ASMSU gives Bartels aid

BY JOHN BORGER

State News Staff Writer

Bartels, MSU student facing charges in connection with the traffic citation he received last year, was returned to the $200 bond set by the Calhoun Superior Court. The court has reviewed the charges, which were brought on the basis of the traffic citation he received last year, and has reduced the bond to $200. Bartels is accused of running a red light and causing a collision with another vehicle.

Bartels was initially charged with two counts of reckless driving and one count of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He pleaded guilty to the lesser charges and was sentenced to 180 days in jail and a $200 fine.

In other news, the ASMSU executive board approved a resolution expressing its support for the MSU Marching Band. The band is set to perform in the upcoming football game against Michigan State University.

Constitutional Issue

Nixon cetates Senate for discussing Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon announced Monday that he had asked the Senate to take up a constitutional amendment to allow the Supreme Court to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice.

The move was part of a broader effort by Nixon to strengthen the judiciary, and it came after a series of high-profile Supreme Court decisions that he believed were out of step with his political agenda.

The Senate, which had been considering the issue for several weeks, agreed to take up the amendment on a vote of 62 to 38.

Nixon's proposal would amend the Constitution to allow the Supreme Court to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

The amendment, if enacted, would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.

Nixon's proposal is part of a broader effort to strengthen the judiciary and to ensure that it is aligned with his political agenda.

The Senate had been considering the issue for several weeks, and it had already taken up a number of proposals, including one to reduce the number of Supreme Court justices to nine.

If enacted, the amendment would give the Supreme Court the power to appoint new justices to fill vacancies during the term of a sitting justice, rather than requiring the Senate to confirm nominees as it currently does.

The Senate agreed to the proposal on a vote of 62 to 38, with 29 Republicans and 33 Democrats supporting the amendment.

In a statement, Nixon said the amendment was necessary to ensure the Supreme Court's independence and to allow it to function effectively.
Sentiment against Rollis

By JEFF SHELER, Daily News Staff Writer

Sentiments are nearly unanimous among Lansing and state police officers in east Lansing, Police Commissioner Robert Rollis from the commission headed by Federal Police President Paul Wiegman.

Rollis, now in his third term as commissioner, has earned the respect of his colleagues for his dedication to the job and his ability to lead the department. However, there is a growing sentiment among police officers that Rollis is not acting in the best interests of the department.

Wiegman criticized Rollis for giving a “double standard” by refusing to answer questions regarding the accident. Rollis repeatedly denied that he had used inappropriate language in his interview with the reporters. However, Wiegman said, “I am not interested in anything but the truth.”

Rollis’s actions are seen as an attempt to avoid accountability for his actions. Wiegman said, “I believe there was some legal question about what Rollis did.”

Rollis is expected to retire in January, and the question of who will replace him is being discussed. Some officers believe that Wiegman is a better choice for the position, while others support another candidate.

In other news, Lansing Mayor Andy Crews has announced that he will run for re-election in November.

The State News, the student newspaper at Michigan State University, published a story about the sentiment against Rollis. The article was published on page 2 of the newspaper on Thursday, April 2, 1970.
Orders from union prayer, locals determine strike

Michigan News

Attorney General Frank J. Kelly said Wednesday that he was no variations of laws in a decision by the Democratic National Committee to demand pivotal contributions from the branch managers who also licensed licensees for the state of the state. The committee was now considering a similar proposal in Lake St. Clair commercial fishing.
EDITORIALS
Griffin can help decide the vote on Carswell

As the vote on confirmation of Judge Harrold Carswell for the Supreme Court approaches, approximately 215 Republicans may be decided by a single vote. A man who can vote properly, that outcome is Michigan Sen. Rodger Griffin. Sen. Griffin, the Senate Republican whip, was influential in the rejection of the first Nixon nominee, Justice Clement Haynsworth, as he switched from upper to lower opposition without his voice. However, this time around the Senate Republicans, including Senator Griffin, are a proponent of the proper candidate and his record is offensive to black Americans. The President, Attorney General Mitch McConnell, and the Committee to McGrath have already stressed the importance of Senator Griffin in the Senate's opposition. He has made a strong case for Senator Griffin's position in the Senate's opposition to the confirmation of Judge Carswell.

The pre-Carswell forces received a strong challenge to the Nixon nomination of the Republican Senators, George Allen and John J. Williams, who announced their support of the nomination. However, the Senate Republicans are divided on the nomination. The vote is uncertain, and it is possible that the nomination will be confirmed.

The vote on the nomination of the Carswell to the Supreme Court is crucial to the Senate Republicans. If Senator Griffin is confirmed, the Senate Republicans will have the opportunity to confirm two Supreme Court justices in the same seat. It is a significant accomplishment, and it is possible that Senator Griffin will play a key role in the Senate Republicans' opposition to the nomination of Judge Carswell.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

A constitutional test for state abortion laws

Michigan's abortion laws may well be tested in the Supreme Court. In the state legislature, they have been ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court. As a result, Michigan's abortion laws would be forced to remain in place. The question of whether Michigan's abortion laws are constitutional would be decided by the Supreme Court. This would be a significant test for the state's abortion laws and the rights of women in Michigan.

The state's abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

The Michigan abortion laws have been found to be unconstitutional in past decisions. In the Roe v. Wade decision, the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban abortion in the first trimester. This decision has been upheld in subsequent cases. In the Michigan abortion laws, the state has attempted to ban abortion in the first trimester. This would be a violation of the rights of women in Michigan.

Lending settlement to symbol

Barney White

Barney White is a 20-year-old student at Michigan State University. He is a member of the Black Student Union and has been active in the student government. He is also a member of the Michigan State University chapter of the NAACP. He is a registered Democrat.

Barney White is a 20-year-old student at Michigan State University. He is a member of the Black Student Union and has been active in the student government. He is also a member of the Michigan State University chapter of the NAACP. He is a registered Democrat.

Barney White is a 20-year-old student at Michigan State University. He is a member of the Black Student Union and has been active in the student government. He is also a member of the Michigan State University chapter of the NAACP. He is a registered Democrat.

Barney White is a 20-year-old student at Michigan State University. He is a member of the Black Student Union and has been active in the student government. He is also a member of the Michigan State University chapter of the NAACP. He is a registered Democrat.
Huber blasts U-M officials

Dr. R-Troy, instructor, from Wharton, Wednesday called the University of Michigan administration last week when he said: "I am not here to beg, I am here to request a discussion of the problems of the minority students at the university," Dr. R-Troy said. "The situation that exists at the university is not only unfair to the minority students, but it is also a violation of the rights of all students." The chairman of the special committee on minority issues at the university was asked to speak about the situation and to request a meeting of the university's Board of Regents. The chairman of the committee, Dr. Rosa Parks, said that she would be happy to meet with the university's administration to discuss the situation. The meeting was scheduled for next Monday at 3 p.m.

Minority report goes to Wharton

The report from the ad hoc committee established to deal with minority student representation on the Academic Council has been submitted to President Wharton. The report will be made public until university, faculty, and student representatives are gathered here to study the report's recommendations and determine their legality. President Wharton will meet with representatives of the Academic Council on April 19 to review the report and to discuss its implications for the future of the university.
Students plan drive to urge donation of organs, bodies

By PAULA BRAY
State News Staff Writer

A campaign to encourage students to donate their vital organs for transplantation after death is planned by the Michigan Kidney Foundation, Inc., and the University of Michigan Student Council.

"We are going to put on a campaign to educate the students about donations and to urge them to sign up," said M. Lewis Sykes, president of the Student Council.

The campaign will be coordinated by a Uniform Donor Card, a legal document by which a person may leave all his tissues and organs to medical science upon death.

The Uniform Donor Card is now being distributed to the students by the University of Michigan Foundation and the National Kidney Foundation. The Uniform Donor Card makes the card legally acceptable in 43 states, including Michigan.

The campaign, which Sykes said would continue for a number of years, would consist of distributing the cards and contacting students in case there is a question about legal, medical or religious aspects.

"We will also encourage the students to carry the cards and to publicize the matter in the press," Sykes said.

State News wins high ACP rating

The State News was awarded an All-American rating by the American College of Press at the University of Minnesota in the 16th All-American College News Contest.

The ACP, a group that awards the Pressman Award, is given to the two outstanding college newspapers in the nation. Approximately 600 newspapers were judged on coverage and concern, writing and editing, editorial leadership, photography and appearance. Marks of Distinction were awarded in each of the five categories and some newspapers received citations for special achievements.

"Covering the college campus and relating national events offer an interesting challenge to the student," said John P. Van Dine, acting editor of the State News.

The paper, which is published daily on the campus of the University of Michigan, was named one of the outstanding papers of the nation.

"We believe that the State News is a valuable addition to the campus and to the University of Michigan," said George E. Adlum, president of the National Kidney Foundation.

He said this provides a method by which the individual student has the greatest chance of being influential.

The card gives the donor three choices:

- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.
- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.
- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.

The advantages of the card concept are particularly apparent in an emergency situation wherein the donor makes the decision to save a life.

The card also gives the donor the opportunity to give his wishes to his family members or friends.

NEW FRONTIER SEEKER

By KATHY MORGAN
State News Staff Writer

The American Indians, a second class citizens in the United States, have been fighting for their rights both at home and abroad for over 200 years.

The Indian has been a victim of prejudice and discrimination in the United States and abroad.

"The Indian is a second class citizen," said John P. Van Dine, acting editor of the State News.

The paper, which is published daily on the campus of the University of Michigan, was named one of the outstanding papers of the nation.

"We believe that the State News is a valuable addition to the campus and to the University of Michigan," said George E. Adlum, president of the National Kidney Foundation.

He said this provides a method by which the individual student has the greatest chance of being influential.

The card gives the donor three choices:

- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.
- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.
- He may give his organs and/or body to a specific organ or organs.

The advantages of the card concept are particularly apparent in an emergency situation wherein the donor makes the decision to save a life.

The card also gives the donor the opportunity to give his wishes to his family members or friends.

Dine with master charge!

You can eat at a different restaurant every day and enjoy the convenience of one single bill. Your extended master charge is honored at one-third of a million other businesses as well—gasoline stations, restaurants, motels, airlines—all over the country. So, don't eat your heart out—get an AB&T master charge card and use it!

Welcome to the one-card world!

American Bank and Trust Company

$500,000 SUIT

Woman links sex to accident

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trial went under way Wednesday in a $500,000 damage suit filed by a young woman who said she was thrown from a moving car accident through an uninsured driver's fault.

Before the crash, Lewis said, Miss Symes was unusually nervous and upset, and he has been told by a psychiatrist and a psychologist who saw her that she was upset because of the birth of a baby that resulted from sexual congress.

A jury of eight men and four women was chosen Monday. The case was adjusted until Wednesday because the judge who was presiding over jury selection retired from the bench Monday.

Lewis said Ms. Symes blacked out and died in the high, fast and frontal when the open car flipped. He concluded, however, that the accident itself was not the cause of death.

Lewis said Ms. Symes, a University of Michigan graduate, who also was named as a defendant in another suit that was filed before the other suit, has been married, kidney infection, acute, and any illness affecting the body.
In an effort to streamline the grading process, the University of Michigan has implemented a new system that allows students to take comprehensive exams in a computer-assisted format. This approach, which combines the rigor of traditional exams with the flexibility of computer-based testing, has been met with mixed reactions from students and faculty alike.

Psychology student Sarah Lee, a senior at the university, was one of the first to use the new system. "I thought it was really helpful," Lee said. "It allowed me to take the exam at my own pace and gave me the opportunity to review my answers before submitting them." However, not all students were as enthusiastic. "I didn't like it," said psychology major John Smith. "I felt like I was being graded on my typing skills instead of my knowledge of the material."

The university's decision to adopt this technology was prompted by a recent study that showed a significant increase in student performance when exams were administered in a computer-assisted format. The university's provost, Dr. Jane Doe, said that the new system would help improve the overall quality of student assessments and also save the university money in the long run. "We believe that this technology will allow us to administer exams more efficiently and accurately," Doe said. "It will also allow us to use our faculty members' time more effectively by reducing the amount of time they spend grading paper exams."

While the university has received some pushback from students and faculty, Doe said that the administration is committed to implementing this new system and is working with faculty members to ensure a smooth transition. "We understand that there may be some initial concerns," Doe said. "But we believe that this technology will ultimately benefit our students and our institution as a whole."

In the meantime, the university is encouraging faculty members to give the new system a try and provide feedback on its effectiveness. "We want to hear from our faculty members about their experiences with this technology," Doe said. "Their input will help us as we continue to improve the system and ensure that it meets the needs of our students and our institution."

The university's decision to adopt this technology is part of a broader initiative to modernize the way it assesses student performance. Other changes that the university has implemented include the use of online course materials and the implementation of a new academic integrity policy. "We are constantly looking for ways to improve the quality of our education and the experiences of our students," Doe said. "We believe that this technology is one way we can do that."

Despite some initial concerns, the university is optimistic about the potential benefits of this new system. "We believe that this technology will help us to better assess student performance and also save us money in the long run," Doe said. "We are excited to see how it will evolve and how it will be used in the future."

Credit: Michigan State University
Infant care unit plans program

By BETSY ROACH
State News Staff Writer

Beverly E. Fitzgerald, assistant professor of psychology, is concerned about infant day care centers being established which have not worked out definite curricula for baby and infant care. Fitzgerald is a member of the Michigan State University Infant and Child Care Institute, which opened last term.

The Family and Child Care Institute is a unit of the College of Home Economics. Its laboratories and facilities are supported by a grant from the National Institute of Child Development at the Michigan State University Research Center.

Fitzgerald said the main purposes of the project are to develop programs for use in day care centers and to develop line of materials for numbers of disadvantaged children who cannot afford to buy materials necessary to improve the environment for their children.

Three baby boys, children of married students, are at the Infant Unit from Michigan State University.
Lenore: No longer ‘helping George do it’

By STEPHEN FORDER

With the 1970 election year about to open, Michigan’s Secretary of State has not yet decided whether she will seek another term. Whether she does, or whether she will stand aside to support her husband, are questions that are certain to be asked when she returns to Lansing.

LENORE ROMNEY

When the Romney’s ran for office in 1970, Michigan voters gave them a resounding victory. In the past year, however, the last of that support has been withdrawn. The responsibilities of office, mounting problems, and the signs of declining public support have all contributed to that.

She showed up to accept it. In politics, acceptance is often more important than reality. Mrs. Romney, a frail, attractive woman who has never held elective office, and who was given no medical examination to evaluate changes required by the job. As a result, the Romney’s decision to seek another term has been made without a clear understanding of what the future holds for them.

When Mittl Romney, one of Michigan’s most popular politicians, retired after losing the gubernatorial race, his wife took over as Secretary of State. Since then, she has faced a number of problems, including a scandal involving the sale of state-owned land.

One of the most significant problems that she has faced is the question of whether her husband, Governor George Romney, will seek another term. This question has been raised by a number of people, including a group of Republican leaders who have called for his resignation.

In a campaign kickoff speech, Mrs. Romney said that her husband is not interested in running for another term. However, she did not rule out the possibility of her seeking the position.

In recent weeks, there have been reports that the Romney’s are considering a run for the Senate. If they do, it is likely that Mrs. Romney will be the nominee.

In conclusion, it is clear that the Romney’s are facing a difficult decision. Whether they choose to continue in office, or whether they seek another position, will be important for the future of Michigan politics. As she prepares for the future, Mrs. Romney will be looking to the support of her constituents and the leadership of her party.
"Z" depicts government suppression of truth. "Z" is a film masterpiece. The narrative explores the consequences of government surveillance and the suppression of truth through the experiences of a young journalist, played by Harvey Keitel. The film deals with the themes of窥视 privacy, censorship, and the role of truth in society. The investigation process is depicted as a means to suppress dissent and maintain control. The film's depiction of government surveillance and the suppression of truth is a commentary on the broader implications of such practices in contemporary society.
Mrs. Kuntsler backs husband

Marilyn, N.Y. (AP) - when her husband's film was released, last weekend, Mrs. Kuntsler has stood by him, somewhat in support of his stand on drive-in twins, the famous "Saturday Night at the Blue Angel." "I try to relieve him of certain burdens, take on some of the muck, and make his lot easier," she said.

Between her husband's busy schedule, Mrs. Kuntsler still finds time to do interviews, manage the family's income, and keep the home going. "I try to challenge him to go out and get him to see from different angles. He is not too involved in everyday things. I am at home to handle all the business."

"Some people like to date Mrs. Kuntsler" is the attitude of anyone who has had to deal with the Kuntsler household. "She is very dear to the family and beloved by all." Mrs. Kuntsler is said to be looking forward to the release of the film, which will be shown in theaters across the country.

Musical 'Boy Friend' set for Detroit Library

Mr. and Mrs. John LaSalle, Detroit, announce that their son, John LaSalle, will perform in Detroit. The performance will take place at the Detroit Library on Saturday, April 9, at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets will be sold at the door, and the show will be a benefit for the Library. The performance will feature a musical version of the classic play, "Boy Friend," with music by George Gershwin and lyrics by Ira Gershwin.

For more information, please call 313-543-1000, extension 109.
McLain suspended until July 1 by Kuhn

NEW YORK (GPI) — Detroit McLain, pitching star of the Detroit Tigers, was suspended from baseball until July 1, 1970, by Commissioner Bill Kuhn in a move that could cost the team $30,000 a day in fines and costs. McLain has a checkered past since reaching the majors in 1967, but he has always been able to attract attention.

The announcement came as a surprise to many. McLain has had a troubled career, with drug and gambling problems. He has also been involved in several legal disputes, including a recent court case regarding his ownership of a horse.

McLain's most recent troubles involve a gambling scandal. It's believed that the Tigers' ownership has been involved in some form of gambling, and McLain has been linked to the operation.

The Tigers' management has tried to distance itself from McLain, but he remains a key part of the team. The suspension could have a significant impact on the team's performance.
Court rules Pilots out, Brewers in

SEATTLE—A Federal Bankruptcy Court referee granted the bankruptcy court's request for an order tying up the financially troubled Seattle Pilots, last night, pending a hearing Friday on the club's financials.

The US Trustee for the Western District of Washington, in a hearing Thursday, asked the referee to grant an order tying up the Pilots for 60 days, pending a hearing on the club's financials. The referee granted the request.

The club's financials have been questioned by the US Trustee and the court for some time. The Pilots have been facing financial problems since they were granted permission to move from Seattle to Milwaukee in 1976.

The referee's order will allow the US Trustee to continue investigations into the club's finances, and will prevent the club from making any new deals or transactions.

The US Trustee has been investigating the club's financials since last year, and has asked the court for the order tying up the club.

The referee's decision is expected to be finalized in a few days.

---

CAPE CORAL TOURNAMENT

'S' golfers 8th in Florida

By JEFF ELLIOTT

Staff News-Register Columnist

The 140; quality golf team placed eighth after the first round of competition in the Cape Coral Invitational at Fort Myers, Florida, Wednesday afternoon.

The seventh tournament of the year for the team, they shot a team score of 357, which was 16 strokes behind the first place score of 341.

Fourteen competing teams were in the field, and the Pilots placed third in the conference.

The team's score was helped by the play of Captain Davis, who shot a 72, and Captain Bill Volinn, who shot a 73.

The team is composed of nine players, with the top two scores dropped.

The next tournament for the team will be the one in Fort Myers, Florida, next week.

---

IM News

Spartan netters suffer 8-1 defeat

The MSU tennis team suffered their worst defeat of the season, falling 8-1 to Florida State University in the first round of the NCAA Tournament at West Virginia. The match was played in Morgantown, West Virginia.

The Spartans were poised to make a comeback, but the Florida State team was too strong for them.

The team's loss was attributed to the lack of experience and the early-morning travel to Morgantown.

The team's performance was considered disappointing, and the coaches are working to improve the team's performance for the upcoming matches.

---

Song For The Asking

Here is my song for the asking
Ask me and I will play
So sweetly, I'll make you smile
This is my tune for the taking
Take it, don't turn away
I've been waiting all my life
Thinking it over, I've been sad
Thinking it over, I'd be more than glad
To change my ways for the asking
Ask me and I will play
All the love that I hold inside
It's In City Driving
When You Need
Airconditioning Most

TOYOTA it has!!!
An airconditioning unit specifically designed to cope with stop and go traffic.

See us for a large supply of airconditioned Corollas.
A convenient transmission or 4-speed)

4 WHEELS of Lansing Inc.
220 S. Cedar

For Sale

1970 MUSTANG MACH 1
LOADED
STEREO AIR/PH*

BYPASS FILTERS

FOR Sale

BARRETTS FOR SALE, 50 each, 100 to $100.00, call 682-9191, evenings, 2-4-3.

HONDA 360 December, 1966

SHOW ROOMS

WOODSIDE APARTMENTS

Married, young, good, income, family. From information call 833-3130.

BICYCLE SALE

Bicycle Sale: Thursday, April 2, 1970, and April 3, 1970, 10:00 to 6:00, in 100 S. Harris Street. Michigan State University Campus. Various rental and conditions. All items on sale on a 1, 2, 3, or 4 week rental. Any time 9:30 to 11:00 A.M. and 2:00 to 4:00 P.M., April 3, 5 & 6. Please call 940-6921. Times: Cash.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ACROSS

1. Fashion
2. Predilection
3. Suggest
4. Passageway
5. Sober
6. Elijah's son
7. Enlarged
8. Fairy godmother
9. Income
10. Mauve

DOWN
1. Idiotic
2. Blood
3. q
4. Winter
5. Faced
6. Haste
7. Foot
8. Ditch
9. In the air
10. Aches and pains

Part-time delivery house wanted. Call 331-5364 or ask at the drug store.
Cedar Village Apartments

Cedar Village Apartments

• invites you to ask the guy or gal next to you one.

Don't run the risk of being unhappy with your future apartment. It makes sense to live at Cedar Village Apartments.

Cedar Village Apartments

The Damage Deposit Refund

Fall '70 - From $67.50

332-5051

Bogie St. at the Red Cedar

For Rent

MARRIAGE APARTMENTS, 914 East Lansing Ave., 2-3 bedrooms, 3-4 bathrooms, 3-4 living rooms. Central heat, fridge included. $170.00. 372-3518.

MARRIAGE APARTMENTS, 914 East Lansing Ave., 2-3 bedrooms, 3-4 bathrooms, 3-4 living rooms. Central heat, fridge included. $170.00. 372-3518.

Owen ROBERTS APARTMENTS, 815 East Lansing Ave., 2-3 bedrooms, 3-4 bathrooms, 3-4 living rooms. Central heat, fridge included. $170.00. 372-3518.

Owen ROBERTS APARTMENTS, 815 East Lansing Ave., 2-3 bedrooms, 3-4 bathrooms, 3-4 living rooms. Central heat, fridge included. $170.00. 372-3518.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY 1 for 2 bedroom, 1 bath. Spring and Fall terms, $170.00. 372-3518.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY 1 for 2 bedroom, 1 bath. Spring and Fall terms, $170.00. 372-3518.

For Rent

One girl qui is ready to move out December 20th. Offers on 2 bed 1 bath with 750. Call 237-2200.

One girl qui is ready to move out December 20th. Offers on 2 bed 1 bath with 750. Call 237-2200.

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.

For Sale

For Sale

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.

For Sale

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.

AMERICAN APARTMENTS, 535 E. Michigan Ave., 1 bed/1 bath, $125.00. 2-4/2 Duplex, 1 bedroom, 1 bath, living room, kitchen, fridge, heat. Call 244-4611.
Economist sees end of slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's unemployment, which was expected to be among the lowest in many years, was reported to be 9.2% in February, a significant improvement over the 9.5% rate reported last month. The unemployment rate is expected to decline further in March.

The trend is consistent with the economic recovery of the past year. The economy has added more than 1 million jobs since February of last year, and the rate of job creation has accelerated in recent months.

The news is welcomed by many economists, who had been concerned that the economic recovery might be faltering. The unemployment rate had been rising in recent months, and many economists had been predicting that the job market would remain weak for a while longer.

The economist who predicted the slowdown, however, remains optimistic that the economy will continue to grow. "The economy is still in the early stages of recovery, and we expect it to continue to strengthen in the coming months," he said.

The economist also noted that the unemployment rate is still high by historical standards, and that many workers who have lost their jobs during the recession have not yet found new employment. "We remain concerned about the long-term prospects for the labor market," he said.

The economist's predictions are supported by data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which reported that nonfarm payrolls increased by 206,000 in February, and that the unemployment rate fell by 0.2 percentage points to 9.2%.

The economist also noted that the job gains were distributed across a wide range of industries, indicating that the recovery is broad-based and not dependent on any single sector.

The economist's prediction is in line with the views of many other economists, who believe that the economy is headed for a sustained period of growth.

The economist's predictions are supported by data from the Federal Reserve, which reported that the economy is expanding at a moderate pace, and that inflation remains low.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the International Monetary Fund, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the World Bank, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the International Monetary Fund, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the World Bank, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the International Monetary Fund, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the World Bank, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the International Monetary Fund, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the World Bank, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the International Monetary Fund, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which reported that the U.S. economy is one of the strongest in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.

The economist's predictions are also supported by data from the World Bank, which reported that the U.S. economy is among the most dynamic in the world, and that the country is playing a leading role in the global economy.