Chancy, Mintzer elected to senior posts

By WALT BESLEY and RANLEY BARKER

With approximately 6,500 total voters casting votes in the AMUSS (American University Student Senate) election, Alan Mintzer was in a tight race for a senior membership seat.

Chancy polled 2,790 votes to Mintzer's 2,784. Both Chancy and Bill Hunt received 2,831 and 2,830 votes respectively to take the two junior member-at-large seats.

Soviets unwilling to invade East European powder keg

News Analysis

First Lady Pat rules out military options

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Carter said Wednesday he would not send a military force into Eastern Europe to protect the Soviet Union.

In a show dominated by the nation's capital's most powerful woman, Mrs. Carter offered her support for the latest round of talks between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"I can understand why anyone would want to be a lawyer," the First Lady told an audience of lawyers, "but I don't want to be a lawyer."

Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev and Mr. Carter are scheduled to meet next month for the first time since the 1980s. The talks will focus on a range of issues, including arms control, human rights, and the future of the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Carter's support for the talks was seen as a sign of hope for a peaceful resolution to the ongoing conflict in Eastern Europe.

"I think it's important that we work together on these issues," she said. "This is a time for cooperation, not confrontation."

Soviet military leaders have repeatedly threatened to invade Eastern Europe if the United States does not provide military support.

"I don't think that's necessary," Mrs. Carter said. "I think we can find a way to work together that is beneficial for both sides."

The First Lady's comments were met with approval by many in the audience, who praised her for her dedication to the cause of world peace.

"She's a true leader," one attendee said. "I think she's doing a great job."

Threat of mass arrest Wednesday prompted an estimated 100 students to abandon occupation of the University of Michigan's Student Union Building. The students had smashed through a series of locked doors and seized the building to bar three demands, among them: that the University's Reserve Officer Training Corps program be ended. The occupation lasted three hours.

School officials at the University in Ann Arbor said that of a series of meetings at 3:15 a.m. 10 black students were arrested.

A 29-year-old Western Michigan University junior from New Buffalo, James Hasbly, was found dead in his room. He was scheduled to return to the university next week.

Thinking of renting? Look before you lease!

Watch that lease!

Barbara Brown, a reporter for your John Hancock to a lease for a "luxury" apartment for next fall, caution.

Life in a "luxury" apartment is not all lavish living and sipping extra-dry martinis beside a heated swimming pool. Life in a "luxury" apartment is not all better booze parties and wild women hounding you at your feet.

Life in a luxury apartment could be being evicted from your apartment five years before breaking one of the manager’s rules.

Life in a luxury apartment could be having all your personal effects, including your car, confiscated by your landlord unless you happen to owe him some money.

Life in a luxury apartment is having your rent jacked up 10 per cent if not paid within five days of the due date.

You don’t have to rush to today and sign a lease to be sure that you won’t be left out in the cold next fall. This year there was an abundance of studio apartments, many of which were never occupied. Chances are, this will recur again next fall.

Off-Campus Council (OCC) is working very hard to do something about the discrepancies involved in apartment leases. A booklet will be available from them in a few weeks with suggestions and options. It would be helpful to consult OCC before signing that lease.

Take your time, read the lease carefully, talk to OCC, and above all, ask about the possible implications of what you are signing.

Opinions rage on parochial aid

By ED HUTCHISON

A lack of funds may spread over Michigan's parochial schools, especially in the Lower Peninsula, and that some believe could result in a change of their educational system. A recent financial report from Michigan's Catholic schools revealed that the schools are in a financial crisis.

Some Catholic schools, which are supported by tuition money and donations from the state, are facing financial difficulties due to a lack of state funding. The state's budget cuts have led to a decrease in funding for parochial schools, which has resulted in a decrease in the number of students attending these schools. The state's budget cuts have also led to a decrease in the number of parochial school teachers, which has resulted in a decrease in the quality of education provided to students.

Honor College revises policy

By Maryanne George
State News Staff Writer

The Honor Students Program Committee recently changed the rules which require a high grade point average to maintain membership in the Honor College and require increased participation of members in Honor College programs.

The committee recommended that the grade point requirement be abolished for all students in the Honor College and increased participation of members in Honor College programs.

The increased participation of members in honor College programs will be required of all students, whether or not they maintain a high grade point average. The increased participation will be assessed through various activities, such as participation in honor College programs, involvement in community service, and leadership roles.

This change was adopted to accommodate the varied needs and interests of students. It is believed that these new requirements will encourage students to engage in meaningful and fulfilling activities, while recognizing that different students may excel in different ways.

“The Honor College is committed to fostering a community of scholars who are dedicated to academic excellence and personal growth. We believe that these new requirements will help us achieve this goal,” said Dr. John Smith, Director of Honor College.

This revision was adopted unanimously by the Honor College Programs Committee and will take effect immediately.

The new requirements are as follows:

1. Participation in at least one Honor College program per semester.
2. Involvement in at least one community service project per semester.
3. Leadership role in at least one organization.

These requirements will be evaluated on an ongoing basis and may be modified as necessary to better meet the needs of the students.

The new policy will be communicated to all students and parents through a letter, email, and a meeting with the Director of Honor College.

This change was requested by the students and was supported by the faculty and administration. The new policy will be reviewed annually to ensure its effectiveness and relevance.

Kelly said that the revision would not substantially change the number of students enrolled in (Honor College) programs. However, it is expected that the new requirements will encourage more students to participate in Honor College programs.

Michigan State’s talented freshman pitcher, Steve Esser, is the leading contender for the MVP award in the Big Ten this year. Esser has been the most consistent pitcher on the Spartan staff, leading the team in victories with 12.99. He has dominated the opponents with his sharp curves and excellent control. Esser’s performance has been crucial in keeping the Spartans in the running for the conference title.

In the next series of games, Michigan State will face off against Ohio State. Esser is expected to start on the mound for the Spartans and will be looking to continue his impressive streak of performances. The Spartans are currently in the third place in the conference, and a win in this series could solidify their position in the race for the title.

The Michigan State Spartans are one of the top teams in the conference, and Esser’s performance has been a key factor in their success. He has been a solid presence on the mound, keeping the opposing batters off-balance with his mix of pitches. Esser’s control and command have been particularly impressive, allowing him to limit the damage even when he is on the ropes.

Esser’s performance has not gone unnoticed, as he has been named the conference pitcher of the week twice this season. The Spartans are looking forward to his next start, as they hope to continue their winning streak and solidify their position in the conference race.
Nicklaus favored as Masters opens

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The tradition-rich Masters Golf Tourney begins today with the opening of the Augusta National golfcourse which is known as the home of the Masters. The three-round competition begins today at 10 a.m. and will continue through Sunday afternoon. The winner will receive a special set of gold Golf Trophies.

Nicklaus, who has already won three Masters titles, is favored to win his fourth title. He is followed in the odds charts by Gary Player, who has won two Masters titles, and Arnold Palmer, who has won one Masters title.

Headlines and highlights of the day's events are expected to include the return of Jack Nicklaus, who has been away from the mastery for several weeks due to a back injury. Nicklaus is expected to play a strong game, and some experts believe he could win his fourth Masters title.

Sailing club specializes in recreation and racing

By RILEY RICE

State News Sports Writer

Spring weather brings a rise in activity to Lake Lansing, and the MSU Sailing Club has been busy preparing for future events in the fundamentals of the sport.

The club, which has 120 members, is divided equally between guys and girls, operating a racing team which meets with various clubs from the Big Ten and Midwest.

A racing program of the club has two parts - a "show off" which accompanies the students with the knowledge of sailing and the techniques involved, such as deck work and living boats. When this is over, the students are taken out on the lake by more experienced club members.

Following a series of tests, the new club members are allowed to take the sailboats out any time during the week on their own.

Students who do not belong to the sailing club and come to come down to Lake Lansing on weekends and take a boat out under the supervision of a club member, do not belong any sailboat enthusiasts to participate in the recreational side of the club.

Club treasurer Bob Anton says the main problem in getting people to come down to the lake and have the boats is that some people are reticent or nervous about sailing or hangouts to get to relax and get to know some of the other members.

"Getting them out there is in the basic problem - once they are there, they must be interested.

If you’re using a pre-scrub, put on a size of a small grip, and then use the thumb of your non-hand. Say, "No, you can't do that either, because you’re not quite that big," I’m going to put on the index finger of my non-hand, and use it to wipe the windows. You’ll get an art.

Gauch0 poetry discussed

The gauchos are the original cowboys of Latin America, and their poetry is often characterized by themes of freedom, adventure, and the natural world. The gauchos were known for their skills as horsemen and cattle herders, and their poetry often reflects their connection to the land and their lifestyle.

The new Mercedes-Benz 280SL:
"The sports car they said was too comfortable."

Leading Automotive magazine ran a critic who said, "It's too sexy for its own good."

We say, "The Mercedes-Benz 280SL is the epitome of elegance and performance."

The Mercedes-Benz 280SL is designed to provide the ultimate in luxury and comfort. It features a smooth, powerful V8 engine, automatic transmission, and a Soft Top roof. The interior is beautifully appointed with leather seats and wood trim. The 280SL is the perfect choice for those who want the best of both worlds - a sports car with the comfort of a luxury sedan.

For more information, visit your local Mercedes-Benz dealer.

Blacks recruited for law schools.

Black students and other minority students might be eligible for law school even if their grade point is not high enough to gain admission.

The Michigan Bar Association will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the Eastern Michigan University Union, according to John D. Thompson, executive director. The program will focus on minority recruitment, as well as problems confronting minority students in law school.

The event is open to the public at no cost,

In 1968, 1969, and 1970, the bar association sponsored three recruitment drives for minority students.

The Michigan Bar Association will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the Eastern Michigan University Union, according to John D. Thompson, executive director. The program will focus on minority recruitment, as well as problems confronting minority students in law school.

The event is open to the public at no cost, and will feature workshops, panels, and discussions on topics such as the legal profession, law school admission, and career opportunities for minority students.

The program will also provide an opportunity for students to network and connect with professionals in the legal field.

In addition, there will be a reception following the event, where attendees can socialize and further discuss the topics presented.

For more information, please visit the Michigan Bar Association website or contact John D. Thompson at (517) 388-6844.
