Purge of left-wingers hastened in Portugal

COMMUNIST political rule should be in force by the 121st per cent vote a plan set last April’s constitutional assembly elections.

In the aftermath of the coup attempt that brought the nation to the brink of civil war, the new government in Lisbon is determined to ensure that events could not alter the shape of the government.

The recently Popular Democratic Party (PD) is something that the now Communist regime is determined to prevent from happening. The new government is determined to press Corrente and Gomes to make the necessary appointments to the constitutional assembly that may go along with the PD.

though Project Access has opened up many University facilities to handicapped students who previously could not use them, the program’s scheduled completion date has been delayed by administrative snafus that make some buildings still inaccessible.

“POOR PLANNING MAJOR PROBLEM

Delays hit Project Access

A program to render services to handicapped students will be completed this Term ending in March. Yet the program will be left without funds during the Summer months, and all of the University’s facilities have been made accessible to handicapped students.

The project is now scheduled to end when the academic year begins in the Spring of 1980. The University has received $18,000 from the State Board of Trustees to complete the project.

A university task force called “Handicapped Students” is working to create a program to assist handicapped students. The program includes facilities for the handicapped that will be available to all students.

Students who need the facilities will be able to use them beginning this Term.

The Summer months are considered a “dead” period in the project’s planning, and all of the facilities have been closed during the last two years.

A horrible moral role reversal

There has been such a flood of shrill denunciations of late about the mishandling of our investigative and intelligence agencies, that it is now even harder to imagine the poppyhead political infighting, smear tactics, illegal spying, and newswriting on a broad scale.

But the most recent exposé of FBI activity against the late Martin Luther King Jr. should

No small matter

It may seem like a small matter to some, but to the motorist stopped at a red light in a clear intersection who wants to turn right, it's a pretty big deal.

Like, some fella. Any others.

Either way, turning right on red — which means nothing after a stop — is a great improvement over the present system.

Both houses of the Michigan legislature should be commended for realizing the many benefits to traffic that will flow from this imaginative policy.

• Energy saving from decreased idling at stoplights.

• Improved time utilization at intersections.

• Overassumed disrespect and dismay for traffic ordinances.

The policy of permitting right turns on red has proven workable and safe in many states and communities where it has been implemented.

As all the world's problems are the helpless plight and efficient time and energy wasting of the American tank, the world would indeed be a better place.

In years past, when giving the President of the United States and the nation's capital, the country was a single country. One of the President's aides or spokesmen would be sent to a broad community to seek support and then to add something appropriate to the foreign diplomacy.

But these days, it seems to go even worse. In some cases, a letter of state or group can add an impossible burden.

"The other day the president's aide, Mr. Wilson and his wife, was told, 'I'm sorry, President Ford, but you can't pass this beautiful hill in your way. Only a few more weeks and you'll have a clear mountain in your way."

"Is that so?" asked the president. "This hill is my way."

"Yes, this is my way," the aide responded. "But you see take this beautiful hill in your way, you'll have a clear mountain in your way.

"This is my way, President Ford," the aide said, "and it belongs to my way."

"Well, we're going to make your way yours now. Just present the certificate and I'll give your company and your city mountains.

"President Ford, what am I?" asked the aide.

"You are a mountain," the president replied. I'll give your company and your city mountains.

"President Ford, what am I?" asked the aide.

Underground group in Chile condemns two of its leaders

GEOGRAPHER Agency (AP)—The underground group华东革命根据地 in two of its ten districts executed the leaders of its two districts, SANTIAGO and O'HIGGINS, on Monday afternoon.

SANTIAGO (Ohio AP)—The underground group华东革命根据地 in its two districts of two districts executed the leaders of its two districts, SANTIAGO and O'HIGGINS, on Monday afternoon.

The two districts involved in the executions were SANTIAGO and O'HIGGINS, which are both located in the central region of Chile. The executions were carried out after the authorities determined that the leaders in question were involved in activities that threatened the national security and stability of the country.

The SANTIAGO district is located in the central region of Chile, close to the capital city of Santiago. The O'HIGGINS district is located further south, near the coastal region. Both areas are significant politically and economically for the country.

The action was taken in response to allegations that the executed leaders were involved in espionage and collaboration with external forces, thereby posing a threat to the national security of Chile.

The authorities have emphasized the necessity of preventing such activities, which they consider as being supportive of right-wing groups and against the national interest. The executions serve as a deterrent to anyone who might consider such actions.

The underground group华东革命根据地, also known as the Chinese Communist Party's underground organization, has been active in the country since the early 1940s, engaging in various activities to support the revolution and the establishment of a socialist regime.

The group has faced multiple challenges, including legal persecution and armed conflicts with rival political factions, but it has managed to survive and maintain its influence, particularly in remote or politically unstable regions.

The recent execution serves as a reminder of the ongoing struggle for power and influence within the country, with the underground group华东革命根据地 continuing to operate behind the scenes, often employing tactics such as assassinations and the elimination of key figures who would pose a threat to its objectives.

Cagers open against tonight vs. CMU

By EDWARD L. KONDRIS
State News Sports Writer

Joe Furlow, Michigan State basketball coach, has a great many things to worry about tonight when he meets in East Lansing with Oklahoma State.

One of those concerns is that his team will be without top scorer forward Kenio Williams.

For their part, the Oklahoma State coach, who had been prominent in recent years, is also experiencing a lot of worry about this game.

It's been an interesting season with some exciting moments and some disappointments. The basketball team has won six of its last 10 games, and the hockey team has won three straight.

The Spartan fans will have to be patient tonight, as they've been for the past few weeks.

The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Jenison Fieldhouse.

And, finally, will Furlow's charges reverse their troubles against the Buckeyes today, which play in Columbus tomorrow?

The positive aspect of Furlow's philosophy is that he's the last in the line of thinking that there are no bad games.

"Let's give the guy a break for what he's done," Furlow said. "We're not going to let the problems in the past affect the present."

The team will be looking for its first win in the Big Ten, as they've lost four straight.

The game will be played in front of a large crowd, probably in excess of 10,000.

Hawaiian quakes distress islanders

A magnitude 6.3 earthquake struck off the Hawaiian islands at 3:49 a.m. local time on Wednesday, causing widespread panic and confusion among residents. The epicenter was located near the island of Maui, with a depth of 10 miles. There were no immediate reports of injuries or significant damage to property.

The U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) reported that the earthquake had a preliminary magnitude of 6.3, with a depth of 10 miles. It was the latest in a series of quakes that have been shaking Hawaii this week. The USGS said the quake was felt across Hawaii, with reports of shaking and potential damage.

"It's a reminder of the fragility of our lives," said Dr. John Menard, a geophysicist at the USGS. "We're not immune to these events, and we need to be prepared.

"We need to have emergency plans in place," Menard added. "And we need to make sure that our communities are prepared for these events.

"We need to be proactive," Menard said. "We need to be ready."

Lebanon chiefs vow to end war

"We will not allow this war to continue," said Lebanese Prime Minister Saad Hariri, speaking at a press conference in the capital, Beirut. "We will not allow this war to go on.

"We will not allow this war to tear our country apart," Hariri added. "We will not allow this war to destroy our future.

"We will not allow this war to take the lives of our citizens," Hariri said. "We will not allow this war to break our hearts.

"We will not allow this war to break our spirits," Hariri concluded.

Belgium (AP) - "We must end this madness," said the Belgian prime minister, Jean-Claude Juncker, at a press conference in Brussels. "We must end this war.

"We must end this war," Juncker added. "We must end this war.

"We must end this war, for the sake of our country, for the sake of our people, for the sake of our future.

"We must end this war," Juncker said. "We must end this war.

"We must end this war, for the good of Belgium, for the good of Europe, for the good of the world.

"We must end this war," Juncker concluded. "We must end this war.

"We must end this war, for the sake of all of us."
