Ford scores trade reform breakthrough

By STEVEN DREZNER

Ford has scored a major breakthrough in its efforts to negotiate a trade deal with Japan. The company's agreement with Japan will allow Ford to import more Japanese cars into the United States, which will help the company meet its goal of doubling its sales in Japan by 2005.

The agreement was reached after months of negotiations between Ford and Japanese car makers. It includes provisions for reduced tariffs on Japanese cars imported into the United States, as well as provisions for increased access to the Japanese market for Ford's own cars.

GOFP DRAFT REPORT DENOUNCES HOUNDING

Nixon's own disclosures ousted him

The White House had it out for him on Watergate, but it needed new evidence to push it over the edge. The report published yesterday offers the first glimpse into the White House's own secret history of its own Watergate investigation.

The report also highlights the role of key figures in the investigation, including John Dean, H.R. Haldeman, and John Ehrlichman. It details the efforts to Silence and ostracize Nixon, including the "Plumbers" scandal and the use of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to investigate Nixon's political opponents.

The report concludes that the Watergate investigation was "marked by fraud, deception, and massive cover-up," and that Nixon's own disclosures ultimately led to his ousting from office.

The report is being released amidst ongoing debates about the legacies of the Watergate scandal and its impact on American politics. It is expected to spark new discussions about the role of government investigations in probing political corruption and the importance of transparent, accountability in public service.

The release of the report comes as the nation marks the 50th anniversary of the Watergate scandal, which began with the break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington, D.C., on June 17, 1972, and eventually led to the resignation of President Richard Nixon on August 9, 1974.
Alley renovation sparks quarrel over payment assessment plan

The mayor, despite benefits of the alley behind area businesses to the 100-200 block of Grand River Avenue in downtown Lansing, has removed a compromise bill from the agenda after he said he wouldn't look to bend the rules for the exceptional.

Herald Lanning, managing editor of the Greater Lansing Area News said he would not allow the alley to be considered because it would not fit the current plan for the development of the area.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Mark Tipton, manager of the Greater Lansing Area News, said he would not allow the alley to be considered because it would not fit the current plan for the development of the area.

But Ladric, a law firm that represents businesses in the block, has said it would not allow the alley to be considered because it would not fit the current plan for the development of the area.

"It's obvious to me that Lanning would give no money to this project when ecology is such a sensitive thing," said Ladric. "The valley would have an obligation to the environment to grow it properly and fairly if they have a good living base for it.

MELISSA PAYTON
Ford may roll on flat policy

The beans have given out of the automobile industry. The manufacturers have been taught to believe that prices are prices and not costs. The last straw has been broken, and the Pay for the picketers during the war has been, and by the American Federation of Labor. There would seem to be little sympathy with the idea that the American automobile industry can make its producers pay, and that the American automobile industry can demand that the American automobile industry pay.

The American Automobile Industry Congress has met and has decided to continue the war. The war has been conducted in a manner that will not be affected by the agreement that the American automobile industry can make its producers pay.

Grin and bare it

As everybody knows, American politics is both the creation and the bane of the democratic system. It is the creation in that it has shaped and molded our nation, and the bane in that it has caused us to waste so much time and energy on petty squabbles and lawsuits. Here are a few examples of the things that have been done in the name of politics.

1. The build-up to the Vietnam War was done in the name of politics.
2. The Watergate scandal was done in the name of politics.
3. The impeachment of President Clinton was done in the name of politics.

Politics is a disease that has infected our society. It has caused us to become so obsessed with power and position that we have forgotten the true meaning of democracy.

When President Nixon resigned, I was asked if I didn't know what to do. So I poured the contents of Chivas, the tea, and the crepe spread, and sat on the floor.

"Red, Charlie," I said, "Ever imagine..."

He shook his head. "I never could imagine. "I have what you're saying. How could it happen? How could a man who had the whole world at his fingertips turn it all over to the way that he did not want it?"

"The best news I have is, Chas, that when you wake up in the morning, after you've had your coffee, you'll remember that you didn't have a hangover."

"But at the same time, Chas, if you ever want to run again, you will remember that you didn't have another day to lose."

Perhaps our favorite, more familiar with house hands to the nation, is a bright young upcoming. He is not a member of the presidential staff, but he is a member of the presidential staff. His name is Mark Felt, and he is the head of the FBI. His job is to gather information about the activities of the Nixon administration. He has been doing this for some time now, and he has been doing it very well. He has gathered a lot of information, and he has used it to good effect.

Felt is a man with a strong sense of duty. He is not a politician, and he does not care about the political ramifications of his work. He is a man who is willing to do the job that needs to be done, even if it means that he will be called a traitor.

SAUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park's wife, Mrs. Park Chung Hee, was shot and killed Tuesday when a gunman failed in an apparent assassination attempt against her, an official said, and a nationwide mourning period was declared.

The gunman, armed with a .22-caliber revolver and a set of .38-caliber ammunition, shot Mrs. Park as she was leaving her home for a speech at a school in Seoul, according to an official who asked not to be identified.

South Korea's government said it will hold a three-day memorial service for Mrs. Park, who was the first lady of South Korea since 1961.

Mrs. Park, 29, had been married to her husband since 1961 and was expected to become the next president of South Korea if her husband dies.

The shooting occurred on the last day of school for many students in Seoul, where the Kim family once lived.

South Korea is a mountainous country with a population of about 50 million people.

South Korea's economy is one of the world's fastest growing, with a steady increase in exports and a strong manufacturing sector.

The shooting took place in a densely populated area of Seoul, known for its high crime rate.

The gunman is believed to be a former member of the National Assembly, according to news reports.

He is known for his strong leadership and has been credited with transforming South Korea from an agricultural country into a modern industrial nation.

The list of potential Democratic gubernatorial candidate leaders continues to grow as the state Democratic Party struggles to put together a winning ticket, despite recent successes by its Gov. James J. Hunt and state Attorney General Richard C. Foss in placing new political candidates, the search for new candidates grows.

One of the newest contenders is Attorney General Foss, who is seen as a viable candidate in the gubernatorial primary. Foss has been a frequent speaker at Democratic events and has a strong base of support among party members.

But those who oppose Foss believe he lacks the experience and leadership needed to lead the party to victory.

In the meantime, the party remains divided and will likely see a contentious primary election.

MUNISING (UP) — The dog catcher of Alger County agrees with a proverb that he who eats all off one fish will go back to the same fishing hole... Bluntly he said, "I don't think it will work for me." The matter came up when the Alger County board of commissioners questioned Friday's bid of $750.

The second lowering bid of $1,000 was accepted by the county's board of commissioners and the $750 second bid was rejected. For the commissioners had questioned with reference to Friday's bid what specific provision was discussed with board chairman Mrs. Lois S. Young. Mrs. Young, a representative of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said the provision for dogs more than 30 miles away from Munising, Michigan, was impossible.

The proposed law, which was already passed in other Michigan counties, would prohibit the taking of dogs more than 30 miles away from Munising, Michigan, said the dog catcher.

"We've got to keep those three dog catchers fresh and alert and give them a few more miles to work on at a time before they become stale," Mrs. Young said.

"You'd find more dogs in a large city than one of this size, so you'd have to catch more dogs on this line," the dog catcher said.

"That idea of calling a dog catcher has been thrown out because of the cost involved to the county. It's not a practical thing to do," the dog catcher maintained.

"That's why we had to pass this law, to keep the animal healthy and prevent the spread of different diseases," Mrs. Young said.

The idea of getting a dog catcher is "The idea of getting a dog catcher has been thrown out because of the cost involved to the county. It's not a practical thing to do," the dog catcher maintained.

Established by the county commissioners, the dog catcher is paid $750 per month and $150 per day for each dog taken. The dog catcher is required to keep records of dogs taken and returns them to their owners if possible. The dog catcher is also required to keep the dogs in good condition while in his care.
