BUDGET HEARINGS

Law school, tuition reviewed

By RANDY GARTON
and
MICHAEL FOX
State News Staff Writers

Discussion of the funding of an MSU law school, possible loss of out-of-state tuition and the showing of pornographic films on campus highlighted the Monday Senate Appropriations Committee hearings on the 1972-73 budget request.

A generally friendly atmosphere prevailed, broken occasionally by sharp questioning by committee members. Wharton and Provost John E. Wharton defended the $73.1 million budget recommended by Gov. Milliken.

Although no promises were made for an MSU law school, senators were very responsive to plans for a law school to be located near the state capital.

Wharton specified that the curriculum of the proposed law school would be directed to community service in Michigan.

The nature of the College of Law curriculum would have a state service orientation on consumer law, environmental law, community health and community care," Wharton said.

"The most important element ought to be whether this college produces students equipped to work in Michigan and stay in Michigan after graduation," he said.

Sen. Garland Lane, D - Flint, suggested that the University shift funds used presently for other programs into the law school. Lane, a backer of a MSU law school, pointed out that the legislature appropriates $1,589 per student to MSU each year.

"We're five years late," Lane said, referring to the proposed MSU law school. Lane also pressed for a "bill-drafting" service to be provided as part of the law school curriculum.

Lane said that no law school in the United States presently provides training for students to assist legislators in drafting legislation.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R - Benton Harbor, told University officials that the legislature would not make up a possible loss of $4.5 million in out-of-state tuition. Court challenges are now underway in Michigan to determine whether colleges and universities have the right to charge out-of-state tuition to students registered to vote in their Michigan college community.

"We've gotten into the practice of letting the courts make legislative decisions for us," Zollar said. "It would be a disastrous situation if a decision was handed down which eliminated out-of-state tuition."

The Michigan Council of State

College Presidents reported over the weekend that Michigan colleges could lose up to $21 million annually in out-of-state fees. A $2 per credit increase at MSU might be necessary to make up the loss in revenue, Wharton acknowledged Monday at the hearing.

Near the end of the hearing, Lane directed several caustic questions to Wharton on the alleged showing of pornographic films on campus by a nonstudent businessman. He said that he had received reports that Michael Sunshine, East Lansing graduate student, was showing pornographic films in Wells Hall though not enrolled as a student.

"I'm not a prude," Lane said, "they can go to the 'Durand Dinties' if they want to, but I don't think they should be using state electricity and state facilities."

Wharton responded that he understood that the profits from the movies shown by Sunshine go to Beal Cooperative, a registered student organization. Lane nevertheless persisted in ordering Wharton to send a letter to him explaining the situation as Wharton understood it.

When contacted Monday, Sunshine said that he is currently a student and that he is hired by Beal Cooperative to manage the film programs.

Sen. Joseph S. Mack, D - Ironwood, asked University officials if they were chairman, Ms. Van Tassell was notified she could bring a faculty member who is a lawyer to the committee. Previously the committee said counsel could not participate.

"Such counsel may not, however, function as in a court of law, since this committee functions as a fact-finding and advisory body. The underlying principle is that since the parties have failed to come to agreement, they now must present their position to this committee not to one another," the letter states.

In the letter, FAC also suggests grounds on which Ms. Van Tassell can base an appeal. Ms. Van Tassell has told FAC that she cannot prepare an appeal petition without a statement of reasons from Hackel for not extending her contract.

"You might, to apply the logical possibilities, talk about irrelevance, lack of support of charges, or whatever," the letter states. "This should be enough to bring out specifics at a first hearing. By the time of the rebuttal you will have what you seem to want in advance."

renew her contract which expires in August. If FAC rejects the appeal, the case will go to the University Tenure Committee.

Ms. Van Tassell said Monday she is pleased by Hackel's decision and has already started preparing the appeal to FAC. No date will be set for the hearing until she submits an appeal petition to FAC.

"I'm delighted that Chairman Hackel has changed his mind. I look forward to beginning the hearing process soon," she said.

SAIGON (AP) — An official U.S. source expressed belief Monday there will be renewed bombing of North Vietnam's heartland, including Hanoi and Haiphong, unless the Communist-led forces call of their 19-day-old general offensive in South Vietnam.

Moscow said Sunday's raids on the Haiphong dock area damaged four Soviet ships. A protest was lodged with the U.S. ambassador.

In the ground war U.S. officers in An Loc said the enemy still held 15 per cent of the provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon and had set up a quasigovernment in the part they control.

A government division sent to relieve the encircled town was diverted to meet elements of a North Vietnamese division on the march apparently for attacks nearer Saigon.

Elsewhere in Indochina, a 1,000-man Cambodian force was reported cut off in fighting near the ruins of Angkor Wat. In two days of fighting, government forces had lost 75 killed and wounded, the high command reported. No enemy casualties were given.

In commenting on Sunday's strikes and on the possibility of more attacks deep inside North Vietnam, the official U.S. source said: "The whole thing (Sunday's raids) was political. The reason the Hanoi and Haiphong areas were hit was to put pressure on North Vietnam to relieve the pressure down here."

"I think that if the North continues the offensive in the South, Nixon will go back to Hanoi and Haiphong. He means business. He has no intention of demolishing the North, but he wants to let them know what he will do."

Until Sunday, the U.S. aerial campaign against the North, which began April 6, had been limited to the southern part of North Vietnam, well to the south of Hanoi and its port city, Haiphong.

U.S. military sources said the thrust of Monday's air strikes had shifted back to enemy troop concentrations and base areas in South Vietnam.

One such concentration was said to be a North Vietnamese division south of Da Nang which was hit Sunday, killing an estimated 200 to 300 enemy troops. Intelligence sources said it was unclear whether the division was newly infiltrated or put together from formerly independent units to wield them into a single more powerful striking force.

After Sunday's bombing, U.S. officials refused to say whether the Haiphong docks had been hit. Radio Hanoi said they had and reported one Soviet seaman was wounded. In its diplomatic protest, Moscow said the four ships hit were the Simferopol, Boris Lavrov, Samuilmarshak and Selmdzha, which were in port. The note said: "Numerous holes were caused, particularly in the living quarters of the crews."

SECRET MEETS

N. Viet talks hinted if U.S. attacks halt

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam held out the possibility Monday of high-level secret talks to end the Vietnam War if the United States halts air attacks on North Vietnam.

A second and linked condition was that the United States agree to go back to the once-a-week semipublic peace talks which the U.S. - South Vietnamese side broke off last month.

If these demands are met, it was announced, North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho will come to Paris to take part in the talks, presumably at the secret level. Tho had met several times last year with President Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, in secret Paris exchanges which failed to produce a settlement. Washington said Hanoi broke off the talks with Kissinger, claiming Tho was ill.

The U.S. delegation to the Vietnam conference withheld comment on the North Vietnamese proposal pending consultations with Washington.

The North Vietnamese package deal came out at a news conference held by Minister of State Zuan Thuy, who has headed the Hanoi delegation in Paris since the talks began in January 1969.

His proposals were made public to culminate a flurry of secret exchanges through "a private channel" between the United States and North Vietnam. The United States was believed to be pressing for further secret talks, either separately or in connection with the regular sessions.

The exchanges were aimed at getting the talks going again after Nixon had indefinitely suspended them March 23 to break what he called a 3½-year "filibuster" by the North Vietnamese. The talks had gone through 147 sessions.

Since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30, the United States has indicated it will refuse to return to the talks until the offensive is called off.

BOMBING SAID ESSENTIAL

U.S. vows S. Viet aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman declared Monday that President Nixon will "take whatever action is necessary to thwart this invasion" of South Vietnam by North Vietnamese forces.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had this word for newsmen a few hours after Secretary of State William P. Rogers had told senators bombing of the Haiphong and Hanoi areas was essential to protection of American troops and to Nixon's over-all Vietnamization program.

At his afternoon briefing, Ziegler referred reporters to Rogers' remarks and said the secretary was speaking for the President.

Ziegler would not discuss the Moscow claim that four Soviet ships were damaged in the Haiphong bombing raid.

"We have received the Soviet note, we are studying it and we will be replying," Ziegler said in response to a question.

Dispatches from Moscow said a reply had been delivered to the Kremlin and an American spokesman in the Soviet capital said it was "not an apology."

Ziegler would not say whether the Soviet Union was warned before the air strikes, but did reply, "no" when asked when the Washington - to Moscow hotline was used.

Rogers, the first high administration official to comment publicly on the weekend bombings of the two areas, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the President had three purposes in mind in sending the bombers north.

• "To protect American troops in South Vietnam and protect the lives of those troops while the withdrawal program continues."

• "To continue the U.S. withdrawal program."

• "To insure that the South Vietnamese will be able to defend themselves."

The secretary told the committee the United States has "no intention of permitting North Vietnam to take over South Vietnam by force."

There will be no reintroduction of U.S. ground combat troops and there will be no use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam.

The air raids, the secretary went on, represented no change of policy.

He added that conditions now indicate the current air war could succeed even though past bombings did not inhibit Hanoi's determination to keep fighting.

Whatever is done in the future, there is one thing certain, Rogers stated:

"The United States is not going to turn tail and leave our ally alone."

As to a resumption of the Paris peace talks, the secretary said the United States is willing to talk but only when the other side shows a sincere willingness to negotiate.

Devlin sent to jail for march

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Bernadette Devlin, the firebrand Roman Catholic legislator, was ordered to jail Monday as a day-long battle between British troops and youthful rioters surged through the heart of ravaged Belfast. Two guerrilla snipers were shot dead and a 9-year-old boy playing near the scene was wounded in the stomach. Three other snipers and two soldiers were wounded in the fighting.

Ms. Devlin, at 24 the youngest member of the British Parliament, and Frank McManus, another British legislator, both were convicted by an Enniskillen court of taking part in an illegal parade of two months ago.

In Londonderry, a 500-pound gelignite bomb was found in a factory beside an army post that overlooks the Catholic Bogside district.

British troops said they recovered the bodies of the two snipers shot in the fighting in Belfast, bringing the death toll since August 1969 to 308.

Three others were found and were taken to a hospital. Paul Collins, 9, was rushed to a hospital with a stomach wound, apparently from a ricochet. There was no indication who fired the shot. A British soldier was slightly wounded nearby.

The Provisional wing of the outlaws Irish Republican Army (IRA) claimed the huge explosive in Londonderry as its own and offered to defuse it if British troops got out of the Bligh's Lane area where it was planted. The bomb was the most lethal discovered in more than 31 months of bloody strife.

British army headquarters made no reply to the IRA offer.

Ms. Devlin and McManus were sentenced to six months in jail each for joining the February march in Enniskillen to protest the killing of 13 civilians by British troops in Londonderry on Jan. 30.

Both legislators boycotted the hearing on the grounds that justice in Northern Ireland is biased in favor of the Protestant majority.

Ms. Devlin spent the day in Dublin, relatives said, and was unavailable for comment.

McManus, who attended a session of the House of Commons in London, said he would stay away from police stations to avoid arrest but planned to fly back to Belfast Monday night.

Hundreds of teenagers fought British forces in a battle that raged most of the day in the Catholic Divis Street district of Belfast.

They hurled stones and gasoline bombs at the soldiers, attempting to lure the troops out of their armored vehicles and military posts so they could be picked off by snipers. This was a new IRA tactic launched during the week-end — the British since Britain took control of Northern Ireland month ago. Gunmen retaliated for a slaying of IRA leader Joseph McCann.

Wave after wave of youngsters pitted themselves Monday against the marksmen who tried to off snipers at the end and on the roof of the Street tenement block. A man was hit at a window

Lander still 'fit' despite peeling

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Engineers said Monday the substance peeling off the Apollo 16 lunar lander appeared to be bad paint. But they said it was unneeded for this mission and the astronauts sped on toward their landing Thursday in the highlands of the moon.

Astronauts John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. were directed to make general inspection of their moon machine, Orion, Monday night to make certain it remained fit and Thomas K. Mattingly II was ordered by the flight plan to stay aboard the command ship, Casper.

Capsule communicator Tony England told the astronauts to keep a watch on Orion's flaking surface, but assured them it was no problem.

"It turns out as we look back over the history of one batch of bad paint and they sort of think it is just the paint blistering up," England said.

A spokesman for Grumman Corp., which built Orion, said the .0001-inch thick coating of white silicone paint was designed to protect the moon machine from the heat of the sun during its three days on the moon.

"The United States is not going to turn tail and leave our ally alone."

Nine killed in gun battle

Nine persons, including an army captain, were reported killed Monday near Monte Video, Uruguay in a predawn gun battle that raged for an hour around a district office of the Communist party.

Their deaths raised to 21 the number of persons slain since Friday in the government's declared "internal war" against the leftist Tupamaro guerrillas.

The victims, other than the army officer, apparently were suspected Tupamaros who sought refuge in the Communist party building and party militants standing vigil in the headquarters to defend from rightwing extremists.

Nixon to stop in Poland

President Nixon has added a two-day stop in Poland on the way home from a week-long summit visit to Moscow in May, the White House announced Monday.

Word of the May 31-June 1 Warsaw visit came as a 25-member advance team was winging its way to Salzburg, Austria, Moscow, and Tehran, to make plans for the Nixon Soviet trip.

The visit to Poland will come following a May 30-31 stop in Iran.

FBI arrests hijacker

A gunman who seized control of a Delta Air Lines jet over Florida and demanded $500,000 was taken into custody by federal agents Monday, less than an hour after the plane touched down in Chicago.

The 85 passengers had been allowed to get off the plane shortly before the capture.

He was taken in handcuffs into the airport terminal and escorted by FBI agents into a room on an upper floor.

HAZARD

John L. Hazard, professor of marketing and transportation administration, was appointed this week as asst. secretary of transportation.

The Senate approved his appointment Monday as Undersecretary of Transportation for Policy and International Affairs.

On leave from MSU for his appointment, Hazard has been a professor here since 1957.

Ford recalls Torinos

Ford Motor Co. announced Monday it is recalling nearly 400,000 Ford Torinos and Mercury Montegos — virtually the entire 1972 model run of the Popular intermediate sized cars — to correct a defect which could allow rear wheels to come off the car.

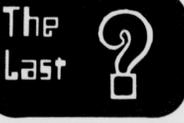

Gordon H. Robertson, service engineering manager of Ford's Customer Service Division, said the company has received reports of rear axle bearing deterioration caused by a variety of factors.

Gullen named president

After serving nine-and-one-half months as acting president, George E. Gullen Jr. has been named the sixth president of Wayne State University by the board of governors.

The board reversed an earlier stand and chose Gullen from among more than 400 candidates.

Gullen had been with the University as vice president for University Relations since 1966.

An Loc fighting stops

OVER THE AN LOC AREA, Vietnam (AP) — "We don't own An Loc yet," said the American general, peering down from his command helicopter, "but it's out of danger of falling."

Down below, through early monsoon clouds, the provincial capital almost surrounded by rubber plantations took a nervous time out from nearly two weeks of siege to bury the dead and gather strength for the next big push.

"Ours or theirs," added the general, a senior adviser with the South Vietnamese Army.

"The enemy isn't going to give up easy on An Loc. They've already announced they want it for one of their liberation capitals."

U.S. advisers on the ground, talking to our hovering helicopter by radio, said one North Vietnamese tank was still maneuvering on the northern side of town, but beyond that the situation was "pretty well stabilized."

This is a military phrase meaning that except for sniper fire, mortars, air strikes and occasional enemy antiaircraft fire at any helicopters venturing near, nothing much was going on.

The South Vietnamese command in Saigon claimed Sunday that government troops had taken control of all of An Loc. On Monday, the fact was that the defenders held most of the city, including the central market, but the invaders had the north side of town, the airport and all of the rubber plantations.

Over the weekend, the South Vietnamese airlifted two battalions of paratroopers and another of airborne rangers into An Loc to break the siege. It was still under way Monday.

With more than 9,000 defenders — the equivalent of a division — now on the ground, the relief column lumbering up Highway 13 from Saigon, 60 miles away, suddenly was diverted to deal with a new threat.

Intelligence sources reported the 7th North Vietnamese Division was moving south out of War Zone C in a possible push toward Lai Khe, the biggest and most important South Vietnamese base in the battle area. It is about halfway between Saigon and An Loc.

Study of ITT explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York investment banker testified Monday he had his study of billion-dollar divestitures of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. (ITT) prepared by reading an analyst's analysis.

however, his study was a very narrow one, almost exclusively limited to showing how ITT stockholders would lose if the conglomerate were forced to drop the giant Hartford Fire Insurance

Corp. of New Haven. While he was a member of the New York investment firm of Dillon-Read & Co., Ramsden said he was asked by White House aide Peter Flanigan last May to study the Hartford divestiture proposal then in court suits filed by then Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard L. McLaren. Ramsden said he dealt only with Flanigan, never speaking with either McLaren or Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Keleindienst, President Nixon's nominee to be attorney general. Keleindienst asked that the committee reopen hearings into his nomination after publication of a memo that seemed to link the ITT settlement and a pledge of at least $200,000 to the Republican National Convention in August.

Station to air Senate probe

The study written by Richard J. Ramsden has been named by Justice officials as a principal factor for the out-of-court settlement of three trust suits pending at the firm.

WKAR will begin broadcasting hearings from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Sen. J.W. Fulbright's committee is concerned with investigating increased U.S. military activity in Indochina.

In Tuesday's hearings, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird will testify about the increase of bombing frequency in Vietnam.

No time has been set for the conclusion of the hearing broadcast. The program will run until the end of the Senate hearings.

Teacher's group backs Hildebrand

The Michigan Federation of Teachers was granted permission to file a brief amicus curiae in support of John R. Hildebrand, former professor of social science and Latin American studies, by U.S. District Court Judge Albert J.

Hildebrand filed suit last October against the board of trustees and five University officials charging that they discharged him for no legitimate reason and did not provide him with written reasons for his discharge.

He has also charged that the defendants did not follow prescribed procedure in discharging him and denied him the opportunity to present his case.

Defendants named in the suit are: the board of trustees; President Wharton; John E. Cantlon, provost; Edward A. Martin, dean of University College; Douglas Dunham, chairman of the Dept. of Social Science, and Clinton A. ... professor of social science and assistant to Dunham.

Mr. Mike will tell you where he is tomorrow!

Board OKs new VP's pay

By MICHAEL FOX
State News Staff Writer

The yearly salary of $36,500 for Leslie W. Scott as the new vice president for development was approved by the trustees at the closed February financial meeting, Robert Perrin, vice president for University relations, said Monday.

Perrin clarified the status of Scott's salary after it was pointed out that the board of trustees approved the new position, but no salary for Scott, at its February 25 meeting. Scott's appointment became effective Saturday.

"The salary of $36,500 per annum for Scott was inadvertently not included on the list of appointments at the public board meeting in February. His name was not on the list because the list was compiled before we were sure of his appointment," Perrin said Monday.

"The creation of the new post and Scott's salary was approved at the finance meeting earlier that morning," Perrin said.

Finance meetings are closed trustee sessions where monetary matters and controversial policy issues are usually discussed before the trustees meet in public session. State law requires the governing boards of public bodies to approve all its business in public session, but the trustees generally talk out an issue before the open meeting.

As vice president for development, Scott is charged with coordinating all private fund raising activities and developing specific details on the possible formation of a University foundation. He had been a Chicago restaurant executive while serving as an unpaid consultant to President Wharton on private fund raising by MSU.

Though Scott became a paid vice president Saturday, it is not yet known where his office will be located. In the past he worked out of an empty office in the president's suite in the Administration Building. As a consultant, he only came to campus occasionally, usually no more than once a week.

The University telephone operator on Monday was still giving the president's phone number for Scott. A secretary answering the phone in the president's office said, "Mr. Scott is not in today, although we expect him in sometime this week. He has not yet officially arrived on campus."

CATV license faces test

By BILL WHITING
State News Staff Writer

An extension of the local cable television license for the National Cable Co. will come under the scrutiny of the East Lansing City Council Tuesday.

The council is scheduled to consider several courses of action regarding the local cable company, whose license expires April 30. Among these proposals are:

- A memorandum of understanding with the company for an extension of their license.
- An application by National Cable for a renewal of their license.
- A proposed ordinance amending the term of a CATV license.

National Cable has come under fire recently for alleged violations of Federal Communications Commission guidelines, although they operate a television antenna service on campus and have recently begun stringing wires in East Lansing. Several other cable companies have indicated an interest in a local franchise after the council finishes work on a proposed ordinance.

The city council will also be requested to endorse a $600,000 federal college housing loan application submitted by the MSU Student Housing Corporation.

In an action endorsed by the city planning commission, the loan is planned to buy up two fraternity houses, two sorority houses, and one apartment house to be used as co-op units. MSU-SHC now owns nine such co-ops in the area with approximately 245 residents.

The planning commission is also scheduled to recommend the city allocate funds for the first stop of a proposed 30 mile community bike path system. Included in this first step are paths along Grand River Avenue, Abbott Road, and MAC Avenue.

The commission recommended at its meeting last week that the council authorize $51,455 for the initial installment. Total cost of that portion of the project is estimated at $95,155 with the remainder of the funds coming from property assessments. The council is also slated to consider a vacancy in the Human Relations Commission. Following the resignation of a member this week, the council received a letter from Donald W. Gaudard, spokesman for Gay Liberation Movement, requesting that he be considered for the post.

Your Hometown Friend

Every bank makes loans and pays interest. Every bank supports the community through its payroll and taxes on its property. But some banks do more.

East Lansing State Bank is owned and operated by your friends and neighbors. We live right next door and belong to the same clubs and organizations that you do. So your needs and problems become our needs and our problems.

For example, we support local bond issues such as last year's drainage project. And we finance the school buses at your school. We pioneered Student Aid Bonds and were the first to offer Master Charge to students at M.S.U., juniors and above, regardless of age. And we did this before the Age of Majority. We regularly support the Volunteer Bureau through free publicity and printed materials so that they may help more needy people.

We do more because we care more. After all, you're the only Hometown we've got. East Lansing State Bank, your Hometown Bank. Now with Trust Services.

Western Michigan provides the competition for the MSU baseball team today, in a tuneup for the Spartans prior to their Big Ten road contest with Iowa and Minnesota this weekend.

Game time for the single contest today is set for 3:30 p.m. at Hyames Field (on Stadium Road) on the WMU campus. There is no admission charge.

Larry Ike and Brad VanPelt are slated to split the pitching duties for the Spartans against the Broncos, after Elliott Moore and Rick Deller were rained out in their scheduled starts against Purdue over the weekend.

The two games with Purdue will not be made up, which could cause some problems in the Big Ten standings at the end of the season. The teams are placed according to percentages, not on won-lost records.

The Spartans will take their 11-5-1 season mark to Kalamazoo against a team that has also been plagued by rain and bad weather. The Broncos are 6-4 on the year, but have had eight of their games postponed.

WMU took two of the three games from the University of Detroit this past weekend, one win by a 13-12 score. In the second inning, the Bronco squad was done 11-0 and still came up with a victory!

"We've got a great rivalry with State and have had some good games through the years," WMU Sports Information Director John Beatty commented. "After our series with U-D we're really looking forward to playing MSU."

Beatty said Dave Rice, a sophomore righthander, will be on the mound to face the Spartan batters. Rice has only pitched five innings this season and hasn't allowed a run thus far. He has been credited with two saves.

Notables on the Western team include second baseman Terry Zirkle, who is leading the Bronco squad with a .405 batting average; first baseman Bruce Mierkowitz, a second team all-Mid America Conference selection last year, and catcher Tom Vanderberg, who achieved the same distinction as Mierkowitz but behind the plate.

"We'll use this game as a method of staying sharp and keeping in shape," MSU Coach Danny Litwhiler said. "Everybody seems to be in good shape except John Dace. I don't think he could have played Saturday or Sunday because his leg was stiff, but might be ready to go against Western."

The Spartan mentor had special praise for Spartans Rick Carrow, Ron DeLonge, VanPelt and Bailey Oliver for their roles in the 5-1 and 1-0 MSU victories over Illinois last Friday.

Attempted steal

Spartan second baseman Rick Carrow positions himself for the catchers throw to pick off an Illini attempt to steal second base in a game last week. MSU is at Western Michigan today in a nonconference game.

DAY OF ANGER

FACE WAYNE TODAY

Netters eye rebound

By PAT FARNAN
 State News Sports Writer

MSU's struggling tennis team will host the highly regarded Tartars of Wayne State University at 1 p.m. today on the MSU tennis courts.

The Spartans will attempt to get back on the winning track after a disastrous road trip which saw them collect two more marks in the loss column at the hands of Wisconsin and Northwestern.

The Tartars haven't really got a chance to get untracked as their first two matches were postponed.

Coach Fred Mulhauser's squad has competed in one regular season match. The Tartars traveled to Bowling Green last Saturday and dropped a 6-3 decision.

WSU, 10-3 in last year's competition, recently completed its spring trip in Jacksonville, Fla., where it competed in a series of practice sessions with the Jacksonville University varsity squad.

The Tartars, largely a veteran team, have three returning lettermen from last year's squad. Those three men are presently holding down the number one, two and three positions in the Wayne State singles lineup.

Mulhauser, a 19-year veteran of the tennis coaching circle, holds a pretty optimistic outlook on the Tartars this year, as a result of his experienced personnel.

At the first position for the Tartars is senior captain Van Hooks who rose to number one following the graduation of Joe Spolnicki. That combination once formed one of the most respected doubles teams in the state.

At two and three for Wayne State are a pair of veterans: Jim Bajor, a two-time letter winner, and Ken Mann, a three-year letterman.

In the doubles competition for the Tartars, Mulhauser will use Hooks and Mann as his first combo, Bajor and freshman Jim Chapman in the number two position and Mike Wambach will team with either Karl Poppa or freshman Dick Posko for the number three doubles team.

Two days later, Monday, the Spartans will participate in the Mid-America Invitational, another 36-hole one-day affair on the Miami campus at Oxford, Ohio.

Saturday, MSU compete in the Michigan Invitational at Ann Arbor and it may send six-man teams to the hole one-day event.

MSU's scheduled golf meet with Penn State today is off because Forest Akers long course is still draped from Sunday's drenching but coach Bruce Fossom is hoping that his lineups play the two duals that are on schedule this week.

Central Michigan is to take on the Spartans Wednesday at Forest and Fossom indicates he is hoping the course will be ready for the game. However, this all depends upon the weather which quickly the course set up.

The MSU team indicated that they "one team against another against OSU. However, if either of bring more guys, they play more also."

The Spartans will play these duals because MSU has tournaments scheduled this weekend and early week and Fossom indicated that he would give his team an opportunity to play a course, especially competitively, before tournaments.

MSU's scheduled golf meet with Penn State today is off because Forest Akers long course is still draped from Sunday's drenching but coach Bruce Fossom is hoping that his lineups play the two duals that are on schedule this week.

Central Michigan is to take on the Spartans Wednesday at Forest and Fossom indicates he is hoping the course will be ready for the game. However, this all depends upon the weather which quickly the course set up.

Fossom was attracted late Monday to reschedule the meet with Penn State Thursday afternoon, presenting the possibility both meets being held.

The MSU team indicated that they "one team against another against OSU. However, if either of bring more guys, they play more also."

U.S. replies to charges of Russian ship damage

The Associated Press
The United States replied Sunday night to a Soviet charge that four Russian ships were damaged in a U.S. air attack on North Vietnam. An American spokesman said it was "not a policy" to consider the Hanoi attacks around Hanoi and Haiphong to be an understandable reaction to North Vietnam's offensive in the South.

Heath's government also called on the Kremlin to join in convening a new peace conference on Vietnam. The two nations were cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference and safety of the crewmen. The protest warned of "possible dangerous consequences."

In Britain, Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government shifted a six-year-old policy and declared it considers the Hanoi attacks around Hanoi and Haiphong to be an understandable reaction to North Vietnam's offensive in the South.

Heath's government also called on the Kremlin to join in convening a new peace conference on Vietnam. The two nations were cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that ended the French-Indochina war and brought a short-lived peace to the two Vietnams, Laos and Cambodia.

The action of Heath's government in endorsing President Nixon's policy of massive aerial retaliation represented a significant shift in this country's position. Under the Labor government of Harold Wilson, Britain publicly disassociated itself from President Lyndon B. Johnson's air raids on North Vietnamese populated areas in 1966.

In a written answer to House of Commons questioners, Foreign Office

Minister Anthony Royle said the British government "greatly regrets that the North Vietnamese should have decided to intensify the fighting by the flagrant invasion of South Vietnam rather than to agree to take part in serious negotiations without preconditions."

Before the announcement in the House of Commons, one informant said the new British position is one of "understanding" U.S. objectives and operations in Indochina.

"This falls short of actually approving them," he added.

"But it goes a good deal further forward from actively and publicly disassociating this country from the actions of one of its best allies."

Many Britons objected in 1966 to the bombing of such populated areas in North Vietnam as Haiphong, the principal seaport, and Hanoi, the capital.

In Moscow, U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam was called to the Foreign Ministry a second time late Sunday night to receive a formal protest.

The protest said four Soviet freighters anchored at Haiphong were damaged — "with numerous holes, in the cabins of the crews in particular" — and that Vietnamese dock workers on board the ships were killed or wounded.

"These piratic actions of the U.S. Air Force are a crude violation of the generally accepted standards of international law and freedom of shipping. The U.S. government bears full responsibility for these provocative actions of U.S. armed forces and the possible dangerous consequences of such actions."

Jerry W. Friedheim, spokesman for the Pentagon in Washington, said U.S. pilots were given "specific, selected targets" and that these did not include ships in Haiphong harbor. He would not comment directly on the Soviet charges.

Ecology groups seek aid for law

NEW YORK (AP) — A coalition of environmental groups will kick off a nationwide campaign Monday to mobilize public opinion to proposed legislation that would strengthen the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA).

The coalition, which includes 2,500 environmental groups, is to be mailed to national and local environmental groups, churches, voters, peace and other organizations for "widespread and immediate citizen response" to save NEPA from "proliferating hatchets," according to a packet made available here.

The NEPA campaign organized 10 days ago by leaders of the Sierra Club, Environmental Action, Friends of the Earth and the Environmental Policy Center. The timing of the campaign's kickoff during Earth Week was coincidental.

NEPA has been used in the courts by environmentalists to halt and stall scores of federal projects, including the Alaska pipeline and the Cross-Florida barge canal.

The act requires federal agencies to consider fully all environmental and social costs of proposed projects, explore feasible alternatives and guarantee citizen participation in decision making.

It was signed into law by President Nixon on New Year's Day, 1970.

Richard Lahn, a Washington lobbyist for the Sierra Club, said that "Federal agencies, Dept. of the Interior, the Atomic Energy Commission, EPA (Environmental Protection Administration), tried to ignore and get around the act and that resulted in the horrendous court decisions." He added, "What the courts said to the agencies is: 'You weren't even in the ballpark as far as compliance is concerned. You didn't even read the act.'"

Lahn said, "The attempts by Congress to chip away at NEPA is sort of like saying, 'Now we can ignore the environment.'"

Doesn't General Electric realize the days of enormous corporate profits are over?

There was a time, fifty or sixty years ago, when a major corporation in America might expect profits of twenty or even twenty-five cents on the sales dollar. Those days are over. But not everybody realizes it.

What would you call enormous? In 1970, Fortune's Top 500 industrial corporations realized an average profit of about 4 cents on the dollar.

General Electric fared slightly better than average. Last year, our profits amounted to about 5 cents on the dollar.

We are occasionally attacked, along with business in general, as being "top-profit-oriented."

People argue that if social progress is to be made, business must make it. And that profits stand in the way of social progress.

We would argue quite the opposite. The business of business is not just business.

The purpose of a business, as we see it, is to produce and distribute necessary goods and services to the profit of society... and the business itself.

A business must reflect society's needs. Economic, political, legal and moral, as well as social. It must change as society changes and, to some extent, influence those changes.

'U' curtails grad assistant numbers

By KATHY NEILSEN
State News Staff Writer
In light of the current economic pinch, the University has cut assistantships this year, a source of income for many graduate students.

Through graduate assistants were given a $200 raise this year, there were only 2,082 assistants hired this fall as opposed to 2,315 last year, Clarence Minkel, associate dean of the Graduate School said. Minkel said the cutback reflects decreased state appropriations to the University. The great concern for education that followed the Russian Sputnik launching in 1958 has ended, he said. In one department, cuts have added to low graduate assistant morale, a number of assistants said.

History Dept. graduate students have been receiving letters informing them they are 30th in line for an assistantship. "The department was drastically cut in capricious fashion," said an assistant. Though the History Dept. does not have quite the number of assistants it has had in the past, there have been no drastic changes, said William Brazill, graduate director. The department has restricted appointments to three years at the request of the department's graduate student organization, he said. Many of the assistants were not hired for this reason or because they were incompetent or were not making sufficient progress toward a degree, he said. Another sore spot with many MSU graduate students is the discrepancy in the amount of aid available among different departments.

The Chemistry Dept. dropped eight graduate assistants due to budget cuts last year, but still gives all graduate students some kind of work, said Jack Kinsinger, chairman. This is far from the case in other departments where some graduate students receive no departmental assistance.

The hard sciences have more funds available because of research grants from federal and state government and industry, according to Herman King, asst. provost. The office of the provost determines the range in the number of assistants each department may have, he said. Exactly what each department will do with their allocation from the University General Fund is determined by the department, he said.

Another financial hardship affecting graduate assistants, who receive their salary from the University General Fund, is that they must pay taxes on that income. Graduate students who receive money from federal grants, such as researchers, pay no taxes on that income. In a September court case in Detroit, several Wayne State University graduate assistants were upheld in

Chapin decries apathy of students on busing

By KAREN ZURAWSKI
State News Staff Writer
Though a large crowd attended the East Lansing School Board meeting last week, one school board member is not satisfied.

Richard E. Chapin, director of libraries, asked, "Where were the students?" "I thought more would be interested in some key issues of the local school board," he said.

Day - to - day affairs would probably not interest them, but it seems busing would have, he continued. Others in the community were interested in the busing issue, however, and the East Lansing High School auditorium was filled with 350 people.

Under consideration by the board was a resolution presented by Chapin March 13 that called for giving local school boards the option to handle local problems without federal or state interference.

To solve the problems brought about by de facto and de jure segregation, the resolution recommended busing as one solution. Though an amended resolution was introduced that removed the words "busing" and "de facto" and "de jure segregation," busing remained the focus of debate.

Malcolm Katz, superintendent of East Lansing schools, pointed out, however that "there is no law in Michigan today where forced busing between districts can be done." "No school district in the state could mandatorily assign pupils to another district for the purpose of racial equalization of pupils," he explained.

"No restraints exist for local school districts for assigning students within boundaries," he continued. "However, if a school board were to do it arbitrarily, it might be called into court." For example, if the school board decided to form a school for just girls, it could run into trouble, he said.

Voluntary busing between districts is allowed, however, according to state law. Lansing and East Lansing are currently discussing plans for a voluntary busing program, but school assignments have not been worked out.

Rita Stout and William B. Sharp, the two school board members who voted against the amended resolution, view the board's action as premature.

"The board should not take a stand on what is going through the state legislature," Sharp said. They both cited that the Michigan amendment against busing had not yet been discussed fully, and no final wording decided.

Both, however, said they approved the concept of a local school board having control over its own local matters.

MG MIDGET

It's a lot of sports car for a little price.

These days you don't have to look very far to find a small, economical car. But to find one that's economical and a pure-bred, SCCA-winning sports car—well, that leaves you a choice of about one.

MG Midget.

Just the right size for you, your friend and enough gear to see you through a weekend.

You'll discover that the real meaning of "sports motoring" has nothing to do with 1/4-mile strips at abandoned airports.

It has to do with roads that take to the hills where the scenery and fresh air are. Roads that turn and twist and meander down the other side, faithful to the contours of nature.

That's where terms like rack-and-pinion steering, front disc brakes, race-seasoned suspension and a close-ratio 4-speed gearbox, start making sense to the uninitiated.

And you'll wonder how you ever drove without full sports car instrumentation: an electric tachometer, separate gauges for oil pressure, water temperature and fuel level. There's even a trip odometer.

MG Midget sports other standards like a 1275 c.c. overhead valve engine, mag-style wheels, radial ply tires, leather steering wheel cover, reclining bucket seats, full carpeting and three-blade windshield wipers.

What do you pay for this small economical sports car? Of all the proven winners now in national SCCA sports car racing, it's the one with the lowest price tag.

A little for a lot of sports car. For the name of your nearest Austin MG dealer and for information about overseas delivery, dial (800) 631-1972. In New Jersey dial (800) 962-2803. Calls are toll-free.

MG. The sports car America loved first.
