SPEAKERS BLAST WAR

400 war protesters march to Capitol

By KATHERINE NEILSEN
State News Staff Writer

Approximately 400 marchers reached the Capitol about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday to continue their peaceful demonstration against President Nixon's escalation of the Indochina conflict.

The march was quiet and orderly with a police escort the entire route.

The small, predominantly youthful group sat on the Capitol steps and nearby grass to listen to speakers and prepare for an all-night vigil.

Cheryl Beattie, East Lansing resident and organizer of the rally, said 15 speakers had been scheduled, but only five arrived.

East Lansing City Councilman George Griffiths addressed the group condemning the violence perpetrated by the police on the demonstrators last week.

"We are here peacefully demanding peace from a violent government which nurtures a violent society," he said. "We seek peace from a national President who does violence with truth and who desecrates the very name of peace."
Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D - Detroit, told the gathering he has introduced a resolution requesting Congress to impeach the present administration.

"There is no hope for the process on my left and right," Vaughn said referring to the state legislature. "It is time to inaugurate a new politics. We should forthwith impeach the President because we want peace in our time and not some one else's."

State Board of Education member James F. O'Neil of Livonia asked the demonstrators to circulate a petition that would permit the electorate to initiate constitutional amendments.

President Wharton who was accompanied by Mrs. Wharton, had addressed the crowd at Beaumont Tower before the march.

Wharton said he felt the march was organized in the best tradition of peaceful demonstrations and was an attempt to demonstrate concern over the future of the country.

"Keep uppermost in mind, regardless of the number, the object of the exercise is peace - the object is peace," he said.

Record MSU vote backs McGovern

Overwhelming support among MSU voters turning out in record numbers swept George McGovern to a wide Ingham County victory in Michigan's first presidential primary in 44 years.

Though most of the rest of the county went for George Wallace, East Lansing and Meridian Township precincts containing large numbers of student voters gave McGovern up to 9 of every 10 Democratic votes cast. This accounted for this countywide margin of 48 per cent for McGovern to 38 per cent for the Alabama governor.

Hubert Humphrey came in a poor third with 11 per cent in the balloting, while Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm received 2 per cent of the vote.

In unofficial countywide totals, McGovern received 28,337 votes to Wallace's 22,036, Humphrey's 6,291 and Chisholm's 1,222.

East Lansing gave McGovern 11,768 votes or nearly 78 per cent of the Democratic vote cast, the largest concentration of votes he received in the state. Wallace trailed nearly 10,000 votes behind, gathering 1,891 or 12 per cent. He received most of his support in the upper middle class precincts 23 and 25, which include the Whitehills area, where he gathered almost one quarter of the total Democratic vote. Humphrey trailed with 850 votes or 5 per cent, Chisholm with 473 votes or 3 per cent.

No MSU precinct gave McGovern less than 75 per cent of the Democratic vote cast, while the best Wallace could do was a 12 per cent figure in two campus precincts. Humphrey's generally poor showing turned into disaster on campus where he received 3.3 per cent of the vote.

Chisholm received a total of 219 votes, 2.6 per cent of the total Democratic votes cast.

McGovern's best campus showing was in precinct 16 which include the West Circle residence halls where he

Allies tell of desire to talk peace

PARIS (AP) - The United States and South Vietnam told the Vietnamese Communists on Wednesday of a willingness to resume peace talks, but added "It takes two to negotiate."

At the same time, North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry issued a statement in Hanoi officially rejecting President Nixon's proposal for an internationally supervised cease-fire in Indochina. It said the question must be solved between the United States and Vietnam in Paris.

The Foreign Ministry's statement was broadcast by Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency.

In their note to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in Paris, the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations charged: "Your actions on the battlefield . . . and your words in Paris . . . give no indication whatsoever that you are seriously interested in the negotiation on matters of substance in discussing the proposals of both sides."

The two allies rejected a North Vietnamese and Viet Cong proposal Tuesday to resume the peace talks today. They were indefinitely suspended by the allied side May 4

MSU-to-Capitol march

MSU peace marchers left Beaumont Tower about 1 p.m. Wednesday and arrived at the state Capitol at 2:30 p.m. The group, estimated at about 400, settled on the Capitol lawn for an afternoon of speakers and an all-night peace vigil.

Candidates under consideration for athletic director revealed

By RICK GOSSELIN
State News Sports Writer

Informal source revealed to the State News Wednesday the names of the three candidates under consideration for the athletic directorship at MSU.

They are J. Burt Smith, the acting athletic director at MSU; Albert Smith, vice assistant to the director of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh; and Ernest Casale, athletic director at the University of Illinois.

President Wharton said earlier this week that he would give his recommendation to the board of trustees Friday and the board would select the new athletic director at its open session on Friday.

Smith is the lone black candidate of the three. Smith was the athletic director at North Carolina A & T in August 1971 when he was promoted to his present post at MSU. Smith was recently named by Pittsburgh Sports Commission Director Dean Billicek as the most competent, very capable and very 38-year-old Smith played basketball at A & T for three years, and his school to three conference championships. He was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1955. Smith is a graduate of A & T and has earned his master's at George Williams College in Illinois.

Smith could not be reached for comment.

Casale has been athletic director at Temple for the past 13 years in which time the Philadelphia school has reached its heights athletically. All 13 of the school's varsity sports have posted winning overall records in Casale's tenure at Temple.

Casale earned his bachelor degree in education from Temple and later added his master's in mathematics from the same school. Casale has taught math at the school since 1946.

Casale coached baseball on both the varsity and junior varsity level at Temple for seven years before his elevation to the post of athletic director. He is currently on the Eastern regional NCAA baseball committee. He is also a member of the executive council of the NCAA.

Casale had no comment for all questions asked earlier in the week regarding his being considered for the position.

J. Burt Smith has been the acting athletic director at MSU since last October when a stroke forced Clarence (Biggie) Munn out of the position. Smith had been the asst. athletic director to Munn since 1965. Previous to that, the 55-year-old Smith had been an asst. coach to Duffy Daugherty with the MSU football team. He came to MSU in a football coaching capacity in 1954.

Smith earned a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Michigan in 1938 after lettering in both hockey and basketball while on the Ann Arbor campus. Smith acquired his master's degree in education from MSU in 1954.

Smith was recently named tournament committee chairman of the Western Collegiate Hockey Assn. He is also the association's chairman for long-range planning.

Smith also had no comment on the possibility of his being promoted.

Congressmen agree on education measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate — House conferees reached final agreement early Wednesday on a landmark $18.5-billion higher-education bill which may be rejected because it is entangled in the dispute over school busing.

They emphasized that they are counting on the great benefits it will mean for all of the nation's colleges and universities as well as the 8 million U.S. college students to generate enough support to win final passage.

The bill's managers said this was regarded as a substitute for President Nixon's proposal for a one-year moratorium on all busing orders, but conceded it did not go as far.

The measure would set up for the first time a program of general federal support for all of the nation's public and private colleges and universities.

It would establish a new comprehensive plan to aid college students which would make every student eligible for a basic annual $1,400 stipend minus what his expected contribution from his family would be.

Other provisions would authorize $2 billion to be used to help schools with desegregation problems; provide $390 million to improve Indian education; extend present federal vocational education programs for a year at a cost of $385 million; create a National Institute of Education to conduct research on how to spend school funds more wisely; establish a new program of occupation education for young persons who have completed high school; innovative approaches in post-high school education.

The conferees finished their work in a 15-hour session which began at 1 p.m. Tuesday and ended after 4 a.m. today.

"We should forthwith impeach the President because we want peace in our time and not someone else's time."
Rep. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit

Brandt treaties pass

Massive abstentions by the opposition permitted Chancellor Willy Brandt's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland to pass through parliament's lower house Wednesday, clearing the way for final ratification unless the upper house objects.

The treaties, signed in 1970, renounce the use of force and recognize German territorial losses in World War II.

They are the cornerstones for Brandt's policy of swinging West Germany away from Cold War hostility toward cooperation with Eastern Europe.

Price of gold soars

The price of gold soared toward $60 an ounce in Europe on Wednesday, hitting record levels for the second day in a row. The dollar weakened. Experts said an unchecked rise in the gold price could touch off another dollar crisis. But dealers said the trading, while heavy, was still within reasonable bounds.

In London, gold soared $2.50 an ounce to close at $57.75, an extraordinarily high jump for the metal which normally measures daily price changes in only a few cents.

Overseas arrests rise

The number of Americans serving jail sentences overseas for illegal drug use has increased nearly six times since 1969, setting off a renewed government publicity campaign to warn travelers of the dangers they face.

According to government statistics, 934 U.S. citizens, mostly of college age, are in jail abroad for drug abuse. Four years ago, the total was 167.

Food plants unclean

Responding to congressional investigators' findings that 40 per cent of U.S. food plants are unsanitary, the Food and Drug Administration announced Wednesday it is stepping up inspection and enforcement.

The agency began notifying more than 100 trade associations that top priority in the new crackdown will be aimed at manufacturers with poor cleanliness records.

Companies will be given 10 days to submit a written plan to correct violations, and the plant will be reinspected within 30 days.

Cancer in blacks up

An "alarming increase" in cancer mortality among the U.S. black population was reported Wednesday in an 18-year statistical study by researchers at Howard University.

From 1949 to 1967, the study said, cancer death rates for nonwhites rose from 138 to 182 per 100,000 population, an increase of 32 per cent.

For whites, the rates rose from 149 to 154 per 100,000, an increase of 3 per cent, the study said. In 1949, the cancer mortality rate for nonwhites was 8 per cent lower than for whites, the study said, while in 1967 it was 18 per cent higher.

Transplants increase

An ear specialist predicts that increased use of ear tissue transplants soon will mean restored hearing for hundreds of thousands of Americans not afflicted with deafness.

Dr. Eugene L. Derlacki said in an interview that several hundred such transplants currently are being performed successfully each year on persons suffering from certain types of deafness.

FOR TREATMENT PLANS

City council raises waste disposal rates

The East Lansing City council passed an ordinance Monday night to help support its expanded sewage treatment plans by quadrupling sewage disposal rates within the city.

A spokesman for MSU, which will share these costs, said it will not pass the costs along to campus residents.

The rate increase in East Lansing will support and maintain increased treatment operations Revenue - bond funding will provide for the expansion process itself.

In March, MSU agreed to pay 42.7 per cent of the proposed $3.5 million revenue bond issue for East Lansing's sewage treatment plant expansion.

MSU's costs, however, will not be directly passed on to students in residence halls in fees, an MSU official said Wednesday.

"Increased sewage treatment costs are just another higher cost for us," said Steven Terry, asst. MSU vice president for finance.

He said that additional costs would simply be taken out of the University's general fund and revenues would have to be considered at another time.

"I'm not saying the students won't get some of the costs," Terry continued. "We get our revenues from several sources. It's just that the students in the residence halls won't be directly affected by these increased costs."

The expansion plans for East Lansing's treatment plant were prompted by a serious overloading of its capacity, which still continues.

Expansion was also prompted by Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources' orders that East Lansing purify the waste to a greater degree than it had before.

Blacks claim process for picking RAs biased

By GEORGE WHITE
State News Staff Writer
Bernard Abbot, a residence hall coordinator, is beginning an investigation today into charges of discrimination in resident assistant RA selection in Hubbard Hall.

The Hubbard Black Caucus led by Tony Gibson, Detroit junior; Wanda Hutchinson, Mount Morris junior, and Celeste Moy, Detroit senior, last week charged the Hubbard Hall RA selection committee with discrimination, citing that there for 22 RA positions available and no blacks had been selected.

In a petition that was signed by 150 people, the caucus charged that interviewers asked questions on interracial marriage, a black-white revolution and "other extraneous questions."

Bernard Abbot said that letters have been sent to all the black students that participated in the process. "Some have already responded and we'll discuss their grievances today," Abbot said.

Greg Haszco, Oak Park graduate student, helped form and participate in the evaluations. Huszco denied that the questions were asked and invited the caucus to bring their complaints to a Hubbard grievance committee.

"We felt it was necessary to take this problem outside of Hubbard," Wanda Hutchinson said Wednesday. "These kinds of things have been going on since 1969 and the grievance committee has not done that much."

Hubbard blacks have also criticized the process for leaving too much room for human judgement, claiming that many blacks were "hastily" disqualified for being immature, "when there are no guidelines for a clear indication of immaturity." "The process should develop some relevant criteria," Hutchinson said. "We want some questions established as the job qualifications to be made clear to the committee, and we want process repeated."

Though Abbot defended the process as thorough one, applicants interviewed seven times," he has held confirming the new selected RAs pending investigation.

Everett High reopens after racial trouble

Classes began as scheduled Wednesday at Lansing Everett High School according to a school spokesman, "things were going well."

The high school, which has 1,827 students, 10 per cent of which are black, closed since Thursday fighting between black and white girls broke out.

The spokesman said about 30 students were still suspended for various activities connected with week's fighting.

"We've done so rearrangement of duties, made some rule changes that went into effect Wednesday, but police or guards will be in halls," he said.

Academic Senate asks censure plan

By DANIEL DEVER
State News Staff Writer

The Academic Senate Wednesday passed a surprise proposal requesting that the Academic Council "determine authority to censure members of the faculty" and develop a censure policy no later than the end of fall term, 1972. Bob Repas, professor of labor and industrial relations, submitted the proposal to the 107 faculty members attending a senate meeting out of an approximate 2,000 employed by the University. The following are areas which the proposal specifies the

- censure policy should encompass:
  - "A list of specific criteria on which a motion of censure is to be based.
  - "The distinction, if any, between a motion of censure and a motion of reprimand.
  - "The specific penalties attached to a motion of censure.
  - "The right of the faculty member (being censured) to obtain a written list of the charges for the proposed motion of censure in advance of the Academic Council meeting where the censure motion is to be raised.
  - "The avenues available to appeal a motion of censure."

Repas and Trustee Clair White, D-Bay City, were censured Nov. 30, 1971, for their separate actions involving the release and publication of the faculty pay schedule. The next meeting of the Academic Council is set for June 1. In other action Wednesday, the Academic Senate passed a series of proposed amendments to the Bylaws for Academic Governance. These proposed changes now go to the board of trustees before becoming part of the bylaws. The first of the proposed amendments would change the bylaws to allow instructors to fully participate in academic governance by including them in the voting ranks of the faculty on external matters and admitting them to membership in the senate. Another of the proposed changes in the bylaws would guarantee noncollege faculty the right to full participation in academic governance. The proposed amendments would clear up an alleged vagueness in the bylaws by specifying that the group of noncollege faculty would be considered as a college when choosing members to standing committees. Other proposed changes include a move to shift the entire academic governance process to an academic year, an amendment to the rule for midyear replacement of students on standing committees and a rewording of the section of the bylaws which provides for students representative - at - large to the Academic Council.

In other business, the Academic Senate unanimously accepted the annual report of the Athletic Council. The report listed Athletic Council activities for the past year, including the examination of financial restrictions on intercollegiate athletics and the development of women's intercollegiate athletic programs. The Academic Senate approved the nominations of Ann Harrison, associate professor of romance languages, Leo V. Notstine, professor of civil and sanitary engineering, and Louis F. Twardzik, chairman of the Dept. of Parks and Recreation Resources to the Athletic Council. Their terms will run from July 1, 1972 to June 30, 1974.

FROM CITY-MSU WAR PANEL

Protesters' rep hints at pullout

By KAREN ZURAWSKI
State News Staff Writer

The future of the fact-finding committee on University and East Lansing activities relating to the war was jeopardized Wednesday when a demonstrator representative, dissatisfied with its proposed structure, threatened to withdraw.

Mitchell Stengel, asst. professor of economics and one of the protesters' representatives, said Wednesday that if "we don't find the proposal acceptable, we won't serve on the committee." "I'm very skeptical and dubious any significant change can come from this committee as it stands now," he said. He stressed that this committee set up was not the one asked for by protesters, and they were not rejecting their own suggestion. A group of protesters was scheduled to meet Wednesday night to appoint representatives for the board of trustee meeting today.

Discussion of the proposal and likely changes were to be recommended.

According to Stengel, the two main objections focus on the stated purpose of the proposal and the procedure in which committee recommendations would be handled. Stengel called the stated purpose "bague and empty rhetoric that will give the committee no guideline, no philosophy, no mandate." "It will almost guarantee we won't get anything done," he said.

The stated purpose says a review will be conducted in a number of areas regarding their appropriateness, "the current context of national concerns and recommendations for possible or desirable change."

Stengel said the purpose should focus more "to ascertain where and how the University and city programs support directly and indirectly the war, with recommendations for policy changes to that end."

He also predicted "really long delays" in taking action on any recommendations because of the channels established to handle them.

According to the proposal, recommendations would be immediate and directed to University and city officials and committees and commissions for further recommendation and decisions. The board of trustees and the East Lansing City Council would then receive these recommendations and decisions. Stengel feels that by dividing up the proposals to the different commissions and committees it will fragment and isolate a study for which a broader perspective in all areas was intended.

Board will hear plans for war panel, college

The board of trustees will hear proposals on the ad hoc committee on University and East Lansing policies with regard to the Vietnam War and on the formation of the urban affairs college at their monthly informational meeting today in the auditorium of Kellogg Center.

The board will consider the proposal for the formation of an ad hoc fact finding committee on University and East Lansing policies at 4 p.m. At that time the board will receive the administration's recommendations on the committee.

An informal discussion of proposals for expanded University activity in the area of urban affairs will be held at 7:30 p.m. This matter is an item for action at the Friday board meeting.

The public is invited to attend both sessions of the meeting to discuss the ad hoc committee proposal and the urban affairs activities with the board. No action on any topics will be taken until the regular 10 a.m. Friday meeting which will be held in the Kellogg auditorium this month instead of the board room in the Administration Building.

Arraignments started for antiwar protesters

Approximately 71 people were arrested last week in connection with antiwar demonstrations in East Lansing, according to a court official. Verna Hodge, 1st District Court clerk administrator, said Wednesday that a complete list of those arrested is still being compiled and processed. Hodge and five persons have already been arraigned, six will be arraigned today and about 60 on Friday. Somewhere between 75 and 80 cases will come before Judge Maurice Schoenberger in connection with the demonstrations.

"We're talking about court cases, not people," Hodge emphasized. She explained that some people were charged with more than one offense. Each offense is treated as a separate case.

As an example, Hodge cited one person who was charged with obstructing traffic and also with resisting arrest.

During an arraignment, the accused may plead guilty, not guilty or stand mute.

If the accused enters a plea of not guilty, or stands mute a trial date is set. If the defendant pleads guilty, the judge can sentence or fine the individual accordingly at that time or after a presentence investigation.

Of the persons who have been arraigned thus far, two are East Lansing residents, two are from Lansing and one is a resident of Port Huron.

Some of the charges brought against these individuals included inciting to riot, obstructing a roadway, refusing the order of a traffic officer, possession of fireworks and unlawful assembly and littering.

RACE FOR NOMINATION

Wallace in 2nd place with 323 reps' votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — George C. Wallace's victories in Maryland and Michigan Tuesday jumped him into second place in delegate race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Wallace won 72 delegates in Michigan Tuesday and 41 in Maryland to give him 323 delegate votes, second only to Sen. George McGovern with 405. While Wallace's 323 delegates are far short of the 1,507 it takes to win the nomination, the total surpasses his initial predictions and increases the chances of the Wallace strategy of deadlocking the convention and hoping for a late ballot breakthrough.

If no one gets the nomination on the first two ballots, Wallace campaign manager Charles Snider said, "we feel we have as much chance as anyone."

Wallace aides have said the Alabama governor, who was shot and gravely wounded at a campaign rally in Laurel, Md., Monday, intends to be at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach July 10 if it has to be in a wheelchair.

Despite the Wallace sweep of Tuesday's primaries, McGovern picked up 44 additional delegates. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who dropped to third place, won 28 new delegates for a total of 270.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who has stopped campaigning, has 129 delegates. Rep. Shirley Chisholm has 22, Sen. Henry M. Jackson 1, and Rep. Wilbur Mills 1, and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford 27.

President Nixon is approaching renomination well in advance of the Aug. 21 GOP convention. He won 74 new delegates Tuesday for a total 507, against 674 needed for nomination. No other Republican has won any delegates.

In addition to the primaries, candidates have picked up delegates in other states which choose delegates in caucuses and conventions.

The Associated Press delegate poll assigns only delegates who are committed or who have stated which candidate they intend to vote for at the convention. All others, including "leaners," are listed as uncommitted. Projections are not included.

County commission seats open to youth

Students should broaden their horizons of political participation and actively seek seats on the Ingham County Board of Commissioners in the Aug. 8 county commission election.

Attendance at MSU should not be an experience limited to the geographical confines of the East Lansing campus area, but must reach out instead into the nearby "real world." There are issues and concerns within Ingham County that require the attention of young, intelligent voters and politicians. Ingham County government, for example, could easily involve itself in reforms of its county jail in Mason or the establishment of low cost housing.

While these issues and concerns do not necessarily involve students, there is a need for students to participate in the non-University operations of this area. MSU must not be a cloistered academic community, but rather should reach out and tackle the local government processes to provide innovative and modern leadership.

Ingham County government is a $4 million a year operation controlled by 21 partisan commissioners elected to two-year terms. Of the 21 commissioner districts, three have heavy student voting power.

Those interested in running for county commission should collect 50 to 200 signatures on petitions available from the county courthouse in Mason. As this is a partisan election, an endorsement would be valuable in gaining election to office. The deadline for filing petitions is 4 p.m. June 29.

To some county government may seem a bit removed from University and East Lansing affairs, but decisions made at the county level have a profound influence on this area. Students should be participating in those decisions.

Why wait until June to hear Van Tassell

The University College Faculty Affairs Committee (FAC) has postponed its hearing for Eileen R. Van Tassell, asst. professor of Natural Science until June 3. The delay can only be seen as an attempt to suffocate the open hearing promised to Van Tassell.

Based on the assumption that the appeals would have been heard by May, the board of trustees voted in March to consider Van Tassell's contract extension at Friday's meeting. The trustees made their decision in an attempt to avoid "second guessing" the FAC.

Some legitimate obstacles did delay the hearing. FAC had to devise fair procedures to handle a situation in which they had no experience. Further delay can be attributed to the fact that Van Tassell and Emanuel Hackel, chairman of the Dept. of Natural Science, needed time to prepare their responses.

But a hearing on June 3 — the day after the State News stops publishing and the Saturday before finals week — does not lend itself to an open hearing.

The trustees' recommendation favored an open hearing and the committee procedures allowed for one. It now appears, however, that the committee is trying to pull a quick move to make the hearing technically open but actually closed.

Osmond E. Palmer, a committee member, said Tuesday that the committee did consider the fact that the State News would not be publishing after June 2.

"The reports of everything we do have made it into the paper so far. We thought it might be good not to have the State News around," Palmer said.

Considering the situation, it would be wise if the administration recommended, and the board of trustees approved, a contract extension for Van Tassell regardless of the outcome of the hearing. Should the hearing result in a decision not to reappoint Van Tassell, she would be left without a job at the end of an academic year at a time when university jobs are hard to find. Such an action would be nothing short of cruel. Hopefully President Wharton will follow through on his statements at the March board of trustees meeting, when he pledged that Van Tassell would get a fair deal.

FAC should reconsider its decision to hold the hearing June 3. Surely a time can be arranged early next week that will be convenient for all parties concerned, including the general public.

TRB FROM WASHINGTON

Government secrecy unneeded

By RICHARD LEE STROUT

Secrecy leads to self-deception. If you want proof of that overlooked political axiom, then look at the way we have gotten involved with a secret mercenary army in Laos.

It all started off not so innocently a decade ago when the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) recruited, directed and supported an army of Meo tribesmen to keep Laos from going Communist. It was like having a Gurkha army of our own, only no one knew we had it and thus nobody cared that we were getting ever more involved in a war in Laos. It was all going along splendidly until the CIA sent General Vang Pao and his army off on an ill-fated offensive last spring. The Meo "Irregulars" got chewed up; they had about 10 per cent casualties. That might not have been too bad except there were no more tribesmen to recruit in Laos. So the CIA started recruiting mercenaries in Thailand, only it called them "volunteers." Now the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has discovered that we have a $100 million annual commitment to finance an army of 10,000 Thai "volunteers" fighting in Laos. The Thai like it because they are getting good pay as well as extra military assistance from the United States. Presumably the Laotians like it because the Meo and Thai can do the fighting. But what about the Congress and the poor American taxpayer who never knew they were running up a $100 million annual bill in Laos? And what does it say about the present moral character of a nation that 200 years ago won its independence fighting Hessian mercenaries?

Put aside all the moral, geopolitical and financial considerations. It's also a disturbing case of the evils of secrecy in our government and Congress. Secrecy provides a way to subvert the constitutional checks and balances on the war powers.

Oh sure, the CIA informed a few members of the appropriations committee. But then it intimidated them by explaining it was so hush-hush they couldn't talk about it to the rest of Congress. After that the privileged few didn't even bother to raise questions — that was until Sen. Symington and his Foreign Relations Subcommittee came along and started poking around in the secret war in Laos. Even now the State Dept. and CIA won't "fess up to what they are doing with Thai mercenaries. The reason is that Congress last year passed a law prohibiting the use of defense funds to help third-country forces fight in support of the Laotian or Cambodian governments. If all the facts were made public, it would be evident that the executive branch was violating the law.

It's easy enough to blame the executive branch for its secrecy. Everybody knows — including President Nixon, who issued a new executive order on classification recently — that the government business is weighted down with excessive secrecy. There's probably no cure unless bureaucrats are punished for over-classification, and nobody is about to do that. But much of the blame must be placed on Congress for the way it has tolerated secrecy even within its own ranks.

For all its criticism of the executive branch, Congress really likes secrecy. At least those in power do because secrecy means power. "If you only knew what I knew" makes a senator very important in his own eyes and in the eyes of his colleagues. It also is a very good argument to silence any upstart who dares question the wisdom of the appropriations committee or the armed services committee.

Secrecy is also a convenient way for Congress to avoid responsibility if it really doesn't like. "Only the President knows he must know what is right." That's common refrain around Capitol Hill these days when the President is getting us deeper into the Vietnam War. It's also an easy way to hide behind the President and duck responsibility.

Maybe Sen. Gravel, with his maverick ways, is finally forcing Congress to face up to the problem. He tried the other day to place in the Congressional Record a copy of a still secret national security memorandum that Henry Kissinger had prepared back in 1969 of the Vietnam options open to the Nixon administration. It was enough to send the Senate sputtering into two days of secret sessions. The basic objection was that Sen. Gravel would be violating the law by making public a document classified secret. Then to the amazement of the senators, it turned out that there was no law specifically authorizing the executive branch to classify information. The whole secret system, it turns out, just rests on implied powers assumed by the executive branch.

The whole security system obviously is not going to come tumbling down. Nor should it. But once Congress starts questioning it, maybe it will begin to realize that senator Gravel has a point when he argues that Congress also determine what information should be made public. Right now it's reached the point of absurdity; the Senate sends debates in secret session down to the executive branch to be declassified.

Congress ought to understand that need not be such a willing, acquiescent partner in a secrecy system that leads not only to deception but to the impotence of Congress.

BILL WHITING

Wharton, where were you?

The question was asked time and time again.

"Where's Wharton?" The question is almost rhetorical now. The streets are safe again for the 48,000 cars per day which clog East Lansing's central artery.

But the gnawing question remains in the minds of reporters, students, townspeople and city officials — "Where were you, Mr. President, when we needed you?"

His supporters argue that "it's just not his style" to go out and mingle with the people in the streets. It would have only led to confrontations with irrational freaks anyway, and would have accomplished nothing.

Maybe.

But what if that had been the attitude of city officials? What if all the civil authorities had left it to the police to handle the disruptions?

They were given pretty much of a free hand Tuesday. They did such a good job of crowd control that in the matter of a couple hours they had another 4,000 people clogging two more blocks.

It was in the face of immense pressure from police and demonstrators tugging from both ends that East Lansing Mayor Wilbur Brookover and Councilwoman Mary Sharp waded into the Abbott intersection in an attempt to avoid what very possibly could have been a bloody confrontation.

It was already late in the day

Tuesday, and it is possible that it was even then too late to avoid the scenario of skirmishes which highlighted the week.

But Brookover and Sharp tried. They were there.

But where was Wharton?

By the time the tear gas started flying, most of the other councilmen were also on the scene.

Has Mr. Wharton ever been gassed?

The city council stayed up all night Tuesday, negotiating with demonstrators, along with three University officials standing in for President Wharton. Even they might not have shown, had it not been at the request of worried city officials.

Wharton's defenders staunchly insist that he was keeping tabs on the situation right along. Maybe. But was not there — not until it was too late.

If Wilbur Brookover, who is like a spring chicken or fiery like an exponent himself, can go for a day two without sleep trying to protect people and property... If Mary Sharp can go out and brave the tear gas several times... Why is it that President Wharton did not enter the picture until Wednesday — long after the gas had dissipated?

When President Wharton finally came on the scene Wednesday, it was with too little, too late. He did go among Grand River campers in the early morning and he did negotiate with crowd representatives during the day, but by then his credibility was badly damaged.

The reason people took to the streets last week was partially because of the lack of strong moral leadership coming from those in positions of authority. Last week that leadership was lacking at MSU.

The question arises, then, should Clifton Wharton adjust to University, or must the University adjust to him?

Endorse Gunnings for VP

To the Editor:

We, the members of the Black Greek Panhellenic Council of MSU, whose lives are directly effected by the policies and practices administered by the Dept. of Student Affairs would like to inform you of our whole-hearted support of Thomas S. Gunnings for the position of vicepresident for student affairs.

It is our hope that the person receiving this appointment shall exemplify an attitude of responsiveness to the MSU student body in general and black students in particular. In our opinion, Dr. Gunnings has, on many and varied occasions, demonstrated that he exemplifies this attitude. It is also obvious to us that the national reputation which Dr. Gunnings has established for himself as an innovator in the area of counseling psychology, would be of significance in performing the duties of this type of position. Needless to say, his counseling contact with students would be most effective in such a position. His appointment, President Wharton, would not only serve as an indication to us that the office of Student Affairs would become more responsive to the needs of MSU students, but, would also enhance the number of black personnel in the higher levels of administration in this great institution of higher learning.

We would like to thank you in advance for all considerations given to our concerns in this matter.

Conduct 'U' war study

To the Editor:

In reference to the State News report that the plans to form an ad hoc fact-finding committee on University complicity with the war in Southeast Asia may be canceled due to "lack of interest" in the project:

We have demonstrated, leafleted, canvassed, voted, solicited, blockaded streets and stormed the Administration Building in protest of the war. We have held rallies, candlelight vigils, slide shows, TV shows, radio shows, camp-ins, teach-ins, sit-ins, cry-ins, pray-ins, sing-ins and bike-ins in protest of the war. We have marched through the streets of East Lansing and the campus, marched to the Capitol, marched to Washington, marched to city hall. We have picketed Bell Telephone, Honeywell, Dow Chemical, General Motors, Demonstration Hall, air force bases, draft centers and classrooms. We have smashed windows, burned buildings, defaced walls, "trespassed" on University property and trampled grass. We have been harassed, beaten with clubs, gassed, patrolled and jailed, all in the cause of war protest.

So you tell us what we have to do to prove interest in ending the war.

The accusation by two MSU students that the board of trustees has allocated resources to a private corporation, the State News, lacks sufficient substance to merit judicial review because the corporation is a subsidiary of the University, University attorney Leland Carr said late last week.

After receiving the administration response, the judiciary granted the request for a hearing which will be held at 7:30 p.m.
Monday in 328 B Student Movices Bldg. The hearing is open to the public.
Carr presented the Student-Faculty Judiciary with the administration's reply to a request for a hearing, filed by Errol

Alvey, Brookhaven, Miss.,
sophomore, and Mark
Charles, East Lansing graduate students, who charged that the board of trustees violated Section 1.5.07 of the Academic Freedom Report with regard to the incorporation of the State News July 1, 1971.

In the two-page
administration response, Carr presented four major arguments explaining the reasons for the incorporation of the newspaper, the status of the paper with regard to the University and the board's approval of the $1

answer the major questions raised by Alvey and Charles' request for a hearing.

HEARING SLATED MONDAY

Charge of aid to SN refuted

article did not provide for the establishment of the daily operations of the newspaper.
As Carr points out in his response, the trustees rewrote Article 6, totally eliminating any reference to the State News, and at the same time chartered the newspaper as a subsidiary of the University.
"There was no legal way for the board to give the facilities of the former State News to an entirely strange corporation," Berman said,
"so they gave them to a subsidiary of themselves."
"It was absolutely the only method by which the State News could retain control of the facilities that we earned and paid for ourselves," Berman added.
In his second point, Carr emphasized the relationship between the corporation and the University.
"Despite much repetition of the assertion by complainants that the State News was chartered as a private corporation, in legal consideration it consists of the same substance as it creator, the board of trustees," Carr said. "The distinction was recognized by Internal Revenue

Library to shift time for closing

The University Library Committee voted Tuesday to shift the closing time for the library from 11 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. as a standard closing time for the undergraduate Library on a Sunday through Thursday.

presently, the undergraduate Library remains open until 11 p.m. under an experimental program being conducted during the spring term only.

Richard E. Chapin, director of libraries, said, after reviewing the numbers of students using the Library after 11 p.m., that he considered it a successful program and that it should be continued on a permanent basis.

The new Library hours will take effect summer term. The committee also moved Tuesday to permit the installation of three vending machines on the fourth floor of the west wing of the Library.

Chapin said the machines would be installed on a trial basis and that refreshment would be restricted to a designated area.

He added that any problems occurring because of the food machines — such as littering or damaging of the furniture — would result in the removal of the machines.

Women netters aiming for undefeated season

By LINDA DROEGER

The MSU women's tennis team proved it couldn't be stopped as it captured its first victory from Calvin College and went on to shut out five other schools in fine style. The team plans to continue its victorious record by downing the last two opponents for an undefeated season.

The female Spartans battled Grand Valley State College Wednesday at Grand Rapids and will tackle Eastern Michigan next Wednesday in their only home match of the season.

Coach Susan Cutting, MSU graduate assistant, admitted she foresaw lots of hard work ahead when she selected a team of nearly all freshmen and sophomores. However, the team came through with flying colors in their first experience in intercollegiate competition.

Due to lack of financing and sufficient coaching staff, MSU was unable to have a tennis team last year. The team's transportation, meals, and tennis balls are being furnished this year by the Athletic Dept. The girls furnish their own uniforms, shoes and rackets.

Cutting said she has submitted her budget for next year requesting warm-ups, tennis dresses, practice uniforms, and shoes. Hopefully, the Athletic Dept.'s allotment will cover these expenses.

Selection of the varsity team began in late March when 22 girls began elimination matches. Twelve girls were selected in early April, six were designated as the traveling team.

Each player is allowed one challenge match a week when she may challenge a player two positions above her on the ladder. If she wins she takes the position of the higher girl and the players below all move down one position.

Each traveling team member plays two matches at every meet. The netters first combine to form three doubles matches and then each play a singles match. A complete team match runs three to four hours.

In singles competition, number one Sue Selke, number four Cathy Stephenson, and Becky Dickieson, number five are undefeated. Selke and Dickieson played in six matches and Stephenson played in four. Number two Diane D'Angelo has a four and one record and Allison Scruggs has won two out of five matches.

Maureen Kinny and Marva Smith, both vying for the number six position, have each played three matches. Smith is undefeated and Kinny won two.

Other members of the varsity competing for traveling team positions are Phyllis Lewis, Cindy Trump, Jeannie Parks, Gail Kushino and Nancy Gibbs.

Coach Cutting anticipates an exciting home match 3 p.m. Wednesday at the varsity tennis courts.

"We'd love to have the backing of some fans," Cutting said. "This will be our last match of the season and should be a good one."

BUILD ROPING AREA

'S' Rodeo Club active

Spring term has found the members of the MSU rodeo club engaged in many activities.

The club-sponsored rodeo team has traveled to the University of Nebraska and Kansas State University to represent MSU in intercollegiate rodeo competition and this coming weekend, the team will be in South Dakota at the Black Hills State College Rodeo.

Rodeo club members have been very busy the past weeks constructing their own roping area in Haslett for use in practicing the various rodeo events. The area was already put to use in a calf-roping contest which was open to all calf-ropers—amateur and professional and an intra-club rodeo.

This rodeo was held so that club members who do not travel might have the opportunity to compete. All nine events, which are sanctioned for intercollegiate rodeo competition, were held and prizes were awarded to the winners of each event.

In addition, a trophy buckle was given to the men's all-around champion and the women's all-around champion.

The rodeo was conducted under intercollegiate rules and points were awarded to the winners with the all-around champions determined by the individual who accumulates the highest number of points.

Men's all-around champ was Terry Cotton while the Women's champion was Cathy Anderson.

Doug Rusink won the bareback bronc riding competition with Bob Bragg and Dick DeWitt tying for second and Bragg won the saddle bronc riding event. No qualified rides were made in the bull riding event.

Ernie Brown won the bull-dogging or steer wrestling crown with Cotton taking second, Mike Lipka won Calf Roping and Ribbon Roping was won by Cotton with second place going to Randy Frost.

In the women's competition, goat tying was won by Judy Fox with Anderson copping second, barrel racing was won by Anderson with Debbie Swift second and in the break-away calf roping event, no eligible time was posted by any of the contestants.

Earlier this year, the club also sponsored the third annual intercollegiate rodeo. Bragg is the president and Kathy Heath is the club vice president.

GARY KORRECK 'S' trackmen on title course

It's still more than a week before the Big Ten track championships get underway, but MSU's trackmen aren't going to take it easy in the meantime.

This weekend, the Spartans are filling their only open date of the spring schedule with an appearance at the Eastern Michigan Open, their third multi-school meet in four weeks.

"This is our last chance to see where our people fit best for the championships," head Coach Fran Dittich said.

"We're still not quite ready," asst. coach Jim Gibbard commented, "but I think we're beginning to peak — we should be ready by the Big Ten."

Indiana, by virtue of its dual win over the Spartans last Saturday, rates as the favorite to repeat, but host school Illinois is expected to be tough, also. Still, MSU sports has ever had and the moment the Spartans picked up by winning the indoor title could carry them to an outdoor crown.

MSU certainly has the potential, and the quality coaching to go with it. Take sprint coach Jim Bibbs, for example.

Bibbs came to MSU in 1969, after a brilliant track career of his own at Eastern Michigan where he tied the indoor world mark in the 60-yard dash back in 1951 and later coached the U.S.

women's team in the 1967 Pan American Games. Bibbs was usually seen in the shadows of Jenison Fieldhouse during the indoor season, firing the starting gun for his sprinters and encouraging them as they through their workouts. He didn't gain much not until his proteges, Herb Washington and Marshall Dittich established world records at the Spartan Relays in March.

"One of the main reasons I came to MSU was because they had a black sprint coach," admitted Dittich. "Most schools don't even have a sprint coach."

Washington also credits Bibbs for helping him develop into one of the top sprinters in the nation.

But the Spartan strength continues after the sprinters where Gibbard, who handles the distance men, and Dittich, who takes care of field events, excel.

Gibbard's distance crew is basically the same one he coached to the cross country title, upsetting heavily favored Indiana in the process. Ken Popejoy, Randy Kilpatrick, and the Cool twins, Rob and Ron, have given MSU a balance unmatched by any school in the Big Ten.

Popejoy continued to attack the four-minute mile barrier, Kilpatrick holds the school mark in the two mile and with the Cools this foursome ran a blistering 16:24.6 four mile relay in the Drake Relays two weeks ago.

Dittich, an MSU field performer and three letter winner back in the '30s, has worked with such talented individuals as Marv Roberts, Del Gregory and John Ross this spring. Roberts already holds the varsity shotput record and Gregory and Ross are good bet to challenge the Spartan marks in the long and triple jumps.

With that kind of staff and those kind of people on wonders how the Spartans lost to Indiana — but even the Green Bay Packers lost one now and then and they were on top for a long time.

Hurler Ike shines as 'S' all-time best

CRAIG REMSBURG
Sports Writer

When the MSU baseball team ends its 1972 season with doubleheaders at Western Michigan Friday and at the University of Wisconsin following afternoon, Ike will have a chance to do something he's never done before.

The righthanded Spartan hurler will be out to break his own mound record.

Ike picked up his sixth win this year and 22nd of his career when the Spartans defeated Indiana 9-1 last weekend and in so doing broke former Spartan coach Perranoski's mark of 21 career wins, set 15 years ago.

The importance of his achievement is just beginning to be felt.

At the time I really didn't think much about it," he commented recently. "Now I realize that I have passed a great player in Perranoski and this is something I'll always remember.

It's a symbol of accomplishment for me and I look proudly at it," he said.

Although Ike gave up just 10 hits and two unearned runs in four and walked two Hoosier batters, he said it wasn't one of his better games.

It was one of the worst I've had," he complained. "I didn't control at all but I had control and I stayed on top of the batters.

When they hit what I want them to hit is the key of the game," he said. "There's a lot of pitching than just trying to win the ball."

Obviously he knows what he is doing.

he is talking about if one looks at Ike's pitching record in high school and college.

In three years of hurling for Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills and Coach Kermit Starkweather, Ike compiled a 19 - 7 mark. He capped a fine high school career with a 9 - 0 won - lost season his senior year and led his team to the city league title.

But the 6 - 3, 195 physical education major came to the MSU campus on a basketball scholarship. He played guard for the frosh cagers and saw light duty at forward with the varsity his sophomore year.

"I was in a dilemma here," Ike said. "I was too slow to play guard and lacked the height to be a good forward in the Big Ten. And I wasn't able to practice my basketball in the summer because I was playing baseball. I had to make a decision whether to continue playing basketball or stick to baseball."

After 8 - 3 (2.86 ERA) and 8 - 1 (2.53 ERA) and his first two years with Coach Danny Litwhiler's baseball squad the choice wasn't too difficult to make.

"I wanted to prove to myself that I could pitch in the Big Ten because the competition is as good or maybe better than the 'A' leagues in the professional ranks," Ike commented.

This season he is 2 - 2 in the conference, beating Illinois 5 - 1 and Indiana 9 - 2 while losing to Minnesota 5 - 0 and Michigan 8 - 0 (although he gave up only two runs, one of them earned).

Ike has also picked up wins over Miami, Eastern Michigan and two over Western Michigan. His ERA is 1.69 for 69 innings of work.

The friendly hurler is waiting for June 6 to roll around when the professional baseball teams hold their annual player draft. He hopes to be drafted and is prepared to sign if the price is right.

"Pro clubs haven't really talked to me because they have to wait until the draft," Ike said. "I want a chance to play in the pro's but if a team doesn't offer me much this year I might as well finish my education and baseball career here and then try to get a good contract."

Danny Litwhiler certainly wouldn't complain if his top hurler decided on the latter course of action. After all, Litwhiler is used to having a winner and without Ike around, well...

Larry Ike

DROPS OUT OF TOURNNEY

Flu bug hits Nicklaus

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The flu bug bit a large chunk of glamour out of Thursday's opening round of the $175,000 Danny Thomas Open Golf championship Wednesday when Jack Nicklaus telephoned in a raspy voice that he could not play.

"I hope he keeps it about four months," joked defending champion Lee Trevino on the first tee of the Pro-Am Wednesday.

"He's not going to get any sympathy out here," Trevino told a delighted crowd of Lee's fans. "I hope he gets a big hitch in his swing."

Then, turning serious, Trevino added, "I'll tell you one thing, my game is bad all around. The putting is terrible."

"I've been so tied up with business that I haven't had time to practice," said the Merry Mex. "But business is money and money is the name of the game. The wife and kids don't care where it comes from as long as it's green."

Despite the last-minute withdrawal of Nicklaus, plenty of sparkle remained. Arnold Palmer, Jerry Heard, George Archer and Tom Weiskopf will join Trevino in quest of the $35,000 first prize in the 72-hole tournament.

Heard won the Colonial Invitational at Fort Worth, Tex., last weekend and pushed his earnings for the year to $106,436. That put him in second place on the moneywinning list this year, far behind Nicklaus' $154,273.

"I really hate to have to do this," Nicklaus told tournament chairman Vernon Bell over the telephone from his Lost Tree Village, Fla., home. "I held off as long as possible. I just can't make it."

The Memphis tournament, played for the benefit of the Thomas-founded St. Jude Children's Hospital, has been moved this year to the new 7,193-yard, par-72 Colonial Country Club course. It figures to be much tougher than the shorter, par-70 Colonial layout which Trevino humbled with rounds of 65-66-69-67 last year.

The new course is heavily dotted with lakes and there are water hazards on every one of the finishing nine holes with the exception of 17. "Seven or eight under should win this year," said Trevino.

"I don't care if you hit the ball a mile or not," said dapper little Puerto Rican star Chi-Chi Rodriguez. "There's no tomorrow when you hit it in the water. You have to load up and fire again with the loss of a stroke."

"Not only that, but you lost a ball," he snickered.

Football tickets in sale Monday

MSU students and faculty have the opportunity to purchase individual tickets for all 12 Spartan football games to the time of regular season to the general public.

Orders will be accepted starting Monday at the Spartan Fieldhouse ticket office, according to Bill Deardsley, athletic ticket manager.

This will give a student opportunity to buy an individual ticket for a friend or family member," Deardsley said. "The students may order the tickets and have them through the office in late August."

Two home games and one away game will have restrictions on the number of tickets that may be ordered, Deardsley said.

The Ohio State game at Spartan Stadium Nov. 11 will have a limit of four tickets per person. And the game at the Dame game at home

Oct. 7, and the Michigan game at Ann Arbor Oct. 14 each will have limits of two tickets per order.

The regular sale of individual and season tickets will commence June 1.

Illinois cage recruiting investigated by NCAA

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wayne Duke, Big Ten Conference Commissioner of Athletics, announced Wednesday that the Big Ten and the National Collegiate Athletic Association are making a joint investigation of basketball recruiting practices at the University of Illinois.

Duke's announcement said the investigation was a "result of allegations filed with the NCAA."

Gene Vance, Illinois Athletic Director, said in a brief statement that the University is cooperating with the two groups in their review of "practices followed by the (Illinois) athletic association."

The Chicago Daily News reported that the investigation was touched off by complaints made by Alvin O'Neal, a former player at Peoria (Ill.) Spalding High School, who became irritated at basketball coaches' handling of his case at the University, where he ran into academic difficulties, and who later transferred to Murray (Ky.) State.

"From time to time the Big Ten office receives allegations of violations of NCAA or conference regulations, and an inquiry is conducted to determine the validity of such reports," Duke's statement said.

"This procedure is a long-time responsibility assigned to this office and such inquiries have been and will continue to be conducted periodically as part of that responsibility.

"As a result of allegations filed with the NCAA, this office and the NCAA are conducting a joint inquiry and review of University of Illinois athletic practices.

Affidavits will be available, she said. Members of the antiwar negotiating committee announced an open meeting with the board of trustees at 4 p.m. today in the Kellogg Center auditorium. Committee members also urged interested persons to attend the trustees' meeting at 100 a.m. Friday in the Board Room of the Administration Bldg. About 2,000 signatures have been obtained on a petition requesting the University to take an institutional stand against the war, Tom Sincic, member of the antiwar press committee, said. Petitioners hope to obtain 20,000 signatures he said. The Black Veterans Assn. and SDS will also sponsor an open forum on racism and because the antiwar movement has not dealt with racism," Royal said. Terry Luke, state coordinator of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, invited persons to demonstrate this weekend at the only military base in the Lower Peninsula, Oscoda's Wurtsmith Air Force Base. The base is believed to contain B52s and nuclear weapons and probably sent planes for the recent war escalation, Luke said.

He said demonstrators will camp out all weekend and choose their own form of protest — talking to soldiers, leafletting or civil disobedience. Those who need or can provide transportation should call 353-9799.

The Student Mobilization Committee and SDS also announced support of the Washington demonstration this weekend. Buses will leave from Wayne State University. Further information is available at 351-3512.

TO JEWS ON YOM KIPPUR

Registration option offered

Jewish students who find that the Yom Kippur holiday, Sept. 18, will interfere with fall term registration are being offered special procedures to insure equity with other students. Victor V. Henley, asst. registrar, said Wednesday that though relatively few students would be adversely affected, they should not be penalized for their religious beliefs. Henley said the first step in the special procedures would be the compilation of an alphabetical list of Jewish students who feel that they would be unable to register at the normal time. These students should submit their names either through their sororities and fraternities or directly through the Office of Equal Opportunity Programs, 312 Administration Bldg. "Following the running of the section reservation enrollment cards in early September and using the alphabetical list, we will select the enrollments of all those Jewish students who did not receive a full schedule of classes," Henley said. "We will then mail a copy of the schedule to those students with a letter telling them that if they will give us an alternate choice we will pull the class cards needed, provided those cards are available on the day the student normally would have gone through registration," Henley said. "We will have the class cards available for those students in student number order when they come to register on Tuesday or Wednesday, Sept. 19-20," Henley said. Henley said that an alternative procedure would be for a Jewish student to have another student register for him on the same time and day he would normally be eligible. The student's ID picture could be taken at a later date. The University plans to review its registration dates for future years in an effort to avoid such conflicts with major religious holiday periods.

It's What's Happening

Announcements for It's What's Happening must be received in the State News office, 341 Services Bldg., by 1 p.m. two class days before. No announcements accepted by phone. No announcements will be accepted outside the greater area.

The MSU Veterans Assn. will hold a Road Rally at 11 a.m. Saturday at Y Lot. Registration will be open from 9 to 10 a.m. Campbell Hall will sponsor a mixer at 9 p.m. Friday in the cafeteria featuring the Function. Everyone is welcome.

Allies tell willingness to talk

(Continued from page one) because of "lack of progress" in private and public meetings. The note delivered to the Communist side Wednesday said: "Genuine negotiation requires serious intent and mutual discussion of each side's proposals. These are not conditions for requirements laid down by one side. They are the simple, inescapable elements of any real negotiation. "No useful purpose would be served in holding a plenary meeting merely for the sake of continuing what you have transformed into an empty ritual... It takes two to negotiate. When you are ready to do so, you will find us ready..." The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry's statement said Nixon's proposal — made May 8 while announcing the mining of North Vietnamese ports — "is, in essence, only aimed at forcing the Vietnamese people to lay down their arms, abandon their just fight and accept the puppet administration, stooge of the United States, and the U.S. neocolonialist administration in South Vietnam."

Officials propose 22

(Continued from page one) and University and city investment practices will be checked into. The committee will operate through four distinct phases. In the first phase, University officers, deans, and administrators will be asked to compile a rationale for the validity of certain policies. A similar effort will be made by East Lansing officials. Date for completion of the first phase will be on Monday. The second phase will consist of the publication of these findings on campus and in the East Lansing community. Interested individuals and organizations can provide suggestions for change and improvement at this time. It is proposed that this step be completed by May 29.

The third stage will be the establishment of the actual ad hoc committee, that will use the recommendations in preparing a report. Separate East Lansing and University subcommittees will explore matters particular to their jurisdiction. The recommendations that these committees make will be directed to University and municipal administrative bodies prior to presentation to the city council or the board of trustees. The report and specific recommendations are to be completed by June 5.

MSU backs McGovern

Precincts one through three, which contain married housing, failed to keep pace, giving McGovern less than 80 per cent while Wallace had his best showings in student dominated precincts, winning from 10 to 12 per cent.

Though final results of the races for precinct delegates are unavailable due to the high number of write in votes, it appeared that McGovern supporters swept virtually all races.

Neal Colburn, McGovern coordinator, predicted that at least 95 of 100 East Lansing precinct delegates will be committed to or supporting the South Dakotan senator.

As expected Richard Nixon easily defeated Paul

McCloskey, gaining 1,338 votes out of 1,429 cast.

East Lansing voters agreed with the state's voters, passing the lottery proposal 8,205 to 2,485 and defeating Proposal B 5,360 to 5,254.

The East Lansing voter turnout was a record 69 per cent, with 19,232 out of 28,100 of the registered voters voting, according to unofficial election returns.

Turnout ranged from a high of 79.2 per cent in Precinct 13, Holden and Wilson Halls; to a low of 59.5 per cent in Precinct 5, which included most of the triangle area. No other precinct fell below 60 per cent turnout.

In Meridian Township, Precinct 5, which contains East Complex residence halls guaranteed McGovern's victory in the township. McGovern outpolled Wallace 1,327 to 258 and accounted for two-third of his 3,510 to 1,921 vote margin over Wallace.

Humphrey received only 508 votes, 8 per cent in Meridian Township, and Chisholm followed with 121, or 2 per cent.

A large number of Republican voters in the usually GOP stronghold crossed over to the Democratic party to vote for Wallace, who received 1,921 votes of the 6,199 cast.

The clerk's office in Meridian indicated that in a typical election year, the township will split 65 to 75 per cent Republican. This year they were at four to one Democratic.

Nixon swamped McCloskey by 1,422 to 23 for 97 per cent of the vote.

The township also experienced a record voter turnout with 63 per cent of the 12,423 registered turning out at the polls.

Township voters accepted Proposal A, the lottery, with 5,452 votes cast in favor and 2,100 cast against. They also narrowly approved Proposal B, with a vote of 3,767 to 3,710 in favor of the constitutional proposal.

Though the vote was not finally tallied until 1:50 a.m. Wednesday, East Lansing's first election using the computerized punch card voting system went smoothly. A very large write in vote caused a delay in processing the ballots, however.

City Clerk Beverly Colizzi explained that though minor corrections in the counting have to be made, the vote tally went well.

Tom Barnes, who sold the punch card system to the city and took command of the vote counting, said the process went "flawless."

Richard A. Moore, a candidate for punch card voting, said "Beverly did a reasonable professional and responsible job," he said.

Moore said that the delay in the ballot counting was the result of Colizzi's refusal "to sacrifice accuracy for speed."

"Ballots have to be looked at very closely. Other clerks were establishing the count necessary to ensure accurate tally," he said.
