War began as a demonstration to protest the (USSR’s) conduct in the “Chegevskoye” incident. A group ofaghan student and young people formed Thursday night.

Police, not quite prepared for the implications of the incident in the East Lansing new building where the rally was being held, followed a group of about 100 rally-goers.

Traffic was stopped on Abbott Road and Grand River Avenue as 150 demonstrators marched in the street. Vandalism occurred as demonstration and police broke down their lines to face following the window breaking incident. Marching five abreast, the equipped police drove the marchers back across Grand River Avenue to the campus. The demonstration then broke into several factions, with police separating the group.

Servcs on both sides of Grand River—

the students were held on both sides of the street by the police. The rally-goers remained on the campus. Several incidents took place, with sometimes throwing anything they could get their hands on, tossed into the street only to be driven back by police charges.

A 25-year-old student, University of Michigan, finally broke through the police line. The student then went into the building, grabbing his car in the basement, and drove back across the street.

Police reported that their office was home to seven persons who had been arrested for minor disturbances.

Bill Milliken, Michigan's new governor, stopped any movement on drug dependents and abuse to the legislature Thursday that included moving marijuana from the narcotics schedule.

The legislation would be a tentative step toward getting people to admit there are no magic substances to cause people to become dependent on drugs and to return them to a normal state.

He said that his policy was to be more punitive than any other law enforcement.

Hampton praises drug reform talk

Ben William Hampton, 33-year-old son of the late Governor of South Carolina, said, "I'm going to change the way we handle the war on drugs."

One of the recommendations to be made was to increase funding for education, health and government on drugs. The state will not be one of the few states that are willing to change the way they handle the war on drugs.

Hampton also said, "I'm going to change the war on drugs, and I'm going to make it a part of the Great Issues series."

Who invited Pat Nixon to MSU?

By ED HUTCHINSON
Associate Campus Editor

The nation was shocked when Pat Nixon was invited to Michigan State University on Wednesday. University officials felt bound to explain that the First Lady could not be coming to campus. Nixon's office stated that "President Nixon's schedule is fully booked and he will not have time to stop in Michigan for any private arrangements." However, according to President Millard W. Harrison, Nixon's visit was "an honor for the university and a sign of the high esteem in which we hold the First Lady." Nixon's visit was believed to be a result of his recent tour of the United States, which included stops in major cities.

GPA prerequisite for ed seminar hypotical

A new course on educational reform has been born on a hypotical note. The course, sponsored by the educational methods, the effects of grading, highlighted courses, and student and teacher roles, has a 30 GPA prerequisite.

The reason for this inconvenient requirement is an open letter to the student body. This is an opportunity for the students of the university to have their say on the subject of grades and the way they are determined.

The editors of the Michigan State News have set aside this special edition to discuss this issue and encourage students to participate in the decision-making process.

You have reached a verdict?

It was a quiet Wednesday afternoon at Big E. Lansing when the scissors fell into a state of ruin. The scissors were in a campus around Wells Hall, which was at risk of being taken over by a group of young men. The men were seen walking with scissors and were later identified as members of the St. Student Traffic Appeals Committee.

Bike’ rider solves campus parking problem

A group of bicycle riders has found a solution to the problem of campus parking. The students have created a system where they park their bikes in designated areas and leave their keys with the authorities.

But why destruction?

The recent vandalism at Eckerd Hall can hardly be interpreted as a local blub for followers of the approved. It appeared, in a way, that the perpetrators of this act were merely students who felt that the buildings were not doing enough to support their cause. They felt that the administration was not doing enough to protect the interests of the students.

valid registration. Rather than accepting his just punishment and appropriately chastised, Schreyer appealed to the Student Traffic Appeals Committee. Student Traffic Appeals is a group of students who are tasked with enforcing the rules and regulations of the university.

After much deliberation the Student Traffic Appeals Committee decided to turn the Regulation short and examine the case.

Amidst the chaos of the Red Cedar River, the case was dismissed in favor of Schreyer.

Though it goes to the very heart of the issue, it is not beyond the pale to say that this is not the way things should be. The courts should work the same way, with the same standards and procedures, as the school’s courts do. It is not beyond the pale to say that this is not the way things should be. Mrs. Romney said to lead GOP candidates

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Mrs. George Romney said his press conference Wednesday the plans to make up for his term in the "few days" spanned the full width of Michigan this year.

The presidential campaign of 1968 and said she'd been active in public affairs, noting the her role in the presidential party and to be herself qualified to judge the political area.

She believes in the importance of women in the political arena. "If I've stayed at home with my children as they grow up, but now that they're gone and married, I have more time on my hands."

She said her husband, Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney, had no further presidential aspirations and described him as a "very happy" when he was. She did not comment on how he viewed her potential candidacy for the presidency.

"I'm feeling very happy." Waldron said. "I'm talking about reorganizing the organization to make the wheels of political activity go faster and more efficiently.

She said that he was told to come home on the local and regional reorganization fields. Waldron said the governor's program is being watched in other states and it's working very well, but he will not commit any more.

The council has been a big help to the program. Waldron said.

CARELESSNESS: big cause of E. Lansing fires

By CAROL CORRIERE
State News Staff Writer

Though inspection forces have found that carelessness is the signed cause of fires in East Lansing, the Fire Dept. handles inquiries of most student housing apparatus, Fire Marshal Ronen Fisher said.
So report all commercial property by the Fire Dept., churches and all areas must be underestimating the effects of fire.
Fisher that there are no signs of carelessness in the fire building deficiencies, the result of the most people who use a building, the more chance there is for fires.

Through education, fish wish the public to understand the fire Dept. can also assist with fire extinguishing techniques to improve the services and education, he said.

All time dates are great for the prevention.

Under information the Fire Dept., conducts programs in the public schools and distributes brochures on fire safety.
The prevention programs for businesses, seminars and school are available on request and the department will help place them.

The school program, which involves children in the elementary grades, has been quite successful, Fisher said.
Through seminars, slide shows, showing a school the realistic and other fire accidents the children are prevented with a positive range of the Fire Departments.
The program has helped to get the children on our side and 1 is a major factor in keeping down the number of fire dates, he said.

Investigation of fires that have occurred not only helps research into the cause of these but also makes the department aware of hazards that have been overlooked in the past. Fisher said.

Fires prevention is becoming a race and an important part of the Fireman's work, he said.
Although the possibility of fire exist in spite of any efforts, prevention actions have been shown to be effective.

We see very few accidents that a concentrated effort is in a great area and reduce the number of fires there," he said. "Fire prevention does work.

One "rider on high," "Ham on the wall," and "F I B I Y U." Bring a group of cowboys at rodeos, and you'll settle into a rocking chair.

"Rodeos are something of a show business," observed a professional rodeo announcer. "They have to have a lot of fun riding around."

Rodeo announcers are usually the first to arrive at a rodeo. They seat themselves in the bull ring, and then they let the rodeo start. The announcers in the bull ring are the ones to watch.

"They have to be the best announcers in the business," said one of them. "They have to be able to keep the crowd interested."

The MUS' most impressive performance of the Michigan offense was made last Saturday, when the Buckeyes were defeated by 33-10. The Buckeyes were led by quarterback Lou Hogan, who had 263 yards in the game.

The game was split into two halves, with the first half ending in a 14-0 tie. In the second half, the Buckeyes were outscored 22-0, with Hogan rushing for 156 yards and passing for 97 yards.

The Buckeyes were unable to score in the second half, despite Hogan's efforts. The Michigan defense was able to hold the Buckeyes to just 136 yards in the second half.

Michigan's defense was also impressive, allowing just 201 yards in the game. The defense recorded four sacks and five tackles for loss.

Michigan's offense was led by quarterback Tom Davis, who completed 18 of 29 passes for 240 yards and two touchdowns. Wide receiver Larry Brown had six catches for 104 yards and a touchdown.

The game was played in front of a record crowd of 68,000 fans, who helped create a noisy atmosphere.

Tests suggested for engaged couples

By ROSANNE BAINWright State News Service

Right now, young couples are making life decisions about how they will pay for their marriage license and divide their estate. The issue of how to handle joint assets is now a matter of importance in a relationship. A financial advisor may be called upon to help settle this issue, which is often considered a legal matter. The couple may have to decide whether to keep the property separate or to pool their assets together.

Among the reasons for marriage license fees is the need to comply with state laws that mandate the licensing of marriages. This could be due to the couple's desire to stay within legal boundaries. The fees are typically used to cover the cost of recording and filing the marriage license.

One factor to consider when determining how to handle joint assets is the couple's future plans. If they plan to move in together, they may need to consider how to divide their assets. They may also need to think about how to handle their assets if they decide to separate.

The issue of joint assets is also important for tax purposes. The couple may need to consider how to handle their assets if they decide to sell or transfer them to another person.

In conclusion, young couples are facing many important decisions about how to handle their joint assets. It is important for them to consider all the factors involved and to consult with a financial advisor to ensure that their decisions are in line with their future plans and legal requirements.
