Mediator to aid in ‘U,’ union talks

By JOHN LINDSTROM

The Associated Press

No agreement has been reached by negotiators between the United Auto Workers and the Michigan State University, which would end the 15-day-old strike here.

The strike, which briefly involved 13,000 employees, began over demands for higher wages, shorter working hours and fringe benefits.

Negotiations between Justin Fink, director of the Michigan State University, and William C. Oakes, secretary-treasurer of the UAW, have been going on for about 15 days.

Oakes said he was optimistic that the strike would be settled soon.

In the swim

Lake Lansing, three miles northeast of the MSU campus, is the site of a swimming pool which is located on a private property.

The pool is open to the public and is open from dawn until dusk.

The pool is open to the public and is open from dawn until dusk.

New ports may cause oil spillage

By VIRGINIA B. HALL

The Detroit News

The construction of new ports in the United States may cause oil spillage.

The new ports are expected to be open within the next 10 years.

The ports are expected to be open within the next 10 years.

Seeks student aid

Pickets request strike settlement

By JOHN LINDSTROM

The Associated Press

Pickets at the University of Michigan have requested a strike settlement.

The pickets have requested a strike settlement.

Saginaw urgers papers’ release

WASHINGTON (AP) - Swedish Envoy Paul Groty, who is supposed to have visited the United States, has returned to Sweden.

The Swedish Envoy Paul Groty, who is supposed to have visited the United States, has returned to Sweden.

FRIDAY RELEASE PREDICTED

Nixon prognosis good

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

Mr. Nixon is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

Mr. Nixon is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.

The president is expected to return from Hawaii on Friday.
Differing tuition rates suggested

Utility agencies slate power planning meet

The State News is published by the students of Michigan State University every other day, except Fall, Winter and Spring school holidays. Subscriptions start Sept. 1, 1972. Rates: Domestic: 1 year, $5; Ohio, $5; Out of State, $8; Student, $5.00 per year. Back issues can be purchased at 75c each. For change of address, substantially, the student must notify the office of The State News at least two weeks before the change is desired. Officials of the University are authorized to subscribe to The State News and to charge the cost of such subscriptions to the student account. Copies of The State News are available to the public by subscription or for purchase. The State News is an independent publication and is not responsible for the opinions expressed in it. The publication of material does not indicate implied approval.

Michigan State News, East Lansing, Michigan

Vnf Cong free Canadians

The Viet Cong released two Canadian prisoners Saturday after detainimg them for 17 days and wanting to have an observer present at Viet Cong territory without prior approval.

The two officers, who are both members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, were captured near the town of Hai Phong, north of Hanoi, according to a report released last month by the Canadian Government on Higher Education.

The report states that families with incomes below $3,000 per year have paid as much as $30,000 to have a larger portion of college costs. This would allow public colleges in the US to boost enrollment of lower-income students.

W. Clement Stone, who has given millions to Republican political candidates, said Sunday that he would not withdraw his contributions if necessary, to insure reform of campaign financing laws. Stone, 77, who heads the Rockefeller Foundation, already has promised the injection of large sums.

Rogers opens trade talks

Secretary of State William P. Rogers came to Tokyo Sunday for a week-long conference with the United States and Japan.

The ninth meeting of two nations to discuss U.S.-Japan acute trade and economic problems was held. Originally Rogers was to be accompanied by Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and Herbert Stein, Assistant Secretary for President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers.

Skylob countdown begins

Engineers Sunday started the countdown on the Saturn rocket and Apollo spacecraft that will boost the world's first crewed spacecraft to America's first space station later this month.

The countdown began at 11 a.m. EDT July 26 for the last 48 hours before launch. A 10 minute countdown, which will remain at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas, until July 28, will begin after they fly away from the Kennedy Space Center.

Filipinos ordered to vote

The marital law movement of President Ferdinand Marcos will hold a special election in Luzon this week that any member of Philippine citizen assemblies that fail to vote in the coming referendum without a good excuse may be sent to jail.

An announcement by the Dept. of Information and Public Relations said the question is possible by imprisonment for one to six months under a pending government setting guidelines for the referendum.

The announcement came on the last registration day for members of the citizens assemblies who were asked on July 27 to approve the extension of Marcos' marital law vote beyond the end of 1973.

U' College drops 1973 symposium

The commission also noted that the increased college tuition rate would be accepted by the public until next years tuition rates.

The report added that an increased tuition rate would also serve to close the widening gap between public and private tuition rates.

The proposed rate figure

Utility agencies slate power planning meet

Integrated power planning in financing power plants and transmission lines, which will be examined by the Federal Power Commission, will discuss the previous meeting of the commission; 1974, July 18, 19, and 20.

The energy crisis, power reliability, communications, competition, the impact of the Federal Power Commission, and the future of regulation will be discussed by President Richard E. Creasey, chairman. TED B., chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, and the SEC, the FCC, the Federal Communications Commission, the consumer, the Federal Power Commission, and the SEC.

AIDS

AIDS

AIDS
TO DISCUSS EDITORIAL POLICIES

SN, Indian rep may meet

M. JOHN BORGER, Staff Writer

News staff editor, wrote recently to meet with Whiting at any time convenient to the...
Nixon must turn papers over to Watergate investigators

President Nixon has finally decided to cooperate with a meeting with Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., of the Senate Special Committee on Presidential Campaign Practices to try and resolve the heart of the case: the access to White House documents.

But the paper trail will be a tragic if Nixon sticks to his word and redacts papers to save Senate investigators.

City post will relay more data to public

A new administrative position has been created within East Lansing city government and, if it works out, both the press and the public should have a better idea of what's happening at City Hall.

Nancy Wehrle, formerly a reporter with the Towne Court, will become an administrative assistant to City Manager John Parratt. She will work closely with department heads and pick out information that could be helpful to the press.

An example of East Lansing's annual report (which may become a quarterly report within the next year) and gather current topics for an internal newsletter. The newsletter will be designed to let city department heads listen in to one another.

This position is vitally important to an ever-growing amount of local media, which will have another channel from which to sift news about internal politics of East Lansing, which means information can be passed to the reading public.

It's good to see that the city is taking a flying leap toward passing additional public knowledge on to local residents.

Take note...

To Paul Risk, instructor, wilderness survival

From Walt Webber Re: Scarpunlight feed trail

Dear Paul:

When I smelled the trail strewed with flaxseed, I knew I wore bulks and all. Ever tested liq. of onions?

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Greatest show on earth

PHILADELPHIA

Presidential candidates of the 1976 campaign, both on and off the field.

State News photo by Kathy Niesianowski

FORMATION OF THE STAFF

WASHINGTON - The United States is having a very difficult time trying to figure out how to celebrate its 200th birthday. There has been no appeal to the nation to join in this milestone (like the bicentennial), and there is no public commitment to the event (like the centennial).

"We need to pull this thing together," said a voice from the East Room last week. But it would be a public relations disaster if there was no event.

"Whom does it concern," said a reporter, "the American people or the government?"

"The White House," said the voice, "and it's time we got our act together on this.

"But the White House has no idea what it's doing," said the reporter.

"What do you mean," said the voice, "we're not doing anything?

"You're not out of your mind, I said.

"But we are," said the voice. "We are planning a lot of things, but our main aim is to get publicity.

"It's not as clear as it should be," said the reporter.

"It is as clear as it should be," said the voice. "We are planning to have a lot of events, but they will be scattered around the country."

"You mean, there will be no coordination," said the reporter.

"Yes," said the voice, "and that's the problem."

"But the White House is having a lot of trouble," said the reporter.

"It's not the White House," said the voice, "it's the people who are having trouble."
Lack of federal funds hinders lake dredging

By Jim Buhl

State News Staff Writer

Lake Huron's only national park has undergone a series of major, historically significant restoration projects that have helped to improve the park's water quality and ecological health. However, recent budget cuts have made it difficult to continue these efforts.

Lake Huron is suffering from a lack of federal funding, which has affected the park's ability to maintain its current level of ecological restoration. The federal government has been cutting back on funding for similar projects across the country, making it difficult to continue the work that has been done so far.

The park's water quality has improved significantly over the past few decades due to these efforts. However, without continued funding, these gains could be lost, and the park's ecosystem could begin to degrade once again.

The park is currently facing a $1 million shortfall in its budget, which is used to fund various restoration projects. The lack of federal funding has made it difficult to address this shortfall, and the park is in danger of losing its status as a national park.

The park's managers are working to find alternative sources of funding, but they are aware that this is a short-term solution. Long-term solutions will require continued federal funding.

The park is an important natural resource, and it is important that we continue to work to protect it. The lack of federal funding is a serious issue, and we must work to address it before it is too late.
New ports may cause oil spillage

City to debate resolution on surveillance

City Councilman George Naert introduced a city-wide police surveillance measure for approval at the next City Council meeting, which was on the agenda for Tuesday night.

However, the measure, which was presented at a community meeting earlier in the week, generated some concerns from some community members. They argued that the measure would infringe on civil liberties and privacy rights. The measure would require the installation of surveillance cameras across the city to monitor public safety concerns.

Naert said the measure was introduced in response to recent incidents involving criminal activity that have caused concern among residents. He said the cameras would be used to deter crime and improve public safety.

But some residents expressed concerns about the potential for abuse of the surveillance cameras and the possibility of invasion of privacy. They also raised questions about the cost of implementing such a system and the potential for misuse of the data collected.

A spokesperson for the city said that the measure was still under review by the city council and that further discussions would be held before any decision was made.

The community meeting was held to gather public input and was part of the city's ongoing efforts to address public safety concerns and improve the quality of life for residents.

The measure would require the installation of surveillance cameras across the city to monitor public safety concerns.

City Councilman George Naert introduced the measure in response to recent incidents involving criminal activity that have caused concern among residents. He said the cameras would be used to deter crime and improve public safety.

But some residents expressed concerns about the potential for abuse of the surveillance cameras and the possibility of invasion of privacy. They also raised questions about the cost of implementing such a system and the potential for misuse of the data collected.

A spokesperson for the city said that the measure was still under review by the city council and that further discussions would be held before any decision was made.

The community meeting was held to gather public input and was part of the city's ongoing efforts to address public safety concerns and improve the quality of life for residents.