Protestors picket local draft board

by DAVID RASSETT
State News Staff Writer

A demonstration by more than 150 people was prompted by a statement issued by the Selective Service office in Lansing, which announced that one of Michigan State's draft registrants had been postponed for 10 days. The demonstration, sponsored by the Young Peace Council as part of its summer campaign, began at 2:15 p.m. when more than 100 people had assembled at the corner of Cedar and Saginaw Street to head for the nearby federal courthouse where a rainstorm delayed the picketing.

The demonstration was organized by the Selective Service office, which set up a mobile picket line as another way to draw attention.

At 3 p.m., the group split into two units: one of about 30 people would go out to the Michigan State administration building.

The number of demonstrators rose to more than 50 when a group from East Lansing showed up around 3:30 p.m. The marchers were allowed to enter the building, with a few that were allowed to review the documents.

Group hits draft system

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 150 demonstrators blocked the doors of the Senate Labor and War Department workers' offices after the Senate voted to postpone for 10 days the draft registration for nine employees.

The demonstrators entered the building by the front doors and went up to the third floor, where the offices were located. They were allowed to enter the building and were not permitted to leave.

The war department said that the demonstration was a violation of its policies and that the demonstrators would be asked to leave.

At 4:30 p.m., the demonstrators left the building and went to the front of the building, where they were told to leave.

The demonstrators demonstrated outside the building, through the telephone lines for the 200 or so employees who are out on strike.

When the demonstration first gathered, draft director Earl C. W. Taylor told them that it did not want to create any trouble.

By 4 p.m., the demonstrators had moved to the front of the building where the offices are located. They were allowed to enter the building and were allowed to stay.

For the most part, the demonstrators shouted on the sidewalk to the draft board, which was being held by a woman and a man.

The two staff employees looked down from their office windows and shouted, "We are not there."

Draft efforts continued outside the building, with the demonstration being held in response to the news media in other demonstrations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate administration will ask the Senate Labor and War Department to postpone any more draft registrations for at least another week.

In the absence of a Supreme Court decision, the administration has asked the President and his administration to be patient and not to make any more draft registrations.

The President's aides, however, have made it clear that they are not interested in waiting another week and have given assurances that they will make more registrations.

Aides to Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, D.C., the Senate's ranking Democrat on military affairs, said the President's administration has indicated that it will make more registrations.

Two district courts have ruled in favor of the President, who has appealed the rulings to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has not ruled on the case.

Korea heads to talks

Presaent Chong Hong Park of Korea took an early lead Tuesday in his bid for a third term in an election marked by opposition charges of voting irregularities, and said he turned in the hour-long ballots to the New Democratic Party, 335,113.

Election officials counted earlier, an estimated 81 per cent of the nation's 155 million eligible voters cast their ballots at 9,001 polling places.

India, Pakistan exchange fire

Pakistan troops crossed into India and exchanged fire with Indian troops on Tuesday. The border incident is the latest in a series of border incidents between the two countries since their three-week war in 1971.

The clash in which 20 Pakistani soldiers were killed, and about 50 wounded, is the latest in a series of border incidents between the two countries.

Railroad plan challenged

U.S. District Judge Howard Conner will hold hearings Thursday on three challenges to various aspects of the railroad plan, including the issue of how much of the rail system will be privately owned.

The railroad plan is scheduled to go into effect next month, and the judge has been asked to settle complex disputes involving issues raised by unions and private operators, and to "issue a decision Friday by the latest."

Nixon program rejected

President Nixon's new special - program to keep the bus system running, was rejected Tuesday by the House Education and Labor Committee.

The program, advanced by the White House, is designed to keep the bus system running in areas of high unemployment. The program was defeated on a 22-21 vote by the committee, and 628,000 votes cast by the unemployed Nixon vetoed a similar measure last year.

Black carries election weight

The 3,400 registered black voters in South Carolina's congressional 1st District, which includes the city of Charleston, carried the weight Tuesday that could tip in the political scales in a special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Representative E. L. Mondell.

A tour of the predominantly black wards in old Charleston and in the rural counties nearby indicated a heavy voter turnout from among the 3,400 registered black voters, white and black. A check of other precincts in this district showed a moderate turnout.

Relief rolls slowed

The federal government's latest welfare statistics, released Tuesday, show the flow of aid to welfare recipients slowed in the mid-1970 years compared with 1969.

But even with the slowed flow of aid, the government said the funds are not available and will not be available to welfare recipients.

Offensive enters 4th stage

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon set an ambitious legislative agenda Monday but warned that the Vietnam war would be the dominant concern of both Congress and the American people.

The federal building in Lansing will be the site of a joint Lansing Area Peace Council and the People's Peace Movement.

The council is asking people to meet in the Federal Building lobby for a vigil and to pray for the end of the Vietnam war.

Tax forms for Michigan motorists killed in Afghanistan will be available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Lansing office of the United States Department of the Treasury.

The vigil is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

The People's Peace Movement is a group of individuals from various states who have been calling for an immediate end to the war and withdrawal of all American troops and influence in Vietnam.

The council asked that representations and suggestions to support a Peace Movement be directed by phone to Rep. Vaughan, 66-72-86. Under the bill, Michigan motorists would not have to register to fight in an undeclared war.

The vigil's bill, which was sent to the judiciary Committee for further review of a non-binding resolution, has not yet been put on the agenda, pending action from the House Judiciary Committee.

Judge directs jury to find My Lai defendant innocent

PT. MOHRING, Co. (AP) - A military jury directed a jury Tuesday in Chad Daily, Eugene S. Kotouc, convicted of epidemic killing as a result of the Shootout in Vietnam.

The judge, Col. James Wright, directed the jury to find Kotouc innocent of the murder in the case by a reading of a statement from the shooting.

In the statement, Kotouc denied assaulting the prisoner by cutting him on the neck. He admitted cutting off the end of his little finger, but said it was accidental. 16, at Hanoi, N.D., is the 10th soldier to be convicted of a charge arising from the My Lai incident and is the 15th to be found guilty of an offense during the trial.

Kotouc argued that only one of the six government witnesses has been able to testify about a blood mixture from the same source.

Kotouc's lawyer, Maj. William Eckhardt of St. Louis, Mo., contended that it was only necessary for one witness to testify to the existence of a single person.

The government has had 10 witnesses testify to the existence of a single person.

Hand Faculty slapping right move for trustees

The rift between the board of trustees and the Dept. of Natural Science became open last week. Manfred Engelmann, professor of natural science, wrote an open letter "sincerely" proposing several trustees' actions in referring two professors, over the decision of a faculty compensation.

The letter was overwhelmingly endorsed by the members of the Dept. of Natural Science Ad Hoc Committee, which voted 13-1 to support the letter and a special session to be held next Thursday for the purpose.

Engelmann says the board has acted "prematurely" and unnecessarily, without due respect to the faculty. He further states that he is writing this letter in order to follow the procedures laid out in the contract, and he is not aware of the board's course of action.

However, the opinions of the board are not widely shared by the faculty. The response of President Murray is that the board acted responsibly in referring the two professors, and he is confident that the board will make the right decision.

The faculty feels the action is "premature" and unnecessary, and that it was not given due respect to the faculty. They are concerned that the board's action could undermine the faculty's confidence in its own decision-making processes.

The issue remains unresolved, and the faculty continues to express concern about the board's actions and its decision-making processes.
Groups begin experiment in glass recycling, disposal

An experimental glass recycling program which may eventually be expanded throughout East Lansing was dedicated on campus Tuesday. The program is based on the belief that we don't recycle our resources as well as we should. It was announced by the Committee of the Geogor Construction Co.,

Taking part in the ceremonies were Shawn for Environmental Quality (E-QUAL) Director Fred Hosen, Red Lining Councilor Mary Thome, Rep. Thomas Anderson, and Thomas Anderson, whose company is shipping the glass to recycling plant.

The program at present is an experiment entered April 3rd and located at Ferling Lot 5 to determine whether University Village residents will grade and dispose of glass property, according to an E-QUAL representative.

Geogor said that $100,000 would be provided to encourage recycling among students, but expressed the belief that the project may be repeated on other campuses. Geogor contractors are now being made to take glass for similar programs.

Ryan Anderson stated that the glass recycling program actually saves glass back into the system and will save on plastic and, finally, he has a concern that he has had with any program or anything that is going to save on any kind of material.

The program will be to determine what goes into the system, and what is going to be recycled. It is going to be recycled, and the program will be to determine whether it will be recycled or not.

The program will be to determine whether it will be recycled or not. It is going to be recycled, and the program will be to determine whether it will be recycled or not.

MSU drama group attempts new form of communication

By PAUL D. LEY

The world is a stage to some, but for the members of the MSU drama group, it seems that every stage is a stage that needs to be lived up to in order to succeed. The group is currently working on a production of "The Tempest," which will open to the public in the next few weeks.

"The Tempest" is a timeless piece of literature that has been adapted by the theatre group in a variety of ways. The production will be directed by Dr. John Smith, who is known for his innovative and creative approach to theatre. The cast and crew are working hard to bring the production to life, and audiences are encouraged to come out and enjoy the performance.

The event is scheduled for Friday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the MSU Little Theatre. Tickets are available for purchase at the door or online through the MSU theatre department's website.

It's now to pedal your bike around campus when the sun is high and the breeze is cool, cutting a chance too to relish the quiet with serene birdsong and the occasional butterfly. But it's not as safe when someone pedals away on your bike, hence the increased thefts and more serial numbers before spring hits. If you are a bike lover, keep an eye on your bike, particularly in crowded areas like the Student Center and at the Michigan Union, where bikes are often parked.

Visitor to teach political science

Duncan Black, former professor of economics at the University of North Wales, will be a visiting professor at MSU for a year starting this fall in the Dept. of Political Science. He is a specialist in development economics and has done much work with statistic correlations with politics. He is a visiting professor at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the Center for Social Science. He will teach courses in proportional representation, political participation and committees and their procedures. The latter topic deals with how the procedures of committees influence their outcomes.

BUFF anticipates decrease in financial aid for blacks

By RACHEL HERNDON
State News Staff Writer

Financial aid for black students appears to be the most pressing problem facing new students of the Black United Student (BUSB) organization. A meeting earlier this month between black officers of the student organization and potential donors found that more than ten percent of the black students have not received financial aid applications.

In contrast, the BUSB will be involved with many other events this year. For instance, the BUSB will be involved in the annual Ebony Ball in February and will sponsor two basketball teams. The BUSB members will form several committees, including the by-laws committee, membership committee, and finance committee.

The BUSB also will be involved in various activities aimed at increasing the awareness of the black community and to develop an awareness of the organization. Under this plan, members of the organization will be involved in various events and programs. If you are interested in participating in these events, please contact the BUSB office for more information.

For more information about the BUSB and their activities, please contact the BUSB office at 414 East Grand River, East Lansing.

Center project promotes community action

By BARBARA FARY
State News Staff Writer

The Center for Community Organization at Michigan State University has taken another step in fulfilling its mission of promoting community action through education and research. The Center has been active in promoting community organization courses which clearly follow the objectives of the Center's mission.

The two-week course in community organization was held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, and was attended by over 100 participants. The course was designed to provide an introduction to the principles and practices of community organization, and to enable participants to develop the skills and knowledge necessary for effective participation in community action.

The course was taught by Dr. John Smith, a well-known authority on community organization. Dr. Smith covered a wide range of topics, including the history and development of community organization, the role of community organizations in social change, and the methods and strategies used by community organizations.

In addition to the classroom instruction, participants were engaged in a variety of hands-on activities, including role-playing exercises, group discussions, and field trips to community organizations.

The course was well-received by participants, who found it to be both informative and practical. Many participants commented that the course had given them a new perspective on community organization and had provided them with valuable tools for participating in community action.

The Center for Community Organization is committed to promoting community action through education and research. The Center's mission is to help people develop the skills and knowledge necessary for effective participation in community action, and to promote the development of strong, active communities.

BY CONGRESS

Consumer needs studied

The House Agriculture Committee is scheduled to hold a hearing next week on consumer needs in the marketplace. The hearing will focus on the needs of consumers and the role of government in meeting those needs.

The hearing will feature testimony from a variety of witnesses, including consumer advocacy groups, industry representatives, and government officials. The hearing will provide an opportunity for Congress to learn more about the needs of consumers and the role of government in meeting those needs.

The hearing is part of a broader effort by Congress to improve the lives of consumers. The hearing will build on the work of previous hearings on consumer needs, and will provide a platform for Congress to continue to make progress on this important issue.

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, April 25th, at 10:00 a.m. in Room 224 of the Rayburn House Office Building. The hearing is open to the public and will be broadcast live on C-SPAN.

When Wrigley Sets the Prices

When Wrigley drastically reduced food prices throughout its stores last September, it became the price-setter for this entire area. Since then, Wrigley has continued to set prices and hold down food costs for you. This permanent, consistent approach to community problems and need would likely be much appreciated if it were put on a larger scale.

Wrigley policy not only saves you nickels on individual items, but many dollars on your total weekly shopping bill. When you shop at Wrigley, you can expect a \"instant\" as well as \"long range\" saving. By keeping prices down, Wrigley is able to make the best selection of goods available. What's more, Wrigley gives you the best products, the best quality, and the best service.

When you go elsewhere, you are paying for something you haven't got. When you stick with Wrigley, you get the best quality at the best price. Wrigley sets the prices and holds them down, and you get the benefit.

Wrigley is the leader in community service. It is only fair that you should support the leaders in your community. Wrigley is your community leader, and you should be sure to support it.

Wrigley's philosophy is simple: \"We aim to please.\" This philosophy is reflected in our products, in our prices, and in our service. Wrigley aims to please, and you should support that aim.

Batsmen lose to Western

By JOHNN VIGES
State News Sports Writer

Designed to come up with a sustained rally when the opportunity were there, MSU fell to Western Michigan, 5-3, Tuesday in Kalamazoo.

In both of those games they put the first two batters on in the last two innings, but any time of a big inning failed as Archie Baker grounded into a double play in the eighth and a pair of ground balls and a hit by Tim Center ended the ninth inning.

The loss left MSU with a 23-3 record for the season and could cause the Spartans to fall from their No. 1 ranking in the nation.

Western Michigan was rated 14th in the country going into the game.

Brian Baldwin pitched a great game for the Broncos as he spaced the Spartan hits and was able to get out of trouble when needed.

MSU put its leadoff hitter on base five times, including once on a double and another time a triple.

All attempts to score failed for the Spartans, however, until the eighth when Gary Boyce reached base on a single. After Boyce was retired, MSU put its leadoff hitter on base five times, including once on a double and another time a triple.

De Lange came home on Oliver's ground out and Baldwin scored a moment later when Boyce belted the lone hit.

MSU had a runner at first and on the bases, but Baldwin picked up little hitting at the plate. When Baldwin singled, went to second following a walk and reached third on a fielding choice.

Lewis swung for the seventh inning with a triple, but was thrown out at home on a sacrifice fly to end the game.

Western junior pitcher Brian Lieckfelt was solid in the opening game after two runs had been plated. The Broncos put together a pair of singles and Lieckfelt with the lead runner bases.

Rasheed Bailey and Gary Boyce reached base on singles and combined for five hits for the game, which saw MSU's Gies of Plain take the victory.

Ruger Gillett of MSU placed third in the Sr. Michigan weightlifter and Ron Fick was sixth. A.M.

Milwaukee, Wis. (CPI) — There’s a kind of fever building up in this city. It’s the type of fever called “pressure love.” Whatever it is, it’s spreading. But, there’s no denying that the Scarlet Knights are hot, and they’re already piling up the big noses in anticipation of a punch that will knock out the Milwaukee Bucks and the Bullets.

The Bucks had the series 2-0 following a convincing 125-mile sweep of the Surfers down 125-mile on Sunday in the Civic Center in Baltimore, and with only 2-0 tonight at the Milwaukee Arena. They could own up the NBA National Basketball Championship Friday in Baltimore. About 1,000 cheering fans welcomed the Bucks back to Baltimore at the airport Tuesday night.

The fans were thinking of making it a real sweep over Baltimore.

“I don’t even want to think about it because I’m just excited,” Buck guard John McGivern said. “I don’t think we get any better than that.”

Bull forward Steve Washington said “it’s a nice way to get a sweep off the first three games.”

King Smith and “I don’t want it. We’ve got to keep on playing our game, that’s all.”

A well-rested Spartan lacrosse team tried to Bowling Green, Ohio today to engage in a battle with a defending Midland Lacrosse Association champion, Bowling Green.

This will be the first encounter for the two teams, which are both ranked in the top 10 of their respective conferences. The Spartans are currently ranked No. 3, while the Falcons are ranked No. 2.

The match promises to be a tight contest, with both teams boasting strong offenses and defense. The Spartans have scored 14 goals and allowed 13, while the Falcons have scored 15 and allowed 14.

In spring football drills, Duffy likes gridders’ attitude

It’s been a long time since 1964, Michigan State has found it’s offense starting lineup almost entirely from their three full-backs. Even in those days of 1964 and 1965, MSU didn’t have a trio of backs to match the likes of Mike Portzline with Pat Sheely and Ernie Dingman.

With the return of former backs Joe Theismann and Bill Owen, the MSU offense has a chance to show some of the flair that characterized their teams in the 1960s.

The Spartans’ backfield will feature senior Mike Portzline, junior Steve Ratzke and sophomore Fred Concetta.

Michigan State is hoping to capitalize on the strong running ability of its young backs. The team has averaged 136 yards per game so far this season, with Portzline leading the way with 298 yards.

The defense will have to guard against MSU’s running game, which has been one of the biggest strengths of the team this year. The Spartans have allowed just 57 yards per game on the ground, but will face a stiff challenge against the Zag’s high-powered offense.

Other criticisms of the study included:

There were no controls for the experiment, which means that confounding factors could have been influencing the outcomes.

The study was "flawed," and the author of the study in "high-risk" for developing emotional disturbances.

While Warner was believed to be interested in preventing widespread drug use, his research was interpreted by some as being more directed towards understanding the effects of marijuana on society. These views were echoed by drug reformers who argued that Donnell's work was "anti-drug" and "anti-marijuana".

The news page report did not deal with other possible causal factors of the disturbances and hence implied and at times implied that the symptoms were "inextricably connected to cannabis deprivation." The two professors criticized the report on a wide range of points.

The sample of the study was "self-selected" and not representative in that the population studied was a group of people who were using a psychoactive for emotional disturbances.

Warren said the study was not a study of a small sample of people in whose problems drugs played a role in, like McNeill, and it was "totally stupid" to extrapolate from the study of a small group of students to the general population.

He said the report was of no use to the general population and in a marijuana smoking population?"

Warren said, "There is no hard evidence of the cause and effect relationship depicted in the study. Our data certainly make no cause and effect relationship from this article," he said.

McNeill and Moore gave no evidence to counter the possibility that the emotional disturbances and the smoking may be even more severe in the same time as manifestations of a deeper personality disorder, and this is what is happening with this drug."

"The drug is nothing and no evidence of any relationship with any drug is in the report," he went on. The big implication of this report received may be that it is very likely to find something wrong with anyone who smokes," Warner said.

CEREMONY TO HONOR FRESH, JUNIOR COEDS

Freshmen and junior women will be honored for outstanding scholarship and leadership. A ceremony will be held at the annual May Morning Bag at 7 a.m. Friday in front of Airport Tower. The ceremony will be moved to the Main Building in the event of rain. During the linking in the women will be staffed by faculty and staff located on the Mortar Building and other rooms.

"For all the years of looking for something wrong with anyone who smokes," Warner said.
