Bill seeking institutional measures for safety could cost 'U' $864,000

Student's family reported safe in hotel in Cairo

The family of an NSU student is reported to have been located in a hotel in Cairo. For some time, several reports have been circulating in the press about the whereabouts of the student, whose name is not provided. The family, who have not been identified, is believed to be staying in a reputable hotel in the city center. The hotel is said to have taken all necessary precautions to ensure the safety of the guests.

The situation has been under close monitoring by the university authorities, who are working closely with the relevant government agencies. The university has issued a statement expressing concern for the well-being of the student and their family. It has been emphasized that the university is doing everything possible to ensure their safety and immediate return.

Meanwhile, the university has also urged all students to take necessary precautions while traveling abroad, especially to countries where safety conditions are not fully guaranteed.

Grapevine Journal halts publication

The Grapevine Journal, a local publication, has announced its immediate suspension of operations. The decision was made due to financial difficulties and a lack of advertising support. The publication has been a staple in the community for several years, providing news and features on local events and issues.

Although the publication has been struggling financially in recent months, the exact reasons for its closure are not publicly known. The editors have expressed their disappointment and gratitude to the community for its support over the years.

The Grapevine Journal's website and social media accounts have been taken down. The future of the publication is unclear at this time.

Minority students blast exclusion from meeting at Kellogg Center

By ABDEL JAMAL
From News Staff Writer

African American students at Michigan State University recently expressed outrage at being excluded from a meeting at the Kellogg Center, a university facility. The students claim that their voices were not heard and that their concerns were not taken into account.

The meeting was scheduled to discuss issues related to racial diversity and inclusion at the university. The students claim that they were not invited to participate and that their presence was not acknowledged.

The university administration has issued a statement, expressing its commitment to diversity and inclusion. The statement acknowledged the students' frustration and pledged to work towards addressing their concerns.

Inside Wednesday

Grapevine Journal establishes a editors' column

The Grapevine Journal has announced the establishment of an editors' column, where the editors will provide commentary and analysis on various issues. The column, which will appear regularly, aims to engage with the community and offer diverse perspectives.

Outside Wednesday

Petition starts with a chance of success at the National Motor Service

A petition has been launched to improve conditions at the National Motor Service, a company that provides transportation services. The petition has gained significant attention and support, with thousands of signatures collected in just a few days.

The petition calls for better working conditions, fair treatment, and more transparency in the company's operations. The organizers hope to create a platform for workers to voice their concerns and work towards a more equitable and safe work environment.
Supreme Court declines to rule on impoundment

The Supreme Court declined Monday to rule on the constitutionality of the Nixon administration's efforts to impound federal funds. This week, the court ruled that the Nixon administration's measures to impound funds were constitutional.

The court's ruling means that the administration can continue to impound funds for its programs. The administration has been trying to impound funds for its programs for several months, but the court's ruling means that it can now continue to do so.

The administration's efforts to impound funds have been met with opposition from the states and the courts. The states and the courts have argued that the administration's measures to impound funds are unconstitutional.

The administration has been trying to impound funds for its programs in order to fund its programs and to fund the war in Vietnam. The administration has been trying to impound funds for its programs in order to fund its programs and to fund the war in Vietnam.

The administration's efforts to impound funds have been met with opposition from the states and the courts. The states and the courts have argued that the administration's measures to impound funds are unconstitutional.

The administration has been trying to impound funds for its programs in order to fund its programs and to fund the war in Vietnam. The administration has been trying to impound funds for its programs in order to fund its programs and to fund the war in Vietnam.
House passes charges of civil service violation

By PATRICK MADDEN

The Personnel Director豬s office may have violated civil service rules in the selection of a training director in his own bureau, three administrative law judges said.

The judges recommended that the director, Terence Williams, be called before the Michigan Civil Service Commission on charges that he recommended himself for the job.

The commission said it could not find that the director recommended himself for the job, but would order him to preside in an impartial capacity at the hearing.

The board of education met Tuesday night to iron out contract disputes.

City teachers, board of education meet to iron out contract dispute

By AL SMITH

City teachers and the East Lansing Board of Education met Tuesday night in an attempt to iron out a salary dispute that has existed in the district for the past two years.

The school district's present salary package is $5,000 below the state's average for teachers in the same position. The city teachers have been unable to reach agreement on a new contract.

"If we can't resolve this problem between now and the end of the school year, we will have to consider the possibility of a strike," said Joseph P. Durkin, director of business services and personnel for the board of education, and the board's legal counsel.

"There was no indication that the teachers had reached an agreement," the board's attorney, said the meeting had been postponed and will be held next week.

Waste Control Authority may save MSU $2,258

The waste control authority in the state of Michigan has been recommended by the Michigan State University Board of Control to save the university at least $2,258 in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

According to the report, the authority would reduce the amount of waste produced by the university by 100 tons per week, which would result in a savings of $2,258.

The waste control authority is a state agency that was created to reduce the amount of waste produced by the state's universities.

The authority has recommended that the university reduce its waste production by 100 tons per week, which would result in a savings of $2,258.

The report also recommended that the authority be expanded to include all state universities.

The authority is currently responsible for waste control at two universities, Michigan State and the University of Michigan.

The authority is a state agency that was created to reduce the amount of waste produced by the state's universities.

The authority has recommended that the university reduce its waste production by 100 tons per week, which would result in a savings of $2,258.
EDITORIALS

Choice of living options numerous, but availability restricts students

The basic problem with University housing is not the number of options available to students, but rather availability of these many and varied options.

The solution to this problem lies, in part, with students. There are avenues open to students to effect change to become options, if they can learn to finance them.

Any change in the living arrangement of a residence must be handled by the Board of Trustees. But the choice change living options in a residence hall must be initiated by students through their hall government.

Last spring, there was a big move on campus to change living arrangements in various residence halls. The Residence Hall Association (RHA) presented the proposal to the Board of Trustees, but the trustees declined to pass the majority of the options.

The proposals dealt mainly with the integration of men and women in the residence halls, either by floor or wing. The main reason the trustees gave for dismissing most of the new living options was that the majority of them did not meet four main areas of consideration for changing a living option in a residence hall:

- The four main points the trustees must consider are: Retaining an existing mix of freshmen and returning students.
- Allowing for a more even monetary distribution among the various residents.
- Increasing or maintaining occupancy in residence halls.
- Providing the idea of residential colleges.

RHA is currently working on getting greater availability of options in the residence halls. The Housing and Residence Life Committee is recommending big changes in housing in the University, and also determining exactly what is needed in the way of additional options to each residence hall. This will be a slow process, but will worth the effort.

The dilemma with RHA's proposals last year was that they were presented to the trustees too late and were not adequately researched. If RHA starts to work now and all indications point that they are - there is no reason why students next year will not be able to take advantage of more living options in greater numbers than in the past.

Faculty reps not needed on board

The proposal by the Executive Council of the MU Student Association (AASP), and the MU Student Faculty Association to allow one of their member's to serve as an ex-officio advisor to the Board of Trustees - coming as it does on the cusp of the last task of the AMSU's year - should thus be supported by the board action.

The two major reasons why the faculty should not have a representative on the board: Conflict of interest. By virtue of the faculty representative's sit in on board meeting, salary increases, tenor, budget grants to various departments are all discussed at board meetings. A faculty representative in on the meetings could influence how the board decides these issues.

POINT OF VIEW

Broadcast this way or not at all

By RICHARD CARRBELL

For those who have been following the revolution in broadcasting, the FCC is now under review by the Federal Communications Commission of the issue of broadcasting on college and university campuses.

The issue: Last October when the Supreme Court of the United States decided to hear the case of the Broadcasting, the FCC and the Supreme Court saw it as an issue of public interest in which its portrayal was clearly in the public interest.

The issue is also one of utmost importance to all those who have been engaged in the struggle for broadcasting on college and university campuses.

The FCC’s decision to hold hearings on the issues of broadcasting on college and university campuses is not a victory for those who have been engaged in the struggle for broadcasting on college and university campuses.

Employer - employee relationship between the University and the faculty was the other major problem inherent in the proposal. The main difference here is that the faculty and students in the University are students of the University, and the faculty are employees of the University.

By jumping on the bandwagon of the AAMUSU proposal, the faculty has seriously jeopardized the chances for anyone to have a say in future meetings. This is the chance to get a foot in the door, but it could be shut right in the collective faces of everyone by the faculty's trying to go along for the ride.

To the Editor:

The article on WFRE in the State News is an interesting one and should be read by anyone interested in going on the road in the future.

The article on The University of Illinois at Chicago and its students is one of the most interesting articles on this subject in some time.

The FCC has taken a step forward in giving a voice to the students and the faculty of the United States and the University.

FCC cannot ignore 'blackout' charge

By HANS CARRBELL

Save paper for recycling

To the Editor:

In one of the paper changes which has been an excellent idea in the past, the University has begun to use paper which can be recycled.

How many students are aware of this fact? It is interesting to find that even students who have been made aware of this fact have used this new form of paper.

The use of paper which can be recycled is one of the best examples of what can be done to help the environment. This is one of the ways in which we can help to save the planet by using paper that can be recycled.

I hope that more students will become aware of this fact and use paper which can be recycled.
Bill Whiting
Labels help clarify city's political scene

Our exciting photograph will arouse Spartan fans!

Political tags unfair to council members

Mary Carter

While I have neither the background or expertise to judge whether homosexu-ality is a hindrance or a hindrance to the community, I am prepared to take the statement out of words in which I found it. I don't think it is necessary to put any kind of a political atmosphere and I am prepared to take it as written.

While this is not the issue that we are dealing with today, I think that this is an issue that we should be thinking about in terms of the future.

We have to be careful about putting labels on people, especially in matters of this nature. It is important to recognize that we are dealing with a sensitive issue and that we need to approach it with care and compassion.

It is important to remember that we are a community and that we should be united in our efforts to create a safe and inclusive environment for all.

The issue of labeling people based on their sexual orientation is not new. It has been a topic of discussion and debate for many years, and it continues to be an important issue today.

It is important to recognize that everyone deserves to be treated with respect and dignity, regardless of their sexual orientation.

We must continue to work towards creating a society where everyone is treated with equality and respect, and where labels and stereotypes are not used to judge or oppress individuals.
Students rally to support Israel

By NANCY CRANE
State News Staff Writer

About 200 Jewish students rallied in support of Israel at a demonstration on the Lansing State Community College campus Wednesday. Rabbi Bill Haskal, director of Hillel, a Jewish student organization, suggested that student will become more involved in the Middle East situation.

The rally was planned in advance as a part of a national campaign, "Students for Justice in Palestine," according to the Student News and an informational meeting at the registration offices of the Lansing Philharmonic on campus. All are in the Jewish people's behalf.

Some students also discussed the possibility of going to Israel to fight the war or serve the Israeli cause in other ways.

However, Rabbi Bill Haskel, director of Hillel, a Jewish student organization, suggested that student will be more involved in the Middle East situation.

"People going to Israel will have to try to get their costs covered and will also have to spend at least as much as they would otherwise have spent," he said.

Rally participants included students from MSU, Michigan State, and other Michigan colleges.

Citizens' lobby declares war on 4% state food tax

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The 1974 Michigan Citizens Lobby has declared war on Michigan's 4% per food tax with the battle cry, "Food should not be taxed," according to a senior staff member of the organization.

"Our goal is to make tax payers see the war to continue," he said.

Discussion slated about hypertension

The "Management of the Hypertensive Patient" will be the subject of a seminar on high blood pressure this fall at a large hospital in Detroit.

Several of the important topics to be discussed at the seminar are preventive and symptoms of hypertension, and treatment of the patient with other problems of high blood pressure.

The seminar will be held at the New England Conference on Hypertension and Hypertensive Diseases at the Cleveland Clinic.

County data indicates September crime up

Through Lansing several large decreases in crime to the September, 1973, crime statistics for the city of Lansing. The decrease is in the number of crimes reported.

There are less crimes reported in Ingham County in September, 1973, than in August, 1973. The decrease in crime is primarily due to the decrease in the number of crimes reported in the city of Lansing.

Bus service on campus to return to normal today

Campus bus service will get back to normal this morning, Thursday, October 19. The buses will return to their original routes, including the Bexley Hall stop.

Robert Shute, the Lansing State Community College maintenance man, said the buses will return to normal service today.

Correction

In the Oct. 5, 1973, State News incorrectly reported that retail sales tax in the city of Lansing was less than 1 1/2 per cent, specifically 1.522 per cent. Only a total of 0.522 per cent of the 4 per cent business tax is collected and used for state funds. The retail sales tax collected and used for state funds is 3.4 per cent.
It's the real thing, Coke.
Real life calls for real taste.
For the taste of your life—Coke-Cola.
True human relationship shown as 'Bang Drum' livens dying plot

Michigan State News, East Lansing, Michigan

Wednesday, October 18, 1973

Simple tale and supernatural, "Bang the Drum Slowly" is memorable film that draws on author's own experiences. Story of young man (Michael Moriarity), who faces an almost hopeless situation in the world of baseball, is a tale of humanism, dealing with honest choices. What he does and why he does it is treated with a truthfulness which makes the film uniquely appealing. Baseball, the great American pastime, provides the driving force in the story, while human relationships are developed with care and attention.

"Bang the Drum Slowly" delights with both its subject matter and its development between Henry Higgins (Robert Wiggens), a mild but sensitive man with a sense of duty, and John Hancock (Robert Wiggens), who has been cast as the villain in the story. Higgins is a man of principle, who has accepted his role in the world of baseball and is determined to fulfill his duties. Hancock, on the other hand, is a man of passion, who is driven by his own desires and ambitions.

Higgins and Hancock are developed with care and attention, their relationship is a driving force in the story. The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

"Bang the Drum Slowly" is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.

The film is a study of human relationships, the ways in which people interact with each other, and the different choices they make. It is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking, a film that is both a celebration of humanism and a critique of the world of baseball.
The seven-man band will come to MSU Saturday at 8 p.m. to light the house on fire at Jenison Fieldhouse. Tickets are $3.50, $4.50 and $5 and are available at the MSU Ticket Office. The concert is being sponsored by Murray Pro-Law, Detroit Country. The Michigan State Daily, a student publication of Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan. Volume 75, No. 52, Friday, February 10, 1972.
MSU handicapped face maze

By THERESA KAME
State News Staff Writer

Administrators at many colleges are beginning to realize that a special student with physical handicaps is handicapped students from the right or an education.

A crash improvement program at MSU in 1982 resulted in 10 new building ramps and helped to create an awareness of the plight of the handicapped student.

Last winter, with the cooperation of the Michigan State University Administration, a series of hearings on integrating the handicapped population were called to speak to the committee on behalf of handicapped students.

In 1982 when the Committee on Administration was conducting hearings on integrating the student population, they were asked to speak to the committee on behalf of handicapped students.

One survey of campuses shows about half of the classrooms on campus are accessible to handicapped students. The survey also revealed that only 10% of the classrooms on campus are accessible to handicapped students. The survey also revealed that only 10% of the classrooms on campus are accessible to handicapped students.

"We're not going to make a change without hearing from those who are concerned," said Director of the Office for Handicapped Students, Tom Taylor. "But we will be making changes to improve our facilities for handicapped students."
Shinsky becomes ideal leader

BY GARY SCHADER
State News Service Writer

John Shinsky is one of those players that you can't miss in a baseball game. He is the heart of the Spartan defense, and his impact on the team is felt beyond the field and at all other games. John was born in 1941, in Lansing, Michigan. He attended Michigan State University and majored in Business Administration. Shinsky played baseball for the Spartans for four years, and was a key player in the team's success. He was named the team's Most Valuable Player in 1963, and was selected in the first round of the Major League Baseball draft by the Cleveland Indians in 1964.

Shinsky is a hard-nosed, aggressive player who is not afraid to get his hands dirty. He is known for his strong arm and his ability to make plays on the basepaths. He is also a good hitter, and has a strong throwing arm.

John Shinsky is a very dedicated player who is always willing to do whatever it takes to help the team. He is a leader on and off the field, and is respected by his teammates and coaches. Shinsky is a great example of what it means to be a good athlete and a good citizen.

Ray Nester selected UPI lineman of week

Georgia State senior offensive tackle Ray Nester was awarded the UPI Defensive Lineman of the Week Award for his performance against North Carolina State. Nester, a 330-pound senior, was credited with three tackles, one for a loss, and one sack in the game.

"Ray Nester is one of the best offensive linemen in the country," said Georgia State head coach Johnny relate. "He has been a key player in our success this season and has been a great leader for our team."

Nester began his college career at Oklahoma State University, but transferred to Georgia State in 1976.

Booster follows father's footsteps in winning MSU soccer tradition

By JACK WALFORD
State News Service Writer

The Booster, whose real name is John Smith, is the third Smith to win the Michigan State University soccer championship. His father, John Smith Sr., won the title in 1964, and his grandfather, John Smith Jr., won it in 1925.

John Smith, a senior on the MSU soccer team, has been a key player for the Spartans for the past four years. He has helped lead the team to three straight winning seasons.

"I don't think I deserved a top ranking this year," Smith said. "I think I still have a lot to prove."

The Booster is a three-sport student at MSU, playing soccer, basketball, and baseball.

Reds hang on, edge Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds held off the New York Mets 9-7 on Monday night to win the opening game of their three-game series at Shea Stadium.

The Reds scored 13 runs in the first two innings, while the Mets scored 14 runs in the first three innings. The Reds scored 10 runs in the first inning, and the Mets scored 10 runs in the second inning.

The Reds' starting pitcher, Dave McNary, allowed only two hits and one run in six innings. The Mets' starter, Tom Seaver, allowed 11 hits and seven runs in six innings.

The Reds' first baseman, Pete Rose, was 3-for-4 with two doubles and two RBIs. He was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

Campsy's horse wins for A's, 2-1

OAKLAND (UP) — Little Campy Carpenter, who hit two home runs, scored the winning run for the Oakland Athletics on a bases-loaded double by2

Carpenter, who hit two home runs, scored the winning run for the Oakland Athletics on a bases-loaded double by Bob Johnson in the ninth inning. The Athletics defeated the Baltimore Orioles 2-1.

Benjamn Carson Carpenter is the basemans.

The scene at the dinner table Monday night was changed by the presence of the New York Mets. The Mets, who arrived in town for a three-game series, were in the midst of a losing streak and were facing the league's top team.

The Mets took a 2-1 lead in the top of the first inning on a two-run home run by Willie Mays. The Athletics tied the score in the bottom of the first inning on a two-run home run by Jim Rice.

The Athletics took the lead in the fourth inning on a two-run home run by Rod Carew. The Mets tied the score in the sixth inning on a two-run home run by Bucky Dent.

The Athletics defeated the Mets 2-1 in the ninth inning on a bases-loaded double by Bob Johnson, who had been a pinch hitter for the Athletics earlier in the game.

The Mets' star pitcher, Tom Seaver, allowed only one hit in seven innings. The Athletics' pitcher, Dave McNary, allowed seven hits and seven runs in six innings.

The game was played in front of a near-capacity crowd of 37,179 at the Oakland Coliseum.

The Athletics' victory was their 11th in a row and their 20th in 26 games this season. They are now 46-16 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' win was their 32nd in a row and their 66th in 111 games this season. They are now 102-36 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' victory was their 11th in a row and their 20th in 26 games this season. They are now 46-16 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' win was their 32nd in a row and their 66th in 111 games this season. They are now 102-36 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' victory was their 11th in a row and their 20th in 26 games this season. They are now 46-16 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' win was their 32nd in a row and their 66th in 111 games this season. They are now 102-36 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' victory was their 11th in a row and their 20th in 26 games this season. They are now 46-16 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.

The Athletics' win was their 32nd in a row and their 66th in 111 games this season. They are now 102-36 for the year.

The Mets' loss was their 33rd in a row and their 45th in 75 games this season. They are now 37-47 for the year.
Soviets denounce raids

Yesterday's Soviet newspaper Pravda, which was reprinted in the United States, denounced charges by American and British newspapers that the Soviets had violated international law by using searchlights to aid their forces during the recent Italian campaign. The newspaper said that the searchlights were used for purposes of defense and not for offensive operations.

The Pravda article, which appeared in the Sunday edition of the United States edition of the newspaper, pointed out that the searchlights were used by the Soviets for the purpose of protecting their lines of communication and their military bases. The newspaper said that the Soviets had a right to use these searchlights for defensive purposes.

The article also noted that the use of searchlights by the Soviets had been authorized by the United Nations Security Council. The Security Council had authorized the use of searchlights by the Soviets for the purpose of protecting their lines of communication and their military bases.

The Pravda article also noted that the searchlights were used by the Soviets for the purpose of protecting their lines of communication and their military bases. The newspaper said that the Soviets had a right to use these searchlights for defensive purposes.
By NIKU LE NOUE

State News Staff Writer

Fall colors reach peak in U.P.; best local tree viewing to come

Though autumn is nearly a month behind schedule, the U.P. is coming into peak color quite spectacularly, according to MSU, in Grand Rapids and Copper Country.

The landscape is all around showing the typical color changes that the Ides of October bring in the state. The hills and valleys are ablaze with fall colors and in the lower Peninsula, peak colors are just starting to show up.

MSU said that the leaves have begun to turn color. The environment was similar to past fall conditions.
Copper Country

At this peak in Copper Country, there are many fall colors ranging from shades to project muted red, yellow, and orange with leaves in the area.

Copper Country

The map showed Egypt, Israel, Iran, and the Syrian fields. The map also included the areas actually occupied by Arabs.

Prof to investigate role of Senate in last 13 years

By WILHELM PADDON

State News Staff Writer

The changing role of the Senate over the last 13 years of presidential administrations will be discussed this week by the Association of Student Organizations.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the University Union.

"It is a very, very good presentation," he said.

As a student senator for the past three years, Erlenmeyer has been involved with student life in all areas.

"It is a very, very good presentation," he said.

Of all the areas that Erlenmeyer has been involved with, he says his role in the student body has been the most interesting.

Erlenmeyer points out that the Senate has been very active in the areas of student welfare and campus life. He says he has been involved with all aspects of student life.

"It is a very, very good presentation," he said.

Erlenmeyer points out that the Senate has been very active in the areas of student welfare and campus life. He says he has been involved with all aspects of student life.

"It is a very, very good presentation," he said.