Sleepless students fear final exam inevitability

By JOHN LINDSTROM State News Staff Writer

There are few inevitabilities in life: death, taxes, and final examinations.

"You can't escape them," one student mourned. "You can screw around for 10 weeks like they don't exist, but finals are just like the marching red ants of Brazil - they're always gonna come and they're always gonna get you."

Faced with the possibility of academic disaster at finals time, students take on student roles and begin in earnest the studying that they hope will result in passing grades.

The State News recently examined questions raised recently as to whether finals have any effects, physiological and psychological, on students.

The key word in discussing the effect of finals week is anxiety. Other effects on students include a change in personal habits, lack of sleep and increased drug usage.

"I feel kind of rushed during finals," Thomas Roth, Royal Oak junior, said. "You're collapsing ten weeks into two hours, and you feel pushed for time."

Anxiety, says Dr. Arnold Werner, a director of psychiatric services for the University Health Center, is a natural reaction to a stressful situation.

"In this instance the stress would be the finals and the reaction is anxiety, tension, nervousness, sleeplessness,' Werner said.

Anxiety can often be heightened to the point of panic, where a student can forget everything or break down emotionally during the exam.

"Once when I was teaching at Illinois a girl, a straight - A student, who had spent the entire night before studying, came into the exam and wrote nothing but gibberish, she couldn't even spell her name correctly," Frank Senger, chairman of the School of Journalism, said. "I tell this to my students in hopes they won't panic."

And other professors can spin final exam horror stories.

"A lot of students do panic at my exams, though I think unnecessarily," Allan Mandelstamm, professor of economics, said. "Once when I was teaching at Northwestern a student offered me his entire bank account if he could be excused from the final exam. And if it had been $10 more I would have taken it."

as if they are unprepared for the exam. Usually, however, this panic is only temporary.

"I've never heard of a case where if one relaxed his memory didn't return," Werner said.

But anxiety can actually help a student get through exams.

"If one is anxious about the exam, he'll be concerned about how he performs and study harder," Robert Francoeur, a specialist with the Most people can panic in a University's counseling center said. "In particular situation, Werner said, such that case the anxiety becomes a functioning anxiety."

> But a number of students suffer from an acute form of test anxiety, where the student panics before any exam, not just a final. Richard Russell, asst. professor in the counseling center, estimates that between 2 and 5 per cent of all students suffer from this overt form of anxiety.

"These students are caught in a vicious circle - they're in a tense

Rogers to keep post; top-level staff changed

WASHINGTON (AP) - William P. Rogers will continue as secretary of state in President Nixon's second administration, but his top - level staff will be filled with new faces, the White House announced Thursday.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the President's press secretary, told reporters Nixon will retain the 59 - year - old Rogers in the interest of continuity in foreign

Pressed on whether the decision to keep Rogers means that the same relationship between the White House and the State Dept. in making foreign policy would continue, Ziegler said: 'Secretary Rogers is a good friend of the President. Their relationship is pretty well in place.'

Henry A. Kissinger has been a dominant policy maker in foreign affairs as adviser to Nixon at the White House, particularly in the Vietnam peace talks. Rogers has played a strong role in trying to reach a settlement in the Middle East and in a mutual reduction of military forces in Europe.

Ziegler announced that Kenneth Rush, now deputy secretary of defense, will be nominated to succeed John N. Irwin II, to be deputy secretary of state, the second man at the State Dept.

William J. Casey, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, will be nominated as undersecretary for economic affairs.

Ziegler said William J. Porter, a negotiator at the Paris peace talks, will be undersecretary of state for political affairs, succeeding the veteran U. Alexis Johnson, who was offered a "major new assignment" in the international field.

Sources said Johnson, who is due to retire in about a year, may have been offered the job as ambassador to South Vietnam.

Irwin, meantime, has been offered a "high - level ambassadorial post," Ziegler said. He said Irwin is considering the job. Ziegler said Nixon has known Rush since his student days at law school. Rush is a former U.S. ambassador to West Germany, before he was named deputy defense secretary on Feb. 7, 1972. He is 63. Ziegler also announced that Curtis J. Tarr would remain as undersecretary of state for coordinating security assistance affairs. Ziegler indicated Nixon would make further announcements on his cabinet in the second term while he is at the Police list methods to stop thefts

The East Lansing Police Dept. has urged all students who live in apartments and are leaving for Christmas break to take precautions to discourage prowlers.

Sgt. Dean Tucker explained that apartments are particular targets for prowlers because of the concentration of students.

He said that thieves are most interested in storeos, televisions, amplifiers, speakers, cameras and any kind of sporting goods, adding that clothes are usually not stolen.

Tucker offered these suggestions to help prevent thefts:

•Use Operation Identification to mark your license number on all valuables. See the East Lansing Police desk officer to borrow the marker.

Take all valuables home or leave all valuables with friends who are staying in East Lansing for the break.

Have a friend watch your apartment.

•Let your apartment manager know you will be gone, and leave your home address with him. •If you are staying in East Lansing over the Christmas break, report any unusual activity near your apartment

Panel asks changes in military law

WASHINGTON (AP) - A biracial Pentagon task force Thursday supported charges by blacks of discrimination in the administration of military justice and recommended changes to standardize punishment for minor offenses and the recruitment of more black lawyers.

The panel also recommended that system of selecting military jurors by commanding officers be revised to eliminate possible command influence in trials.

These recommendations, among more than 100 proposed by the military - civilian panel for dampening racial strife, were contained in a four volume study of how the armed forces administer the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The antiwar movement has been going on for years now - the marches, leaflets, debates, busts. But many of the faces have changed.

What has become of all the old campus antiwar activists? "A lot of them are into other things. A lot have moved away. Some of them are in jail. Some of them are dead."

The speaker, himself once a familiar antiwar face, has dropped out of active campus politics.

"I just got tired of seeing the movement making the same mistakes in political analysis over and over," he explains. Though the former Students for a Democratic Society, (SDS), member says the antiwar movement altered the course of his life, he's now "tired of student movements in general."

Working at part-time jobs and quietly reading Marxist writings, he says he is still sympathetic to ongoing campus antiwar groups but he does not know the people involved.

In general, the former activists are hard to find, and when found, are often reluctant to talk. They have been hassled by the police before, they say, and don't want their names in print. Some say they are reluctant to

Irish guerillas divided

The Irish Republican Army, under grinding British military pressure and in disarray over leadership losses, is in the midst of a critical struggle over future tactics in Northern Ireland.

Members of the organization are divided along two lines: some are pressing for an end to urban bombing and the start of a political effort to cement the group's shaky support in Roman Catholic districts. Other members are seeking to step up the bombing and sniping campaign in the drive for Irish unification.

The General Assembly expressed a desire Wednesday that Bangladesh be admitted to the United Nations soon and called for the return of prisoners from the 1971 India - Pakistan war.

Electrical power surged into a giant Saturn 5 rocket Thursday and the long countdown began for Apollo 17, America's last scheduled flight to the moon.

The launch team started the clock at 8:30 a.m., aiming for a launching at 9:53 p.m. Wednesday. More than half a million visitors are expected in the area to bid farewell to Apollo and to watch the first afterdark liftoff of a manned space flight by the United States.

Press council proposed

The establishment of a national press council "to receive, to examine and to report on complaints," about the fairness and accuracy of the news media was proposed Thursday by a Twentieth Century Fund task force.

The 14 - member task force, composed of public officials, jurists, educators and journalists, also proposed that the council "initiate studies and report on issues involving the freedom of the press."

Indonesia will aid truce

Foreign Minister Adam Malik said Wednesday Indonesia is willing to be a member of an International Control Commission for a Vietnam cease - fire and would pay 10 per cent of the cost of supporting the 2,000 Indonesian troops and officials involved.

Malik said U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger had made a personal request that Indonesia participate.

Nixon wants no delay

The United States told the Communists at the peace talks Thursday that it is President Nixon's "firm intention to permit no avoidable delay in ending this war and entering a period of peace and reconstruction."

The North Vietnamese rejected South Vietnam's demand that the North must pull all its troops out of the country in any cease - fire agreement. They also declared their country had not changed its position on conditions for peace in Vietnam.

All since the right way is the best way and this contributed to my first hypothesis experience is the best teacher, I have on sexuality: if you're a girl, boys are gathered both theoretical and practical fun. information. From my participation in the human sexuality experiments of the public school system, I have playground scene as Daphne with a received first-hand information. Most of it is very revealing.

As a curious kindergartener, I began my studies quite early. Though I had done some research into my own sexual identity, I was unacquainted real test of physical discipline. I had to with the sexuality of little boys. Through stimulus and response to look as though I was straining every experimentation, I discovered that nap-time-on-the-floor was more fun was straining to go slower, so the little with people like Dickie Whitstock, jocks could catch up. than with people like Lucie Backer. This discovery seemed to hold true in most instances, but most especially on

In second grade, I made the pursuing Apollo. Unlike the mythological lover, my Apollo intended to beat in my head when he caught me. I loved it. Since second grade boys were mostly smaller than second-grade girls, being caught was a go through extensive training in order muscle. to go faster, when actually I

But by the third grade, the boys in my class had formulated their own

The boys' negative attitude toward girls prevailed through fourth grade. But in fifth grade, they were delivered from the tortuous presence of females; classes were segregated by sex. I have a feeling the school administration at Wellington Elementary did this to keep the "secret of menstruation" from the boys. It was in the fifth grade that we girls were led solemnly down to the gym to see "a movie about nursing." Needless to say, I was shocked by its content. Human sexuality in general, and most especially the potential of my own sexuality, was going to make life a real pain, I could tell. After the movie, we got a booklet about menstruation. We then put our "pornography" under our skirts, pressed our arms against our sides to keep the booklet in place, and stalked back to our classroom. The secret was under our skirts.

Classes were still segregated through the sixth grade and as a result, I altered my first hypothesis. In the seventh grade, my new theory was: boys are dirty. I based this theory on the jokes going around in our mixed classes. Another basis for this theory came from participation in my first mixed gym class. The boys played on one half of the gym and the girls on the other. Our gym suits exposed so much of leg and arm that I resorted to a change of elections for modesty's sake. I will never forget my utter terror at seeing a sexually - aroused male in a pair of gym shorts. What a grotesque deformity! With all the great work done in plastic surgery today, hadn't they sufficiently developed castration?

From that moment on, I resolved to experience only eye contact with the opposite sex, and then only above the waist. I became increasingly nostalgic, longing again for the good old days, when boys and girls were the same sex: kids. Tommy, Dickie and Harry now wanted to play different games, than when we were eur on the playground.

Then, in eigth grade, the big catastrophe of all happened: asked me to the Eastland Junior spring dance. I realized immedia this was going to be the major decis of my entire life. I really wanted to . and I really liked Greg, but hi .that. . .thing. . . I struggled long v my decision. But, I supposed, he re couldn't leave it home; and after he couldn't help what he was h with. I couldn't reject him just beca of a physical deformity. So, I went with Greg to the sp dance, shielded by a high nec dress and pettipants, and armed wi hat pin. My defenses w impenetrable, so I thought. Little d know that it would be from this f date, that I would develop my hypotheses on sexuality: underestimate the power of determined male.

And Greg was determined. A the dance, when the car stopped the way home, I knew it was going be a long night. The locked doors Greg's breathing down my seemed to support this observation Much later, when we had to wipe steam from the windows in order finally drive home, my observati about the length of the night had be totally confirmed.

When I was home at last, safe alone in my own bed, the ni continued in excited, insomn recollection. And when I finally asleep, my dreams were no longer playground eunuchs, but of being with dominantely . ma characteristics.

I had been saved from sext reclusion by Greg, a Boy Scout who motto was: "Be prepared." Up learning of my sexual ignorance, had been prepared to teach me all

Dec. 4, it now seems reasonably clear that Henry Kissinger had little basis for his statement on Oct. 26, 12 days before the election, that "Peace is at hand," subject only to a few minor details of negotiation. He had, it is clear, no real agreement with Hanoi and Saigon on ending the war; no such agreement seems to exist a month whether either Kissinger or President that they actually had reached an Nixon called that night in Ashland, Ky., "peace with honor and not peace

Quite obviously, there can be no cease - fire in South Vietnam until the Sáigon government agrees to a cease fire, for the simple reason that that government has in its army, a million men, armed to the teeth by the United States. In the final analysis, the only way Washington can impose a cease fire on that government and that army is by threatening to cut off their military supplies. Is that, a serious proposition? After having for four years maintained the war, at a cost of 20,000 American deaths, billions of American dollars, national border - must be re established at the 17th parallel, and the role of the National Council of reconciliation and concord envisioned in the Kissinger - Le Duc Tho draft accord - must be more clearly defined. These are merely the central issues of the war; if they have to be settled before Saigon agrees to a cease - fire, it follows that on Oct. 26, the Nixon administration did not really have an agreement for a cease fire that depended only on the working out of a few details.

By far, the major question concerns the status of North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam. The summary of the draft accord with which Kissinger had "no complaint" on Oct. 26 does not mention a withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces; every commentator pointed out that this was a major American concession. Yet, Saigon patently is unwilling to accept this management; and some informed government sources insist that Kissinger's failure to secure an agreement for North Vietnamese withdrawal caused Washington - not just Saigon - to pull back from accepting his draft accord with Le Duc Tho. If Tho had accepted that draft, they say, it would have given Hanoi what it had sought all along -American withdrawal from battlefield, while Hanoi was left fr to settle Indochinese military political affairs in direct ar unimpeded struggle with Saigon.

Now it is being asserted Washington, through studied leaks an calculated statements, that American side is pressing for furth concessions only in order to be able t tell Saigon honestly that further concessions cannot be had; even if the were true, however, it still implies the on Oct. 26 there was no real basis for asserting that only a few unimportan details stood in the way of a peace which was "at hand."

On that date, Kissinger - who wa just back from Saigon - must hav known that Thieu did not accept th most important parts of the dra accord; he could hardly have bee justified in asserting, therefore, the only a few minor details remained t be worked out with Hanoi; and if finally turns out that the central issu 'of the renewed negotiations is th withdrawal of North Vietnames forces, the real question will b whether Nixon himself ever accepte the Kissinger - Le Duc Tho dra accord, which was supposed to hav meant that peace was at hand.

St. John's

To the Editor:

Since one of our parishioners recently shared her thoughts about the involvement of St. John Student Parish in the abortion debate, it seems appropriate to bring some aspects of the question to the same reading public.

No money was spent from parish funds for any of the antiabortion leaflets, for speakers, nor for the hiring of airplanes. Perhaps it is overreacting to respond to "crying all year about your lack of finances," but we recall that the only appeals made in the past year have been for Catholic Relief Services, the Campaign for Human Development, and a special appeal for Bangladesh.

We did take a stand on the abortion referendum and we do not apologize for that stand. That our stand helped crystallize positions for or against abortion is acceptable to us as we try to bring the gospel to bear on current issues. We do take issue, however, with the frequent insinuation that a stand in favor of the unborn is a stand against mothers, the poor and deprived, and even a sign of insensitivity to other horrors such as the Indochina War. We ask only that each issue be given serious thought and reflection on its own and that we not fall into the easy, and superficial, game of stereotyping "good guys" and "bad guys."

We would like to feel that our work is in promotion of life and the eliminating of injustice and that those who feel similarly would find support from us and with us. That some disagree with us on one issue, we hope, would not eliminate them, or us, from contributing their thoughts and involvement in other areas.

Cartoon

To the Editor:

I have seen grotesque, ugly cartoons before. I have known for a long time that Phil Frank was a sexist cartoonist. Still when I saw the cartoon in Monday's paper with the caption, "Good news - you're not pregnant just fat!" I was shocked.

At 93 pounds, I myself am not fat, but nevertheless that cartoon hurt and humiliated me because I am a woman, and I become outraged when I see other women being the butt of a joke that cartoon an apology.

I would like to reply to an editorial by Sharon Szafransky that was printed the State News' Counterpoint, entitled "Dating: the Losing Game." I consider it an insult that this was printed under the section called Women, thus implying that Szafransky's opinions might be shared by more than an infinitesimal percentage of the women on campus.

Szafransky presents her primary concern as a comment on the "dating game," and yet in her third paragraph jumps to a comment on the chances of finding a marriage partner. wonder how many MSU women think of dating solely (or mainly) as a means of getting a husband.

Szafransky's next tangent concerns the lack of "sexual freedom" in the dating situation. She asks "Who makes the decisions on dates?" and "Who starts the making out?" If Szanfransky allows herself to be dominated in these areas, I wish she would not try to make it sound as though this were a universal situation.

She is vehement in the opinion that today's men will not marry a women who is "promiscuous" or has been "fingered a few times." I must question both her choice of terminology and her scope of experience.

Perhaps the most substantial clue to Szafransky's limited scope of experience is that in her article, she refers to members of the two sexes as "boys" and "girls." She states that an emphasis on clothes, physical shape, position on Proposal B, abortion and hair style is an "inevitable criterion" for the dating game. Once again, if she allows herself to be dominated...

Sharon Szafransky, I would advise you to come down off your soapbox of pseudo-women's -liberationism, stop worrying about your chances of finding a husband, and concentrate on building some mature, personal or private, which they might hold. relationships.

I have personally witnessed his deep loyalty and devotion to MSU during his career here and so, the board's resolution was very meaningful to me and my family.

Nixon thinking of history

(C) 1972 NEW YORK TIMES NEWS SERVICE

New York, Nov. 28 - The one predictable thing about Richard Nixon is that he is unpredictable. The man loves a surprise. Who, for example, could have guessed that his first major decision after winning a spectacular "Middle America" election victory, would have been to appoint three Harvard men to his new second term Cabinet?

As Secretary of Defense, Elliot Lee Richardson, Harvard '41; Harvard law '47; law clerk to Learned Hand and Justice Felix Frankfurter; Lt. Gov. of brahmin, a sensible establishment man of peace, former under secretary of state and secretary of HEW, but certainly no Middle - American type: handsome, ambitious, almost arrogantly patrician.

As Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Casper Willard Weinberger, 1938 Harvard classmate and friend of Arthur Schlesinger, magna cum laude, Harvard Law School, 1941, Phi Beta Kappa, finance Francisco bay area, director of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House: a handsome, sophisticated, moderately conservative Republican, who now has to preside over cutting back the Nixon HEW budget.

Roy Lawrence Ash, electronics manufacturer, president of Litton Industries, efficiency expert, Horatio Alger character out of California, who never went to undergraduate college but came out of Harvard Business School in Boston with highest honors

Still, there is something very logical in all this illogic. It is the theme and contradiction of Nixon's life. He has made one of the great American political careers out of doing the unexpected.

After losing the presidency in 1960 and the governorship of California in 1962, and announcing his retirement from politics, he made the greatest comeback since Lazarus. He lost the presidency as an anti - Communist hawk, and won and retained it as a man of peace and accommodation with the Communists.

most obvious of all is the case of bombing of Vietnam in 1972, students been almost more generous to his at Camp David, he seemed to be Jackson, where students were shot took over the Administration Building, critics than to his allies in the last reaching out in a new spirit for a new election. > For a time in his first term, he seemed to be turning the White House into a palace, with uniformed guards in music hall plumes, but now he is retreating from the majesty of the White House and the formality of the oval room into the informality of his Camp David retreat high in the Maryland mountains.

The historians and psychiatrists of director for Gov. Ronald Reagan of the future will probably be very California, member of Gen. interested in all this, but for the time Macarthur's intelligence staff, being, his approach to his second term newspaper columnist in the San is reassuring. Whatever the past, he is now dealing with the future.

> He is trying to deal with the lessens of history. Presidential second terms tend to get tired and soft: Therefore they have to get new men, new ideas, new vigor, landslide victories tend to bury the victorious president: therefore he has to think anew and change the question.

> Ever since it was clear that Nixon was going to be re - elected - which now seems a long time ago - both his critics and, what is more interesting, even many of his most intimate supporters, wondered whether he would be magnanimous or vindictive if he was re - elected overwhelmingly by his fellow - countrymen.

In his talk with the reporters at Camp David the other night, he was more generous, more composed and more serene than any of his contemporaries can remember. He seemed, almost for the first time, to be thinking of history instead of politics, and this could be a significant change.

For he has not been trusted in the past because he trusted no man, which was the tragedy of his predecessor. And in the last few days, he has Lyndon Johnson; but in his little talk accommodation at home, as he did with his adversaries in Moscow and Peking. And this could begin a new chapter in American politics, if his critics respond in an equally generous

Poor plagued by lead paint poisoning/

By GEORGE WHITE State News Staff Writer

Living in Southeast Detroit, Sam and Joanne Strictland are well aware of lead poisoning. It is an illness that killed their first child and threatens the mental health of their second.

"When our kid became ill we didn't know what was bothering him," Joanne said of her deceased 3 - year old. "When we did, it was the first time we had heard of lead paint poisoning."

The symptoms of lead poisoning include stomach and abdominal pains, nausea, vomiting, frequent headaches and convulsions.

The symptoms normally occur in infants from age one to six who live in housing units where old paint cracks with age.

Environmentalist James Rathlesburger has condemned the Nixon administration on its handling of the problem. Rathlesburger reports that $25 million of a $30 million federal appropriation went to lead detection and treatment, the other $5

"deadly" is consumed by infants through:

nibbling at window sills or other foreign materials such as plaster, eating or mouthing painted furniture, mouthing old, painted toys, making play objects of lead storage batteries, toothpaste, and shaving cream tubes, or eating food into which chipped paint

Once the infant has eaten leaded substances, the lead is taken into the bloodstream and the infant becomes ill.

The death rate of severely poisoned infants is high because there is no serum that cures lead poisoning.

Presently, only early treatment can relieve early poisoning and a blood test is needed to determine whether a child is poisoned. However, Dr. Jane Lin Fu of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), a national expert on the problem has called lead poisoning "extremely hard" to treat at any stage."

However, treatment presently ranks second in importance to "detection." Detroit health officials estimate that there are

Poetry portrays goals of feminist

An unusually moving experience was provided by the Women's Center Wednesday night when it sponsored a poetry reading by militant feminist Robin Morgan.

Morgan, perhaps best known as editor of the anthology "Sisterhood is Powerful," read selections from her newly - published collection of poems about women, entitled "Monster."

The poems she read conveyed the intense bitterness of her struggle against a system of sexism, power dominance and competition created and

TO COVER LINGUISTICS

African class planned

By GEORGE WHITE State News Staff Writer

A new special projects course called "Language in a Changing Africa" offered Winter term, plans to emphasize the humanity in linguistics.

"This is not a language - learning course nor is it an offering in theoretical linguistics," Irvine Richardson, a professor in Linguistics, Oriental and African Languages

The course will be offered by Richardson's department for three credits on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The new course will be taught as an experiment with many instructors from various disciplines scheduled to contribute. The perfect place for you and your friends to enjoy the finest in beer and mixed drinks plus the most unique atmosphere in East Relax and have fun it's the natural thing to do anytime at the . . Pretzel Bell 1020 Trowbridge Road 351-0300

The instructors include Nkem Nwankwo, Nigerian editor and novelist who will lead discussions on language and creativity, Alfred Opubor, director of the African Studies Center, Babs Fafunwa, dean of education at the University of Ife, John Eulenburg, Stanford University professor and

The group planned the course to advocate the importance of language as a component of human behavior. 'Language is people," Richardson said. "It affects the way we think and act. This is overlooked in the American context although we have dialects. However, where we have dialects in America, we have different languages in Africa." Richardson, who edits a journal on African languages, cited an example in Cameroon where two Cameroon leaders could not communicate. "They both spoke seven languages," he said, "but they could only talk to each other in pidgin English."

The course, which plans to discuss problems in communication, will be taught from an interdisciplinary perspective in an effort to attract students from various

The new course will be African in emphasis but Richardson stressed communication as an overall key. "Language has three functions," Richardson said

With the precision of a fine surgeon excising a malignancy, the author, a professor of economics right here at MSU, dismantles the maliciously subversive sophistries of the government's unrelenting 30 year campaign to send Bridges back to his native

"Seldom if ever in the history of this nation has there been such a concentrated and relentless crusade to deport an individual because he dared to exercise the freedom that belongs to him as a human being and that is guaranteed by the Constitution."

All that is past history, one may say. As the story unfolds, you realize that "Harry Bridges" has compelling relevance for today, for the forces that tried to off Bridges are the direct forefathers of the forces that, today, are behind attempts to off Daniel Ellsberg, Angela Davis, the Black Panthers, the Berrigan brothers, the Chicago Eight and John Sinclair.

The book, rich throughout in anecdotal material, describes in detail how, in its pursuit of Bridges, the government used all the now - familiar tactics - wiretaps, stool pigeons, perjurers, Tommy the Travelers - to prove he was a Communist.

Despite the government's harassment, Bridges found time to accomplish much: to make his union one of the most democratic, and most effective, in the country; to organize

Bridges read the manuscript. His comments were consummately characteristic: "I would say it is hardly more than a series of distortions, half truths, and in many cases, outright lies."

That is one man's opinion. Being privileged as this reviewer is to know the author personally and to observe his research methodology at first hand, I can state unequivocally Bridges' critique is hardly valid.

On the contrary, even a casual reading of "Harry Bridges" reveals that the book deserves high marks for its meticulous documentation, which, however, is never allowed to provoke vertigo in the reader.

For an unbiased reader, moreover, the Bridges that emerges from these pages is one of the few authentic men of genius who, like Cesar Chavez, have come up out of the exploited ranks of American workers.

'No Sex' not credible, but highly entertaining Loggin

By EDD RUDZATS State News Reviewer

"No Sex Please, We're British" by Anthony Marriot and Alistair Foot proved to be a lightweight comedy, short on credibility but nevertheless quite entertaining.

'No Sex Please, We're British" actually is no worse than any of the comedies that Broadway has been producing in recent years. Admittedly one of the problems comedy of this sort always seems to suffer from is a predictability of plot development. Fortunately the production presented at the Auditorium Wednesday night was original enough in its conception to almost totally avoid this problem.

However, on closer scrutiny, one must admit that the complications that spring from the basic idea behind "No Sex Please, We're British" could easily have been alleviated by a simple phone call or letter but then, of course, one hilarious predicaments the characters find themselves What does one do with boxes of unsolicited pornographic material? This is the situation that provides a good deal of the humor in No Sex Please, We're British." It all begins when a young bride, hoping to supplement the family income, answers an ad to sell "Swedish glassware." The "glassware" turns out to be nonexistent and what arrives instead is a steady stream of pornographic books, pictures and films, which must be hidden from the husband's mother and

Each scheme to get rid of the materials becomes increasingly more far fetched and the entire situation eventually achieves farcical proportions as doors slam, people come and go and the newlyweds rush madly about, trying to keep everything under control.

Much of "No Sex Please We're British" is broadly played by the princip which helps to emphasi the element of farce with the play. Yet the Broadw Theater Series producti of this British comedy w extremely slow in getti started Wednesday nig and it was not until t

IN TRAFFIC STUDY

Students examine city, MSU parking

Traffic studies being conducted by members of an urban planning class on campus under the advisership of a city planning official will be completed by the end of the term.

Senior city planner Ralph Stonebraker, who has been working with asst. professor Donn Anderson's urban circulation (UP 822) class since September, said the results of the studies could benefit the city in future planning projects.

He added that these traffic studies could be the springboard for more indepth research of particular problem areas

The students in the graduate course are updating a parking study of East

Lansing's central business district and are examining the on - campus parking accommodations.

Pedestrian flows at various intersections in the city have also been under study by the students.

Stonebraker explained that the students have been talking with employes in the central business district to determine the routes they use to get to and from work. The results of this study could aid in planning for the downtown area, he said.

Results of the studies will be made available to merchants in the central business district, he added.

Stonebraker said the traffic studies were beneficial because the students gained practical experience while conducting them.

His only criticism of the studies was that they were "too structured because we knew what we wanted to get out of them."

Crossing Grand River Avenue in East Lansing challenges the patience and dodging ability of pedestrians and motorists alike. The five-land-wide stretch between Bogue Street and Hagadorn Road has no legal crossing points. Many pedestrians dash and dart between the fast-moving lanes after patiently waiting for the nonexistent break in traffic. Two urban planning graduate students surveyed pedestrian crossing points this term for the East Lansing Planning Commission.

College hockey

Last winter, many people recommended that I see some ockey games at MSU, and being an avid follower of the ort (though not on the college level at that time), I ecided to follow their advice.

My first impressions of ancient Demonstration Hall's ice rea, however, were not exactly favorable. Aside from being terally right on top of the play, it was hard for me to see the people would pack the place every hockey weekend. There were virtually no seats where a fan's view of the was not obstructed by a large pole, and the spectator had stand up during the entire game if he really wanted to we what was going on.

But, I soon discovered there was a reason why people ame hours before gametime to grab the best unreserved seats" available—the type of game itself.

MSU asst. coach Alex Terpay, in his fourth year under eteran coach Amo Bessone, is a vehement supporter of ollege hockey.

"College hockey is the most exciting kind of hockey round," Terpay says. "It's a game of emotion. Everyone is p for the game. It's 60 minutes of constant skating, ecause there is so much at stake. We don't play that many ames, so each game is crucial."

The typical contest is a scrambling, wide - open type ame, and depending upon the tempo of the play, there is lot of hitting and sometimes even skirmishes or fights, hich many of the fans love to see.

It seems that the play is just a notch below the polished, rofessional style. This makes the sharp passing displays nd effective checks seem even more outstanding.

"There is a lot of enthusiasm, so you make mistakes,"

Perpay said. "No game is really decided until the end."

A new rule change permitting body checking everywhere the ice and the rule that allows passes going over two nes adds to the wide - open style of action.

The fans can make a big difference in the game also.

"Most of the rinks are smaller, so the fans are close to he play," Terpay said.

"They can really psyche you up," cocaptain Gilles

Sagnon said.

Terpay had some definite thoughts comparing college

Spartans set for Kentucky invasion

Gary Ganakas

By LYNN HENNING. State News Sports Writer

One year ago, MSU went to Lexington, Kentucky, prepared to do battle with the University of Kentucky, one of the traditionally top teams in college basketball.

And in view of the fact that Kentucky had lost but three games on their home court since the 1967 season, the Spartans were approaching the game with "guarded" optimism.

MSU won the game, 91-85, beating the Wildcats and the immortal Adolph Rupp, and in the process taking the starch right out of Rupp's celebrated brown

Kentucky will face the Spartans at 4 p.m. Saturday at Jenison Fieldhouse in the Wildcat's first game of the season and it will provide Gus Ganakas' corps with an early taste of what the season's competition has in store for the Spartans.

"We're playing one of the top powers in the country." Ganakas said of the Kentucky team. "They're tremendous."

Besides the talent that Kentucky brings back to its varsity this season - losing only two starters to graduation - Ganakas is prepared for quite a battle between two teams with an abundance of young talent.

The freshmen team scored over 100 points a game and were the first team in modern basketball history to post as many victories on the freshman level without a defeat with former "Mr. Basketball" sophomore players," Ganakas said referring to the award given by several states to the best high school players in their respective states.

Ganakas feels that the two teams will be a good match in view of the fact that Kentucky with its seven sophomores all pushing for starting berths will closely match MSU's squad which boasts eight underclassmen.

The Spartan mentor also believes that MSU, with its first game behind them, will hepefully have an advantage over the Wildcats as they are forced to play their initial contest on the road.

And the Spartans would "They've got three like nothing better than for Kentucky to leave its winners among their traditional home-court magic in Lexington.

> The Wildcats boast no great size, depending on speed, quickness and some good shooting, to compensate for a slight deficiency in the height department.

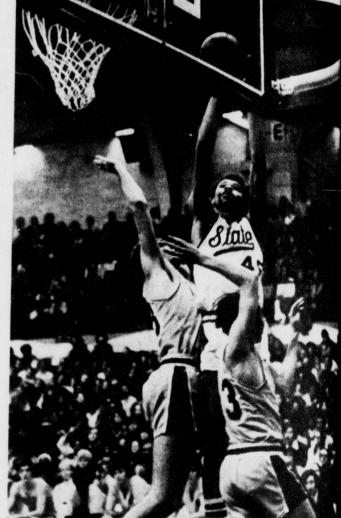

Ganakas has been working on his team's defense in preparation for the Saturday afternoon contest, going through the Wildcat offensive formations, which asst. coach Bob Nordmann has scouted extensively.

"We've got to be more stingy," Ganakas admitted. "They've got outstanding talent.'

Even with the talent Kentucky flaunts, many of the preseason prognosticators don't rate the Wildcats as good as several Big Ten teams namely Minnesota and Ohio State. "They're certainly equal to any of the contenders in the Big Ten," Ganakas said, slightly more complimentary of the team. "They'd be one of the same group of teams that will be fighting for first place."

If Kentucky can be used as a yardstick of the upcoming Big Ten race, the Spartans will know how close the top is Saturday.

Lindsay Hairston

Although starting out slowly in the opening moments of his varsity debut Tuesday night, Lindsay Hairston (45) finished in a flurry with 24 points and 17 rebounds. The Kettering sophomore will be a key in MSU's battle with Kentucky Saturday.

champ, Ohio University.

The meet is slated for 7:30 p.m. in Jenison Fieldhouse and will be one of only five Spartan home matches this year. Their next home encounter is scheduled Jan. 11 with Southern Illinois.

"Experience is invaluable to a wrestler," Peninger said. "There is no substitute for it. It gives you a great deal of confidence especially of the unknown, and it's the unknown that makes cowards of us all." Wednesday's intrasquad challenge matches were the first step in settling the Spartan lineup. Only the 118 - pound category was decided Wednesday. The remaining wrestlers each must endure at least one more match.

Peninger's 'feature bout' pitting U.S. Pan American game champion Randy Miller against Jim Bissell was just that. The two scrappy lightweights exchanged points for the first two periods with Bissell, who finished third in the Junior World Games last year, notching the match by an 8-5 count.

Pat Milkovich, defending NCAA champion at 126 pounds, blanketed freshman Rick Berman for three periods and appears headed to lock up that weight class.

The 134 - pound frame was another exhibition of youth vs. experience. Senior Conrad Calander counterpart, Rick Gerard, to secure the victory.

"Knowledge of wrestling skills is very important," Peninger commented. When you couple that with quickness, it's frequently more important than strength."

Calander proved it. Tom Milkovich continued his unbeaten string which began last fall by downing overpowered his freshman two - time high school state champion Don McNeilly. Also a frosh, McNeilly hung tough against the leather tough Milkovich who displayed poise and agility in one of his first tests as a senior.

"Tom is a very coordinated athlete, Peninger said. "That's something you have to have in your repertoire. Without it, nothing is going to work together."

Steve Rodriguez was the only underclassman who didn't succumb to an elder in Wednesday's challenge matches. He was matched against senior Ernie Baty a Saginaw transfer. Rodriguez pinned him to take the lead in their best two of three "It's usually a very tough job being an apprentice in wrestling," Peninger explained. "But nearly all wrestlers have to do it sometime. It's an extremely rare occasion when you don't. Rodriguez is a rarity. "He is doing a fine job for us," Peninger said. "We'd have to label him the cream of the crop of the freshman."

Mark Malley bested sophomore Rick Green to draw first blood at 158 pounds. A senior from Decatur, Ill., Malley is one of the favorites to capture the Big Ten individual championship in his weight class. He looked strong in Wednesday's prelims.

Bruce Zindel, one - half of MSU's other brother combo, defeated Amen Bow of Ypsilanti in a seesaw match at the 167 pound

At 177, Jeff Zindel and Jeff Hersha slugged it out for three periods with Zindel emerging the winner. Hersha was expected to be Zindel's number one competitor this fall and will be ready to do battle with his counterpart the remainder of the season.

ASMSU to fund recycling costs

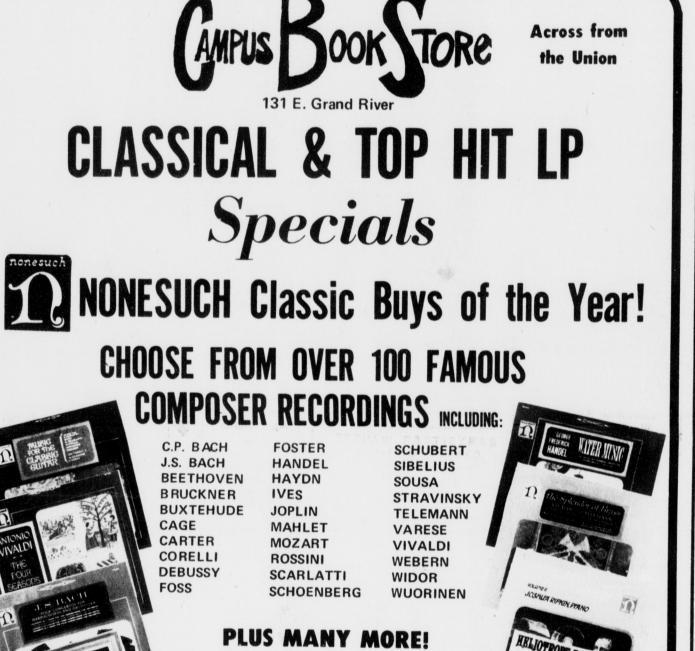

Paper recycling on the MSU campus is not dead. After successful 34-day trial experiment, which was funded ASMSU and netted 48,510 pounds of newsprint, t student government has decided to permanently support paper recycling.

"Paper recycling will go on our budget for this year part of our Resource Recovery Program," Ron Wahul president of ASMSU said.

This means that the student government will fund the campus recycling of newspapers to cover student worker wages, cost of rental trucks and recycling bins, said Fre Moore, Buchanan junior and coordinator of the service.

Moore emphasized that collections totals from fall 197 (Oct. 15 - Nov. 19) were nearly doubled from a comparab time period last spring. The average weekly poundar totaled 8,085 pounds, with a peak collection of 12,0 pounds during the week of Nov. 19.

All the residence halls except Shaw Hall are current participating in the project. A new trial experiment has als begun in the Spartan Village area, Moore said. Bins a located in the east laundry room near Harrison Road.

Black servicemen have often complained of receiving more severe punishment from commanders for minor offenses without requiring formal trials and of receiving disproportionate numbers of administrative discharges. Another complaint has been that blacks often are put under pre - trial confinement while whites charged with the same offenses go free. The panel said it found basis for these charges in interviews with scores of servicemen. It concluded this contributes "to racial animosity and tension" which afflicts the military services.

Though it praised the military for trying since 1949 to eliminate unlawful discrimination, the panel nevertheless concluded that:

"The military system does discriminate against its members on the basis of race and ethnic background. The discrimination is sometimes purposeful, more often it is not. Indeed, it often occurs against the dictates not only in policy but in the face of determined efforts.
