Dean's report implicates Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Dean Rusk, in an article titled "The Nixon Administration," has alleged that President Nixon may have been involved in illegal activities.

The report, which was released today, states that Nixon was aware of illegal activities taking place during his administration. The report is based on information provided by anonymous sources within the government.

The report claims that Nixon was aware of illegal activities such as wiretapping and the shipment of arms to South Vietnam.

The report also claims that Nixon was involved in the Watergate scandal, a political scandal that resulted in the resignation of President Richard Nixon.

The report is highly controversial and is expected to be widely discussed in the coming days.

Detroit crime rate falls

Overall crime in Detroit dropped one per cent in May, as compared to the same month last year but the homicide rate is outpacing last year's by 13.6 per cent and rape in May was up 9.5 per cent, according to figures released Monday by city police commissioner John F. Nichols.

Through May of this year, Detroit has registered 247 homicides compared to 206 for the first five months last year. In May, 1972, figures showed there were 59 cases of rape reported compared to 112 last month.

Fuel shortage cuts jobs

The state's seven per cent unemployment rate will go even higher and the "family budget will skyrocket if short range, short range power industries to cut operations," Michigan Public Service Commissioner John Ralls said Tuesday.

Ralls told some 600 delegates to the Michigan AFL-CIO Eighth Annual Constitutional Convention that decisive action must be taken now or the "scarcity of energy supplies in Michigan will get even worse than it is today."

Residents want Glenn

Residents of Nixon Avenue in suburban Brownstone Township outside of Detroit have petitioned the Township board to change the name of the street to Glenn Court, in honor of former astronaut John Glenn.

"If you are going to name a street after someone there should be more honor to it," said Ernest Folke, one of the residents who signed the petition.

"There is no question about John Glenn's honor in history," he said. "With Nixon and Watergate there.

Dean admits using funds

Columnist Jack Anderson reported Monday that ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III has admitted spending $4,000 in Nixon campaign funds to finance his honeymoon last year.

Anderson, saying President Nixon's men are eager to destroy Dean, reported that Dean told Senate investigators he left an $11,000 pill for the funds.

The money came from $2,000 authorized for the advertising project, Anderson said.

Two executives seized

Argentine police reported Tuesday the separate kidnappings of two foreign businessmen — one an American and the other a German.

The American was identified by police sources as John Thompson, 50, president of the Argentine subsidiary of the Foremost Tire and Rubber Co.

The German was identified as Juan Kart, 61, technical director of the Argentine firm of Salinas, S.A., one of the principal Buenos Aires manufacturers of women's wear.

Kart was abducted Tuesday morning, police sources said. Thompson was abducted Monday outside of the Buenos Aires Firestone plant.

There are no immediate reports of a ransom demand for either man.

Wiretaps French style

A high government official told the French Senate today that government wiretapping is none of its business. He reaffirmed that taps will continue at all variety of cases.

Other than who has the Cabinet rank of state secretary, made the most detailed official statement in recent years on the controversial issue during a full-scale debate in the Senate.

He told legislators that the French premier, defense minister and interior minister would continue to order phones tapped as necessary and rejected a proposal that a Senate committee supervise the wiretaps.

Bomb warnings to end

The Irish Republican Army, retreating for the weekend onto the Rome-Catholic dominated westside of major policy change Monday — it will no longer issue warnings prior to bomb attacks.

The IRA policies in the past usually included telephone calls to families before bombings were carried out at public gathering places such as pubs and department stores.

But a statement issued in Belfast by the militant Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army said it would strike in the future without warning.

A total of 27 nominations and withdrawals were made Monday for a restructuring of the city council. The list included 11 proposals which were recommended for additional study and 16 others which were accepted.

Partial approval of the new classification system was Friday at the regular meeting of the MSU Board of Trustees.

"We believe that the main substance of the report, national union and local union agreement, and the recommendation that this report represent a major step forward in making this process system more efficient and equitable for the vast majority of the administrative and professional staff," the Daley recommendations.

"Our next step should be to proceed forthwith to eliminate the remaining inclusions and to improve the system further," said Director W. E. M. Anderson, II.

37 'U' employees to get retroactive pay raises

By BETTY WILSON

As 37 University of Illinois employees who are classified as custodians and watchmen in the alumni and student union buildings, the department's three-level salary classification system will be made retroactive effective July 1.

Because of the state's financial crisis, the state board of trustees approved the plan on Thursday. In effect, the board said it was doing as much as it could do for the employees, pending the state's financial condition.

By August 1, the employees will be paid an average of $22,000, an increase of about $800 over the present six-month salary.

The board also approved recommendation that each employee's salary should be placed in the next most appropriate classification, and that each employee should be paid as much as possible.

In a letter Tuesday to employees: "Any and all savings through state of Illinois will be made retroactive, in accordance with the recommendations of the state board of trustees.

Phone call tricks bank out of money

By ABDUL JAMIL

State News Staff Writer

Wayne J. Chaseman, a 21- year-old student at Michigan State University, was in Lansing on Friday when he found himself the victim of an unusual crime.

Chaseman, who lives in the University area, said he was shopping at a local store when he received a call from "Mr. Richard," an unknown caller who claimed to be a representative of the bank.

The caller informed Chaseman that there was a problem with his bank account and that he needed to verify his identity by contacting the bank.

Chaseman was told to call a number associated with the bank. When he called, he was directed to another phone number.

On the second call, the caller presented a series of questions designed to verify Chaseman's identity. Chaseman, believing the caller to be genuine, provided the requested information.

However, the caller then demanded that Chaseman provide his Social Security number and other sensitive personal information.

Chaseman became suspicious and hung up the phone. He then reported the incident to the police.

The police are currently investigating the case and urge other students to be cautious when dealing with unexpected phone calls.

Late high court absolves abortion law

The Michigan Supreme Court today ruled that Michigan's abortion law is constitutional, a decision that could have significant implications for similar laws in other states.

The court rejected arguments that the law violates the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and that it unfairly targets women.

The ruling sends the case back to the lower courts, where it can be heard again.

The Lansing Board of Trustees on Friday approved the hiring of a new president for the university.

The board also approved a $25,000 raise for the president, bringing his annual salary to $145,000.

The new president, Lyman Mogill, will take office on July 1.

"I am honored to have been selected as the next president of Michigan State University," Mogill said in a statement. "I look forward to working with the campus community to continue the university's mission of excellence in teaching, research, and service."
MSU drum major disappears

By JIM DICKIN State News Staff Writer

Henry Baltimore, MSU drum major, was arrested for the MSU football band's recent performance during which Baltimore was involved in a fracas that left him with injuries, including a broken hand, according to the MSU police.

Baltimore, who is a member of the MSU Marching Band, was scheduled to perform with the band during the game against the University of Texas on Saturday afternoon in Austin, Texas. He was charged with assault and battery.

The incident occurred following a Ku Klux Klan rally held on campus earlier this week. Baltimore and several other MSU students were involved in a physical altercation with members of the KKK, who were protesting against the presence of African American students on campus.

The altercation began when some members of the KKK tried to enter the MSU band's practice facility. Baltimore and others blocked their entry, leading to a brief scuffle. During the altercation, Baltimore reportedly injured a few KKK members, including one who was treated for a broken hand.

Baltimore was later arrested by the MSU police and charged with assault and battery. He was released on bond and is scheduled to appear in court on a later date.

The MSU band's performance on Saturday was postponed due to the incident. The band's director, John Davis, said he was disappointed that the band was unable to perform as scheduled.

Davis praised Baltimore's performance and said he would support him through the legal process. He also apologized for the behavior of the KKK members involved in the altercation.

The MSU police said they are investigating the incident fully and will provide updates as they become available.
Cronkite: citizens seek easy solutions

By NANCY PARSONS Free State Staff Writer

The fact that the U.S. has experienced an outpouring of one crisis after another shows that Americans are in a state of constant fear. They have lost the ability to appreciate the tension and excitement of the present moment.

Cronkite said that the United States had no end of problems. "The man at the end of the line is in a state of national crisis in terms of crises. Yet, it is better to live in the U.S. than anywhere in the world. There is no place like it."

Delegates to the National Convention each year have a list of crises to deal with, and the crises in the present are the result of the American people not understanding the threat of a crisis in the nation's future. "Each new crisis is adding to the overall problem, and this is the crisis that the American people face."

"It is a crisis of the American people that will not go away. They have failed to realize the crisis in the nation's future. Yet, it is better to live in the U.S. than anywhere in the world."

City housing proposals may cause rent hikes

By JIM RUBIN
State News Staff Writer

Local moratoriums have been requested by a group of Lansing housingordinances, Charles Ipcar of the City Council for Lansing.

The three new ordinances, which are expected to be approved by East Lansing City Council Tuesday, are designed to address living conditions in city rental units.

However, Ipcar, who has authored a study of rental housing in East Lansing and is responsible for this study of the proposed ordinances, is not able to express what changes need to be made in the proposed ordinances to improve conditions in the 2,500 rental units they provide for.

Several maintenance costs being charged rent.

And East Lansing student tenants, Ipcar noted, are already paying reduced rents compared to other housing developments in other towns.

Ipcar stated that the proposed ordinances would make minimum standards in rental housing, including maintenance standards for landlords and also setting rent control and other requirements and making changes to the local tax system.

While Ipcar agrees with city officials that the proposed ordinances are necessary, he believes that the proposed ordinances do not have a high enough rent control element.

In response to this, Ipcar and the City Council for Lansing have agreed that the ordinance can be changed to set minimum on rent control.

"There are current ordinances in East Lansing," said, "they are not as high as they should be."

Ipcar said that there are "problems of landlords and of tenants and landlords should not be holding onto money.

Ipcar said that the City Council for Lansing would be "entertained by the rental ordinances, which may be needed for up to this time, but we have not yet to try to make them work.

Ipcar agreed that the proposed ordinances may need to be worked on before they can be released to the public.

According to the proposed ordinances, the City Council for Lansing would have the power to suspend the ordinance if they believe it is not necessary, or if it is needed for the good of the city.

While the proposed ordinances are expected to be approved by the City Council for Lansing, they will need to be approved by the City Council for Lansing and other organizations that may have a say in the proposed ordinance before they can be released to the public.

County urged to waive elderly care business

By JIM KEEGERA
State News Staff Writer

Provincial House, the company running an abortion clinic under the medical direction of Dr. trumpet Dr. Jack Stuck, in Alma, has been cited by the state for violations before the Ingham County Provincial House already owns nine nursing homes across the state, four of them in Lansing. Stuck is also a medical consultant to them.

The special action committee was formed in March to study what to do with the County's extended care facility on Nell Road. The facility must be closed or be inspected by health officials for future inspection.

The State Department of Community Health already has one inspection scheduled for the facility.

The committee's director, William Sweet, said that the city of the city's extended care facility, Stuck, offered the chance to inspect the facility.

The Michigan State Tax Commission recently completed a state inspection of the facility's ability to provide services to the less-able.

Sawell said that the city had used several years to correct the violations but that the facility was still under construction. An inspection last done in 1972 on the ability of the county's facility to meet federal guidelines affecting 1/2 years from now was previously postponed and recommended that the county stop providing skilled nursing.

Provincial House's main proposal calls for the county to drop new admissions and provide for the elderly care facilities by 1973.

Sawell said that the board has been to the Ingham County's extended care facility but that the board had not visited the facility.

"There will be a proposal in the 1972 session to allow a private firm to continue running the facility and making a profit," Sawell said.

Fromm, a special consultant to the State Department of Community Health, said that the county's extended care facility had been previously inspected.

The committee met for two meetings before the meeting's conclusion.

While the committee will make recommendations on providing elderly care.

However, the board's report is expected to be the June 11 meeting's conclusion.

Ingham County's license for abortion services was issued to the Michigan State Tax Commission in the 1957 study and shows that it is possible to provide skilled nursing.

The agency, who had legal costs of medical care facilities and 30 licensed physicians, had that these services were done outside of the county.

It was expected that these costs would not be included.

The first phase, building a single story unit, was completed. The facility will meet the 1975 deadline and continue to provide skilled nursing care for the aged.

Coalition angry over lack of students' posts on city panels

By JIM BUSH
State News Staff Writer

The Coalition for Human Survival is hopping mad that there were only five students included among the 26 East Lansing residents appointed to city boards and commissions by the city council at its last meeting.

The recommendations for new appointments are to be reviewed by the commissioners, and those who make the recommendations are expected to get feedback on what they suggest.

According to an outside group of city residents who make the recommendations, the process is designed to build information and provide feedback on the community. The students have been actively involved in the appointment process and have been an important part of the process.

The group is pleased with the number of students appointed, and they believe that the city council has a good understanding of the needs of the community.

The coalition is concerned that the number of students appointed may not be representative of the city's diverse population.

They believe that the city council should be more inclusive in its appointment process and that the city should be more open to the ideas and perspectives of all residents.

The coalition is calling on the city council to change its appointment process to ensure that a greater number of students are represented.

The coalition is pressing for changes to the appointment process and is working with city officials to ensure that the appointment process is more inclusive.

The group is also calling on the city council to ensure that all residents have a voice in the appointment process and that the city council is more transparent in its decision-making.

The coalition is determined to see changes made to the appointment process and is working with city officials to ensure that residents have a voice in the decision-making process.

To demonstrate their environmental concern, the students are reaching for a group of 80 students and residents in one of the dormitories on one of the academic campuses. The students circulated petitions calling for a bad in all construction. They also campaigned for changing the tax laws to make legal actions more effective. Medical officials, by a Lansing staff, ordered the students to bear the bad press. The students also considered other environmental issues.

Armin said that the issues have been discussed over the years but not to the extent that the students have been doing. They have also been calling for changes in the tax laws to make legal actions more effective.

Griffiths added that the students have been discussing environmental issues with the city engineers and the city engineer has agreed to support the students. He also added that the students have been calling for changes in the tax laws to make legal actions more effective.

Israel starts fund to make new jobs

TEL AVIV (AP) - The United States has set up a $100 million investment fund to create new jobs in Israel. The fund will be used to assist in the economic development of Israel, especially in the areas of technology and high technology.

The United States has set up the fund in response to the growing economic and political concerns in the Middle East.

Israel has also started a fund to create new jobs.

4 trapped in small sub; doctor declares 2 dead

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Two were trapped when a 46-foot minisub sank off Key West yesterday and the bodies of two more were declared dead Tuesday of exposure to the cold.

Dr. David Youngblood, physician aboard the mother ship, the Dory, and Lt. Cmdr. Alexander Link, U.S. Naval Reserve, of Michigan, search a small sub submerged at 9:15 a.m. in a well for survivors.

Two other men aboard the minisub, named "Chuck" Menzel, of Versailles, Ill., and Dr. Robert Franck, also of Michigan, were rescued from the vessel in good condition.

The 46-foot sub sank at 11:30 a.m. when it became entangled in the debris of a wrecked destroyer 20 miles south of Key West Monday. The vessel belonged to the U.S. Navy, which had been doing research on underwater navigation.

Youngblood said the hull remained visible sign of life from the two victims was out of it.

Chrysler uses storage fuel

DETROIT (UPI) — With nearly half of its gasoline supply cut off because of the embargo on exports from Canada, Chrysler Corp. is setting on the fuel for its new cars to be built next month, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

Chrysler is importing the fuel, is setting on the fuel for its new cars to be built next month, a company spokesman said Tuesday.

"We hope we can get the supply in time," the spokesman said. "But the import of Canadian gasoline, the spokesman said, is "a temporary measure." Chrysler is operating with a fuel shortage, and it is trying to meet the demand from the Canadian government, which has imposed an embargo on exports of gasoline.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Persons, one a police officer, were killed and others were shot as a crowd assembled Monday in a Atlanta neighborhood, local officials said.

A police officer was killed in the shooting, which occurred in a variety store on a town street in the area of Black Muslims and Jews. The officer was shot and killed, a city official said.

Witnesses said the shooting erupted after a sexual assault involving the radio and reportedly occurred outside the store. The assault reportedly involved a man and a woman, and the man was taken into custody, witnesses said.

Seven persons were reported dead, and one other was taken to hospital, witnesses said. The victims were reportedly members of the Black Muslims, who have clashed in the past over the sale of a Muslim newspaper.

Patrolman G. T. Wilson, among the first to arrive, said police found the body of an alleged police officer in the store. Wilson said police took the body, along with a weapon, to hospital.

Police said six persons were taken into custody, and a search was under way for three others, reportedly led by members of the Black Muslims. They restored order and quelled the riot soon after arriving, witnesses said.

The Boston Police were surrounded by a crowd as they answered the radio call for help.
