Watergate forces action in Congress

Tape leaks blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Judiciary Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr. asked the Watergate special prosecutor, Archibald Cox, to re-examine the evidence in the Nixon tape scandal Tuesday and to prepare a report for the Senate. Cox is under fire for his handling of the Watergate investigation.

The White House announced Monday that the Senate Special Committee on Watergate had not summoned the tapes, but it also said the committee would not meet Tuesday.

The subpoena was served on the Department of Justice Monday, and it named Cox as the special prosecutor, under oath, to present evidence to the Senate of Watergate crimes.

Cox had asked for the subpoena. The Senate asked the FBI to turn over the tapes to the special counsel. The FBI is expected to turn over the tapes to the Senate on June 17.

The subpoenas were intended to force the White House to turn over the tapes to the Senate, and they named the special counsel as the special prosecutor, under oath, to present evidence to the Senate of Watergate crimes.

A proposed Meriden Township anti-noise ordinance has finally brought the several commercial centers into compliance.

The ordinance, proposed and partially enacted, would prohibit placing offensive sounds, such as loudspeakers, in areas where they could be heard.

The proposal aims to define noise which would affect the quality of life and to require the installation of noise-reducing devices.

The ordinance would also require the posting of signs informing the public of the noise-reducing devices.

The proposed ordinance will be discussed further at the meeting of the U.S. Supreme Court.

tight security marks trial for gainesville 8

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - The trial of eight antiwar activists against multiple charges started Monday after tight security measures.

The defendants, who were arrested last year, had to appear in court separately at the behest of the sheriff.

They are accused of having a role in a protest against the Vietnam War.

The trial is expected to last several weeks.

Randy's Wholesale Meat suppliers also included. A Supply, a Supply Co., and a Supply Co. in the market because they were getting food for people who were also getting food for the market. Some people complained about the prices, but no one really cared about the potential for food to be wasted. The supply companies then reported to the government that their prices were set for the market.

Randy's Wholesale Meat, meanwhile, became a for-profit company and decided to change the way they did business. They wanted to be more efficient and profitable, and they knew that this meant changing the way they did business. They began to focus on the needs of the market, and they started to make changes to their business practices.

The changes made by Randy's Wholesale Meat had a significant impact on the market. Prices went down, and the availability of food increased. The customers who had been struggling to find food were able to find it more easily, and the market as a whole became more efficient.

Randy's Wholesale Meat and other supply companies worked hard to ensure that the market remained stable. They were committed to providing food for the people who needed it, and they knew that this was an important responsibility.

Ice arena parking lot wasted if used for athletic events only

The board of trustees has authorized the construction of a $130,000 addition to the ice arena, as an extension of the crowds expected to use the new ice arena. The lot will be used for parking at all athletes and spectators if the use is confined to athletic events only.

The parking lot will be located on the west side of the new ice arena, between Willow and Shaw lanes and located across Shaw lane from the present football field. There is little more parking facilities needed in the area with the ice arena that will house close to 7,000 patrons.

Richard Bernard, director of the MSU Dept. of Physical Education, said that the space will be a great asset to South Complex students and Cherry Lane Apartments. He said that the lots will be used only for providing additional parking during campus athletic events. There is the west lane, students, faculty and University employees will have 300 parking spaces.

This is determined in front of their eyes, but will be barred from using them. As scheduled now, the lot will be stark naked except when vanity tenants advantage.

If the new lot will be a waste of resources, then the 208-space parking lot behind Ann Fieldhouse already. That lot is also used only for parking during events, and for the storage of Chancellor's vehicles.

There seems much less reason to have been made of both presence, but it is a waste of resources for vanity tenants advantage.

We are caught in the two most dangerous wars ever carried to the brink of world disaster: nuclear arms race and war against the common laws of humanity. No one can end these wars, nor the other threats, no one knows what outcomes may be a mere fizzle, or an uncontrollable nuclear conflagration, or what.

Report pinpoints city problems

By ROBBIE HANES

Economic and governmental problems in the Lansing area are highlighted in a recently released report. The City Council for Human Survival is the sponsor of the report.

The July report, written by the Radical Research Report, was coordinated by Allen Clachridge, who says it is an attempt to bring information about local problems to the attention of the public.

The report contains information that supports various candidates and issues for radical city legislation.

The report is divided into two parts, each of which contains information about the city's problems. The first part contains information about the city's labor policies, while the second part contains information about the city's economic policies.

In the first part, the report says that the city's labor policies are inconsistent and that they fail to provide adequate protection for workers. The report also says that the city's economic policies are
businesses.

In the second part, the report says that the city's economic policies are inconsistent and that they fail to provide adequate protection for businesses. The report also says that the city's labor policies are
workers.

The report ends with a conclusion that the city's problems can be solved by providing better information about the city's labor and economic policies.
Group donates $500 for beautification plan

The Central East Lansing Business Assn. (CELSBA) Tuesday donated all of the proceeds from the 1973 Festival Day to Tree for Tomorrow. The $500 profit made from selling hot dogs, beer, pop and balloons during the day will be used to beautify the streetscape of Grand River Avenue between Michigan Avenue and Grand River, CELSBA president Paul Johnston said.

"This is one of the positive things people don't think are happening," Johnston said. As chairman of the festival event, she presented representatives of the other groups to Tree for Tomorrow with a check at a press conference at the central Lions Park Tuesday morning.

Though work has not yet begun on the median, city architect Gene Mitchell has completed landscape plans for the median of Michigan Avenue, which are scheduled to be completed by the end of the summer.

The Michigan Avenue beautification project will be overseen from service due to lack of riders.

Joe Kenyon, chairman of the board of the capital area transportation authority, said Monday only two of the services will run until 6 p.m. on Sat. or Sun. as scheduled.

The busses, which cost $1.25 a week to run, were bringing in only $15 a week in June, he said.

Lock of riders forces cutback in bus service

Four of the six minibuses used in Lansing as part of the MSU Fixed Route System will be removed from service due to lack of riders.

"The two half-buses will be removed," said Meals Johnson, chairman of the Lansing Transportation Advisory Board. "We have heard reports that passengers are not using the service.

"Maybe we will replace them at a later date if ridership increases," he said.

If you’ve ever visited a state fair, you know that the displays of "Frisbee-tossed-into-a-water-trough" and "You can jump the fence in 500 hogs," would probably enjoy a trip to the Story State Fair. If you think you’re never been to a "meat-slicer" machine, this fair can provide you with one.

One thing you get to eat is a meatball sandwich. This sandwich is made by a man who has been selling them on the street for over 10 years. He calls it a "meatball," but it’s more like a meatloaf on a bun. It’s a bit overpriced, but it’s a good way to fill your stomach before you go on the midway.

Of course, the fair wouldn’t be complete without the livestock. The 4-H and FFA members are proud of their animals, and they show them off with pride.

The fair is a great place to see all sorts of animals, from pigs to chickens to sheep. It’s a great way to learn about the different types of animals and where they come from.

The fair is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and it’s free to enter. So, come on down to the Story State Fair and see all the fun it has to offer.

The Michigan Foundation is formally underway with the appointment of members to the board of leadership and the election of officers.

The newly incorporated foundation was created earlier this year to help generate financial support for the University and to distribute funds in support of MSU academic and research programs.

Clara T. Jarecki, president and chairman of the Board of Directors of Great Rapids, was elected chairman of the Foundation's Board.

Vice chairmen are Edward E. Kirkham, Board of Trustees, secretary; Leslie W. Smith, MSU vice president for development; and Roger S. Wilkerson, MSU secretary, treasurer, insurance.

Other members of the Foundation board are MSU President Jack W. Wilks, chairman; John E. Hoffman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau; and Lester Thompson, president of Auto Salesman's Manufacturing Co., llc, Grand Rapids.

Ladd commented that president and students were an important factor when developing to have a stronger awareness of the Bloodmobile at Mason Hall.

Ladd said that students and staff had to get involved.

The campus population during summer term does not equal that of the fall term. Ladd noted that he was relying on people who have never heard of MSU before, especially large students, to turn out bloodmobile.

Football luncheon for Big Ten slated

MSU's new head football coach, Don Staley, will lead the Spartans delegation at the annual national Big Ten Football Kickoff Luncheon Friday, in the Grand Ballroom of the Palms Hotel in Chicago. All conference head grid coaches, athletic directors and sports information people plus a select group of standout players will attend, along with more than 150 press, radio and TV people, Big Ten office officials and hundreds of other boosters.

Rules by Big Ten commissioner Wayne Dale and Staley's schedule for the event were announced this week.

In Chicago, there will be a special luncheon for the MSU delegation and the other Big Ten coaches.
City to negotiate to buy gas station

The City of East Lansing plans to negotiate to purchase the Maryland Oil station in order to continue development of the central business district.

At their July 13 meeting, city councilors heard the planning commission's urging to buy the property and directed City Manager John A. St. Pierre to negotiate with the company.

City Planning Director Michael Catoe said councilors wanted to put the final touches on the block bordered by Michigan Avenue, Anns and Groves streets and M.A.C. Avenue.

"It is the core concept of development," Catoe said. "Building in a high traffic area, including closing many streets to traffic and opening them to pedestrians.

Mayor William Bresnahan said he wanted the city to own the site to ensure some key uses, at least temporarily.

Councilor Fred Johnson said the city would include a city market with produce ten or three days a week, set a rough timeline of when and where it will open. The man said, "Putting a market on it," the man said. "The city wants to keep it on a regular basis at a specific location."

One benefit that Sharp stresses is the potential of removing a potential hazard or a parking lot.

"City councilors want to have the corner to influence the kind of development there," Sharp said. "It would be too impractical to sell the land to developers and a good development there."

Both Brookover and Sharp said the City site would probably not be enough to support a market but that the city could buy the small part area next to it which is just now on the market.

"Though the cost of the site is not now known, Sharp said the purchase would open the potential for a City market, or would be turned over to the parking authority to finance through bonding."

Patriarche has just returned from vacation and was immune of council's action.

Curb work starts along main roads

Rock began Tuesday to smooth out the East Lansing burlington, and city crews will begin to replace broken curbs during the next few days.

City councilors awarded the paving contract for 65,000 tons of asphalt to T.R. Contractors Co., based in St. John and treasurer of Groves Avenue, downtown, and Michigan Avenue, downtown.

Curb cuts will be made in Abbott between Michigan Street and East Grand Avenue, and Michigan Avenue between Collingwood Avenue and Groves Street.

LANSING—Ann

City Manager John Patriarche will negotiate for the city of East Lansing to purchase this vacant C.L. Patrick property on the north side of M.A.C. Avenue between Michigan Avenue and Abel Street. City Council wants to own the property to control development on the site. Two scramble members hope to eventually establish a farmers' market or a city park there.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., Connecticut’s, continued that the information used by Ervin and others to prove his case on the floor of the Senate is not the same information that has been widely publicized to him and his staff.

At least two other senators who have called the tape controversial say they were not consulted by Ervin before the tape was played on the floor of the Senate.

The senators, John L. Warner, Virginia, and Sam Nunn, Georgia, said they were not consulted by Ervin before the tape was played on the floor of the Senate.

Man facing extradition says 'nobody can make me leave' by United Press International Robert F. Williams, former head of the Republic of New Africa who has extradition to North Carolina on 13-year-old charges, says he will be extradited.

"Nobody can make me go," Williams told the Liberian government and the Committee to Free Robert F. Williams Moody last week.

Brody post filled by Scarborough

Charles Scarborough was appointed acting director of residence hall operations Athletic Council and Business Affairs Committee and involved with the selection of a replacement for Charles Schafer.

"He has been active in the University and the community," said Schafer, who is replacing Scarborough.

"I'm sure that he will continue to fill the slot and provide a good service to the students," Schafer said.

"If I choose to go, I'll go to North Carolina to fight the case. If I don't go to go, that's something they can't do about it," Williams said.

Williams accused Gov. Williams, who has refused to give him the extraditiion, of being "bogus," according to Schafer.

Williams was charged with the 1600 kidnapping of a white couple in Tennessee, N.C., while he was in residence hall in the southern state.

He returned to Tennessee four years ago, according to Schafer.

Williams said he had chosen to return under a Democratic administration he probably would not have had to worry about extradition at all.

The list of all the other black people who have been in residence hall and escaped to the North came under Democratic administration and were not sent back to the South," Williams said.

He said Williams was "playing ball with the new administration of the South."
