SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong forces attacked with increased intensity today in an apparent campaign to force the Nixon administration to sign a ceasefire agreement Tuesday.

that the United States sign the agreement and end the fighting.

A radio broadcast by the National Liberation Front accused the United States of endangering the settlement, threatened to step up the fighting in the absence of an agreement and backed up the threat with a new wave of attacks.

The Saigon command reported 138 shelling, terror and ground attacks across South Vietnam during the 24-hour period ending at dawn Sunday, the highest number since the 1968 Tet offensive. It was the fourth successive day that attacks had soared past the 100 mark, although most of them were small and not of the magnitude of the 1968 offensive and the Easter offensive this year.

The attacks in the highlands were much heavier than those in the Saigon region. Government defenders were forced to retreat from one base and a second camp was threatened by a heavy shelling and ground attack.

Dak Seang, a border ranger camp, 40 miles northwest of Kontum city, was under heavy artillery siege and in danger of being overrun, field reports said. The base was hit with 1,000 rounds of artillery, rocket and mortar shells Sunday and enemy troops were reported to have reached its barbed wire perimeter.

U.S. and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers flew more than 50 strikes around the camp in efforts to save it.

Twenty miles north of Saigon, South Vietnamese troops were reported to have killed a North Vietnamese deputy regimental commander and a battalion commander.

Highway 1 was reported cut both to the northwest and northeast of Saigon.

A provincial route, Highway 30 in the Mekong Delta 55 miles southwest of Saigon, was reported cut Sunday when saboteurs blew up a bridge.

The Viet Cong radio declared: "The Central Committee of the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam appeals to officers and men does give the holder some advantage over the person who only has a bachelor's. But the degree is not nearly as important as the motivation, attitude and personality of the individual involved," Shingleton said.

Part of the difficulty graduates experience in seeking jobs is due to their limited outlook within a specific area, Morris said.

"People in the multidisciplinary program only want jobs that are 'people related,' or 'helping people.'"

Trying to find a job after graduation is not as easy — if you plan to enter a professional, technical or government job, MSU Placement Bureau officials predict.

This decade promises numerous and well-paying positions for chemical engineers, physicians, computer scientists and accountants, Jack Shingleton, director of the bureau, said last week.

The number of people majoring in these fields is not enough to meet the growing demands of an increasingly technological society, he explained.

But those majoring in education, anthropology, psychology, history or biology and child sciences may have a difficult time finding jobs in their specific fields, because few openings are available, Gail Morris, director of the Placement Bureau, said. On the whole, job opportunities for college graduates in the '70s will be limited because of consistently decreasing enrollments in universities throughout the nation, Shingleton cited figures showing that more than twice as many bachelor's degrees were awarded in 1970 than in 1960. If the surge persists, there will be 1.5 million graduates in the year 1980, Shingleton predicted.

"Strictly from the job market standpoint, there's no question that in the decade, jobs will be less plentiful than in the '60s," he said.

Obtaining a master's degree in a specific field may not always pave the way to more job opportunities, Shingleton warned.

"Of course, having a master's degree

At dusk Sunday, the Saigon command claimed about half the hamlets had been recaptured. Highways were still unsafe for travel, although some of them had been reopened.

The U.S. Command reported that air strikes were continuing over North Vietnam below the 20th parallel and disclosed that a Navy A7 Corsair was downed Saturday about 90 miles south of Hanoi. The pilot was listed as missing.

The 20th parallel cuts across North Vietnam about 70 miles south of Hanoi.

The loss of the Navy jet raised to 116 the number of American planes downed in North Vietnam since the resumption of U.S. bombing last April, U.S. Command records indicated. During this period, 125 airmen have been reported killed or captured.

Fighting swirled from the Saigon region to the central highlands and the northern coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

British official in China to rebuild national ties

PEKING (AP) — Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home arrived here Sunday to try to restore British-Chinese understanding, with problems of peacemaking and peacekeeping in Vietnam high on a four-day agenda.

Within an hour or two of arriving, Douglas-Home, his wife, and senior aides were strolling through and inspecting the splendors of the 500-year-old Forbidden City.

But the business side of the visit swiftly got under way when the first British foreign secretary ever to visit China went into session with his opposite number, Chi Peng Pei, at the Great Hall of the People in downtown Peking.

On arrival, Douglas-Home told newsmen his talks would range over the entire international scene — development of British-Chinese trade, with cooperation in Peking's civil aviation program one major topic, and a variety of bilateral matters.

Though the fate of the Hanoi-Washington cease-fire for Vietnam remains in doubt, Chinese as well as British authorities seem reasonably confident it will ultimately be formalized, no matter what political storms develop within President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime in Saigon.

Not surprisingly, the Chinese — as Premier Chou En-lai has publicly made clear — are spreading the impression they share North Vietnamese suspicions of U.S. motives in insisting upon another negotiating round.

Douglas-Home is certain to stress in talks that President Nixon's administration has long encountered real difficulties in political dealings with the Thieu government.

Both the British and the Chinese, however, feel they share an interest in using their influence and offices to promote a settlement and, if and when it comes, to consolidate it.

But the tough question that confronts them already has emerged from informal explanations of London and Peking thinking. As they see it now, peacemaking and peacekeeping in Vietnam are going to involve supervisory roles for certain powers.

And Britain and China expect to be approached to serve as guarantors of a

Arabs hijack plane, win release of 3 accused in Olympic deaths

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Three Palestinian guerrillas hijacked a West German jetliner with 20 other persons aboard over Turkey on Sunday, and under a threat to blow it up, won the release from Germany of three Arab commandos accused of taking part in the Munich Olympic massacre.

They took the three captive commandos aboard the plane in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, and then forced the plane to come to this Arab nation, which has expressed sympathy with the Palestinian terrorists.

The hijackers had ordered the plane to Zagreb, after a smaller jet flew there from West Germany with the three captive commandos. The commandos then transferred to the jetliner and it took off again for Libya.

West German officials said three Arabs, identified as members of the Black September organization, seized the Lufthansa 727 jet over Turkey early in the day and ordered it flown to Munich.

But police cars, ambulances and other vehicles at Munich's airport, apparently frightened the hijackers away and they ordered the plane back to Zagreb, even though the West Germans had agreed to free the commandos.

The hijacked aircraft, which had an American listed on the passenger manifest, circled Zagreb while West Germany obtained permission from the Yugoslav government to turn over the prisoners at the Zagreb airport.

With this permission granted, an

Times poll shows massive Nixon lead

(c) 1972 NEW YORK TIMES NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 — Despite further gradual gains by Sen. George McGovern, President Nixon held a massive lead in potential electoral votes as the presidential campaign entered its final two weeks, according to the fourth New York Times/Yankelovich Survey.

The survey, of the 16 states with the largest number of electoral votes, indicated that if the election had just been held, Nixon could have laid claim to 318 electoral votes in these states alone and McGovern to none, with 14 left in doubt. A total of 270 is required for election.

At the same time, the survey, jointly sponsored with Time Magazine, found that many voters have no great liking for either candidate and that as the campaign draws to a close, public interest appears to be declining.

Interviewing for the survey was finished five days ago. Thus it could provide no measure of the possible political impact of a Vietnam peace agreement. But short of that, it offered the following conclusions:

• Nixon held clear leads in ten states, with 183 electoral votes, and certain leads in five states, with 55. In the 16th state, Massachusetts, the race appeared to be a toss-up.

• The survey of 3,010 registered voters, interviewed between Oct. 17 and 24, found Nixon leading with 56 per cent of the vote to 30 per cent for McGovern. This meant the Democratic candidate had drawn four percentage points closer to Nixon than the 57 to 37 result of the previous survey, taken two weeks earlier. But it still left McGovern 26 points behind the president with only two weeks left of the election day.

• If undecided voters who "lean" to the candidate are included, the total would be Nixon ahead 59 to 33. This finding is similar to the last Gallup poll result that shows Nixon leading 59 to 36.

• McGovern has gained significantly in the New York - New Jersey - Connecticut region. Nixon still leads, 51 to 35, a 16-point spread. But two weeks ago, he led by 23 points, six weeks ago by 33.

• The Democratic nominee also appears to be gaining rapidly in Michigan. But Nixon retains sizable leads in other major industrial states like Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania.

• The Watergate bugging incident and associated charges about a secret Republican campaign fund appeared not to have swung many voters to McGovern.

Students OK election report

By DANIEL DEVER
State News Staff Writer

The student members of the Academic Council took a step closer to forming themselves into the official Elected Student Council Thursday as they approved the report of the Task Force on Student Elections.

The task force report recommends changes in the Bylaws for Academic Governance which would establish the Elected Student Council, set up a new schedule of student elections and create an appeals system for the elections.

The task force was made up by a group of students and faculty members who held hearings during the summer to find solutions to some of the problems that have plagued the student elections and organization in academic governance.

The task force report said the student council would be a body consisting of all the elected student members of the Academic Council and would be the counterpart of the Elected Faculty Council.

The students made several amendments to the report's recommendations, however, before approving them.

One of the major changes calls for the addition of one student representative on the Steering Committee.

Tom O'Shea, graduate representative to the council, proposed the amendment which would provide for one graduate and one undergraduate student member of the Steering Committee.

O'Shea said the move would give both groups better representation on the committee and ease the burden of work placed on the student member of the Steering Committee.

Under the present bylaws, one seat on the Steering Committee is reserved for a student representative elected from among the student members of the Academic Council.

Another major change in the report concerns composition of the final appeals board for student election.

Deborah O'Neal, at-large representative on the council, expressed concern that there was no provision for guaranteed minority representation on the appeals board.

The report called for an appeals board consisting of four members of the All-University Student Judiciary (AUSJ) and three student members of the Graduate Judiciary.

The report was changed so that two members of AUSJ, two student members of the Graduate Judiciary and three minority representatives would sit on the appeals board.

Two of the minority representatives would be appointed by ASMSU and one would be appointed by the Council of Graduate Students.

Among the minority representatives, at least two would have to be nonwhite and at least one would have to be a woman.

The task force recommendations and the students' amendments now go to the Committee on Academic Governance.

Once the recommendations are out of committee, they would require the approval of the Academic Council, the Academic Senate and the board of trustees before becoming part of the bylaws.

In other action Thursday, the members of the Academic Council approved the allocation of student seats among the colleges on council standing committees as provided for in the Bylaws for Academic Governance.

The students also elected O'Neal as an additional student representative to the Student Employment Service Advisory Committee and elected Marva Pritchett as an at-large representative to the council.

Pritchett will replace Catherine Gool who was elected to the council last spring but did not return to school fall term.

The students discussed, but took no action on, two other items.

Gerald Evelyn, at-large representative, requested an explanation of the status of the new College of Urban Development and its future representation on the Academic Council.

Evelyn said Robert Green, acting dean of the college, should be seated on the council as soon as possible.

President Wharton, who chaired Thursday's meeting, explained the college would not officially have academic status until its structure and curriculum have been established.

Steve Chazen, graduate representative, told the students of a lack of graduate representation on the Committee on Academic Governance.

Nixon aids Griffin campaign

By ROBERT BAO
State News Staff Writer

MIDLAND — President Nixon, after a five-hour, 84-mile ride through Ohio, flew into Tri-City Airport Saturday night to lend a helping hand to Sen. Robert Griffin's re-election campaign.

Clutching Griffin's right hand with his left hand while the two stood atop portable steps, Nixon spent 15 minutes praising the junior senator from Michigan.

"There are only five men in the Senate with real power, and Griffin is one of them," Nixon told about 4,000 cheering people, many soaked by earlier drizzles.

But Nixon's remarks, while sometimes attuned to Griffin's campaign slogan, "Michigan's Muscle," often cast Griffin as the shadow his media campaign has tried to hang over Democratic opponent Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

"I believe in the kind of peace all Americans want," Nixon said, "peace with honor and not surrender — and so does Griffin."

On at least half-a-dozen issues, from busing to amnesty, Nixon would first state his position, and then follow it with "— and so does Griffin."

This pattern evoked ripples of laughter among some in the crowd. One person murmured, "Who's the real shadow?" and another said, "If Kelley is (Sen. Philip) Hart's shadow, then Griffin is Nixon's rubber stamp."

A current ad for Griffin attacks Kelley for saying he would "cast vote for vote" with the senior senator from Michigan.

Nixon's appearance marks the second time this year, and only the third time since 1968, that he has visited Michigan.

Contrary to published statements, the last-minute decision to hold the rally had nothing to do with "erosion" in Nixon's statewide lead, state Republican leaders said. They said the main reason for Nixon's trip was to stave off Griffin from apparent disaster.

Presidential aide John Ehrlichman told the State News the only reason Nixon came was because of "a previous commitment to Griffin."

"There is no evidence of any erosion in Nixon's lead here," he said. "Of course, Nixon's appearance has the secondary benefit of helping his campaign, as well as the campaign of other Republican candidates."

A key Griffin campaign worker said the outlook for Griffin appeared bleak. He said that the erosion theory for Nixon was being spread mainly to prevent Republican overconfidence on Election Day.

"Griffin's lead, not Nixon's, is what's really eroding," he said.

Nixon's plane, "The Spirit of '76," touched down after an hour delay. The landing set a record in plane size for the tiny airport.

Nixon and his wife, Pat, stepped out and were greeted with marching music, provided by two high school bands, cheers, applause, and chants of "four more years."

A few unfriendly signs stood out in the crowd, which was cordoned off to the side of the airport. One, which caught the attention of cameras, showed a grotesque, underground-like caricature of Nixon painted in purple. But most of the signs were friendly.

Nixon walked towards the Handy High School Band and beat on a drum. Female members of the band shrieked, gasped and convulsed, so much so that advance men urged reporters to get close to the scene, over a Secret Service barrier.

Then, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and Griffin, he went on a short motorcade by the airport fence to shake hands.

"Look at that tan," one well-wisher shouted, noting Nixon's unusually red face, the result of mascara and no sunshine.

Nixon then made a few impromptu remarks, including the promise of "a full generation of peace," before extending a helping hand to Griffin. Nixon's stay lasted about 40 minutes. He then flew back to Washington.

Gov. Milliken, William McLaughlin, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, Jack Gibbs, Nixon campaign chairman for Michigan, and a number of Republican candidates also attended.

Charles Chamberlain, 6th District congressman, absent.

"As long as we work within the system, we're playing by their rules and this is a dead-end street. Every kind of significant reform that's been won has been won outside the Democratic and Republican parties."

Japan, China OK trade pact

Japan and Communist China signed a private trade agreement in Peking on Sunday, calling for $120 million in two-way trade for 1973, up 30 per cent from the expected trade volume for this year.

In a dispatch from Peking, Japan's Kyodo news service said the signing of the memorandum trade agreement came after five days of negotiations by Chinese trade officials and a Japanese delegation which included farm products and livestock feed importers and officials of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry.

Russian press backs Nixon

After almost entirely ignoring the American presidential campaign for weeks, the Russian press has suddenly blossomed with election reports that indicate Moscow is content to cast its lot with Richard M. Nixon.

Of course, there have been no editorials in the controlled Soviet press endorsing the Nixon candidacy.

Nonetheless, there is a tilt in the Soviet election coverage in the President's favor.

Yen faces revaluation

The pressures on Japan for another revaluation of the yen have become so strong that the question asked in Tokyo Sunday is not whether it will happen, but when, how much and under what circumstances.

Ironically, there is also a growing feeling among foreign and Japanese businessmen here that even another upward shift in the yen's parities really will not solve the problem of Japan's continually rising trade surpluses and foreign exchange reserves.

Canada holds election

Canada's voters choose today from a record number of candidates for Parliament in an election whose outcome will be a national verdict on four years of rule by Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Prime Minister Trudeau's Liberal party expects to win enough House of Commons seats to permit him to form another government. It hopes he will win another clear majority of House members.

UN plans to settle debt

A UN committee has a new three-point plan for settling almost $200 million in debts of the organization dating back 16 years.

Diplomatic sources said Sunday the 15-nation Special Committee on the Financial Situation of the United Nations would reveal the plan in a report coming out in mid-week.

The debts, to governments, include about $70 million for services to the now-defunct UN forces in the Middle East and the Congo and $113.8 million needed to pay off a 10-year-old bond issue to cover expenses of the forces.

Boggs search postponed

The Air Force said Sunday that heavy snow and bad visibility has forced the temporary cancellation of its two-week-old search for the light plane missing with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three others aboard.

There were no planes flying out of Elmendorf Air Force Base near here for the first time since the search began Oct. 16. There were two Coast Guard aircraft flying, however — an HC130 and an H3 helicopter.

Socialist raps party systems

By LINDA WERFELMAN
State News Staff Writer

Major reforms in American society can not come about through support of the two major political parties, Linda Nordquist, Socialist Workers candidate for U.S. Senate, charged in a recent interview.

"As long as we work within the system, we're playing by their rules and this is a dead-end street,"

Nordquist said. "Every kind of significant reform that's been won has been won outside the Democratic and Republican parties."

She said the 18-year-old vote, for example, was a response to student power, rather than an innovation of politicians.

The two major parties offer no greater a choice this year than they have in past elections, she added.

"The candidates fundamentally agree with preserving the capitalist system," Nordquist said. "McGovern says, 'if we just throw the independent movements a few bones, they'll be quiet and Nixon just ignores them. So how can we dump Nixon? We'd have to vote for McGovern to dump Nixon."

Nordquist charged the candidates and most incumbent politicians are not responsive to or representative of their constituents.

"They don't want to see the American people after election day," she continued. "Most of the people in Congress are lawyers with a few rich newspapermen and businessmen-- there is not one secretary, one student, one laborer and these are the people."

Nordquist said she could not predict whether she would receive the 15,000 votes needed to keep the Socialist Workers on the ballot in future elections.

"But we don't view what happens on election day as that important," she added. "It's what happens the other 364 days that matters."

The power of the Senate office would be used most effectively if available space which said a family of four could live relatively comfortably on $10,000 each year.

By holding salaries at the present level while reducing work hours, employers could hire a greater number of workers, Nordquist said.

She suggested increased use of government job training programs and preferential hiring programs for blacks, women and other minority workers.

but, she added, "the government couldn't handle these programs as long as we live in a capitalist society."

Nordquist classified reports of impending ceasefire in Vietnam as "very unstable."

Failure to mention Thailand in the agreement could facilitate continued fighting in Southeast Asia, she said.

"It appears that civil war could break out at any minute in Vietnam and the U.S. troops would be right there and could intervene," she added.

She speculated that the cease-fire reports could be an election play by the U.S. and that the Nixon administration could be encouraging South Vietnamese President Thieu's opposition to the plans in order to prevent an immediate settlement.

This action, she said, would be the "logical conclusion of black nationalism."

Nordquist approved the concept of a guaranteed annual income, but said $6,500 for a family of four proposed by Barbara Halpert, Human Rights Party candidate for the Senate, would be too low.

Nordquist cited a study by the Dept. of Labor the major political parties have failed. The restricted size of the party would not necessarily limit its effectiveness, she said. "The capitalist group is small and it controls quite a bit," she said.

She suggested that a referendum in black communities decide the busing issue since black children are most directly affected by busing.

Council to reconsider education policy report

With only two items scheduled for discussion, the Academic Council meeting at 3:15 Tuesday in the Con Con Room is expected to be short.

Both items are reports from the Educational Policies Committee which were discussed at the last council meeting. The first report was sent back to the policies committee for further study and debate on the second report was tabled.

The first item is a recommendation to modify the policy regarding credit - by - examination.

The recommendation is intended to remedy some of the deficiencies and to encourage increased use of the credit - by - examination option.

The Educational Policies Committee proposes that all courses be regularly available for credit - by - examination except courses in which "class attendance and participation are an integral part of the instructional method."

The recommendation also provides for registration for credit - by - examination courses as a regular part of registration procedure.

The second committee item is information concerning the committee's review of the credit - no credit grade option for general education courses.

The policies panel recommends there be no change in the present credit - no credit regulations.

Under the present policy, a student may enroll on a credit - no credit basis in all undergraduate courses except those used to satisfy the general education requirements or courses specifically excluded from credit - no credit enrollment by the college or department of the student's major.

Representatives of the MSU Married Students Union were elected last week in a sparse turnout of only 200 voters, out of more than 6,000 eligible.

According to Ann Thomforde, Spartan Village representative and the only incumbent on the ballot, the turnout was disappointing but equaled last year's number.

"Because of the light publicity the election received plus the lack of sufficient polling places, the election turnout was very small," Thomforde said.

Representatives from Spartan Village are Maggie Parish, Jennifer Jackson, Tori Martin, Ruth Hill, James VanderPoel, Judy

Plane hijacked to Cuba, 1 dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - A jet-scattered Eastern Air Lines jetliner with 40 passengers on board was forced to fly to Cuba early Sunday after hijackers who shot and killed one man and wounded another on the plane in Houston, Texas.

The Boeing 727 rolled up Gate 46 at Miami International Airport Sunday afternoon with several bullet holes in the wing window of the main fuselage. Two other shots had penetrated the fuselage.

Former astronaut Frank Borman, an Eastern vice president, met the captain of the plane as he stepped off the aircraft and accompanied him under escort of U.S. Customs and FBI agents.

FBI interrogated the pilot and passengers before they were permitted to talk to newsmen and photographers.

The aircraft made an immediate stop in New Orleans for refueling and about seven hours on ground in Havana before returning to Miami. The dead man was a gate agent for Eastern.

"We're still not sure what happened in Houston," Eastern Information Officer Ashlock said in Miami. "There were no witnesses to the hijacking. The gate agent had spotted a weapon something, but we don't know what it was."

There also was no exact information on the number of hijackers, but Ashlock said it was believed the pilot and three were four.

Flight 496, carrying 33 passengers and a crew of seven, originated in San Antonio, Tex., and was being readied in Houston for the rest of its flight to Syracuse, N. Y., when the hijacking took place.

Eastern identified the dead man as Stan Hubbard, 34, of Humble, Tex. Wyatt S. Wilkinson Jr., 26, also of Humble, was reported in fair condition at a hospital with a bullet wound in the arm.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon repeated Sunday his "no-amnesty" pledge and sounded a call for a strong national defense as "an incentive for negotiation leading to peace."

In another of his series of paid radionetwork broadcasts, Nixon told the nation what he pledged Saturday to the parents of a soldier killed in Vietnam:

"There will be no amnesty for draft-dodgers and deserters after the war."

His statement, the strongest yet on the amnesty question, came after he said that "as this long and difficult war draws to an end, it is time to draw the line on this issue once and for all."

"Millions of Americans chose to serve their county in Vietnam. Many gave their lives for their choice," Nixon said. "The few hundred who refused to serve or who deserted their country must pay a penalty for their choice."

Thus, in the broadcast from the White House library, Nixon repeated what he told Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lorence Saturday when he halted his campaign motorcade near their home in Mantua Corners, Ohio.

Nonreturnable ban needs state control

City Councilman George Colburn proposed an ordinance to the city council Oct. 17 seeking a ban on the sale and use of nonreturnable beverage containers in East Lansing.

The committee for Environmental Quality in East Lansing contends that a ban on throwaway containers will cut down on litter.

The main fault of the ordinance is that it would be unenforceable. Consumers could easily travel to nearby Okemos or Lansing and buy goods in nonreturnable containers rather than buy them in returnable ones.

Despite Colburn's assertion last June that a number of suburban Detroit communities have acted to ban nonreturnables, such an ordinance is not in effect in the Detroit area.

Northville, Plymouth, Westland and Wayne did consider the adoption of an ordinance banning nonreturnable bottles and cans but only Northville went through with the measure which becomes effective Jan. 1, 1973.

that the law would be ineffective and unenforceable.

They also maintained that merchants responded negatively to the idea. They felt they may lose business to neighboring cities who do sell nonreturnables.

The East Lansing City Council should abandon this ordinance. All that would be accomplished by passing the ordinance would be a shifting of the nonreturnable beverage business from East Lansing to other cities with the continued use of the nonreturnable containers by consumers.

Although the local ordinance should be abandoned, the principle behind it should not. A ban on nonreturnable bottles is feasible on the county level and should definitely be enforced on the state level.

The state legislature has a bill before it but apparently does not feel any urgency to adopt it. Wayne has expressed interest in seeing this state bill passed.

A state law banning nonreturnable beer and soft drink containers became effective in Oregon Oct. 1. Under the law consumers are entitled to a five cent refund on reusable bottles and cans.

State laws banning nonreturnables must be established. A local ban just won't work.

Fear wins big in election

"Four more years."

A shout of jubilation for GOP conventioners, a rallying cry of anti-Nixon demonstrators, and even more than that. Four more years now stands as an absolute certainty.

Nixon stands at the moment to grab some 60 per cent of the vote. Four years ago Nixon and Wallace shared a proportion of the same order.

Pessimists can easily point out the obvious trend - this country is moving, as Kevin Phillips said it would, to the right.

However there is a brighter lining to McGovern's cloud than one might imagine. McGovern could have made this election much closer if he had been able to avoid the Eagleton mess.

George McGovern simply never had a chance this time around. He is a candidate whose policies are not in tune with the opinions of the majority of voters.

Middle and upper - income families fear McGovern will tax their homestead out from under them to provide for expanded social welfare programs.

Workers even remotely associated with defense industries fear for their jobs in the event of a McGovern victory, even though McGovern has promised his planned cuts in the military will not put a single person out of work.

The fears are even more incredible on the liberal side of the fence. They provide for expanded social welfare programs.

Those who fear a Nixon court should think of how their conservative friends must have felt when Franklin Roosevelt packed the nation's highest bench in the late 1930s.

"A Nixon victory does not mean an end to Constitutional rights, environmental quality and governmental integrity. Nor does it portend a specter of 1984 come 12 years ahead of schedule."

Those who fear a Nixon court should think of how their conservative friends must have felt when Franklin Roosevelt packed the nation's highest bench in the late 1930s.

In this election as in no other before see a Nixon Supreme Court containing at least six or seven proxy "Tricky Dicks" should re-election occur, a court which could produce a Gestapo state.

Abortion denies right to life

By JOHN F. DORAN, JR. East Lansing Senior

This is in response to the letter of Donna M. Herlehy, printed in the Oct. 20 issue. In her letter, she insists that the real issue in the controversy over abortion reform is the "right to have an abortion."

First, the suggestion that the real issue is the "right" to have an abortion reflects the effort on the part of the proponents of abortion reform to transform the question into a kind of libertarian struggle.

No constitutional guarantee or legal privilege supercedes the most basic and fundamental right: that of the individual to be secure in his person. To put it simply, his right to life.

Up to this point, Herlehy has maintained a semblance of judiciousness in her arguments. Then suddenly, with an incredibly prejudicial statement, she exposes the real kernel of her attitude toward abortion.

Those who say this nation will survive four more years of the Nixon administration need to look at what they are saying closely.

Those who fear a Nixon court should think of how their conservative friends must have felt when Franklin Roosevelt packed the nation's highest bench in the late 1930s.

County board—all seats up for grabs

By JESSE SNYDER
State News Staff Writer

Members of the 1973-74 Ingham County Board of Commissioners are sworn in Jan. 2, and elections are going to be in order. At least nine of the 21 commissioners to be elected will be to be filled by incumbents. In the battle for party control, the East Lansing commissioner races are considered critical by county Democrats. Victory here for the Democrats could break the traditional Republican hold on county government.

Incumbents in two districts face no challenge and redistricting has pitted Democrat Steven Pompei, of the old 10th District, against Republican commissioner Herbert Brede, of the old 1st District against the new 1st District.

Control of the commission is important because the board can make decisions on the county's budget and on the last election two years ago, when Democrats increased their numbers from three to eight, a three short of a majority.

The new right of students to attend school, the board likely find itself with increased numbers of youthful and oriented members.

Just what is the county board of commissioners and what are its functions?

The Michigan Youth Politics Institute, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization aimed at promoting youth participation in the political process, describes the major elected duties of the county commissioners in one of its pamphlets as follows:

"The board of commissioners is the legislative body for the county. The county is apportioned into 21 districts, with about 12,500 people in each district. Each commissioner is elected for a two-year term.

"The board appropriated money for the various county departments and agencies. This is its most important function.

"Additionally, the board appoints persons to serve on the boards and commissions in county government. Though the boards and commissions are only advisory, most of them can conduct surveys and investigations and otherwise obtain information about the persons and agencies they regulate. It is this function that gives the boards and commissions some degree of power.

"The board is required to approve all county construction, such as roads, bridges and county buildings.

"They also set the salaries of all county officials, including themselves. All ordinances the county enforces must be municipal ordinances or state statutes.

"The board can pass resolutions declaring the board's opinion on a certain local, state or national issue, or requesting an official or a department to take an action.

"The board can investigate any department, agency, or practice of the county. They can also direct the county prosecutor to prosecute any case on behalf of the county."

Commissioners receive $1,800 per year plus $30 per board meeting and $40 per committee meeting up to a yearly total of $5,000. This yearly salary rate is up from $4,500 in 1972. The raise will become effective in January.

Commissioners' duties detailed

Thirteen set sites for county positions

Hanslovsky

John Hanslovsky, East Lansing State University of Michigan Institute of Finance and municipal administration; staff finance consultant; staff director, Michigan Municipal Finance Commission for five years; ran successfully for board of commissioners in 1968. Republican, 19th District.

Hanslovsky said he was offering his services as a municipal finance consultant to the county and had no proposals to make.

"A lot of things might need doing, but I wouldn't know what to do there," he said.

Hanslovsky said he did not have a statement that "we're out of money." He said the county was just matching its obligations with the budget.

Hanslovsky said he favors the manager government concept because it would be more efficient and more productive. The manager, he said, would be able to see where funds were going and advise the commissioners.

Hanslovsky said he thought it was important that older and younger residents work together in government.

White

Charles White, 54, Okemos; graduated Olivet College and Detroit College of Law; completed course at York Institute of Finance; part of Public Relations Enterprises Inc.; two terms on board of commissioners, four years as chairman of Law Enforcement and Courts Committee; three years on Lake Michigan Board. Republican, 6th District.

White is a strong proponent of education programs in the county and is in favor of expansion of the schools.

White favors state legislation to make home rule available to counties.

White believes the county health department is doing an adequate job and supports increasing public health services as well as existing programs as well as increasing the health services available.

Veenstra

John Veenstra, 33, Meridian Township; B.A., Kalamazoo College; majoring in physics, chemistry and mathematics; M.S., political science; board member, American Civil Liberties Union; endorsed by the Coalition for Human Survival. Democrat, 6th District.

Veenstra has strongly supported the idea of a county wide system of bike paths. He suggests the use of bike paths with markings and construction of bike paths where necessary, particularly along the Red River.

Veenstra said elected officials must oppose illegal and immoral war in Vietnam," he said. He suggested the county limit its purchases from war contractors.

Veenstra supports full annual audit of income and assets by county official.

Veenstra also said every citizen should be registered to vote.

Veenstra said he feels the county should have a major force in enforcing clean air and water pollution laws.

Pompi

Linda Pompei, 19, East Lansing; pre-law sophomore at MSU; presently a precinct delegate; has been active in the property tax relief petition campaign. Republican, 8th District.

"By being a student I am better able to relate my views to the majority of the commissioners," Pompei said. "By being a Republican, I can relate to the majority of the commissioners."

Pompi said she favors improvement of the environment, abolishment of the Metro squad and establishment of day care centers throughout the county.

"Since a large number of Ingham County voters are MSU students, I think their views and desires should be represented on the board of commissioners," she said.

She said she advocates additional welfare services through the county and efforts to get emergency federal funds to hire unemployed veterans and unskilled minorities.

Ryan

Patrick J. Ryan, Lansing; formerly with Linton Industries—"but got out of it because of the defense thing," took courses at Lansing Community College in political science and pre-law; presently working at Oldsmobile; active in grape boycott in 1970 and Model Cities program. Democrat, 19th District.

Ryan believes the county government could be more responsive to the needs of the people if commissioners used their influence on city and township officials.

"County government should act as a point where people can get redress for their grievances," he said. "If someone on campus has trouble with the campus police, for example, they should be able to go to their commissioner and he should put pressure, if necessary, on the sheriff's department."

Ryan called for a redirection in priorities "away from $12,000 fences around the jail to better locations, food stamp dispensers and so forth."

Emery

Keith Emery, 18, Lansing; Lansing Community College student majoring in physics and data processing. Human Rights party, 19th District.

Emery says current health programs should be expanded, including the establishment of free clinics. He says existing clinics should provide drug analysis, birth control information and care, and venereal treatment and education.

He favors increased emphasis on rehabilitation programs at the county jail.

Emery said he favors the creation of a county housing commission to prevent "racist housing policies" to continue.

He said he favors state legislation to allow county home rule.

Brede

Alexander Brede, 46, East Lansing; B.S., mechanical engineering, Cornell University; M.S., mechanical engineering, University of Michigan; manager of Sintered Products Division, Motor Wheel Corporation; two year member of the Ingham County Coordination Zoning Committee, presently chairman. Republican, 7th District.

Brede says he backs the idea of a land-use plan for the county that would incorporate recreational needs and wildlife preservation.

His priorities for the use of county funds are mental health, especially with regard to drug abuse; public works; social services and extended care facilities, "to ensure that our elderly citizens can live in comfort and dignity."

Brede feels the number one issue in the campaign is careful administration of funds. He said the people who need county services should get them, but the services the county provides should not be abused.

Boyd

Derwood L. Boyd, 50, East Lansing; Lansing Public Schools; B.A. 1943 in business administration MSU; owner and operator of Boyd Insurance Agency; commissioner since 1961; chairman pro-tem, 1969; chairman, 1970; vice chairman of personnel committee; County Board of Public Works, Republican, 9th District.

Boyd said the solution to the "constant harassment heaped on counties by the state" is to give the counties home rule. He said he would support a manager government system on the county level.

Boyd listed the improvement of the Extended Care Facility and the establishment of the Capital City Airport Authority as some of the accomplishments of the board of commissioners since he has been a member.

He is strongly in favor of the Tri-County Solid Waste Management Proposal.

Boyd believes the county jail rehabilitation programs should be expanded.

He opposes the creation of a county housing commission to ensure equal housing opportunity.

Boyd was undecided on whether to expand county health services and whether drug abuse treatment should be handled by the county health department.

Behringer

Daniel Behringer, 23, Lansing; senior in journalism at MSU; editor of a company publication for Lansing Board of Water and Light. MHA Committee on Racism; ASMSU Course Evaluation Committee; precinct delegate, Ingham County Republican Committee. Republican, 19th District.

Behringer strongly supports the development of a county land use plan that would reflect recreational and wildlife concerns.

He supports the concept of a county manager government system and believes county home rule should be made available to all state counties through state legislation.

Behringer feels the Tri-County Solid Waste Management Proposal is a good idea, but is undecided about a county housing commission and county jail rehabilitation programs.

Wickens

Mary Kay Wickens, 20, East Lansing; student in James Madison College, MSU; employed part-time at Meijer's; endorsed by Coalition for Human Survival. Democrat, 9th District.

Since the board appropriates funds for all county departments and programs, and makes all appointments to various commissions, control would give the Democrats the opportunity to alter the direction and focus of county government.

A loose coalition of candidates, liberal and concerned with major reforms in county government, has sprung up in five of the six districts with significant student population.

The Coalition for Human Survival, with platform positions on issues from bike paths to the Metro Squad, has endorsed John Veenstra in the 6th District, Pam Stern in the 7th District, James Heyser in the 8th District, Mary Kay Wickens in the 9th District and Richard Conlin in the 10th District. All are Democrats.

No candidate from the 19th District was endorsed by the coalition.

Some of the major planks in the coalition platform:

- Increased health services with emphasis on clinics for immunization, venereal disease treatment and other medical services.
- Community control of community services.
- Reduction in automobile use and the establishment of an easily accessible public transit system for the county.
- Creation of a county housing commission to establish low-income housing.
- Abolition of the Metro Squad.
- Expansion of Ingham County Jail's rehabilitation program, with day parole programs instituted and prisoner rights guaranteed.

Wickens said she was concerned with the unwillingness of the current commissioners to deal with problems people face in the county.

She called the Extended Care Facility for the elderly in Lansing "disgusting and nauseating." She said the county should immediately make efforts to improve conditions there.

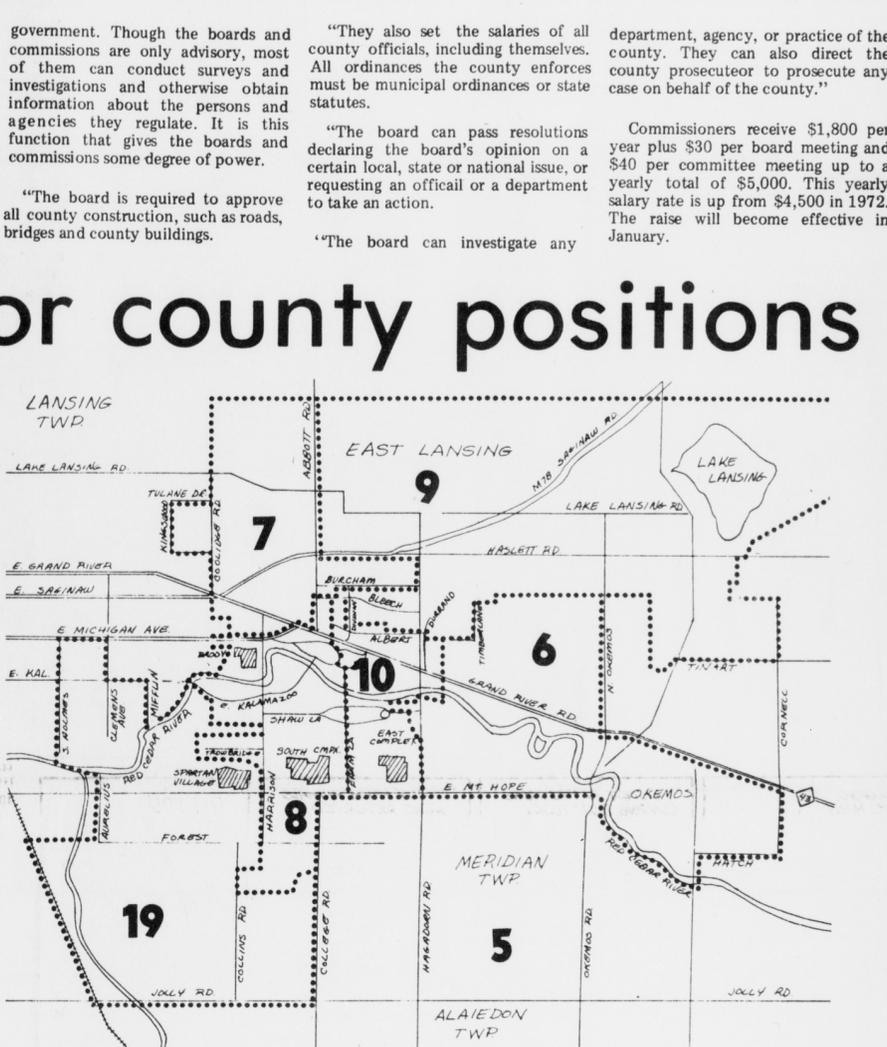

Wickens said she thought health services in the county were "atrocious" and suggested the county work with the MSU medical school to provide the county with inexpensive and reliable health care.

She claimed that presently only half the children in Lansing have the necessary inoculations.

Wickens said she favored cleaning up rivers and lakes in the county and suggested the county look for federal funds for these projects.

Wickens said she also wanted some county enforcement of landlords who refuse to lower their rent once their property taxes are lowered.

Wickens said she thought health services in the county were "atrocious" and suggested the county work with the MSU medical school to provide the county with inexpensive and reliable health care.

She claimed that presently only half the children in Lansing have the necessary inoculations.

Wickens said she favored cleaning up rivers and lakes in the county and suggested the county look for federal funds for these projects.

Wickens said she also wanted some county enforcement of landlords who refuse to lower their rent once their property taxes are lowered.

Wickens said she was concerned with the unwillingness of the current commissioners to deal with problems people face in the county.

She called the Extended Care Facility for the elderly in Lansing "disgusting and nauseating." She said the county should immediately make efforts to improve conditions there.

Police relax bicycle rules

Police officers told students Thursday night that only bikes in flagrant violation of the bicycle ordinance have been impounded.

Sgt. Harold Henderson and Officer Brett Bean of the Dept. of Public Safety told Brody Complex students in a "Conversations with Cops" meeting that police do not impound bikes near the bike racks that are not an obstruction.

"We get a lot of complaints from people other than pedestrians," Henderson said. "The grass cutters shouldn't have to move a couple of hundred bikes to mow the lawns."

Henderson told students that bikes are under the same obligations as cars.

"If there wasn't a parking space for your car, you'd go find another lot," he said. "It should be the same thing with bikes."

Henderson said he thought it important for pedestrians that bike rules be maintained.

"If you walk, it's all you can do to keep out of the way of cars and bikes," he said.

"A guy on a bike thinks he owns the whole world because he's fighting pollution," he added.

Henderson and Bean said they considered campus relations with police generally positive, and believed the traditional stereotype of police comes from the way they have to act in public in accordance with their jobs.

The conversation program was initiated several years ago. Officers are invited by the residence hall staffs or floors to answer questions about regulations and campus-police relations.

Karson's kitchen

Albert Karson, professor of American Thought and Language, has found that a woman's place is not necessarily in the kitchen. An ardent supporter of women's liberation, Karson teaches a special section on Women in America.

Women's lib finds friend in ATL pro

By MAUREEN McDONALD State News Staff Writer The women's liberation movement has a sympathetic male friend in the American Thought and Language Dept. — Professor Albert Karson.

Karson believes that he is better informed than most on the plight of the American woman. He has been studying the topic in depth for the past five years.

Karson and his wife, Martha, an asst. professor of psychology, are publishing a book on the subject, "The Idea of Women in America."

Karson believes his book will add to the many new textbooks on women in reappraising history to give women their proper treatment.

Karson teaches Women in America, a complete ATL tract.

"I try to teach the course as a base for a women's study program," Karson said. "The course includes some history, the socialization process and the women's lib point of view."

This term, Karson is using Sinclair's "The Emancipation of the American Woman," Edwin Lewis's "Developing Women's Potential," which presents a conservative view in contrast to Karen De Crow's "The Young Woman's Guide to Liberation."

In his course, Karson plans to use the gamut of women's books from "Psychology of Women" to the Marxist approach "The Dialectic of Sex" by Shulamith Firestone.

Karson believes the women's studies should be expanded to a college-wide program to better acquaint women with their role in the "oppressed."

He is developing a course entitled "Radicalization of Women," as an attempt to find reasons women give for a bandoning typical lifestyles. He said he will offer the course at University College on an experimental basis.

Karson said he has had reactions to sexual integrated groups taking course.

"I want women to outgrow men in my class to avoid typical masculine putdowns and to make women comfortable enough to be honest about the situation," Karson said.

"Since women are oppressed group we need help out the oppression before we help the oppressor," Karson said.

Karson said his teaching course on women puts up against much academic snobbery.

"This is not a discipline, many of my colleagues tell me," Karson said.

Karson admits that European male friends tell he is female dominated, but it does not affect him.

"I became interested in women's rights because my life experience," Karson said. "I'm married to a professional woman who has had to work things from the beginning. I've been lucky to know some marvelous women," he said.

Communist hits Nixon peace

By RAY ANDERSON State News Staff Writer The price of President Nixon's re-election will be 20,000 American lives and one million Vietnamese lives, Gus Hall, Communist presidential contender, told reporters Thursday at the Union.

The American Communist party general secretary accused the Nixon administration of ending the war to ensure re-election.

Hall, a 62-year-old Iron, Minn. native, said that peace could have been obtained years ago.

"All it would take is a telephone call to President Thieu telling him something has come up," Hall said. "You could then tell him to pack his bags and go to Switzerland with his pack of gangsters."

He said this call could have accomplished peace in 90 seconds instead of the 90 days the Democratic contender, Sen. George McGovern, has been advocating.

For that reason he called the American two-party system a body with two heads.

"Nixon is a reactionary and McGovern is a liberal, but they are both motivated by capitalist aims," he said.

Hall stopped on campus during a tour of universities located in the 13 states which permit the American Communist party on their ballots.

Though he said he was reluctant to go on a tour of universities, Hall said he has found students and young people in general more receptive to the Communist point of view than other citizens.

Admitting no chance for election, Hall said his campaign was stressing the need for "higher levels of thought."

The Communist platform would include a massive re-ordering of government spending, Hall said. This would include dismantling of all overseas military bases, and a significant reduction of domestic defense spending.

When asked whether this would damage the nation's defense capabilities, Hall responded: "The United States started the arms race under the Truman administration, and they should take the lead in reversing it."

Hall said he was appalled by the Dept. of Health Education and Welfare director, George Romney, who suggested the government revamp its housing policies.

He said the nation should provide housing for everyone who needs it rather than making it increasingly expensive and difficult to obtain.

Hall said he would use defense production facilities to produce homes, better mass transit systems and improve medical technology.

Remaining money could be used for construction of hospitals and schools, which would improve the quality of American life, he said.

The Communist presidential contender said, however, he is equally concerned with racism in America.

He said that a Communist administration would seek to prosecute "racist officials" who have denied blacks, Puerto Ricans, and other nonwhite Americans equal rights. To provide greater economic equality he would expand welfare to wipe out all U.S. poverty.

"We must either have jobs for everyone or make an income available to them," Hall said.

Abortion backers file suit against

DETROIT (UPI) — Supporters of a referendum which would legalize abortion in Michigan have filed suit against the head of a religious society directed a billboard campaign against the Nov. 7 ballot proposition.

The suit charged Lovasco of Grosse Pointe president of the Men of Sacred Heart, was attempting to influence Roman Catholic voters vote against the referendum "under pain of the disapproval of Jesus and the Catholic Church."

This practice violates provision of Michigan election law, the suit said.

Handicapped to meet, talk about facilities

The Office for Handicapped Students which opened two weeks ago, will be the location for a preliminary meeting at 7 p.m. today in the east lounge of Owen Graduate Hall.

The meeting will provide handicapped students opportunity to become acquainted with the programs and the services offered them.

The staff of the office headed by program co-ordinator Judy Taylor will help students with specific problems throughout the year.

All disabled students are urged to attend the meeting, to discuss the goals of the office and its part for improving accommodations for handicapped.

Americans spend less on food than anyone else

Statistics won't lower food prices, but these facts may help you see the whole picture...

Even in this time of rising prices, we spend less of our after-tax income on food in this country than people anywhere else in the world. The source for that statistic is the United States Department of Agriculture. Specifically, we spend 12.5% of our income for food at the super market, and another 3.3% for food eaten out. So the total food expense is 15.8%. Now compare that to some other countries.

|---------|------------|
| England | 22% |
| France | 23% |
| Japan | 29% |
| Italy | 33% |
| Russia | 45% to 50% |

FOOD PRICES HAVE GONE UP THE LEAST OF ANY MAJOR CONSUMER EXPENSE

This seems surprising, but the fact is: food prices haven't gone up as much as most other prices. The source for this fact is the United States Department of Labor.

Compare the statistics:

|--------------------------|---------------------|
| Food in the super market | up 29% in ten years |
| Clothing | up 33% in ten years |
| Recreation | up 34% in ten years |
| Housing | up 37% in ten years |
| Medical Care | up 58% in ten years |

We notice food prices more, of course, because we buy food more often, and usually pay cash. But... food prices have actually gone up least of any major consumer expense.

Statistics don't lower prices, but they can help you see the whole picture.

FOLLOWING 2-YEAR DELAY

Water study project begun

By TERI ALBRECHT State News Staff Writer After a two-year delay in funding, President Wharton Friday broke ground, initiating the construction of a $2.2 million waste water research project.

The research project was scheduled to have been launched two years ago, but the Michigan Legislature cut off the money needed to keep it going, Jack Breslin, executive vice president, said Friday.

"The problem was that the legislature lacked funds and we still have not regained the $500,000 we were promised," Breslin added.

The research project will include lakes for aquatic experiments and tertiary treatment, an irrigation system and a demonstration facility which will explain the technological developments of the project.

The City of East Lansing is handling the funding for the University project, which includes 55 per cent from the federal Environmental Protection Agency and 25 per cent from Michigan's Clean Water Bond Program. The remaining 20 per cent is coming from local funds and the Kresge, Ford and Rockefeller foundations.

East Lansing is also working with the University to build an addition to the water treatment plant, which also serves Meridian Township. The plant is scheduled to take care of the area's sewage through 1990, City Manager John M. Patriarche said.

The water research project should be completed by September of next year, while the water treatment plant will probably be finished by January 1974, he added.

Costs of the research project and the treatment plant are estimated to reach $14 million, Patriarche said.

Entitled, Water Quality Management, the research project will cover 500 acres of south campus.

A lake chain, included in the research project, will contain certain plants which will strip waste nutrients from the water, thus saving the water to reuse for irrigation, swimming, fishing and research.

Howard Tanner, director of the Dept. of Natural Resources, is guiding the project development with research assistance from members of the MSU Institute of Water Research. Wharton called the project an opportunity for MSU to lead the way for other institutions in establishing ecological quality systems to benefit the environment.

Among those present at the ground-breaking ceremony were members of the board of trustees, Rep. Charles Chamberlain, R-East Lansing, representatives from the Kresge and Rockefeller foundations and from Gov. Milliken's office, Mayor Wilbur Brookover, City Councilman George Colburn and Milton Muelder, vice president of research development.

Wesley Baker, secretary of the Kresge Foundation said, "We recognize the extreme need in smaller cities of Michigan for waste water protection and consider this money well spent to help those who can't afford projects such as this."

Earth meet spurs feedback

By GEORGE WHITE State News Staff Writer

The international environmental conference in Stockholm last summer may help ecologists more accurately access the world's environmental condition, a federal environmental official said Friday.

Gilbert Kulick, a member of the State Dept.'s Office of Environmental Affairs, spoke at a luncheon of MSU's Society for International Development.

Kulick said the conference took a significant step when it decided to establish and coordinate 10 "earth-watch" stations around the globe. These stations will technically measure pollution rates in the atmosphere, land and ocean. "The problem is, there isn't enough hard data," Kulick said. "With the stations we should find out exactly what the nature of the problem is."

The adoption of the earth-watch stations was part of a 10-point plan agreed upon by the 113 nations represented at the conference.

All the decisions will take the form of proposals to the United Nation's General Assembly. The conference decided:

• To establish an Environmental Management Agency with a global resources bank.

• To request $100 million to set up a UN fund for environmental program.

• To adopt a 109-point action plan, a plan which will require international cooperation.

• To meet again to resolve a plan to prohibit ocean dumping and pollution by 1976.

Despite many resolutions the conference ran into conflict. The Soviet Union boycotted the conference because the Eastern European nations were refused a full vote.

"Now that its over, I think the Soviet Union is regretting it's action," Kulick said. "They missed one of the big social events in recent years," he joked, adding that the U.S.S.R. plans to become more involved.

The conference faced its biggest obstacle in getting the developing countries to participate in the conference.

"They believed pollution to be a rich man's problem," Kulick explained. "Pollution is identified with industrialization, and industrialization is their goal."

Kulick credited Maurice Strong, a Canadian delegate, for stimulating environmental concern in the "developing bloc." He also cited a special report that was adopted that stressed the need for environmental development and modernization while suggesting guidelines against environmental abuse.

When the conference adjourned it had ratified 26 major proposals. Kulick and many U.S. delegates are now concerned with the proposal's adoption by the UN General Assembly and the world community as international law.

When asked about the enforcement of such laws, an obstacle that hinders other UN agreements, Kulick said there could be no such regulating measures. "It will depend on the sincerity of members of international community," he said.

Judge sees completion of May protest cases

Court cases against individuals arrested last May during the Grand River Avenue demonstrations should be completed by Jan. 1, 1973, Judge Maurice E. Schoenberger, of the 54th District Court, predicted last week.

Thirty MSU students were arrested May 9-11 out of 74 individuals involved in 81 cases. Most of the students were charged with misdemeanors.

Court proceedings have been completed on more than half the cases. The latest court report, issued Aug. 15, shows 27 guilty verdicts, 16 cases dismissed, 3 cases bound over to Ingham County Circuit Court, which has a broader jurisdiction, and 34 open cases.

Schoenberger said he was satisfied with the progress of the cases. He said it had been feared it would take two years or more to complete them all.

He said that many of the minor offenses are being dismissed or reduced to misdemeanors in exchange for guilty pleas. "We had so many cases, there had to be some flexibility on the part of the prosecuting attorney's office," he said.

Schoenberger emphasized, however, that no one who prefers a trial is forced to plead guilty. The more serious misdemeanors, such as resisting arrest and assault and battery, are getting stiffer fines, he said.

He said the fines are averaging between $25 and $60.

Schoenberger said many of the defendants are defending themselves by their own choice, a procedure which, he said, has worked well. Those who defend themselves are given instructions from the bench on courtroom procedure.

IDENTIFY CITY PROBLEMS

Research bureau proposed

By DEBBIE CALKINS
State News Staff Writer
The Office of Volunteer Programs will be looking for students to staff a research bureau for the city if a project proposed by its director is approved by the Lansing City Council.

John H. Cauley Jr., director of the Office of Volunteer Programs and City Manager John M. Patriarche, who has discussed the bureau proposal with Cauley, Brenner and city Councilman George Colburn, indicated the city was going to try to implement the project.

Cauley explained that the purpose of the bureau would be to recruit volunteers to research letter to the city council with a proposal for a research bureau, which would be staffed by student volunteers and funded by the city.

If the bureau is implemented by the city, students will be able to do research for credit towards graduation from MSU. He said the greatest problem would be trying to identify problem areas in the city that would benefit most from student research.

In the past, different departments in the city have worked with MSU classes and students with varying degrees of success, Patriarche said. Cauley is hoping the council will approve the bureau so the research work can begin winter term. Credit for working with the bureau would be arranged on an independent study basis.

JOHN SCHMITZ

Viet pact called sellout

DETROIT (UPI) — American Independent Party presidential candidate John Schmitz Friday said the United States has "stabbed Chiang Kai-shek in the back."

Schmitz, speaking at an anti news conference, said the tentative peace agreement between the United States and North Vietnam "is obviously tailored more for the election than for peace."

Instead, he said, "another sellout of our allies," was staged. "We've stabbed President Thieu in the back just as we stabbed Chiang Kai-shek in the back," Schmitz said.

A constant theme of Schmitz' third-party campaign has been "never go to war unless you plan to win."

Areas needing transit build roads elsewhere

By ROBERT BERG

News Commentary

LANSING — One of the arguments repeatedly brought up over whether gas revenues should be used to help finance mass transit in Detroit is that the city should not take on its own problems.

In all, 16 Michigan counties received back less than they paid into the fund. The remaining 67 counties split up a total of more than $18 million in excess of what they paid in.

Other urban areas are getting the short end of it," he said. "We're going to find that they're collecting more than they're getting back from the state."

He suggested Wallace's failure to act thus far is due in part to his physical condition. Wallace was wounded by an assassin's bullet during a primary campaign appearance in Maryland last May and has been making a slow, but steady recovery.

Indeed, many outstate Michigan residents believe they are already pumping millions of dollars of their money into Detroit and other cities and not getting anything back. They say the mass transit proposal is just another rakeoff of their money.

Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, says he is having figures drawn up to determine what the picture is on the state sales and income taxes. "I think we're going to find that Detroit and the other urban areas are getting the short end of it," he said. "We're going to find that they're collecting more than they're getting back from the state."

He said those voters who plan to vote for either the Republican or Democratic presidential tickets that they have a choice between "a man who broke every campaign promise he ever made against a man who, if elected, you'd hope he'd break every campaign promise."

Pressure on the net

The Whites kept the pressure on the Greens net throughout the second period in the icers intrasquad game Saturday and it paid off with five goals which gave the White team an, 8-4, victory. Here Denny Olmstead (14) and Rick Cregg (11) team up against goalie Tom Bowen and Green defenseman Uve Drews.

Whites top Greens, 8-4 in icers intrasquad tilt

By STEVE STEIN
State News Sports Writer
Five-second period goals by asst. Coach Alex Terpay's White squad were too much for coach Amo Bessone's Green team to overcome as the Whites beat the Greens 8-4 in the icers intrasquad game Saturday.

An estimated crowd of 650 saw a wide-open contest filled with breakaways, a lot of scoring and some good goal tending.

"Our goaltenders didn't play that badly," Terpay commented after the game. "However, our defense was lacking. We made several nice offensive plays, though."

"Overall, it was a real good game," Bessone said.

Freshman Steve Colp got the White team off to a flying start by scoring twice in the first period. The center took a pass from frosh winger Daryl Rice at 9:10, cruised up to Green goalie Ron Clark and flipped a shot into the right corner of the net. Defenseman Todd Ceoley also gained an assist.

Colp put in his second goal seven minutes later on assists by Mark Calder and Norm Barnes.

The line of Frank DeMarco, John Garvey and Glen Menoni impressed Terpay by accounting for three of the five-second period tallies which wrapped up the game for the White squad.

After Denny Olmstead scored an unassisted goal at 4:28 of the period, DeMarco upped the White lead to 4-0 on an assist by defenseman Paul Pavelich.

Chris Murfey's shot from the blue line, while Gil Gagnon had goalie Jim LaPointe effectively screened, accounted for the lone Green tally in the period. Gagnon and Michel Chaurest assisted on the sophomore defenseman's goal.

DeMarco quickly retaliated with his second goal and the first of three unanswered goals by scoring on assists from Garvey and Bob Boyd.

Darl Boton continued the assault by putting in an unassisted goal at 16:53 while Garvey finished the job by scoring from DeMarco and Ceoley at 18:25.

The Green squad made the score respectable by scoring three times in the final stanza against one White goal.

Bill Sipola scored twice, the first on an unassisted short-handed goal at 11:30 while Murfey was in the penalty box for cross checking.

Rice completed the scoring for the Whites by putting a shot past Green goalie Tom Bowen after taking a breakaway pass from Ceoley at 14:14.

Sipola and Gagnon then tallied 36 seconds apart to end the scoring parade. Left-winger Sipola scored on assists by Murfey Gagnon and 18:15 and the little sparkling goal added his goal on assist Sipola and Shaurest.

White goalie Weatherbee was the goaltender who did allow a goal in the game he stopped the Green during the entire first and throughout the half of the final stanza.

The coaches must decide upon the defense pairings and goalies who will start season for the Spartans beginning this weekend at Ohio State.

Bessone said that decisions will probably be made Wednesday.

BIG TEN NEXT

Harriers clip Hawks

By PAT FARNAN
State News Sports Writer
The MSU harriers climbed one step nearer the top of the golden staircase called the Big Ten championship Saturday, clipping the Iowa Hawkeyes on their home course, 26-29.

It was the final meet of the season for both squads and left the improved Iowa contingent with a 7-3 mark while the Spartans concluded their regular season with a 5-1 record.

Spartan mentor Jim Gibbard was satisfied with his harriers improvement over the regular season's campaign.

"I'm very pleased with our accomplishments to date," Gibbard said. "We came out of it with a 5-1 mark and I'm very happy about that. It was a good pre-championship season for us but everything rests now on the Big Ten championship."

Saturday's victory was far from a cakewalk as a last-chance spurt elevated the Spartans to the winners circle.

"With 500 yards to go we were beat," Gibbard said. "But Ron Cool passed a man and Fred Teddy did the same. It was very close."

As for Iowa, the Spartan coach had nothing but praise.

"They're a very fine team and they certainly did a nice job Saturday," Gibbard said. "They will definitely be a factor in the conference meet."

Senior co-captain Randy Kilpatrick, the Spartan's "Mr. Reliable", nailed down first place with a record-shattering performance. The 5 foot-9 inch senior toured the formidable Iowa course in 30:38.5, the first time that anyone has broken 31 minutes on that layout this year. Kilpatrick's time also bested three-time Big Ten champion Gary Bjorklund's course record of 30:49, set last year.

"I'm very happy, not only with Kilpatrick's performance, but the entire team," Gibbard said. "I was a little surprised that this course was as tough as it was. But the kids just took hold of it and ran a very fine race."

Kilpatrick, however, who has been the Spartan's number one man all year, was not to be overlooked.

"Randy has a great shot at winning the Big Ten individual championship this week," Gibbard declared. "He knows that there is no one in the conference who he can't beat. Randy is peaking and he has the confidence to do it."

Fred Teddy was the next Spartan to finish, capturing third place. Then came the Cool brothers, Rob in fifth and Ron taking seventh. Ken Popejoy, competing in his first meet in two weeks, was 10th and Ed Griffin rounded out the Spartan scoring in 14th place.

"We found out what this course was all about. That's what counted this weekend," Gibbard said. "Saturday we can attack the course and hopefully win this thing."

Booters lose in rain, 2-0, to Ohio University

By CHARLES JOHNSON
State News Sports Writer
You've got to give the MSU booters credit, they are courteous. But the Spartans generosity did nothing to enhance their chances for a post-season playoff berth as they dropped a close 2-0 decision to Ohio University in a home contest Saturday.

The Spartans couldn't find a single trace of the offense which was so much in force in last Wednesday's 5-1 rout of Western Michigan.

During the game, for the most part played in the rain, the booters miss on scoring opportunities and, worst of all, mistakenly put in one of the Bobcats two goals.

At 31:20 of the evenly played match, Ohio was awarded a free kick just outside of the Spartan penalty area. In the process of attempting to head the ball out of MSU territory, Spartan defenseman Nigel Goodison deflected the ball into the MSU net for Ohio's first score.

The score remained 1-0 until the second half when the Bobcats' Eric Winders put a boot past Spartan goaltender Dave Goldman and increased the Ohio lead to 2-0 where it stayed.

Just after the Bobcats scored, the Spartans suffered another setback to their already crippled offense when the MSU leading scorer Jay Nisbet fell to the ground on his neck while trying to gain possession of the ball.

X-rays proved negative of any fracture, but Nisbet was obviously in pain and there is a question about his performing again this season.

"The fellows were really ready to play," coach Payton Fuller said of his team.

"But it seems that they can never play up to their standards on a soggy field. Gerry (Murray) who was elected as captain for this game (the booters choose a captain based on his performance in the preceding game) had an excellent opportunity to score but he couldn't put the ball in the net," Fuller said. "Had he scored, that very well could have turned the game around."

Despite the loss, Fuller still had high words of praise for several of his players.

"Mike Kenney gave very good performance us," Fuller remarked. "Goldman also played a commendable game in nets though both his muscles were aching bangups with Ohio players."

On defense the Spartans had solid performance from Jim Nugent, Bigford and Terry B...

"I am confident that we can make a respectable season out of this one," Fuller commented.

Stop Killing Spiders !!!
PAPOOON for President "Not Insane"

Griffin:

The record with no fancy dressing.

ON PEACE:
Bob Griffin wants to end the war in Vietnam. He supports President Nixon's withdrawal of American troops and his efforts to negotiate return of our prisoners of war. He travelled to Paris himself to seek release of the POW's.
His bill would bring orphaned Vietnamese children to America. Griffin's legislation is designed to cut out red tape so that victims of the war can be adopted by families here.

ON THE ENVIRONMENT:
He's got a new bill to limit phosphate content in detergents. Phosphates have been proven ecologically harmful. Unfortunately, the only known substitutes are dangerous to humans. Griffin's bill limits phosphate content to 8.7 percent and authorizes an outright ban as soon as a safe substitute is found.
He opposed the President on the SST. Senator Griffin broke with his party to lead the fight against the Supersonic Transport. Griffin's argument: too little is known about sonic boom and other harmful environmental effects of the SST.

ON JOBS AND COLLEGE AID:
Griffin is the Senator behind the National Student Loan Program. Since 1958, this Griffin-sponsored program has provided low-interest loans (repayable after graduation) to 2.7 million students.
He launched a Jobs for Veterans Program. So far, this project (which Senator Griffin and Senator Hart co-sponsored) has developed more than 6,000 new jobs for returning Vietnam veterans in Michigan.

Arabs win release of 3

executive jet took off from Munich with the three commandos on board. It landed a short while later at Zagreb and only then did the hijacked plane, running low on fuel, set down once again.

After negotiations between the hijackers and the Germans, the three commandos then walked from the executive jet to the three-engine Boeing 727, a short-range aircraft.

Once more the jetliner was refueled and it took off again with the passengers, crew and six Arab guerrillas on board. The plane had been hijacked after it took off from Beirut, Lebanon, en route to a stop at Ankara, Turkey.

The Israeli government appealed to West Germany not to free the three Arabs, saying this would "aggravate the Munich disaster" in which 11 Israeli athletes, a Munich policeman and five Arab commandos were killed.

The Black September organization claimed responsibility for the Olympic massacre.

When word reached Israel that the Germans had let the three commandos go, a senior Israeli Cabinet minister described Bonn's decision as a "dreadful, unforgivable act" and "an extravagant capitulation."

Israeli Galili told newsmen Israel will not reconcile itself to the freeing of terrorists.

"This is a terrible, unforgivable act both from the international point of view, because of the precedent it sets, and also from the Jewish Israeli standpoint, especially since it comes so soon after the Munich murders," he said.

"It will give the terrorists much encouragement and the world will never overcome terrorism in the light of such extravagant capitulation."

The three Arab captives had been under the jurisdiction of the West German state of Bavaria, of which Munich is a part.

A Bavarian Interior Ministry spokesman said, however, the decision to free the commandos came from Bonn after an emergency meeting of Chancellor Willy Brandt's Cabinet.

The spokesman said the terms under which the commandos were freed included one that they be turned over to the hijackers only after the passengers and crew of the Lufthansa plane had returned safely to West German air space.

When word reached Munich that this had not been done, the Bavarian interior minister, Bruno Merk, remarked angrily that there had been no consultations with the West Germans in Bonn or Munich.

He said this had weakened the West German bargaining position. The Yugoslav government replied that "it could not accept the demands that would make difficult efforts designed to solve the issue without endangering lives of crew and passengers."

It said it was up to the Yugoslav government to create conditions for the negotiations and up to the negotiators to decide what to accept, taking care that the negotiations were being conducted on the territory of Yugoslavia.

Later the minister of the interior for the state of Croatia, said Yugoslav negotiators tried to stall the hijackers by refusing to refuel the plane in hopes they would agree to free the passengers and crew.

But, said Valentin Huzjak, the hijackers told him they would blow up the aircraft if refueling was not permitted.

Huzjak added that he contacted the West German consul general who was at the control tower and the latter gave him permission in writing for the refueling of the plane. Early in the hijacking, the Palestinian guerrillas told the Munich control tower: "Our lives mean nothing to us. The plane is mined."

The hijacked plane left Zagreb after nearly two hours of negotiations. Yugoslav authorities first refused to give permission for refueling of the hijacked plane requesting that the passengers should be released.

Later, however, the plane was refueled and allowed to go without first releasing passengers and crew members.

In Munich, the Bavarian Interior Ministry spokesman, Wolfgang Kupfahl, was asked by newsmen if Bonn's decision to free the commandos was influenced by the unsuccessful attempt by German police to liberate the Israeli hostages taken during the terrorist raid on the Olympic village on Sept. 5.

Kupfahl said West Germany took seriously the threats the terrorists made against the lives of the passengers and crew.

The three men released by the Germans are the Arab survivors of the Munich Olympic massacre. They are Mohamed Mahmud el Safadi, 21; Abdulah Mohamed Sumer, 22, and Ibrahim Masoud Badran, 20.

A similar situation arose two years ago when guerrillas hijacked three airliners to a desert strip in Jordan and bargained for the safety of 300 hostages. They obtained the release of three Arab commandos in Munich, a Palestinian woman guerrilla Leila Khaled from a British prison and three other Arab commandos held by Swiss authorities.

Last February, the West German government paid a $5 million ransom to Palestinian guerrillas to free a hijacked Lufthansa 747 jumbo jet and its crew of 14.

The airliner was hijacked over India and flown to Aden where the Arab commandos released 172 passengers, including Joseph P. Kennedy III, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The crew of 14 was held until a cloak-and-dagger payoff was made in Lebanon.

Motorists sent forms for '73 license plates

LANSING (UPI) — Secretary of State Richard Austin said Friday his office has started mailing more than 4.5 million license plate applications to Michigan automobile and motorcycle owners.

Motorists who wish to obtain their plates by mail have until Feb. 10 to complete the forms and mail them in to the state with payment in either check or cash.

The white on dark blue plates will be mailed out beginning Nov. 15. Last year about 300,000 Michigan vehicles were licensed by mail and Austin said he expects anywhere from 500,000 to one million this year.

The 1972 license plates expire Feb. 28 for commercial vehicles and trailers and March 31 for passenger cars and motorcycles.

Technology shifts outlook on jobs

They tend to rule out the many and varied opportunities available in the field of business, thinking they are unqualified," she said.

And many graduates forget that business is the most "people related" field there is, Morris said.

She told the story of a female graduate in English who could only find a part-time teaching job at a community college and then discovered that she was qualified for better positions with large business firms such as IBM or General Motors.

"The business aptitudes and managerial talents are often there — it's a matter of discovering and using them," Morris said.

The employment picture for women is especially bright in industry and technical fields, she said.

"The Office of Social Security, Internal Revenue Service, Michigan Bell, IBM, Chrysler Corporation and General Motors are but a few 'big' employers that are currently crying out for women," Morris said.

Some corporations began specifically hiring women in administrative positions last spring after Revised Order 4, a federal affirmative action program insuring equal employment opportunity for women and minorities, went into effect Morris explained.

"There was a great attitudinal problem on the part of some employers that women were not as capable as men in the same job categories — but I think that phase is all over now," Morris said.

Nixon holds huge lead

McGovern. When asked whether either candidate had conducted a "dirty and unscrupulous campaign," slightly more of the voters interviewed answered "McGovern" than "Nixon."

Nixon continued to lead among all categories of voters except Democrats, blacks, Jews and college youth. And he was running comparatively well even among these groups. For example, he was attracting 35 per cent of the Democratic vote, far more than the 23 per cent President Eisenhower did in his 1952 landslide win.

Nevertheless, McGovern significantly narrowed the Nixon lead among some critical blocs, notably union members and white collar workers. In two weeks, the McGovern deficit among union members has dropped from 18 points to 8.

This gain was paralleled by further improvement in McGovern's standing on some domestic issues. By a 4 to 3 margin, the voters said they believed he would do a better job of closing tax loopholes, for instance. Six weeks ago, Nixon had a slight lead on this issue.

The question raised by the gradual by steady McGovern gains is whether they can match or exceed the dramatic rally made by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in the last 14 days of his 1968 race against Nixon and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

A comparison of Gallup Poll findings so far this year with those of 1968 discloses two parallels. One is the similarity of Nixon's percentages this year with the combined Nixon-Wallace percentages in 1968. (Of those decided voters who would prefer Gov. Wallace this year, 75 per cent are in the Nixon column.)

The other is the similarity of the McGovern and Humphrey standings, with both showing increasing progress at the end of the campaign. Humphrey gained 11 points in the last two weeks, pulling within a point of Nixon both in the final Gallup Poll and in the election result.

Whether the McGovern line can curve up that fast cannot be foretold, particularly in light of the recent Vietnam developments. These could benefit Nixon as being a peacemaker — or, as in the view of McGovern campaigners, they could boomerang, possibly conveying an impression that the timing was politically motivated.

McGovern's position as a leading critic of the war was reflected in his strong standing in Massachusetts, site of extensive antiwar sentiment. The survey showed him leading there, but by less than the statistical margin of error.

Beyond such specific findings, there were among the 240 pages of dense computer tabulations a number of indications of voter indifference, impatience or of choosing the less undesirable candidate.

final settlement, along with other countries such as France and the Soviet Union.

One qualified source put the British position thus: "If there's going to be some gigantic proposal for a heavily supervised and guaranteed operation involving tens of thousands of troops and many millions of dollars, we would find it difficult to take part even in a small way. We are not anxious to send troops back to that part of the world."

Chou has said more than once China does not think much of the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the Indochinese civil war and he has implied that Peking is unlikely to be lured into backing a settlement it has not helped formulate.

VC boost attacks to force Nixon cease-fire of the Saigon armed forces to fully realize that the accord to end the war and restore peace is available and awaiting to be signed. But because the Americans and Thieu are incurable you must go on serving as cannon fodder. Your families must continue to suffer and the country will experience more devastation.

"Soldiers, you have only one chance left to save the country and your homes, and that is to struggle alongside the people and demand that the Americans end the war and restore peace..."

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam has balked at some of the peace terms.

To the people, the Viet Cong radio said: "The Central Committee appeals to people in enemy-controlled areas, to the elders, to the intellectual, the clergy, workers, businessmen, to become more closely united and to show determination in the struggle by demanding that the Americans sign the approved accord on Oct. 31 as they have pledged.

"This quivering attitude of the United States is creating an extremely serious situation which endangers the chance of getting the accord signed and sets back the capability of restoring peace in Vietnam," the Viet Cong said.

It accused the United States of a lack of seriousness and good will and said the Nixon administration was prolonging the talks "to deceive public opinion."

"In vain," the Viet Cong said, "the aggressors are waiting for an indication that the offensive has run its course. U.S.

bombs and bullets cannot save the puppet regular South Vietnamese army troops. . . U.S. bombs and bullets cannot check the advance of the offensive which is gaining new momentum."

In Washington, indications mounted that there would be no formal signing by Tuesday, the deadline publicly set by Hanoi.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger has virtually ruled it out, saying a half dozen concrete issues still need to be negotiated. These include methods by which an international supervisory body can be put in place simultaneously with a cease-fire to avoid a land grab.

President Thieu, balking at the draft proposal, has demanded that any cease-fire agreement include the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam and the re-establishment of the demilitarized zone (DMZ).

The draft agreement worked out by Kissinger and North Vietnamese diplomats calls for a withdrawal of all American and allied troops from South Vietnam within 60 days but says nothing about North Vietnamese troops leaving.

Without re-establishing the DMZ at the 17th parallel, the North Vietnamese would stand to gain territory since they pushed across the buffer zone last March and seized most of Quang Tri Province.

Kissinger was reported still expecting another negotiating session with the North Vietnamese in Paris.
