Huff asks Wharton to clarify questions on VP appointment

by BARBARA FANNEK

From Detroit. Friday

In a letter to President Wharton this week, Alvin P. Laird, chairman of the possible appointment of Robert Huff as M.I.T.'s vice president for alumni relations, said he was scheduled to meet with Huff, former deputy director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) in Washington.

Laird's letter was first noticed by members of the alumni council at the mid-year meeting of the Alumni and Friends Foundation. Huff is scheduled to meet with Laird at a later date.

Huff, when contacted by The News, said he was aware of the letter and would be willing to meet with Laird.

Laird cites drawbacks in ending draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has been offered a job as a consultant to the federal government on a part-time basis to help end the draft.

The offer was extended to McNamara by the Senate Armed Services Committee, which is considering legislation to end the draft.

The committee asked McNamara to consider serving as a consultant to the government in a non-official capacity.

McNamara, who served as defense secretary under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, has been out of government service since 1977.

State News Staff Writer

The news of the possible appointment of Robert Huff as M.I.T.'s vice president has raised questions about his qualifications and experience.

"I should have been the last one to appoint him," said one trustee.

"He is not a good choice," said another.

The trustees have not yet decided on the appointment of Huff.

Rocks reveal lunar strata

The whole structure of the moon may "be regularly controlled by well-defined crystal layers as we see on Earth," a scientist who has studied rocks on the moon said.

"The structure of the moon is very different from the structure of the Earth," said the scientist.

"The structure of the moon is very different from the structure of the Earth," said the scientist.

The scientists believe that the low density of the moon may be due to the presence of a large number of mineral layers on the moon.

The interior of the moon may be obtained from the knowledge of the distribution of these mineral layers.

"The basic data we obtained," the scientist said, "suggests that the basic data obtained from the moon is very different from the basic data obtained from the Earth."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Judge Harold Carnwell got the lost glove treatment Thursday before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Only there were these knocks today:

Two strong-voiced women, one a former congressman and the other a fast-selling author, told their testimony to the Senate should be turned down on sex discrimination grounds.

They cited the political action of a federal appeals court judge against reappointment of a women's claim that she was denied a job because she had small children.

The "hard philosophy," said

--Rep. Paul 7. Mock, D-Delan, is "obviously celebrating of a man who considered the appointment to the highest court of the land."

--Jane Fonda, who recently returned to the Vietnam protests, was "afflicted with a case of free-association."

Carnwell, 50, was one of 10 nominees to hear the annual "radiator comment," that women's lack of influence is due to the number of women on the Court.

The author, Betty Friedan, called Carnwell a "social judge" who, according to her, is "not only wrong but unbalanced in his treatment of the woman object."

Carnwell's appointment is currently under consideration of the Senate judiciy committee.

Armories to install alarms

A spokesperson said a test program already underway is placing what is called electronic detection equipment in 44 armories across the state and the District of Columbia to prevent large-scale thefts.

Four of the five biggest thefts in recent times were in armories. The state was not in the test program, and 25 of the 135 armories have gone through a series of thefts by the army's security organization.

"Sex stereo," said Carnwell, "the methods are not as effective as the ones we have been using." He said there have been 10 instances in the past two years.

In the first 10 months of 1968, the Pentagon said, 102 Army weapons were seized in the state, and the FBI said 14 of the thefts were reported in the United States.

ASMSU reorganizes cabinet

By JOHN BORGER

Major changes will occur in the ASMSU student government on the Friday after Thanksgiving, when the new cabinet members take office. The old cabinet resigned last week, marking the end of the 1970-71 academic year, and the new cabinet was reorganized on Friday.

The new cabinet will consist of nine members, including President-elect John B. Morgan, Vice President-elect Steve D. Johnson, Secretary-elect William E. Smith, Treasurer-elect Bruce E. Brown, Editor-elect George E. Elder, and Members-elect Richard A. Smith, David L. Johnson, Robert A. Miller, and James L. Brown. The new cabinet will assume its duties on November 26.

The old cabinet members who resigned on Friday were President Larry G. Grossfeld, Vice President Dick Stimson, Secretary Steven D. Roche, Treasurer John E. Williams, Editor John F. Ryan, and Members Thomas A. Zollar, Robert A. Miller, and James L. Brown.

The former cabinet members expressed their appreciation for the work of the new cabinet and wished them well in their new positions.

Morgan said that the new cabinet members are eager to get started and that they will work hard to improve the student government and to serve the needs of the students. He also expressed his thanks to the outgoing cabinet members for their service and dedication to the student government.

Johnson said that the new cabinet members are excited about the challenges that lie ahead and that they will work closely with the administration and the faculty to ensure that the student government is effective and responsive to the needs of the students.

Smith said that the new cabinet members are committed to the principles of democracy and transparency and that they will work to ensure that the student government is open to the students and that they will be held accountable for their decisions and actions.

Brown said that the new cabinet members are determined to make the student government a force for positive change and that they will work to ensure that the student government is effective and responsive to the needs of the students.

Elder said that the new cabinet members are committed to the principles of inclusion and diversity and that they will work to ensure that the student government is open to all students and that they will be held accountable for their decisions and actions.

The new cabinet members are scheduled to meet with the president and the vice president of the university next week to discuss their plans and to receive the guidance and support of the administration.

The new cabinet members are also scheduled to meet with the students and to hear their ideas and suggestions for improving the student government.

Distributors not hurt by 'no-knock' clause

Congress continues to be the master of the double deal. The new criminal drug law is no exception.

A good part of the new drug legislation is a progressive and constructive nature. Penalties for the small drug user and other drug charges are reduced to a more reasonable and realistic level, though, in the case of marijuana, we feel that they have stepped down at the one perilous position of legalization. Much of the timber of this law is to be more scientifically and sociologically oriented, not law enforcement-oriented.

The unfortunate deterrent from this is that in the background it is the old, discredited 'crime wave' out of line. The premise is that in the time that it would take for the police officers to go through the procedure the offender would vanish. The police suspect could have disposed of the drugs by some method such as deportation or attorney. Indeed it is quite possible in the case of the police suspect a little as little practical when one only has a suspicion or an arrest warrant.

We must accept the idea that the presence of an ounce of the weed constitutes big - time pushing. In terms of how, of course, the volume involved is much smaller, yet we feel it is to say that the small drug user organization will not be left a little hard to get down the drug law.

Another rationale for the "no knocks" clause is that a number of states and the District of Columbia have similar procedures, either by law or judicial custom. It should be pointed out here that if such a procedure becomes federal law, there is no question that it will ultimately become law in all states as it is similarly present in the federal statute. It presents a philosophical question of whether two wrongs necessarily make one right.

It is our opinion that the "no knocks" law is most unfortunate and goes a long way to eliminate much of the progressive tone of the rest of the omnibus drug bill. Further, we feel that such a statute is highly reminiscent of police state thinking and has no place in a free democracy. It is infinitely more preferable in the long run to allow a few criminals to escape detection than to infringe on the rights of two hundred million citizens.

Judge Julius Hoffman's Theater of the Absurd

His Honor Judge Julius Hoffman's Theater of the Absurd opened a new act this week at its Chicago site by acting as both. His performance is, if anything, more bizarre than his previous role of attorney general of the United States.

As his honor's organic chemistry, the legal and social implications of the drug laws are as prominent in the United States as in the rest of the world. The drug laws are now under attack from all sides, and our legal system is being forced to question its own validity.

In the past, Judge Hoffman has been a strong advocate of the war on drugs. He has argued that the use of drugs is a menace to society and that the criminalization of drug use is necessary to combat this menace.

However, in recent years, Judge Hoffman has become more critical of the drug laws. He has argued that the criminalization of drug use is not effective in reducing drug use and that the drug laws are often applied unevenly.

Judge Hoffman's Theater of the Absurd is a reflection of this changing attitude. It is a performance that is both entertaining and thought-provoking. It is a performance that is not afraid to question the validity of the drug laws and the legal system itself.

We encourage everyone to see Judge Hoffman's Theater of the Absurd. It is a performance that is not only entertaining but also important in the ongoing debate about the drug laws and the legal system.
Exiles said to find Canadian adjustment hard

By DAVE SHORT

Mrs. Ellen Short, Free University, Toronto, said Canada requires a different adjustment for American draft dodgers than does the United States.

"Many people coming into Canada have been admitted here under the Canadian laws for refugees and have not been treated as they were in the United States," Miss Short said. "They do not have the same rights in Canada as they do in the United States."

Senator du Pont of Delaware said that Canada is in the position of all countries in the world to receive individuals who are not thought to be in the United States.

'U' of Air offers educational TV at home

By SHELDON JOHNSON
State News-Michigan

Credits towards your degree at MSU can be obtained in the comfort of your home "if you enjoy an educator," according to University Kovin, director of the University's Higher Education and Extension Service.

While the majority of courses offered through MSU are in the 300-400 undergraduate level, there is no limit to the number of TV courses a student may take towards completion of his degree. "The credit is the same," Dr. Kovin said. "You are being taught in your home, and if you like it, that's fine." The courses are divided into two categories: credit and enrichment. Credit courses can be taken for academic credit, while enrichment courses are taken for personal interest.

Duffy of the Educational Extension Service, a faculty member in the University's Department of Higher Education, said that the credit courses are designed to meet the needs of people who cannot attend classes on campus.

The University of the Air, under the MSU Continuing Education Service Program, has developed a curriculum for credit courses that would fit the special needs of the under-graduate student.

MEMO: get GIs back in school

By PAULA BRAY State News Staff Writer

Through a new government program, veterans in Vietnam and other foreign war theaters who were never allowed to return to school either in the U.S. or abroad, have an opportunity to do so now. The program, Project MENO (Veterans Education, New Opportunity), allows returning GIs to enter several universities and colleges in the U.S. and abroad. There are also opportunities for veterans who want to return to the military to do so. This program is a result of the GI Bill legislation passed in 1944. A GI who is eligible can use this program either through a university or college, or through a military service. W. Earl Robinson, associate director of admissions at Michigan State University, is available to assist interested GIs with this program. Robinson is available from 3-6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. He can be reached by phone at 339-4711.

Larrowe: from Sigma Chi to civil liberties

By BARBARA PARNES
State News Editor

Anyone who knows Charlie Larrowe, president of economics, would find it hard to imagine him sitting around the co-op on the main floor of "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," but after Socialists' demise and faculty advisor to SDS and Young Americans' Alliance, he has become one of the most active students today when he was enrolled at the University of Washington. He was, in his own word, "a playboy and a free spirit." Larrowe, 23, always among the first to arrive at any campus demonstration, is constantly during the college days in a drinking frenzy. He is led by the music, "While we live, let us eat and drink." "If the cause had called for it, I would have been an activist," Larrowe said. "I think I didn't see any more in the 1968. The people on campus never believed in much of an activist. The so-called radicals around then would say I'm a liberal. I'm not really so much of a beast as a civic libertarian."

The kind of person who was involved in an activist effort of defending women's rights in American freedom and the rights gained in the Bill of Rights, I think the person who is concerned with women's rights under the Constitution."

Larrowe became involved in both the Paul莴tı and the Stamford Student Council, in which he represented the students' rights of individual rights.

A fellow student, during a time in which he was a student at the University in 1968, largely because of his "radical" philosophy, was studying for the bar and was studied, in that sense, as a member of the student council. Larrowe was running the student council of the state for a group which fought for the entertainment of the great.

In the sense that I considered to be a student, I believe the real issue was with the matter of an activist."

I would like to see the university stand behind itself. Personally, what I prefere is the new manner approach where our federation would be to try to study, analyze and critique as a practical matter of the question is what things like Vietnam," so observed.

"There's nothing to inhibit students taking courses in the university, " said mine, as a result of the matter of the national council, I have been on the board of trustees," he added.

In my experience of advising students on problems related to the university, I'm having a great help. Many people see students as a threat. I think to be an objective critic," Larrowe said.

Larrowe is effectiveness in dealing with students in his own, his ability to negotiate with their problems. His work at draft counseling, for example, involved helping back home, he is convinced that his experiences would make him a good leader in anything he said.

Rejection of blacks cited by Protestant group head

Black Christians who wish to associate with white Christians in student religious groups face rejection by their black peers on many campuses today, the national president of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship reported Tuesday.

"The Christian groups that our students are trying to organize face rejection by black students on many campuses today," Inter-Varsity national president Dr. Richard Brink said in his keynote address Tuesday at the annual Inter-Varsity National Convention.

The pressure from other blacks is not primarily anti-Christian, Brink said. It is the result of the growing hostility toward white institutions and organizations.

Brink cited 12/20 organizations, "the state of homosexuality, the a.m.

MSU grappers meet Illinois

BY GARY WALKOWICZ

Executive Sports Editor

MSU wrestlers get an opportunity to improve their record for a Big Ten Individual title when they meet Illinois at 7:30 tonight. The meet is scheduled at the Bell Complex, and the visiting Illini are coming off a defeat to Northwestern last week. The Illini have been the top team in the Big Ten until recently. Several freshmen are expected to make their debut appearances tonight.

Both teams come in on a high. Illinois has a solid record and MSU wrestled well last weekend.
