The University of Wisconsin-Madison has submitted a proposal to the Wisconsin Higher Education Assistance Authority (CHEAA) for changes to the student loan program. The proposal, which was submitted earlier this month, seeks to increase the maximum amount of money students can borrow and to simplify the application process.

The proposal includes a number of key changes. First, it would increase the maximum loan amount from $10,000 to $14,000. This would allow students to borrow more money for their education.

Second, the proposal would simplify the application process. Currently, students must complete a lengthy and complicated application to obtain a loan. The new proposal would make the application process much simpler.

Third, the proposal would allow students to borrow more money for their education. Under the current system, students can only borrow up to $5,000 per year. The new proposal would allow students to borrow up to $14,000 per year.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison is one of many institutions that have submitted proposals to the CHEAA in recent months. The CHEAA is currently reviewing all proposals and is expected to make a decision soon.

October housing starts down

The number of houses built by builders edged further downward in October, the government reported Monday, returning the rate that has been dropping for the industry for two years.

The rate dropped to the lowest level since March, and new starts dropped for the fourth month in a row to a total of 1,124,000 units, or a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 700,000 per cent from September.

The slowdown which has been under way since the mid-70's ended only in February, when it was at a rate of 1,152,000 per cent from January. It was at 1,180,000 per cent from January. By August, it was at 1,020,000 per cent from July. By August, it was at 1,020,000 per cent from July. By August, it was at 1,020,000 per cent from July.

Domestic spying said unlikely

Atty. Gen. William A. Scheele said Monday that he foresaw no circumstances that would persuade him to authorize FBI counterintelligence activities against domestic organizations as those carried on until 1972.

At the same time, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley suggested there is a need for legislation to authorize counterintelligence operations in the event of a national emergency.

Scheele said, he has raised the department's Civil Rights Division to investigate FBI's alleged illegal counterintelligence activities from 1956 to 1971 involved several situations of the civil rights of individuals.

Officials question ratification

Soviets early Monday raised a "special protest" over the refusal of the United States to ratify the treaty between the two countries that would govern relations between them.

The treaty would have been signed by the two countries in April, but was rejected by the United States Senate. The treaty would have provided for a new relationship between the two countries, including economic cooperation, cultural exchanges, and other areas.

Simon favors oil fund change

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon Monday proposed a bill that would allow the International Monetary Fund to be used to buy oil from the United States.

Simon said the United States would have to wait for a change in the world's oil situation before the United States would change its position on the issue.

The Soviet Union has been heavily involved in the oil market over the past few years, and Simon said that he believes the United States should be prepared to change its position on the issue.

First election results seen

Opponents made strong showings in British elections, according to the preliminary results of the general election, and the Communists, who were expected to do well in the poll, were said to have won a minority of seats in the House of Commons.

In Britain, incomplete returns from Friday's voting showed that the Conservative and Labour parties were close to winning a majority of seats in the House of Commons, and that the Communists won a minority of seats in the House of Commons.

In Italy, the preliminary results indicated a strong government in early results from municipal elections, and hinting toward a win by the centre-left Democratic Christ, Democrats.

Tunnel discovery reported

South Korea reported Monday the uncovering of a "tunnel system" evidently leading from North Korea into the South through a hillside near Taejon, but officials would not confirm the reports.

The tunnel system was reportedly discovered by South Korean soldiers while they were searching for a tunnel that had been reported to be under construction by North Korean soldiers.

The discovery came as North Korea was reported to be increasing its military activity along the border with South Korea.

The reports of the tunnel systems were said to have been confirmed by South Korean soldiers who said they had found a network of tunnels under the hillside near Taejon.

The tunnels were reportedly used by North Korean soldiers to bypass the South Korean border and to conduct espionage activities against South Korea.

The discovery raised questions about the extent of North Korean espionage activities, and the possibility of a direct link between North and South Korea.

Arabs demonstrate in old Jerusalem

By Associated Press

Arabs demonstrated in the Old City of Jerusalem for the first time since Monday, and Israeli police fired shots to keep rumors of possible violence.

Rumors of possible violence were widespread in the city, and Israeli police fired shots to keep the situation under control.

The demonstration was marked by a number of violent incidents, and Israeli police were forced to use tear gas to disperse the crowd.

The demonstration was the first since the conflict between the two countries began.

The demonstrators were demanding that the United States recognize the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination.

Israelis also demonstrated in the Old City to show support for the state of Israel.

Marijuana report raises questions

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new government report Monday raised serious questions but offered little new information about the health effects of marijuana.

The report said that the federal government's monitoring of marijuana is inadequate and that it should be increased to provide more information about its effects on health.

The report could not identify any new studies that might be added to the federal government's monitoring of marijuana.

Ford misses better ideas

I would like to thank those who supported me as my campaign office for re-election in the Ingham County District Court. Many of you were my coworkers who are in the business of defending others. I hope that I was able to do something for you even if it was in my representation of you as an attorney. I also hope that I was able to do something for the people of the Ingham County District Court. I have always enjoyed serving the people of Ingham County and if there is anything else I can do for you, please let me know.

Ford's mistakes blame prices

If you want to sell the capitol in America, President Ford seems to be the man to do it.

The capitol is us - and our extravagant, wasteful spending. The solution is for us to become more careful spenders. "Yankee traders," the President said in Phoenix Thursday. "The American people are sick of it."

The second strike against the officials is their inability to explain in the American version only.

The third strike is that Little Leaguers don't support the President. The Republicans are determined to get enough to the officials don't say;

Appointed judges best

Our heroin cutter calls her self a lawyer judge candidate with an 83% name recognition. She is a thick candidate. There is always the personal advantage of a name recognition candidate with your own name or the name of a famous person.

One thing is clear. Most voters are aware of the fact that judgeships are for the best candidates for the jobs of justice. Perhaps most judges are hired to gain enough interest in the field system disregards impartiality.

An appointed process, with fixed term and upward appointment of the way it does work. The process used in East Lansing for the selection of Judge Daniel Tuchel seemed fair and workable.

A committee of lawyers from district around the state is armed with biographical material and evaluations of appointed candidates while, on the other hand, the Ford judges have been referred by a committee, in the same manner, to the recommendation of the governor, who is an authority. The waves of the people in the state is the appointment of judges there is a strong and reasonable public money, the governor will appoint the judges selected by the people.

Unfortunately, this process can be described as a political one but it seems to be perfectly normal to the people who are judges. Today, of course, you will find that the process has always been the best judges.

It was Tuesday, the time our medical community commonly refers to itself as "Ford's Day." This is the day when the Michigan State Medical Society holds its annual convention at the Detroit Hilton. It is a day that the medical community looks forward to, a day to show their appreciation for President Ford's leadership in the area of health care.

Michigan is a state that has been hard hit by the economic downturn. The state's unemployment rate is higher than the national average and the cost of living has increased. In addition, the state's budget is in a deficit.

Many people are concerned about the cost of health care and the availability of health care services. They are concerned about the quality of health care and the access to health care.

An editorial in the Detroit Free Press on Monday criticized the administration for its handling of the economic downturn. The editorial said that the administration's policies have failed to address the needs of the state's citizens.

For decades, Greece has been governed by a political system marked by frequent changes in leadership, with military interventions playing a significant role. The military, which has a history of involvement in political affairs, continues to exert influence on the country's political landscape. This has led to a complex relationship between the military and the civilian government, characterized by periods of cooperation and conflict. The Greek people, meanwhile, have endured political instability and economic challenges, with the country's membership in the European Union and the resulting debt crisis adding to the uncertainty. Despite these challenges, there is a sense of hope and resilience in Greek society, as citizens work towards a brighter future for their nation.

Canada offers student fares to Europe

By GARY LAMOY

New York (May 4) — More than 500 Canadian students have already started taking advantage of special youth passes offered in Canada. A student may be able to save as much as $344 to $584 by going to Europe during the summer months on a round trip.

In Canada, students of all ages, including Canadian citizens, are eligible for the youth passes. The student must be 17 or 18 years old and must be coming from Canada. There is a maximum stay of 1 year and only one return trip is allowed.

The advantage in the fare is much more than just cheaper airfare. Travel by bus is included in the pass after the airfare is paid.

In May, the pass was the same price of $584 as the return trip. However, in June, the price increased to $591. In August and September for the return trip, the pass increased to $617. In October, the pass cost the same as the round trip.

The round trip youth pass from Toronto to London was $625 last year. This year, it's $118.

There are also sailing tickets to Europe. The Canadian government has invested in cruise ships to promote tourism in Canada. A Canadian student on a round trip to Europe may find the itinerary difficult, but it is a great way to see the world. The ships are modern and offer many amenities. The sailing time is about three weeks.

The Canadian government has also invested in charter flights to Europe. A Canadian student can take a charter flight to Europe for about $344. The flights are usually in July and August.

The government has also invested in rail travel to Europe. A Canadian student can take a train to Europe for about $344. The train travel is usually in July and August.

The government has also invested in car travel to Europe. A Canadian student can drive to Europe for about $344. The car travel is usually in July and August.

The Canadian government has also invested in bus travel to Europe. A Canadian student can take a bus to Europe for about $344. The bus travel is usually in July and August.

UMMPH! SPARTANS TAKE SECOND

Club hosts powerlifters

Heated brute strength clashed with cold steel Sunday in the Sports Arena of the Men's Intramural Building. The "ummphs" and the grunts generated by men lifting 500 pounds plus helped spectators empathize the struggle between mass and muscle.

The MSU Weightlifting Club hosted the 1974 Michigan Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Senior State Championships Sunday and came in second among the four teams competing. The MSU club, short of the meet winner, Palace Iron Knights of Detroit. More than 50 muscular powerlifters took part in the event.

Powerlifting differs from the Olympic - style competition that often receives television coverage. Olympic weightlifting is made up of three lifts. The snatch, the clean and jerk, and the jerk are executed. Powerlifting also involves three lifts. The events are the bench press, the squat lift and the dead lift.

Two of the MSU club members took first in their weight divisions. At 132 pounds, small but strong Gary Wandell, a graduate student in education, won his class by 80 total pounds. Wandell placed third in the World Championships held in York, Pa., Nov. 5-6. His 1209-pound total placed him third in the 132-pound division.

Dan Wandell placed third in the 148-pound division. He is a junior majoring in physiology. Howard is a graduate student in natural science.

"We all grew up together in weightlifting and have a friendship to college," Gary said. "It's one of the few sports that doesn't discriminate against you because of height or weight."

Three days ago weightlifter Gary Wandell was at the University of Michigan. Since then he has powered himself back into the win.

Other teams showing off brawn Sunday besides MSU and Palace Iron Knights were Stiffs Gym from Flint and a delegation from Grand Rapids.

The meet was one of the best performances this year by the club. MSU was without lightweight Gary Hunter, American record holder in the deep knee bend.

"The meet was so close it was really just the difference between one man finishing second instead of first," Espinosa remarked.

Other teams showing off brawn Sunday besides MSU and Palace Iron Knights were Stiffs Gym from Flint and a delegation from Grand Rapids. The Detroit Open is scheduled for Jan. 11-12. The team members who are in college will participate in the Collegiate Open at home on Jan. 25.

Other team members who placed in the event held Sunday were: Richard VanDalsen, second in the 165-pound division; Dan Haisenleder, an associate member of the club from Ann Arbor, first in the 181-pound division; Roger Peltier, second in the 220-pound division, and Eric Waline, third in the 292-pound division.

PLAN AWAITS COUNCIL OK

Station may pump art

The idea for the project was first presented by city council at a work session two weeks ago. Since then the plan has been endorsed by the city Planning Commission.

When the project was presented at the work session, Commissioner Mary Berry expressed concern over the small area available for the project. The Ohio center was said to have been interested in the project, though.

The Ohio center could possibly make some decision on the project after hearing more about the planning and construction recommendations.

Wells states the gas station area would only be a short time before the site would be a temporary stop.

“Of course, we are concerned about the safety of the citizen. We are not in the position to do much about the problem of the site,” Wells said.

Wells said that it would be up to the leadership of the city to determine whether the site is a threat stop in bringing culture and art to East Lansing.

This abandoned gas station which the City of East Lansing purchased over two years ago for $10,000 has been proposed as the site for a city art center. Robert Weil, an MDU professor and member of the city’s fine arts committee, said it would cost between $10,000 and $20,000 for the conversion to come about.

Fortney resurrecting Varsity Club

By MIKE LITAKER
Spokesman-Review Sports Writer

At the beginning of fall term, MSU Varsity Club President Dave Fortney had a following in the crowd around the size of a football field. The club had been growing in popularity with the student body, and Fortney was keen to bring new members to the club.

The club's growth was not without its challenges. One of the main issues faced by the club was the lack of interest from potential members. Fortney was determined to overcome this obstacle and make the club an attractive option for students.

Fortney began by reaching out to the leadership of the football team, the Blue Devils of Lansing, to gain their support for the club. He also met with the leadership of the basketball team, the Flying Bats, to discuss ways to boost club participation.

One of the main factors that contributed to the club's growth was the establishment of a scholarship program. Fortney worked with the school administration to create a scholarship for students who join the club. This scholarship not only helped to attract new members but also provided financial support for the club.

The club's success is a testament to Fortney's dedication and hard work. He has shown that by reaching out to the right people, and by providing incentives, a club can grow and thrive.

Spartans winning year assured

By CARL WEITZ
State News Sports Writer

With the -month-long winning streak still intact and a 12-5 defensive record over the last 14 games, MSU's football team has begun to gel and is looking forward to the Big Ten's conference schedule.

The team's recent victory against Indiana has boosted the team's morale and confidence. The Spartans are now on a five-game winning streak and are looking to continue their winning streak against the conference's top teams.

The team's defense has been a key factor in their success, and the team is expected to continue their strong performance in the upcoming games.

The team's next game is against Ohio State, and the Spartans are hoping to continue their winning streak against the Buckeyes. The team is looking forward to the challenge and is determined to bring their A-game to the field.

The team's success is a testament to their hard work and dedication. They have shown that with perseverance and teamwork, success is possible.

SETs GOAL OF PETITION SIGNATURES

MU Student Senate seeks to abolish CIA

By PAUL NAHORI
State News Staff Writer

Washington University needs a good - and new - newspaper... it demands that the CIA be abolished. The assertion is being voiced by the youthful creation.

The university has been in existence for a month and already boasts 100 signatures, signatures.

Though the group has not held an organizational meeting yet, they say up information tables in the Union Tuesday every day from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. It's been a success so far and that of their main objectives right now is to alert people about the CIA and what they have been doing.

Another main goal of the group is to explain the problems to students if people feel about a CIA, also.

"We hope to have an election issue by 1974", she said while gathering signatures.

The only funds that the group had been free to disburse as of the publication, Nahor.

Present, the group is looking forward to the creation of the CIA.

The group hopes to have enough financial support to run an election issue by 1974, she said.

Council to discuss free bus plan

East Lansing City Council will meet at 5 p.m. and will have a recommendation from the city's Blue Tree Committee for its consideration.

The bus routes between Meridian Mall and the Frandor shopping center would be extended and service between both and businesses located along the routes.

The cost of the project would be about $160 a day and part of the cost would be paid by Frandor Mall and Central Market.

Hunting-related mishaps claim at least 13 lives

By United Press International

State Police and local police personnel have been in hunting season, and there have been several hunting mishaps to date. Among the mishaps were:

3) A nearly 13-year-old Blackfoot woman who was slain in the hunting region of Westmoreland County. She was shot by a bullet that passed through the tree.

4) A person died of apparent gunpowder gas poisoning during deer hunting season, officially opened on deer Saturday, November 19.

5) A nearly 70-year-old Blackfoot woman who was shot in the hunting region of Westmoreland County. She was shot by a bullet that passed through the tree.
