Week went off in Lansing and its suburbs.

They're all smiles

The University of Northern Iowa student paused smiling at 20 Cedar Falls water towers. They earlier had held a city water tower and painted a smile - similar to the one used by the city's chamber of commerce in being courted - on that structure. They were fined $25 each, but were given permission to paint the fire hydrants.

Men denied voter registration

By BOB ROACH

Three young men were denied voter registration by the East Lansing city clerk Thursday in what may amount to the city's first regulation of voting procedures.

Accompanied by a local Bond's owner, John M. Coats, and William E. Harris, Spencer Hospital director on South Bay, and 641 Abbott Road, challenged the authority of Beauty Clark, city clerk, to register documentation of local residency.

The three men, along with Mary Kay S. of the ACLU, asked Clark several times to register them but were denied. The ACLU, however, asked Clark to ask for registration of documentation of residence before they could be registered and were then told that Clark was not authorized to do so.

Mrs. Coats said that Michigan law gives her the authority to ask, for a driver's license, the state of the person her. The ACLU, however, asked Clark to ask for documentation of residence before they could be registered and were then told that Clark was not authorized to do so.

When Edwards finished testing the station and said there was no specific authority granted beyond the power of local doing he said, that he had not asked for the registration, for the reason. She also said that the state's abbreviation of authority told her that such authority was limited to the Official blasts philosophy to force low wages on U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top labor economist and union leader has a controversial proposal for the Nixon administration to use national minimum-wage standards to set a floor for wages in areas where the local minimum wage is at or below $2.00.

Albert Biemiller, legislative director of the AFL-CIO, said a national administration has a responsibility to protect workers, particularly in areas where the local minimum wage is at or below $2.00. He said the new proposal would be a step toward helping workers in the eastern half of the country where pay levels are lower than in the western half.

Biemiller said his proposal would not force the government to raise wages, but would give workers a floor that would offset any downward pressure on wages. He said the proposal would work in conjunction with the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and would be a step toward raising wages for workers in the eastern half of the country.

State News system: improvements needed

The commission, which is funded by the state government, has been charged with overseeing the state's welfare system and its contractors. The report is the first comprehensive evaluation of the state's welfare system in over 20 years, and it highlights significant problems with the system.

According to the report, the state's welfare system is failing to provide adequate assistance to those in need. The commission found that the system is inefficient, bureaucratic, and unable to provide timely assistance to those who need it.

The report also highlights the need for increased funding and resources to improve the welfare system. The commission recommends that the state increase its investment in the welfare system and provide additional resources to contractors to improve their ability to provide timely assistance.

The commission's findings are significant and highlight the need for immediate action to improve the state's welfare system. The state government and its contractors must work together to address the issues identified by the commission and provide adequate assistance to those in need.

Pass abortion reform

To The Editor:

About one hundred years ago, abortion was legal in the State of Michigan. At that time, legislation was needed to protect the integrity of women's ability to bear children. In the past, abortion was often performed using unsanitary instruments and practices that endangered or killed the woman. The women who underwent these procedures were often not able to bear children in the future or were left with permanent disabilities.

The current situation in the State of Michigan is different. Women are being denied access to safe abortion services. They are being required to travel long distances to obtain these services. This is a violation of their fundamental right to privacy and their right to make decisions about their own bodies.

It is time to pass the late-term abortion reform bill that will allow women to make safe, legal, and equitable decisions about their own bodies. This bill will protect the health and safety of women and their families.

Admissions panel slowed in debating, revising paper

By BILL HOLSTEIN

With at least three more meetings to right before a report is formally released, the Presidential Commission on Admissions and Student Body Composition met Wednesday to discuss Chapter 6 of its report: chapter review.

Chairman John Polley has predicted earlier that the Commission would finish its task of discussing and debating the recommendations to President Wharton by the end of June, but meetings are scheduled for Tuesday and next Friday.

"Moving unsolved problems and massage in return we are able to move expeditiously on Chapters 3, 5, and 6," Polley said Wednesday. The commission decided Tuesday to set a date in the middle of July to meet and vote whether to adopt the report. Between the June 11 meeting and the as yet undetermined July date, Polley said, the commission's drafting committee will rewrite portions of the report to incorporate style changes and recommendations of the smaller committees.

Polley said the commission's extended calendar is unfavorable to the family, he said, because of the stress on students, particularly when considered in a systematic way and secondly, the members are seeking "equity" to develop a report of the highest possible and are being "equitably and analytically." The commission, during its meetings, concedes the rough drafts of the various chapters considering word changes, tone, style, and emphasis and occasionally question the substance of the recommendations or the accompanying prose.

The recommendations and prose in Chapter 4 concerns the size and composition of the student body, which involves the consideration of proportion of applicants to freshmen, for example, the disproportionate student, special groups and graduate programs.

With President Wharton stating the meeting - Professor John Garrison, on his right and Polley on his left - members of the commission stated joining altering admissions and compromising on compromises.

One example of the detail the commission must consider before the drafting committee writes up the final draft is in the discussion over the word "equity." Wednesday...

One recommendation in Chapter 4 states "equally" to be applied to men and women. One member suggested the word "equitably" should be used as it is different from "equally." Admissions panel slowed in debating, revising paper.

"Irma La Douce" is a movie that was released in 1960, directed by Blake Edwards and starring Melina Mercouri and Peter Sellers. The story is set in Paris and revolves around the character of Irma La Douce, a huge fan of the failed French composer, Alexis裁定. She enamors a man who is a public-relations man for the opera, and he helps her achieve her dream of fame. The film is known for its comedic elements and the performances of its leading actors.
THE BEGUILED

Film hits nightmare heights

By ROBERT KOPPER
from News Observer

"The Beguiled" courtesy to what one old-timer in neighboring Virginia calls "The greatest movie ever made," has been a much anticipated release. It has been billed as a sharp, well-drawn, thought-provoking film that many have looked forward to seeing. However, the controversy and mixed reception surrounding the film has led to questions about whether the movie really meets the expectations set by its promotion.

The film tells the story of a Civil War-era Southern town that is occupied by Union soldiers. The film explores themes of love, betrayal, and the devastating effects of war on ordinary people. Despite its critical acclaim, the film has drawn criticism for its portrayal of African Americans and the Confederacy in general.

The controversy surrounding the film has only added to its intrigue, leading many to wonder whether the movie will live up to its billing as the greatest movie ever made. While some critics have praised the film for its powerful performances and engaging storyline, others have been more critical, calling it a flawed but intriguing film with its own set of problems.

In the end, "The Beguiled" is a film that is sure to divide audiences. While some may find it entertaining and thought-provoking, others may be disappointed by its lack of depth and nuance. Regardless of one's opinion, there is no denying that the film is a significant accomplishment in the world of cinema, and its impact on audiences will be felt for years to come.

Sharma readiness to leave

By DAVID RABBITT
from News Observer

As the world watches the political landscape shift following the recent events in Ukraine, one subject that has garnered much attention is the role of women in leadership positions. In this context, the readiness of women to take on leadership roles has been particularly significant.

A recent study suggests that women are increasingly taking on leadership roles, both in the public and private sectors. This trend is being driven by a variety of factors, including changes in societal norms and increased emphasis on gender equality.

The study highlights the importance of women's leadership, particularly in areas such as politics and business. Women's leadership has the potential to bring fresh perspectives and innovative solutions to complex problems, leading to better outcomes for the benefit of all.

Overall, the readiness of women to take on leadership roles is a positive development, and it is hoped that this trend will continue to gain momentum in the years to come.

MSU picked to train doctoral candidates

MSU is one of seven universities selected for participation in the new doctoral leadership program in social and political science. The program, which will provide training for future leaders in social and political science, will help to address the growing need for qualified professionals in these fields.

The program will focus on training doctoral candidates in the areas of research, teaching, and public service. Participants will receive training in various areas, including statistical analysis, research design, and communication skills.

The program is open to graduate students who are pursuing a doctoral degree in social and political science. Interested students are encouraged to apply through the University's Office of Graduate Admissions.

The MSU Book Store will buy back books now and during final exam week.

For 2 reasons:

1. To help eliminate the tremendous pressure of crowds during final exam week.
2. To give us the opportunity to buy back books more promptly and afford you that we buy all of the books we need and not more than you need.

Special extra hours have been arranged during finals week for your convenience.

Council petitions obtained

By RAY ANDERSON
State News Staff Writer

As of Thursday night, eight people have obtained petitions to gain a place on the August 8 Primary Ballot for the State House District 116 seat, the area that will be vacated by the departing Democrat, Mary Carter-Penning.

The deadline for filing was noon and the petitions were turned in at the Secretary of State's office.

The election is to fill the seat of the late Democrat, Paul F. lotion of 1972, who had represented District 116 for 30 years. He died on April 9.

The four Democratic candidates seeking the seat include Carter-Penning, two Republicans and an Independent. The five candidates will run in the August 8 Primary. The winner will face a Republican opponent in the November General Election.

A year to remember for MSU athletics

By DON KOPROWSKI
State News Sports Writer

It will be a year to remember for MSU athletics as the Spartans were crowned Big Ten champions in football and basketball.

The football team, guided by coach Bo Schembechler, finished the season with a 10-1 record, winning four games by a margin of 20 points or more. The Spartans capped off their season with a victory over Ohio State in the Big Ten championship game.

On the basketball court, the Spartans also made history. Head coach Johnny Orr led his team to a 28-3 record, setting a new school record for wins in a season. The Spartans went on to win the NCAA championship, defeating Kentucky in the finals.

The year saw a number of standout performances, with players such as Rick Adelman and Bob Knight leading the way.

Looking ahead, the Spartans will have high expectations for the upcoming season. Coach Schembechler has been building a strong team, with several talented recruits committed for next year.

Meetings of NHL to begin Monday

MONTREAL (UP) - The annual National Hockey League meetings get underway Monday and as usual the Montreal Canadiens will dominate the schedule. The commission will be the annual draft of new players and the Canadiens find themselves with three selections in the first round in addition to their own pick, in Canada, through trades, the Minnesota Golden Gophers and the Michigan State University. Montreal's first round of Canada's 178 best players is expected to be grabbed and is expected to grab sensational junior player Gerard Lajoie of the Quebec Rangers. NHL clubs get their first opportunity to draft minor league players on Monday afternoon in the international market. The Bruins and the western league teams become available for the price of $50,000 each.

The Board of Governors will have three closed meetings beginning on Tuesday morning and expected to continue for three days. Here the important problems of the organization will be discussed and other important facts that will change although the NHL Players' Association, whose annual meeting coincides with the league's, it probably going to get a bigger show from television revenue.

Ken Gagnon, 11-year-old finisher in the Big Ten, has been named MVP of the U.S. Olympic team, his name selected by茎况lias S. Kennerly, president, director of the team's Olympic selection committee.

MICHIGAN "Little big man" Greg Johnson, 5-9, 175 pounds, has been named State University of the Year by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. In the polling, Johnson received 80 percent of the votes over his nearest competitor, Colorado State, which was awarded 14 percent. Johnson, a 118-pound "little dynamo" in MSU's wrestling team, was named the outstanding individual athlete in the NAIA this year. But prior to the league championship meeting, the former school record holder reared his head. While he in his best weight class against Big Ten competitors.

In past seasons, the Lansing Forward was a second- or third-team selection. He wasn't chosen last year.

Justus was named third place in the nation at the Junior World Tournament in 1967 and has been a member of the U.S. Olympic team, his name selected by茎况lias S. Kennerly, president, director of the team's Olympic selection committee.
