U.S., Soviets sign pacts on pollution, health care

MOSCOW (AP) - President Nixon and Soviet leaders reached their first modest agreements of the Moscow summit Tuesday and moved on with talks ranging over such issues as arms limitations and Vietnam.

Wednesday

East Lansing, Michigan

The President had private sessions with Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev before and after ceremonies for the signing of bilateral agreements on environmental protection and health.

They were the second and third sessions Nixon has had with Brezhnev since he became on Monday the first American president to set foot in Moscow.

Informants said the evening session focused almost exclusively on the proposed strategic arms limitation agreement which Nixon hopes to sign while in Moscow. Work on the agreement is being done in U.S. - Soviet talks at Helsinki, Finland. Sources there said Tuesday some remaining problems need to be worked out.

In the gilded splendor of a vaulted Kremlin hall, Nixon signed with President Nikolai V. Podgomy an agreement pledging a cooperative effort on water and air pollution.

This was followed with the signing by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and the Soviet health minister of an agreement for joint efforts in conquering heart ailments, cancer and other diseases.

STATE NEWS

Virtually the entire Soviet Politburo and secretariat gathered for the ceremonies and joined the U.S. delegation afterwards, in lifting glasses of champagne in repeated toasts.

The five - year agreement, which established U.S. - Soviet coordinating committees to meet regularly, had essentially been wrapped up before Nixon arrived here.

Sources indicated another agreement for a cooperative space exploration program also was ready for signing, aiming for a joint orbital flight in 1975.

The atmosphere of the talks was described as businesslike but cordial. There was no concrete indication of progress on the key issues of Vietnam, the strategic arms limitation accord and trade. But it was understood Nixon and Brezhnev had moved into these areas in a two - hour session before the signing ceremonies and another meeting afterwards.

The summit talks, which follow by three months Nixon's mission to Peking, continue today after Nixon lays a wreath at the tomb of Russia's unknown soldier The Soviets made it clear they join the United States in expecting the week - long summit to lead to an easing of East - West tensions.

that some complex details remained to be worked out. The negotiations on the first - step check on nuclear stockpiles have gone on for more than two years, and it is expected that an agreement would limit the number of defensive missiles to about 200 launchers, no more than two sites and freeze at present levels both land and submarine based offensive missiles.

Sources familiar with the trade talks forecast an agreement or series of agreements that would bolster U.S. -

The Soviets are said to be interested in joint efforts with private U.S. interests to develop such Russian resources as oil and gas.

Figuring in the trade negotiations is the unpaid Soviet lend - lease debt dating from World War II. But one official indicated the United States might soften its insistence that the debt be retired.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota was criticized by the caucus a week ago for having only 24 per cent women delegates on slates committed to him, compared to 45 per cent on slates for Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

Tuesday the caucus released a letter Humphrey wrote last week to his delegates in Pennsylvania asking that women be chosen for the at - large delegates to ward off challenges. Humphrey said he had encouraged the naming of delegates from all segments of the population.

"For the sake of the implementation of the reform rules, for the safety of the elected and selected Humphrey delegates, and for the advancement of my candidacy," Humphrey said, "it is incumbent that most, if not all, of the additional delegates be women. Some of these delegates, as many as possible, should be between the ages of 18 and 30 years."

The caucus said the states with the best records in sending women to the convention include Florida, Tennessee, Minnesota, Massachesetts and Wisconsin.

Those viewed by the caucus as the worst are West Virginia, Illinois, Alabama, Pennsylvania and South Carolina.

West Virginia's Democratic delegation includes only 3 per cent women, the caucus reported. The state's Republican delegates haven't been chosen.

Pennsylvania chose only 10 per cent women among its Republican delegates but 26 per cent were picked among the Democrats.

An even 50 per cent of the Tennessee Republicans bound for the convention are women and so are 40 per cent of the Democratic delegates.

Wallace, Dems confer

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace conferred Tuesday with Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and was told he will be welcome at the party's national convention in Miami Beach.

It was the third time Wallace has conferred with O'Brien during the governor's current campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Earlier in the year, O'Brien had said he did not view Wallace as a bona - fide Democrat because of his third party presidential bid in 1968.

Doctors said Wallace continues to improve from his wounds and indicated that he would be eating more solid foods now.

House postpones bill

Backers of a $5.3 - billion bill for aid to states and cities Tuesday moved for a compromise and postponed a House showdown until June.

The developments came fast after the proponents of the measure, a substitute for President Nixon's revenue - sharing plan, won a narrow technical victory in the House Rules Committee.

Opponents promised an all - out fight if the bill were brought up in the House today as planned.

Judiciary hears case on incorporation of SN

By NANCY PARSONS State News Staff Writer

In a public hearing Monday night, the Student - Faculty Judiciary listened to the case of two MSU students charging that the board of trustees violated the Adacemic Freedom Report when they incorporated the State News in July 1971

After hearing arguments by Zolton Ferency, an East Lansing attorney for the complainants, and Leland Carr, University attorney, the seven - member judiciary adjourned to a closed session. A decision is expected early next week.

The suit, filed March 14 by Mark Charles, East Lansing graduate student, and Errol Alvey, Brookhaven, Miss., sophomore, on behalf of the Students for a Free Press, charges that "monopoly - like conditions in the area of newspaper publications on the MSU campus are being promoted by the board of trustees."

In his arguments, Ferency asked the judiciary to order the board of trustees to stop collecting the $1 subscribtion fee for the State News at registration.

"I don't want any newspaper sold to me in a monopolistic fashion at registration time," Ferency, a full - time graduate student, said.

"Nowhere in that whole parade, that whole charade was I told what that $1 was for or that I could get it back," Ferency said.

"It (the State News) has someone selling their newspaper and, boy, are they selling it. They're cramming it down our throats," Ferency said.

Speaking for the University, Carr asked the judiciary to refuse jurisdiction in the case because the State News is the only University publication read by 80 per cent of the students on campus.

"The State News is a student newspaper which allows for student input. Eliminate the fees and you would force them to rely on city merchants. That would eliminate student input," Carr said.

"The State News is a general interest newspaper covering the whole spectrum of ideas and it is its size that makes that possible," Carr said. "Shrink it down as the cutting of funds would do and you would be . . . limiting its effectiveness.

"What encourages competition of ideas? Withdrawal of funds? Who does that help?" Carr asked.

Alvey spoke for a few minutes in rebuttal to Carr. He said that favoritism was shown to the State News concerning office space and equipment and that the Joint Issue was evicted from its office in the same building.

When James Rainery, asst. dean of the College of Business and member of the judiciary, asked who had authorized the eviction of Joint Issue Alvey said that he did not know and that he was unsure of any connection between that newspaper and the State News.

'U' must keep open views on Viet War

The board of trustees has been called New Leftist ideology. Now petitioned by 70,646 individuals some of the same people who against the war - a stance which at worst.

The trustees have been asked to University opposes all American involvement in the Indochina War and immediately take action to terminate support for the war in all parts of the University."

Such a stance involves much more than a simple antiwar declaration, like the one which was passed in the April trustee meeting, urging President Nixon to declare an immediate cease fire, to set a specific withdrawal date for all American forces in Indochina and to enter into meaningful negotiations for the release of American POWs.

An institutional stance involves much more - abolition of ROTC, termination of military to take an institutional stance opened campuses up to the ideas of the likes of Abbie Hoffman and can only be nonproductive at best Dick Gregory are trying to close and philosophically contradictory them to the thoughts of what they call an immoral establishment.

These "radicals" are making the "declare as a matter of same mistake University institutional policy that this administrators made in the early 60s - they are infusing morality into their concept of the University. The University must examine moral aspects of every situation, but it must not cast judgment upon them.

No clean record

MSU has not had a clean record in the past with regard to the Indochina War. The MSU Vietnam project has turned out to be highly regrettable. However, this University would be making a mistake of similar magnitude if it should decide to take an institutional stance against the war.

It would be foolish and naive to believe that this University can recruitment on campus, and remain neutral within the furor of partisanship which surrounds it. The University's funding depends upon a political body, the legislature, its policies, upon another political body, the board of trustees. Within this framework, MSU may always fail in its pursuit of political neutrality. And in an increasingly interdependent world, almost any University action can be

Wharton's judgment accurate

By DON STEVENS MSU Trustee

POINT OF VIEW

The past two weeks have been trying for the University. An institution of higher education is particularly vulnerable to disruption in times of emotional crisis. Now that greater calm has returned, the predictable Monday morning quarterbacks are with us. In such cases, the air is always filled with "what ifs."

"What if the 400 who first sat down on Grand River had been left alone as the mayor and president had decided?' "What if the State Police had not been called in?" "What if the order had not been given to use tear gas?" "What if the president had tried to soothe the anger of 4,000 persons?" "What if the Tuesday evening negotiations had granted all the demonstrators' demands?" "What if the demonstrators Speculation may be good dinner table conversation, but it is no way to run a University or a city. And few would now contend that alternative responses to any of these matters would have moved the United States one inch closer to disengagement from the Vietnam War.

During President Wharton's administration, the University has successfully weathered three separate instances of major unrest. Among the major lessons which emerged from his wise handling of the situation was the need for a cool head. Negotiating with a howling crowd is not like running for public office. This is no time for grandstand plays. One is dealing with a high level of emotion in which each step must be carefully and objectively assessed. The decisions which a president or leader makes have to be lived with for a long time. The unwise or impractical concessions given in the heat of the moment may often come back to haunt not only the institution itself but those same individuals who demanded them in the heat of the moment.

Leadership is not just being seen in front of the TV cameras doing "one's thing," but being certain of one's facts before one acts. What is the real mood of the crowd? What is their intent? Who are their real leaders? Are they real leaders or are they self - proclaimed? Do they exercise any real control or leadership? Can they deliver on their commitments? And most important, is there any real possibility that the means they advocate will contribute to the objectives they seek?

These are never easy questions to answer and rushing pell-mell into the fray may be good press but often bad leadership. Visibility is sometimes important; sound judgment based upon maximum information is always important.

As one friend recently observed, playing to the crowd may be good for a fast sprint, but impractical and counterproductive if you are in a long distance run!

During the tense moments of May had been permitted to retain control of 1970, when virtually everyone way urging President Wharton to call up the National Guard; his judgment was b the contrary, and he was right. The multiple information provided h from various sources gave him the confidence that such a decision w premature. Had he been se visibility around that marching crow of 5,000, would he have had the come perspective and objectivity? I don't believe so.

Similarly in the present case, strong pressures were reported uring President Wharton to ask the governo to declare a state of emergency. Again he declined. But for those who like to speculate, let them consider the question: "What would have been the reaction of the tens of thousands of students who were not demonstrati to an enforced curfew with State Police continually on the campus?"

The initial judgment which Mayo Brookover made early Tuesday evening not to move on the demonstrators wa correct, and President Whatton concurred. He visited the crowd and concluded that it would not m rampant. Mrs. Wharton visited the crowd and gave the same report, as d other sources.

One final point. Each decision which a president makes must be taken from the standpoint of the well-being of every man, woman, and child on the 5,000 acre campus. Not merely that of the demonstrators but the nondemonstrators as well. He mu make any decisions on the basis of the total welfare and physical well - being Those decisions must be based on con judgment and carried out with firmner and understanding. I believe that they Effective leadership requires mud more than visibility; the true leader must make the hard decisions which will not always be popular with everyone but which display a ful understanding of the issues. Mo important, he must have the goo judgment and courage to transcent short - term difficulties and maintain positive course toward a long - run goal I for one commend the president of his commitment to maintain the integrity of the institution and his win handling of the situation.

elimination of MSU business with war contractors. Indeed, an active institutional stance would serve to sever our placid megaversity from the cold, cruel military - industrial world.

However, those who would have the trustees adopt such a position ignore one simple fact: the nation's war - making machine will go on with or without MSU. Even if every university in the country banned ROTC and military recruiters, the military would still find a way to get its men. It always has.

Peace

If the University could act to significantly bring peace to Indochina, the case for an institutional stance could be much stronger, strong enough in fact to second guess the obvious philosophical contradictions inherent in such a stance. An institutional stance commits all members of that institution to a certain position; even those who oppose that position are indirectly forced to stand by it.

The idea of an institutional stance also strikes at the heart of the concept of the University as a open market of ideas. Years ago a tough battle was fought to open this and other campuses to so - interpreted as "political." Maintain quest

However, there is no reason to abandon the quest for institutional neutrality in the absolute simply because it cannot easily be obtained. When the University takes a deliberate political stand, as a group of demonstrators would have it do now, the interchange of ideas essential to the survival of the University is subverted, if not destroyed.

The University must instead be kept open to all ideas, including points of view advocating the Indochina War. Groups within the University should continue to push for peace in Indochina, but the University as a whole must remain uncommitted. To do otherwise is to cripple academic freedom and deny the essence of the University.

To the Editor:

In reference to the article in May 18's State News on Brody co - ed housing and its postponement, I would like to express my initial reactions of disgust and bewilderment.

As a student, I've been working closely with Brody advisory staff members, counseling center personnel and administration for approximately two years in an attempt to initiate a Brody co - ed housing option for the fall of '72. With this in mind, I see the need for communicating my views and observations concerning the entire housing fiasco and related happenings which have transpired over the last few months.

Feb. 29 of this year the "Students of Brody" conducted a housing poll among Brody residents in an attempt to ascertain student interest in a proposed co - ed housing option within the complex.

Of the 2,400 residents, 820 responded. Of the 820 responses 687 were very much in favor of such an option, 85 were opposed and 48 had no preference.

When a special room sign - up (totaling 6 hours) is scheduled one week after the majority of students have made definite housing arrangements for fall '72, response is not going to be as enthusiastic as it might have been had the special Brody signup been incorporated in the all -University signup.

It is also very interesting to point out that co - ed housing options were accepted in Akers and Wilson with little trouble. Could it be that Brody students had much less say in the co ed proposal than what they were led to believe by people? in positions of

CITY VOTE INDEFINITE

McGovern sweeps reps' seats

By RICK WILBINS State News Staff Writer

Delegates committed to Sen. George McGovern appear to have swept more than three - fourths of the allotted Democratic delegate seats in East Lansing, according to a still tentative list released by the city clerk's office Monday.

As expected, President Nixon garnered the strongest Republican delegate support in the city, but voter turnout was markedly apathetic. Only 29 delegates were elected to fill 57 allotted positions.

The list of delegate winners is still incomplete because of a mixup at the county clerk's office, according to the city clerk's office. In tabulation the results of last Tuesday's election, some write in winners were left off the tally sheet and the county clerk had to phone some names to the city

No vote totals were avialable for these candidates.

In addition, one Democratic delegate candidate was registered in the wrong precinct. The Ingham County Democratic party may decide not to seat that delegate at the county convention.

All delegate winners are to be notified by the county clerk's office no later than today, as indicated in the primary law passed in February.

In the list made available nearly a week after the election, 74 McGovern delegates were elected. Every active McGovern delegate that ran was elected.

Of the remaining 26 Democratic seats 23 were filled by uncommitted delegates. Many of these unbound delegates have indicated they will probably announce support for McGovern at the county convention, next Friday.

Uncommitted delegates filled up a substantial portion of the remaining seats. Two delegates who had indicated support for Sen. Edmund Muskie were elected but they will go to the county convention unbound to the Maine senator.

One delegate supporter of Rep. Shirley Chisholm was also elected. No delegates were elected bound to Sen. Hubert Humphrey or Gov. George Wallace.

Seven persons were elected in write - in votes. They will go to the county convention unbound to any candidate, as required by state law.

On the Republican side, 19 Nixon delegates won seats as opposed to two delegates for Rep. Paul McCloskey and eight uncommitted delegates.

No delegates were elected in eight precincts. In Precinct 24, near East Lansing High School, two persons were elected with 5 and 6 votes respectively.

Bike theft alert urged

By KRISTEN KELCH State News Staff Writer The next time you see a suspicious looking character lurking near a bicycle rack, call the MSU police.

According to Sgt Haywood Julian, of the Dept. of Public Safety, many of the more recent bicycle larcenies have involved the cutting of locks and chains with bolt cutters, hacksaws and blunt instruments.

"People must see something that looks suspicious around the bike racks occasionally, and they should call us," Julian said. Julian emphasized that citizen participation is one of the most effective ways to curb bicycle larceny.

The advent of warm weather has increased the number of bicycle larcenies on campus. In January, 17 bicycles were stolen. Four were taken in February, 28 in March and over 100 in April. Many owners probably put their bicycles in storage during the winter months.

From July 1 through April

Since October, 38 persons have been arrested by MSU those arrested were

He explaine that the thieves many time change fenders, paint the bicycles and add or subtract extra features such as light horns and reflectors. Although Zutaut does not believe that a large - scale organization is behind the larcenies, he does feel that most of the bicycles an taken by more than one individual.

Bicycles are stolen mainly for one of three reasons Zutaut said. He explaine that these were for the thief personal use, for transportation (i.e., when thief steals a bicycle rides to another area, then leave it) or for profit. Stealing for profit involve selling the stolen bicycle at reduced rate. Zutaut believe that a good proportion of the larcenies are profit. motivated.

The use of good quality locks and steel chains, plus locking the bicycle frame to the rack are ways in which to discourage would . thieves, Zutaut said.

Golfers set to challenge for Big 10 title

By STEVE STEIN State News Sports Writer

MSU's six - man golf contingent departs for Minnesota and the Big Ten Championship tournament this afternoon, optimistic that they can continue their fine play of the Spartan Invitational two weeks ago. Coach Bruce Fossum feels that his squad has a definite shot at the championship, though Indiana has to be considered the favorite.

"We are going to go to Minnesota and play the course as well as we can," Fossum said. "If we have a good tourney, then we'll definitely have an outside chance of beating Indiana."

Fossum's optimism stems from the fact that he believes the six linksmen are playing well now - "near the top of their games, "- as the Spartan mentor puts it.

"Dick Bradow is playing good golf," Fossum commented, "and I also feel that John VanderMeiden is ready to explode. He'll be so keved up that he'll have a real fine tournament.

VanderMeiden said that he is working on his iron game before the tourney, especially the low and middle irons.

"I've got to hit more greens that I've been hitting. If I can get that down, I should be in great shape," VanderMeiden said.

The Spartan captain believes that driving is the strongest aspect of his game and that it will have to be the best at Minnesota because he has heard that the course is "not real long but tight and Indiana is the favorite because of the Hoosiers' impressive tournament record so far, though he thinks the unfamiliar course will level out the competition.

"It will be almost like playing on a neutral course," Bradow said. "Indiana has six super players and any one of them can win the individual championship, but they can't play well all of the time."

Though Bradow, of course, wants to play well enough to win the tourney, he more morning.

"It would be so great if we could win the team championship or place high enough (top three) to get into the NCAA's," Bradow said.

Timyan, who had the lowest round (68) in the Spartan tourney, also sees Indiana as the team to beat. "We'll have to play real well to beat them," Timyan said. "They're going to be pretty tough."

The junior will work on his driving and putting before the meet starts Friday

"I'll have to drive better because the course is short and tight," he said. "I have to drive straight." "We'd all love to win the Big Ten," Timyan, who is competing in his first conference tourney, said. "If Indiana does play well, they'll win, but it would be great if we could finish second and make it to the

MSU training staff praised

By WILLARD HANSON Muskegon junior

In regards to Mr. Zindel's opinion in the May 11 issue of the State News, I can appreciate his concern as to the release of Don Kiger as assistant trainer from the athletic department at Michigan State.

I couldn't help but feel that he took the wrong approach in airing his complaint. After working with Don for the past three years as his student assistant, I feel that he is not only one of the finest trainers I have had the privilege of working with, but I also consider him one of the finest men I have had the privilege of knowing. With the unfortuante release of Don Kiger from all his duties as trainer, I don't feel that Mr. Zindel was justified in labeling the other

There weren't any definite reasons given for the dismissal of Don Kiger. There was only an insinuation that the reason was financial. The question arises as to who would fill the vacancies created by Don's dismissal as trainer of the wrestling and baseball teams.

From all early indications Don Kiger. It would be it is felt that the administration believes that these positions can be adequately filled by student be in a position of shar responsibilities of both the trainers. second annual all - star game without official sanctions from either league.

The first game, played in Houston's Astrodome last year, also was staged without approval from the league clubs, but the NBA's one - point victory generated enough excitement to induce the players association of each league to make the all star contest an annual event.

Eleven players from each league will suit ugefor the game at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., that will be played for the benefit of three charitable organizations, including Phoenix House, an outfit that helps addicts overcome their drug habits.

Bob Love of Chicago, Spencer Haywood of Seattle, John Havlicek of Boston and Dave DeBusschere of New York are the NBA all - star forwards. Wilt Chamberlain of Loss Angeles and Bob Lanier of Detroit were picked by their fellow players as centers. The guard posts will be handled by Jerry West of Los Angeles, Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee, Walt Frazier of New York, Archie Clark of Baltimore and Nate Archibald of Cincinnati.

The ABA cast includes forwards Willie Wise of Utah, Julius Ervin of Virginia, Dan Issel of Kentucky and Rick Barry of New York. Gilmore of Kentucky, returning from Holland for the game, and Mel Daniels of Indiana are the centers. Roger Brown of Indiana, Ralph Simpson of Denver, Donnie Freeman of Dallas, George Thompson of Pittsburgh and Jimmy Jones of Utah fill out the guard positions.

"There's enough talent there to fill every arena in each league every night of the season," said Al Bianchi, coach of the Virginia Squires and ABA coach for the game, at a luncheon Tuesday honoring the Bianchi said the ABA "has lots of go players and if the coach doesn't mess thin up, I think we can win."

Elgin Baylor, former Laker star w retired prior to Los Angeles' fi championship season, is coaching the NB players.

"I really don't know why I was picked coach the team," Baylor admitted. "Itn the players wanted me to coach them." Baylor, who does promotion work fort Lakers and is a color commentator f televised NCAA college basketball game said he would start the players voted as t NBA's first team all - stars this season.

"You always start with the best you ha and then fill in," Baylor explained. "B with a bench like we have, anybody could a starter and anyone a sitter."

Baylor, pausing briefly to answer question on his feelings about a merger, a he did not favor a consolidation of the t leagues because each league at present h several weak clubs.

"We have a division (Central) in our leag that featured a first place team under 500 Baylor said. "It would weaken the lea even more if we took in some of their su standard teams.

"The owners want a merger because would stop the salary war. The players do want it because it would eliminate t leverage they have now of negotiation w the other league if they are dissatisfied w their present team."

The separation of leagues is one reas why the all - star game will continue as attraction, Baylor added. The ABA play want to prove they are as good as their N counterparts and the NBA players want show they are in the "superior league."

Wednesday, May 24, 1972 Ford announces riverfront project

DETROIT (UPI) -Michigan's tallest building a 70 story circular hotel will be the focal point of a $500 million riverfront center proposed by Henry Ford II, Chairman of Ford Motor Co.

Ford announced Monday at a luncheon meeting of the Economic Club of Detroit that phase one of business community and the 32 - acre development would begin this fall.

The auto executive said enough major commitments had been made, by four major Michigan banks and one of the nation's largest life insurers - The Equitable Life Insurance Society of the United States - "that the first phase of the riverfront development is a reality."

"I can also tell you today that we plan to begin demolition on the site this fall, and that construction is scheduled to start early next year," he said.

Phase one also includes four octagonal, 39 - story office buildings. The other two phases of the project include more offices, in addition to shops and restaurants, apartments and condominiums, Ford said.

The development will involve other investors including Detroit Downtown Development Corp., a subsidiary of Ford Motor Land Development Corp., which was formed last fall to get the project under way.

Ford empahsized the becoming a catalys project "will not be a development through monument to one company, the entire metropolity but rather a monument area." built by many to all the

Ford work halt awaits decision

WASHINGTON (AP) - In the Ford Motor Co. case, # Nixon administration finds itself suddenly trapped in modern dilemma - how to protect the environment whi encouraging a growing economy providing more jobs.

The situation may force a difficult administration decision on whether Ford must delay production for two four months this year because of mistakes made in test engines for air pollution.

The Environmental Protection Agency annound Monday that Ford may have to delay production of 19 models because the EPA cannot certify the engines m the tests are run again.

Ford Chairman Henry Ford II said in Detroit Mond that he doubts that the administration would want to do Ford down since the economic impact would be extreme adverse William D. Ruckelshaus, EPA administrator, said then possibility Ford could send uncertified cars to deal with the understanding that if any of them need adjustments, changes could be performed in the field. But Congress might have to pass emergency legislation give the administration authority to do that, he said.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. together a group of people the elevator might go up Zane. "If he feels he is at 7 in (AP) - Riding an elevator, crossing a bridge or walking around the block are ordinary daily events in most people's lives.

But for millions of Americans, such simple actions are phobias, bringing on an overpowering fear and unbearable physical reactions. To drive across a bridge without gasping for breath, or to ascend to the fifth floor without screaming becomes a major accomplishment.

All phobics, whether they fear cats or planes or open spaces, have much in common - the anxiety they can't cope with, the compulsion to avoid the fearful situation. So one psychiatrist has brought with a variety of different fears and is using new methods ot help them overcome their fears.

Traditionally, most psychiatrists try to get to the root cause of the patients' fear. But Dr. Manuel D. Zane, director of the Phobia Clinic at White Plains Hospital, is not concerned with the origins of fear. He feels it is more important to get the person to understand what is happening in the phobic situation.

"The person loses contact with the realistic elements in his environment and gets caught up with his inner thoughts and expectations, which are usually distorted." In an elevator, for example, a phobic fears that through the ceiling, or crash through the floor, or that it will get stuck and he will suffocate.

Zane believes that the best way to help the phobic is to go directly into the feared situation. But this is best accomplished with the help of a therapist who works with the phobic and encourages him to stay with the situation. These therapists, all volunteers, are college students with an interest in psychology, or graduates of a previous phobia clinic, or community volunteers.

The therapists meet with their patients several times during the week to expose them to those situations they fear.

A woman who had therapist a short distance behind. A man who was terrified of being too far away from home, drove to a town 20 miles away with his therapist. A woman who used to break out in hives at the sight of a cat has progressed so far with her therapist that she could actually fondle a cat with no adverse reactions.

Participants in the Phobia Clinic use a scale from 1 to 10 to measure the degree of fear and anxiety."This is just an arbitrary method to help the patient," explained a certain situation, he knows that it could still be worse. But when it decreases to 5 the next time, he sees that indeed anxiety can decrease.'

This group is now into its eighth week of therapy. At a precent group session, patients and therapists sat in the basement of the clinic and discussed their fears and their progress.

A blackboard in the room outlined several rules for the phobic to follow: - Expect the fear to rise; when it rises, wait; focus on the present; label the level of fear from 1 to 10; find things to do to control the level of fear, and don't try to limit the fear completely.

The group listened to one woman report that for the first time in many years she had been able to cross a specific bridge in a car without usual fear that made her palms sweat and brought a sharp pain to her heart.

A woman who had been afraid of driving on highways and at speeds over 40 miles an hour because of an uncontrollable urge to step on the brakes, announced that she felt herself really cured. She had driven to the clinic that afternoon on the expressway and felt just fine. Her therapist, Julie Joffee, brought laughter to the entire gorup when she said, "You'll really be cured when you get a speeding ticket, though.'

U.S. rep urges use of nuclear power

By TONI PELLILLO State News Staff Writer

Nuclear power will ultimately be the solution to the energy crisis the United States is now suffering, U.S. Rep. Mike McCormack, D -Washington, told physics students Monday.

Chairman of the one year - old House Task Force on Energy, McCormack stressed that without alternative energy sources, the U.S. could only continue using present power supplies for about 14 more years.

"The hysteria and fear that the public once exhibited over using nuclear power is gradually disappearing," he said.

The only U.S. congressman with a science degree, McCormack explained that a massive program to educate lavmen in the feasability and safety of nuclear reactors is needed.

"Of course, I don't rule out the possibility of an

of good engineering and waste disposal, he added.

The congressman is convinced that, eventually, Americans will accept using nuclear reactors as power sources.

Currently, the U.S. spends about $125 million per year solely on research involving nuclear breeders.

Another possible inexhaustable power source involves building terrestrial solar farms in the desert to capture and rechannel the sun's energy for future use. "Building of the farms would be much more expensive than another alternative power source, but over the long haul, the costs would average out since the fuel itself is free,"

McCormack said. The exhaustable supply of natural fuels like rule out the possibility of an petroleum in the U.S. is rapdily diminishing due to increased usage and provides

Mickey enters rep seat race

By ANITA PYZIK State News Staff Writer

Dredging the depths of the Red Cedar River, then pulverizing the tons of waste brought up into blocks of material suitable for making furniture is the "main idea" behind Mickey's platform for election to the 59th District seat in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Mickey recently announced plans to run and Tuesday revealed his scheme of recycling Red Cedar rotting wood and silt into usable furniture.

"This industry could employ people at a stable $9,000 a year salary, for as many employes as the industry could sustain," he said.

Surplus profits from the furniture sales would go toward the creation of low rent housing units to achieve "greater integration in East Lansing." Mickey said he had presented the idea to University officials in an attempt to have the University cooperate in his effort to establish this industry. Mickey described another plan that he believes could possibly land him a seat in the House. "I'd like to see the streets from Grand River Avenue at Evergreen Avenue back by Valley Court lifted and replaced with grass, park benches and recreational facilities to provide people with the cultural center they want to pursue human interaction," he said. When asked where he would reroute traffic he replied "traffic is negligible - but I would like to see funds spent to purchase a monument of Tolstoy or Thoreau to put in the park." Mickey will not serve, if elected, if the Vietnam War has not ended. "War is nourished in government channels and I won't serve if the people allow the war to continue," he said. An unsuccessful candidate for an East Lansing City Council seat last fall, Mickey said he only ran to use the campaign as a means to "articulate my views." An organization meeting will be held at 8 p.m., May 31, in the Union lounge for supporters to help Mickey "devise campaign tactics modeled after George McGovern.'

From its introduction some time ago the TEAC A - 24 stereo cassette deck has earned an enviable reputation for quality, durability and high fidelity. Until now, the inherent limitations of the cassette medium; thin tape, slow tape speed, closely spaced narrow tracks and the residual tape noise have tended to limit the quality of recordings possible with even the best cassette decks.

TEAC Corporation took up the challenge and continued to seek methods of improving the recording process. The result was the development of the revolutionary model AN - 50 Noise Reduction Unit. Employing the patented Dolby Noise Reduction System, this unit when paired with the A - 24 cassette deck will produce recordings of a quality formerly impossible to attain. Discover for the first time how really superior the A - 24 decks are. With all inherent tape hiss and noise removed, upper frequencies formerly masked by noise are reproduced with a new clarity and brilliance. You will discover passages in your favorite music never truly heard before. A-24 regularly $17950 AN-50 regularly $6450

The TEAC model AN - 180. For use on high quality three - head reel -to - reel tape decks. $319.50

The TEAC noise reduction units may be used with any good quality tape deck, open reel or cassette. Their prime purpose is the elimination of inherent tape and recorder noise. and hiss while recording magnetic tapes. Noise free recording is thus possible from a variety of sources such as FM broadcasts, discs or when copying from another tape deck.

The Dolby System is not a hi - cut filter.

Other so - called noise reduction systems operate by filtering out a portion of the high frequency spectrum during playback, some loss of the audio spectrum is thus inevitable. The Dolby principle is to reduce the noise amplitude in relation to the desired signal strength, thus there is no filtering action during recording or playback. The original program material is reproduced unchanged, only the noise and hiss are eliminated.

A major benefit derived from this system is the tape economy.

You may now produce recordings at reduced tape speeds without loss of audio quality. Your noise reduction unit will actually pay for itself through reduced raw tape costs.

The TEAC noise reduction units are designed for versatility and broad applicability.

They may be used with virtually any tape recorder. They may be easily connected to your existing audio center. No complicated wiring or operating skill is required. Remarkably easy to operate, only a simple calibration is required upon initial installation. And, because of Dolby, for the first time, true open reel quality can be obtained with a cassette recorder. Also many prerecorded cassettes are now being Dolbyized. In fact some major recording companies such as London Records are producing only Dolbyized cassettes. As a result overall cassette quality has increased and the prices to the consumer are being reduced. Even though you may record infrequently you will enjoy the benefits of the Dolby System during playback of prerecorded Dolbyized tapes.

The TEAC model AN - 80. For use on high quality cassette or reel - to - reel machines.

The model 350 has been designed to provide full utilization of the Dolby* Noise Reduction System. Open reel performance is yours with amazing ease of operation. No complicated operating procedures are required, Dolby operating controls consist of a single switch. Internal circuitry is so stable that calibration is not required.

Recording preamplifiers of the model 350 are designed to far surpass the specifications of any available tape product. Wide frequency response, low distortion and expanded dynamic range combine to produce recordings of breathtaking clarity. Frequency response and fidelity are limited only by the upper limits of the tape itself. The Dolby Noise Reduction System, long used in the production of professional and master tapes, reduces tape hiss by as much as 10dB in the higher frequency ranges. The result is the reproduction of the original sound, completely free of coloration, no additions or subtractions, true fidelity at its best.
