Sheik threatens to deny oil to U.S. as aid to Israel rises

NORTHAMPTON — Sheik Ahmad Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's petroleum minister, said that if the United States should send an additional military contingent to the Middle East, the Sheik would cut off oil production to the U.S. and other Western countries.

The Sheik, who is widely credited for negotiating the 1973 Middle East oil embargo, which sparked the first Arab-Israeli war, made his threat in a speech to reporters at the Hotel Northampton.

The United States has already sent a military contingent to the area, and more troops are expected.

The United States is the world's largest consumer of oil, and the United States has been a major supporter of Israel.

McNamara tells rich to old poor

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara called on the privileged classes in poor countries to add $600 million worth of doctors, nurses and midwives to their payrolls.

"It's not going to be easy," Mr. McNamara told the United Nations Economic and Social Council in New York City. "The privileged are politically powerful and tend to resist reforms. But he said the goal was a big increase in the productivity of such agriculture.

Ex-congressman gets sentenced

A former Republican congressman from Pennsylvania was sentenced on three tax-law violation and fined $5,000 for giving thousands of dollars to employees. A Democratic secretary was sentenced to 18 months in jail where he pleaded guilty.

The charges stemmed from Wadley's alleged practice of using his federal office to help his staff to kick back 10 to 20 percent of their salaries.

Soviet journalist blasts Sakharov

Andrei D. Sakharov, the 32-year-old dissident Soviet physicist, has been accused by a leading Soviet Communist party theorist of having "stolen every instrument of the state" and being a "traitor.

The attack was in the party journal "Kulturesovet," the first major tirade against the communist scientist since early September.

The article, repudiating the most authoritative voice of Communist party ideology, called Sakharov "the most terrible traitor to the state and socialist system of society."

The attack came after the attack began, Sakharov himself issued a new criticism of Soviet-Moscow policy and called for direct military negotiations and invitations between Israel and the Arab states.

Charges dropped in conspiracy

The federal government dropped both conspiracy charges against 31 alleged Weathermen, saying national security was at stake when they were arrested. The U.S. District Court in Chicago, Ill., on Friday, dropped the charges against 15, including members of the Chicago Anti-War Group, Mari and his group, and Berringer's group, which was formed in 1969 to fight police brutality.

Nixon refuses comment on cash

The White House would not comment on a report that $100,000 in cash was given to President Nixon's friend Charles A. Massell, Jr., to help in a $300,000 campaign.

The report, which appeared on the front page of the New York Times, was denied by the White House.

Suburb recovers from blaze

The Boston, Mass., suburb of Chelsea slowly began to recover from a monstrous blaze that destroyed 27 houses and left 1,000 persons homeless. Former neighbors stood on the site of the burned-out homes, many of them standing except Edgar Landeski

Under high winds and the Monday night fire that destroyed the homes, Landeski said he had not heard of the fire, but said that he was not surprised.

DUE TO FORD'S NOMINATION

Senate faces shift

By MAURICE NISWANDER
State News Staff Writer

The party leadership in the state Senate may see a few changes for years to come with the resignation of the state onetime top leader, John D. Milliken, Dick Smith, the Senate's leader since 1967, said Mazlish, minority leader from the city of Lansing.

The suspended resignation of U.S. Rep. Gerald R. Ford as a member of the House of Representatives yesterday was announced by Ford's Detroit office. He will be seated for the balance of the year as a member of the House and will continue to serve in Congress next year.

But VanderJaan said that no action had been taken on the House's motions to oust him. He also said that Ford had not indicated whether he will return to Congress next year.

It is not difficult to imagine Republicans reaching for the high ground by the fall.

The open seats of Republicans and Democrats in the Senate and the House will provide the Democrats with an opportunity to strengthen their numbers after a series of legislative battles during the last two years. Stevenson has not compromised during questions whether he will stay in the Senate.

The president-remains remote giving the Democrats 11-9 ticket.

The Republicans would have needed seats in the Senate if the suspension of the American Jewish Leadership Fund, is confirmed as an official court record. A special congressional session will be needed, and state representatives R. Bob Sikes, D-Bay City, and Jeff C. Brown, D-Grosse Pointe, have announced their candidacy.

Only one day will the remaining senators will get to spend more of time on Capitol Hill Sally has her party's swearing-in ceremony on an hour to listen to the traditional address by President Ford today.

Good story on Lansing's...It's not going to be an easy job for either side.

President Ford's address to the Senate is to be given today at 1:30 p.m. It is to be broadcast on the Senate floor at 1:30 p.m. today in both

East Lansing's new bus system first big step toward mass transit

The delay by the Capital Area Transportation Authority (CATA) in implementing the north-south bus lane on East Lansing's very uninteresting, but per this inept organization.

The service was scheduled to start on Oct. 1, but a lack of vehicles in working order has forced CATA to slow negotiations on the contract.

With the major source of traffic in the East Lansing area, bus riders and visitors are always coming and going on campus. Because of CATA's success or failure, the campus can be greatly benefited of the new bus line.

If students, faculty and employees who regularly travel to campus by car ride a bus, the demand to fix congestion and parking problems would be reduced. Many would use it in its power to help CATA and East Lansing in this project.

This includes allowing the buses to use Spartan and University Village has stops on campus as requested and expanding the service to campus, if necessary.

Much of the responsibility for the success or failure of the bus service rests firmly on the shoulders of the students, MSU and CATA members, including students. If people do not make use of this bus service, then there will be no way to keep it running.

This is the first small step in the creation of an efficient bus system in East Lansing. If it fails because of the alternatives are more concrete for riders, parking lots will be filled with congestion.

In this case, is not a failure. Some will assert that it is a failure, but the use of the new bus system will not be used by the alternative system, but will be filled with congestion.

The bus system was designed with the students in mind. The bus lines on the main roads are being used only by the alternative system. The route was set up where it was thought that it would fail, but because they run too long and are too passive, a new bus was made, which was too small and was not a success. Buses are better for concrete.

Traffic committee must ascertain subordinate use for Ice Arena lot

At the end of October the All-University Traffic Committee will discuss the future utilization of the parking lot behind the new Ice Arena. The committee must take special care in determining how the parking lot should be used.

Several alternative uses can be made of the parking lot when the skating events are being held. The parking lot can be used for faculty and staff or visitor parking, or can be utilized for South Complex and Physical Education parking.

The lot could also be provided with a public shuttle and used as an alternative use for the parking lot.

The best meeting of the traffic committee is to be held on the campus of the parking lot behind the new Ice Arena. The committee is meeting at a special session, in which it will be possible to determine the parking lot's use.

All proposals or suggestions will be considered. The committee will be essential in determining the parking lot's use.

Arabs, Israelis must strive for peace

It is exceedingly tragic that, after many years of strife, one man cannot express another man's right to live when he wants to and to seek safety and protection for himself. The man who seeks the peace of mind must also show the action of the conflict.

We in America have a special responsibility to help the Arab and Jewish factions have a democratic system of state of Israel, the true home for the Jew.

Political party expands effort to impeach Nixon

The Hispanic Rights party, a small Michigan-based political party, decided to use its newfound influence to launch a nationwide effort to impeach President Richard Nixon's alleged wrongdoing.

The party hopes to gather 50,000 signatures on the petition, which will be submitted to the House of Representatives.

The party has also decided to study the possibility of making a legal challenge to the federal government's efforts to impeach Nixon.

This type of legislation would provide a parallel avenue to the impeachment process.

The party is also looking to the possibility of running candidates in the presidency and vice presidency in the upcoming election.

The Hispanic Rights party is one of several new political parties that have emerged in the United States in recent years.

About 100 people attended a recent meeting of the organization in Lansing.

MU sailors win regatta, near spot in Sugar Bowl

MU's sailing team won the 25th annual Carys-Passage last weekend, becoming only the second school in the country's history to include in the University of Michigan, its first season.

The team, which has been sailing for over 50 years, has been preparing for this event for months. The sailors have been working hard to improve their skills and strategies.

The regatta was held at an appropriate spot near the school. The weather was perfect, with moderate winds and clear skies.

The team is looking forward to competing in the Sugar Bowl, which is the final event of the season. The Sugar Bowl is one of the most prestigious events in the country, and the team is excited to be a part of it.

The team's coach, who has been involved with the sport for over 30 years, said, "This season has been a real learning experience for our team. The sailors have worked hard, and their efforts have paid off. We're looking forward to the Sugar Bowl and hope to make the final cut."
POACHING IN MICHIGAN INCREASES

by ROBERT SHEFFER

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, poaching has become a major problem in the state. Poaching not only results in the loss of wildlife, but also costs the state millions of dollars each year. The Department of Natural Resources has been加大努力 to combat poaching, but the problem persists.

The increase in poaching is attributed to several factors. One reason is the lack of public education and awareness about the importance of wildlife conservation. Many people are unaware of the impact that poaching has on the ecosystem and the economy. Additionally, the high cost of hunting licenses and the difficulty of obtaining permits may deter some people from participating in legal hunting.

Another factor contributing to poaching is the lack of law enforcement. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has a small number of officers to monitor large areas, leading to a higher likelihood of poaching going undetected.

To address these issues, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has proposed several solutions. One proposal is to increase funding for law enforcement, allowing for more officers and better resources to combat poaching. Another proposal is to increase public education and awareness through partnerships with educational institutions and organizations.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is committed to protecting the state's wildlife and ensuring that future generations can enjoy these resources. With continued efforts and support, poaching can be reduced and the state's wildlife population can be sustained.

Ex-professor at MSU will lecture this week

George M. Johnson, former MSU professor of education and past president of the American Indian Education Commission, will give two lectures at MSU this week. The lectures will cover topics such as indigenous education and cultural diversity.

The lectures are scheduled as part of an initiative to promote cultural understanding and appreciation. They are open to all students and faculty, and are expected to attract a mix of attendees.

Johnson is a well-known speaker and author, and his lectures are highly anticipated. The topics of his lectures are likely to provoke discussion and spark interest among MSU's diverse community.

School cafeterias remain without government meat

School lunch cafeterias across the country will continue to do without government meat—denied both by the Lansing Public School board and the state board of commissioners this year.

The threat of a meat shortage has been hanging over the schools for some time, but now it seems definite. Lansing schools have been told that there will be no meat, and the state board has ruled that there will be no meat at all.

The school lunch program is a federal one, and when the government cut off all meat shipments, the schools were left with no choice but to cut back on the meat.

Commissioners view structure changes

The Lansing City Commission has rejected a membership and voting structure for the county commissions based solely on population. In its proposed 10-member commission, voters would cast one vote for each of the 10 commissioners.

The commission will vote on the change at its monthly meeting Oct. 26. If the change is approved, it will then be sent to the state commission, all of which must agree to the plan to put it into effect.

The commission's 10-vote proposal is based purely on population, a change from the county commissions' current 13-member format, which is based on population and counties.

The commission's plan has been criticized for its lack of representation, particularly in rural areas. The current 13-member commission includes 10 commissioners from the 13 counties, and one each from Ingham, Eaton, and the city of Lansing.

The Lansing City Council's rejection of the proposed changes is expected to be met with challenges. The state commission will need to approve the changes, and the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled that the current commission's structure is constitutional.

But, on the other hand, it is not clear if Ingham County will receive a share of the state's representation money. No details have yet been provided.
