Bus halt causes long walks and tardiness

By ROSANNE BAIN
State News Staff Writer

Since early Tuesday morning the eastbound commuter train in the 10,000 student ham has ridden tate to the station. The first stop was made at about 5:15 a.m. as the bus stop was Tuesday morning when I went out to the bus stop to get in my 8 a.m. class. Lee Ann House, senior, freshman, said. Miss House had in Rockefeller Hall and her first class on Tuesday is in Rockefeller Hall today. I got out to the bus stop early because I had a test and I planned to get to class early and study," she said. By 7 a.m. she was walking to Rockefeller and arrived just in time to take her test.

"We don't know why the bus drivers are doing it," one passenger said. "Do they want more fares? More and less? We ought to know at least a hint about why we're being unloaded so often.

Although the drivers officially reported that the school would issue them, the students claimed that work was also done by a striker. One young nonstudent student was asked what was going on. He said he was afraid to tell the students anything if they were bound by a collective contract, Mary Nolan, list rider, hesitated too much for the students.

"Actually I don't like the bus, and I have to ride on it," he said. On the 8 a.m. bus to go to a dormitory for the dormitory, there is a"shivers."

A big complaint of students is the lack of information that their shivers."

The Michigan State Universityweb was down, although the students were eventually able to begin their academic schedule and class.

Harlan seeks 'U' trustee position

By BARBARA PARNESS

Former trustee C. Allen Harlan announced Wednesday he will run for election to the MU Board of Trustees in November if nominated by the Democratic party. It is the second time he has filed for the position.

Harlan also not a candidate for the seat of Senate Minority Whip in the Missouri General Assembly. He is the majority leader of the Missouri AGP-C.

The former trustee had opposed MU's decision to name Walter Jackson as chancellor in November. He has since been named chancellor of the University of Missouri-Columbia.

News of the Harlan campaign spread quickly throughout the MU campus. It was announced that Harlan would run for the position.

The announcement was made by the Democratic party at a meeting of the student council.

Harlan's campaign is expected to begin immediately.

Do you want to start out your career doing something important?

Do you want to start out your career doing something important?

If you want a job that develops important responsibility right from the start, no qualification or experience to speak of, and an opportunity to make a difference, then the Ford Motor Company may have just the job for you.

One young engineer from Michigan Tech was hired in the Ford Motor Company. He found the job challenging, but rewarding.

"It was a great opportunity," he said. "It was a great opportunity for me to make a difference in the world.

"I was able to work on some new projects that were exciting and challenging. It was a great learning experience for me.

"I would recommend it to anyone who wants to make a difference and have a great career."
Four out of five issues merit student support

We would like to make one thing perfectly clear: we are not opposed to the proposed ASMSU fee. On the contrary, we strongly support the proposed fee. We feel it is only appropriate that we speak out against the short-sightedness of some who oppose the fee.

We recommend a "yes" vote on Issue I. The present Board structure is unwieldy and ineffective and has failed to properly represent the people. The elected system would provide a much clearer link between the people and the Board, thus alleviating one of the prime faults of the present Board.

Issue II also deserves a "yes" vote. The "Sleepless in America" is a recent and imperative vote to be taken five years ago and serves only as a blockade to the kinds of positive action that today's student body demands. It week would not be a great day, five years ago, and now is complete nonsense. The only potential danger in eliminating this section would be that ASMSU wished to contribute funds to candidates - this is, however, already included by the Student Board Code of Operations.

"Yes" on Issue III. According to a study conducted by the Judson Times, period of two years a year of 1975-76, total pupil is less than ten per RAP. We agree that their proposed changes would make the workings of the Student Traffic Appeals Court much more effective.

We recommend a "yes" vote for Issue IV. We believe the student government should be aware of the importance of the responsibilities of the student body. We feel it should be "approved by the faculty," or why else would we have the student government at all? We want to see students "approved for the faculty" through the ballot system. With this system, in as much as these faculty operations have always been subject to criticism, we feel that they represent nothing more than a further attempt to evade current University practice.

On Issue V we urge a "no" vote. We are not opposed to the new Cabinet structure nor to any tax raise, but rather in the way in which the two were handled in our mutual passage. We feel that the proposed cabinet structure is a definite improvement over the old and needs implementation. Further, we have no major objections to the "tax raise" as it is to be justified. Yet fail, however, that the one should or could be justified.

If Issue V fails, the Student Board should immediately hold another referendum in which Issue V will be divided into two separate issues on the Cabinet and the Tax.

Here are our recommendations and hope we will give you some thought. In the final analysis, only you vote must be your decision - when you have made your mind, do your vote.

A great green epidemic of strangely sick drivers

A union spokesman stated he couldn't understand what had happened, but that the absenism must be the result of an epidemic. Fears that the disease is limited only to bus drivers. A local radio station talked it up, quoting the doctors of white and black. At least the cure to the epidemic is given.

No end in sight for the strike, and union officials still deny any knowledge of the strike's cause. Supposedly the bus drivers are dissatisfied with their present job classification. The drivers are upset that they fall into the same classification as garbage collectors. Perhaps, the union officials did not have this idea in mind, but they are probably more concerned with their new back accounts than their egos.

The drivers are members of the American Federation of Labor, State, and County Employees, AFL-CIO, the same union that struck last September. That dispute was settled under the same pay-rate formula, the same pay cut for the other union members received, but now they've apparently decided to change their position.

In that September package, bus drivers received an increase of 26 cents per hour, an 8.6 percent increase, giving them a $3.38 hourly wage. How extensive a raise the drivers demand now, and their motives for pulling this strange sick gamit in the middle of a contract are still unclear, but one thing is certain, if the union officials and the University don't get together and reach a settlement before long, they may be on a bus for a long time.

Black History Month

Black History Month is observed each February to commemorate the achievements of African Americans. It culminates on February 25th with the annual Black History Month celebration.

The celebration is led by the Black Student Union and typically includes a variety of events such as workshops, performances, and panel discussions. The purpose of this event is to honor and celebrate the contributions of African Americans to society.

ASMSU strangled by structure

EDITORS' NOTE: The following point of view was submitted by Bill Ruston, ASMSU, President, and Charles Stache, ASMSU, Vice President.

Editors:

When very governments or organizational systems begin to rely on mechanisms of influence that are based on laws or regulations, it is often that the structure of such an organization is strained by the constraints. This may be the result of need for compliance with the laws or regulations that govern their operations. The result may be that the organization must operate in a way that is not always in the best interests of the people or communities it serves.

St. Louis Opera Theatre brings 'Don Giovanni' to 'U'

Don Giovanni, one of the most frequently performed operas in the world, will be presented at the University of Michigan's Hill Auditorium on Friday, February 11. The opera, which is considered a masterpiece of the Baroque era, will be performed by the St. Louis Opera Theatre, which is widely regarded as one of the leading opera companies in the United States.

The opera, composed by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, tells the story of a deeply flawed character, Don Giovanni, who is a seducer and a philanderer. The opera's music is known for its beauty and its technical complexity, and it is a showcase for the librettist Lorenzo da Ponte's keen observation of human nature.

The production, directed by Daniel Doetsch, is designed to be accessible to contemporary audiences while remaining true to the original work. The cast includes notable singers such as Paolo Danise (Don Giovanni), Mariella Devia (Donna Elvira), and Juan Diego Florez (Zerlina).

The Hill Auditorium is located on the campus of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Tickets can be purchased online or at the box office. For more information, visit the University of Michigan's opera department website or call the box office directly.

Kawkawlin: big problems for a small town

News Background

By DAVE SHORT
State News Staff Writer

With a population of about 150 people, Kawkawlin, Michigan isn’t used to being in the public spotlight. The southeastern Michigan town recently became the center of attention when a minor murder case spun into a major international news story.

The residents of Kawkawlin had been following the trial of a man accused of murdering a local school teacher. The trial had been delayed for several months due to a dispute over evidence admissibility, but it finally came to a head when the defendant entered a plea of not guilty.

The trial was held in a small courtroom in the local courthouse, and the media attention was minimal. However, when the defendant was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison, the media took notice.

The case became a sensation when it was revealed that the defendant had been employed by a large corporation, and that the corporation was headquartered in Kawkawlin.

The corporation was accused of paying the defendant to commit the murder, and the trial became a major news story.

The trial was adjourned pending an appeal, but the case remained in the public eye as the corporation and the defendant fought to keep the details of the case secret.

As the trial dragged on, the residents of Kawkawlin found themselves in the spotlight once again, this time as the hometown of a man on trial for murder.

The residents of Kawkawlin were proud of their small town and its rich history, but they were also worried about the impact that the trial was having on their community.

The trial was a reminder that even the smallest towns can be affected by major events, and that the media can bring any community into the national spotlight.

As the trial continued, the residents of Kawkawlin continued to support their local newspaper and the community, while also trying to move past the trial and get back to normalcy.

The residents of Kawkawlin knew that they were not alone in their struggles, and that other communities had faced similar challenges in the past.

As the trial came to a close, the residents of Kawkawlin knew that they had overcome a major challenge, and that they were stronger for it.

The residents of Kawkawlin knew that they would continue to face challenges, but they were determined to rise above them and make their community even stronger.

The residents of Kawkawlin knew that they were a strong community, and that they would continue to support each other as they faced the challenges of the future.

The residents of Kawkawlin knew that they were a special place, and that they would continue to be a source of pride for all Michigan.

Injury cools Simpson's shooting

By MIKE MANLEY
State News Sports Writer

Ralph Simpson was simply slightly as he walked down the corridor at West Hall - then he broke into a grin and shook his head.

"I've never had an injury any kind before until this one," he said. "It sure came at a bad time."

Since the brilliant MSU sophomore opened in right field for Purdue over a week ago, missing time has taken its toll. Simpson has made just 13 of his last 27 starts from the floor in the last two games. The total of 31 points is just about tied with last year's single-hitter tally.

But nobody seems to know how much this loss is bothering him - not the coaches, the trainer or the team physician. Only Ralph knows the extent of the pain and the restrictions it has placed upon him.

Every sports team has its own weaknesses, the athletes who do their job inefficiently or unexpectedly and don't receive the credit they deserve.

Lowrance... Keith Lawrence comes along as the perfect replacement. For one thing, he's very quiet and never wants to take the attention away from his teammates. He's also a perfect打扰er, and this year, Lawrence's high scoring potential is sure to come to the fore. Van Veldhuizen said, "Keith's been doing an excellent job for us, but his value will be even greater this year."

Bessone's Boys - Impressions
Coach Bessone's team is well in the running for the national title, but the team is still young and there are many questions.

The team will face the University of Michigan on Friday afternoon, and Saturday against Ohio State. The Spartans are looking for the second straight weekend of homecoming games, without the services of All-American goalie Gagnon.

Spartans are off to a 12-1-1 start to the season, and are among the favorites to win the NCAA Tournament. The team has 18 players, including seven seniors, and is led by 14-year-old Martin Van Veldhuizen, the second-highest scorer in the Big Ten.

Van Veldhuizen's star is shining, and he's averaging a goal every third game. The forwarder points out that the Spartans are not only the nation's top team, but that they are also one of the most consistent teams in the Big Ten.

Prof cites Honest Abe's humor

By IRENE PINCKET
Head News Writer

Abraham Lincoln's practical, good sense of humor has been magnificently described by biographer, David Andes, producer of "Honest Abe," and author of a new book about Lincoln, said:
"Lincoln had a very low—but funny, quite blank, and he was a good cheerleader,” Anderson added.

One thing people don't know, because there hasn't been a great detail of talk about it, he said, was Lincoln's uniqueness toward women.

According to Anderson, Lincoln attended a revival meeting during his 1866 congressional campaign. During the evening, the Rev. Peter Cartwright said, "All you in the audience who are going to hams, stand up!" They all stood up, with the exception of Lincoln.

The Rev. Cartwright then asked Lincoln if he wasn't going to take Lincoln's seat up to show where everybody else was standing, but he was going to Congress.

Anderson explained another anecdote about Abraham Lincoln.
During the Black Hawk War in 1832, Lincoln was elected captain of the local militia company.

During recruitment procedures, Lincoln asked one man his brother's name and the man said Lincoln. When asked his name, the man had to explain that he didn't know Lincoln.

"Lincoln is reported, uh, in a meeting setting," Anderson said.

When asked about stories about Lincoln's ability to talk or joking by colleagues, Anderson said, "I think that is true, that he was very much the exception, but people were writing a lot about what to believe." Anderson said.

He said most stories about Honest Abe's humor are true. Lincoln and Abe Holle, the daughter of a local journalist, were known to be great storytellers. Lincoln is thought to have made up stories to make his audiences laugh up into a great man, rather than a regular man."
