal is to create a public dialogue and encourage participation from citizens across the state.

McNeely added that the committee’s efforts will be supported by the Michigan Democratic party, which will provide financial and logistical support.

McNeely said the committee will hold public meetings and workshops to discuss the ABM-Safeguard system and to develop solutions.

McNeely emphasized the importance of public involvement in the committee’s efforts.

The committee’s work will be guided by the principles of the Democratic party, which include promoting social justice, economic opportunity, and environmental sustainability.

McNeely concluded by thanking everyone for their support and expressing hope for a positive outcome.

Proposal provides more student voice

A group of graduate students at UM-Flint has succeeded in persuading the university’s administration to make a commitment to providing more student representation in decision-making processes.

The proposal was developed by a committee of graduate students and was presented to the university’s administration last week.

The proposal, which was approved by the university’s Board of Regents, calls for the establishment of a Student Senate, which will have the power to make decisions on matters affecting students.

The Student Senate will be composed of representatives from each of the university’s academic departments, as well as representatives from student organizations and student unions.

The administration has stated that it is committed to implementing the proposal and that it will work closely with the student representatives to ensure that their voices are heard.

The proposal has been met with enthusiasm by students, who see it as a significant step forward in the university’s efforts to make student representation a priority.

Clergymen question collyquy

By CAROL CORBLIE
State News Religion Editor

Clergymen from across the state have gathered in Lansing to discuss the proposed changes to the UCUSA (Universal Church of the Solar System) constitution. The main points of discussion are the separation of church and state and the role of the church in society.

The idea was to take a good look at the present situation and move forward from there. Father Francis Zippel, presiding bishop of the UCUSA, said that the meeting was a chance for the clergy to exchange ideas and work towards a common goal.

The proposed changes include the establishment of a National Council of Churches, which would serve as a coordinating body for all churches and religious organizations. The council would be responsible for the promotion of religious freedom and the protection of minority groups.

The clergy, who were largely of the same age and gender, spent the day discussing the issues and making recommendations. The meeting was held in a large conference room at the Lansing Marriott Hotel.

Bible study on issues of the day is held for priests on Sunday mornings and Wednesday evenings.

Huber to block confirmation

Huber's stand concerning a film on the Redwood Forest last weekend was the latest in a long series of events that indicate Harper's unsuitability for the post. Further, Huber has not the authority to control some of the activities as he represents.

Huber referred to several situations including a publication released to print the student newsletter, a radio station's reading of poetry in a classroom, the burning of an American flag, and many others in which Huber would assert there should not be any of these things, but because of its noninfringement.

The new secretary of the state's planning said:

"We don't want to see U.S. using the words "peaceful" in its "take" in the phrase "take withdrawal of troops.
